6. "Making a cross."—In these words consist the substantial difference between the English and the Canadian systems of marking ballots. Under this Act the mark must be a cross "or an irregular mark in the nature of a cross, so long as it did not lose the form of a cross." The cross may be to the right or left, above or below, or on the name or the numerals, and if on any place within the division, "so as to show that the voter intended to vote for some one, and so as to show for which of the candidates he intended to vote, the ballot will be good, and should be counted. The ballot must not be marked so as to show that he intended to vote for more candidates than he is entitled to vote for, nor so as to leave it uncertain whether he intended to vote at all, or which candidate he intended to vote for; nor so as to make it possible, by seeing the paper itself or by reference to any other available facts, to identify the way in which he has voted. If these requirements are substantially fulfilled, there is no enactment or rule of law by which a ballot paper can be treated as void, and if the requirements are not substantially fulfilled, the ballot paper is void and should not be counted."

7. When the ballot is placed in the ballot box the act of voting is complete, and the vote cannot thereafter be questioned.

8. A person whose name has been omitted by inadvertence or otherwise from the copy of the voters' list furnished to the Deputy Returning-officer, cannot vote.

QUALIFICATION.

The following constitutes the qualification of persons entitled to vote at elections for the House of Commons in the Province of Ontario:—

REAL PROPERTY FRANCHISE.

1. Male persons of 21 years or over, British subjects by birth or naturalisation.

2. Owner, tenant, or occupant of real property in cities, the value of $400; in towns, $300; in incorporated villages, $200; and in townships, $200.

3. The same must be entered on the last revised assessment roll and voters' list of the municipality.

4. If the assessed party after the final revision of the assessment roll, and before election day, cease to be owner, tenant, or occupant, he may still vote, provided he continues a resident of the electoral division. Where the land is leased both the landlord and tenant may vote. Both are entitled to be on the roll and the list—one as owner, the other as tenant. When in cities the property is assessed at $400; incorporated towns, $300; and villages, $200.

5. Substantially, therefore, every person entered upon the voters' lists used at this election has the right to vote, subject to the conditions above mentioned. If it is thought the voter has no interest in the property, or has parted with it, and is not a resident of the electoral division, the oath should be tendered to him.

INCOME FRANCHISE.

The following persons are entitled to vote on income:—

1. Every male person of 21 years or over, being a British subject, and residing at the time of election in the local municipality in which he votes, and having resided therein continuously since the completion of the last revised assessment roll, and derived an income from some trade, office, calling, or profession, of not less than $400 per annum, and assessed for such income in the last revised assessment roll, and is entered upon the voters' list.

2. No one can vote on income at this election unless he has paid all the municipal taxes assessed against him for income, prior to December 31st of last year. The returning-officers will have furnished to them a list of all such delinquents.

3. An income voter can vote in the electoral district on account of which he is assessed, although he may not be domiciled in that district, if a resident in the municipality.

4. An income voter can vote in the electoral district on account of which he is assessed, and also in the electoral district in which he owns property or occupies a residence.

Income voters may be asked by Tory scrutineers if they have paid their income tax; income voters need not hesitate to vote on that account, as the question this year must refer to the taxes which were collected prior to the 31st day of December last year, of which public notice has been given within the past few days.

FARMERS' SONS.

The following are the conditions under which farmers' sons can vote:—

1. Every farmers' son residing on the farm of his father or mother (if not less than 20 acres) for the twelve months preceding the return of the assessment roll is entitled to vote, providing (1) that he is a British subject; (2) that the father's property is assessed at a sufficient amount ($200 is the qualification for each vote; if therefore the father's property is assessed at $400, the father and one son have the right to vote; if for $600, the father and two sons; if for $800, the father and three sons, and so on.)

2. The name of the farmer's son shall be placed on the voters' list for that portion of the farm on which the father actually resides, or better still, for the whole farm.

3. If the father be dead and the mother the owner of the property, the son or sons have the right to vote as though their father were alive.

4. Temporary absence from the farm of not more than four months in all next prior to the return of the roll by the assessor does not disentitle the son to be considered.

5. Cases occur in which the assessors have entered the farmer's sons as owners or tenants of the property, instead of as farmer's son. Should any such voters be challenged at the poll, they have the right to select the oath for farmer's sons, and on taking that oath or affirmation to vote.

DISQUALIFICATION

The following persons are disqualified from voting at the present election:—(1) aliens; (2) minors, or those who had not attained the age of 21 years within the date of the final revision of the assessment roll; (3) judges of all courts; (4) all officers of Custom Houses; (5) Inland Revenue and Excise officers; (6) Postmasters of incorporated cities and towns (all other postmasters are entitled to vote); (7) agents for the sale of Crown lands; (8) county officers acting as clerks of the peace, county attorneys, registrars, sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, and deputy clerks of the Crown; (9) returning officers, election clerks, and all persons employed in the election by the candidates who are paid for their services.

MISCELLANEOUS HINTS.

1. Vote early.

2. See that your Liberal neighbor votes early also.

3. If you have a vehicle, place it at the service of your Liberal Committee to bring tardy voters to the polls. Give the information to the Secretary of your Ward or Division Committee.

4. Do not "pair" on polling day with your Tory neighbor. Poll your own vote and let him look out for his.

5. Poll every possible vote; the loss or gain of a single vote in each sub-division may make all the difference between victory and defeat.

6. If your returning-officers and deputy-returning-officers are Tories, watch them.

7. Each Liberal should vote as though the result of the election depended upon his individual exertions.

8. Remember that any bribery, corrupt treating, hiring of vehicles, paying of voters' railway travelling or other expenses, or any undue influence will not only void the election, but is punishable by law.

9. If a mistake occurs as to the name, description, qualification, or character, in respect to which the voter is entered upon the voters' list, the voter is at liberty to select for himself any one of the oaths which will suit his case, and thereupon, after taking the oath, he has the right to vote, and no deputy returning-officer can refuse his vote.

10. Electors can only vote at one polling sub-division in the same electoral division, no matter in how many sub-divisions they may have votes; but a voter who has a vote in West Peterborough and East Peterborough can legally vote once in each of the electoral districts.

11. Any elector's vote may be challenged, who has received anything on account of his vote, or has been promised anything directly or indirectly, either to induce him to vote at the election or for loss of time, travelling expenses, hire of teams, or any other service connected therewith; or even if the said elector has directly or indirectly paid or promised anything to any person, either to induce him to vote or to refrain from voting at the election.

12. Every elector who has a vote in several constituencies should arrange (even if he has to leave for one of the points on the previous day) to vote in as many as it is possible for him to do.

13. An elector having more votes than one in the same electoral district, should vote in that electoral sub-division in which he resides. Attention to this rule will facilitate the polling and possibly contribute to the individual elector's comfort.

14. If Tory scrutineers are too impudent, snub them by refusing to answer questions, save when put by the deputy-returning-officer.

15. A voter who has been personated can, under certain regulations, claim the right to vote and deposit his ballot as if he had not been personated.

16. Immediately at the close of the poll and before leaving the polling booth, deputy returning-officers must, in the presence of the poll-clerk and their candidates or their agents, or in their absence, of three electors, count up the votes and declare the result to those present.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the WEST RIDING OF PETEBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN:—

At the urgent solicitation of my political friends I have consented to be again a candidate for your suffrages at the approaching election.

While I would have preferred not to have been a candidate on the present occasion, yet now that I have placed my services again at your disposal, you may rest assured that no private duty or engagement will be allowed to interfere with the proper discharge of my duties as your representive, should I be honoured with your confidence for the second time.

Although I failed to be present at every division during the recent session, I would venture to challenge my political opponents to specify a single instance in which I have neglected the interests of my constituents or failed to discharge the duties devolving upon me as your representative to the best of my ability and judgment.

During the past four years I have rendered a cheerful support to the government of Sir John A. Macdonald, believing that it has not only redeemed the pledges given previous to the last general election, but that its policy has been and is one eminently calculated to promote the prosperity of the country, and should you again honor me with your confidence I shall continue to give the present government the same cordial support, so long as their policy commends itself to my judgment.

In conjunction with the other representatives from this section of Ontario, I have done all in my power to secure the early construction of the Trent Valley Canal, and the large measure of success which has attended our past efforts should assure the electorate of this district that if their present representatives are re-elected and the present government sustained, this great and long-looked-for work will be brought to an early completion.

As it will be impossible for me to undertake anything like a personal canvas between this and polling day, I trust those favorable to the cause of good government will render me their hearty support without waiting to be asked, and that all the electors will make it a point to attend the meetings which I propose holding in different parts of the constituency for the purpose of public explanation and discussion of the several questions involved in the present campaign.

Again thanking you for the confidence reposed in me in 1878, and soliciting a renewal of the same,

I am, gentlemen,

Your ob't. serv't.,

GEO. HILLIARD.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the WEST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBORO'

GENTLEMEN:—

The Government of the day having unexpectedly dissolved Parliament, and with extreme haste issued the Writs for a general election, it has become necessary for you to choose a representative.

While personally, I had no desire to place myself as a candidate before the electors, yet having received the nomination form a large and representative gathering of Liberal delegates from all parts of the riding, I feel it my duty to accede to their wishes, and am now in the field.

Should I have the honor of being elected, my best attention will be given to the duties of the position, and my aim will be to represent the West Riding of Peterborough in Parliament, and not act as the slavish supporter of any political party.

A majority of the late Parliament approved of the Gerrymandering Bill introduced by the present Government, whereby constituencies were cut up, and county lines obliterated, with the evident intention of so arranging the electoral districts that a minority of electors may return a majority of representatives. Legislation of this kind has my strongest disapproval, and I would be in favor of some course being pursued that would make this impossible in future.

I do not approve of the taxation policy of the present Government, whereby a much larger amount than the requirements of the country calls for is taken from the earnings of our people; and such protection to the Farmer as placing a duty on the kind of wool we do not import, and bringing in duty free, other wool, I consider absurd.

It will be my endeavour to encourage all Canadian industries, but the present enormous tariff on such articles of common use as cottons, coarse woollens and other items, should be lowered and so arranged as to press with less severity on workingmen

The grant to the Pacific Railway Syndicate in land and cash, with the road already built and under construction, was exhorbitant and unnecessary. But I condemn more particulary the agreement with the Syndicate granting them a monopoly of the carrying trade of our great North-West for twenty years to come, with exemption and privileges added.

I do not approve of the policy of selling or leasing in our North-West Territories large blocks of land to companies and individuals, as I believe it is against the interest of the actual settler, and I strongly endorse the motto of the Hon. Edward Blake, when he says:—"The land for the settler, the price for the public."

I believe it was the duty of the present Government to give effect to the Boundary Award, and condemn the attempt to rob our Province of Ontario of half her territory rich in timber and minerals.

I am an advocate for the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, and will do all in my power to aid in the prosecution of this important work.

In the short time allowed for a canvass I will endeavour to see as many of the electors as possible, and will hold meetings in the different townships, of which notice will be given.

Soliciting your hearty vote and influence,

I am, Gentlemen,

Your Obedient Servant,

JOHN J. LUNDY.

Peterborough, May 23, 1882.

To the Electors OF THE EAST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

GENTLEMEN:—

Having been requested by the Liberal-Conservatives of the Riding again to offer myself as a candidate for the House of Commons, I have consented to do so. The Parliament elected in 1878 has been dissolved, and a new election ordered. The Governor-General in proroguing Parliament used these words:—

"I heartily congratulate you on the rapid and successful development of our manufacturing, agricultural and other industries. I am, however, advised that this progress would have been still greater, were it not that capitalists hesitated to embark their means in undertakings which would be injured, if not destroyed, by a change in the trade and fiscal policy adopted in 1879. In order, therefore, to give the people, without further delay, an opportunity of expressing their deliberate opinion on this policy * * it is my intention to cause this Parliament to be dissolved at an early day."

I am in favor of the maintenance of the trade and fiscal policy of the present Government, as being best adapted to the wants of the country. I am in favor of the early and rapid construction of the Canada Pacific Railway, and the development of our North-West Territories. I am opposed to any action in the direction of Independence or separation from the British Crown. I am in favor of the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, now undertaken and commenced by this Government, and will, if elected, continue my efforts to have the same completed at as early a date as possible. I shall endeavor to meet you in your several localities, and explain my views upon the questions of the day and trust that my explanations and the policy I advocate, will justify you in again electing me as your representative.

Yours truly,

JOHN BURNHAM.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the EAST RIDING OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBORO'

GENTLEMEN:—

Having accepted the unanimous nomination of a very large and influential Convention to become the candidate to represent the Liberal Party in the pending elections for the House of Commons, I take the usual way of addressing you and soliciting your influence and vote.

Never in the history of Canada were the rights and privileges of the people in such danger of being undermined, and rendered nugatory by the efforts of Quebec to control the Conservative Premier and Cabinet, with an united determination to destroy the influence of Ontario in the Councels of the Dominion. To this end the Boundary Award, fixed by three of the most distinguished arbitrators that could be selected, has been ignored, and sought to be set aside, by Sir John A. Macdonald, urged by Langevin and the Bleus of Quebec, with a view to depriving Ontario of her territory, 100,000 square miles, and the revenue of one hundred and twenty-five million dollars, the sum which the pine alone is estimated to be worth, to say nothing of the other valuable timber and minerals, and resulting in a loss to Ontario of over $300 of property to every man, woman and child in the Province, in respect to timber alone. Not satisfied with robbing us of our property, they have vetoed the Legislation of our Local Government, elected also by you to manage our own affairs, and this at the nod or beck of a political supporter and partisan.

And still more beat on the overthrow of the influence of Ontario, they have cut and carved the Municipalities (of Ontario only) so as, if possible, to prevent the return of Reformers, in order that they may be able to carry out their designs in Contract Letting, depriving the people of their North-west possessions by handing them over to an unscrupulous syndicate, and refusing to give the contract to Canadians, by which 3,000,000 acres of land and $3,000,000 would have been saved to the country and treasury, and their interferring with the rightful political autonomy of Manitoba in the disallowance of the Manitoba and South-Eastern Railway charter, thereby refusing to allow that Province to have more than one outlet to the southward, with enormous railway rates and incapacity of traffic accomodation which they are at present subjected to by a foreign corporation; and now fearing the day of retribution, they are springing the elections on the people a year before their term of office has expired, lest a year's more accumulated misrule and jobbery should ensure their complete overthrow at the polls.

It is not necessary for me, gentlemen, to tell you that if elected I shall seek to have these wrongs redressed by voting against all measures not founded on justice and economy. I will seek, if elected, to limit outlay and prevent the necessity for such enormous taxes as we are compelled to pay under the N.P. regime. I will do my utmost to prevent the increase of monopolies which are enriched out of your hard earnings, and I will seek to limit the expenditure of the Government merely to meet the absolutely necessary requirements of the Dominion.

I shall consider it not only a duty but a pleasure to support by my vote and influence, the construction of that vitally important enterprise, the Trent Valley Canal, recognizing in it a work that will not only specially result in the increased prosperity of this district, but also in the promotion of the trade interests of the Dominion in general, by perfecting the important series of works that will make our internal water-ways a perpetual source of commercial convenience.

While giving a free support to the Reform party, I will ever reserve the right to vote on all matters as in my judgment will best serve the interests of our country.

I will endeavour to call on you, if time will permit, before polling day. In the meantime I solicit your influence and votes to elect me to go to strengthen the hands of those noble men who have so energetically sought to stay misgovernment; to ease the burdens of the people; and to prevent the corruption in contract letting that has prevailed at Ottawa under Sir John A. Macdonald and his colleagues.

I am Gentlemen,

Your Obedient Servant,

W. E. ROXBURGH.

Our Financial Condition—Two Opinions.

The connecters and supporters of the National Policy claim for it that it has been the means of bringing about a return of prosperity, and that if the electors again endorse it, the present apparent commercial thrift of the country will be perpetuated. But it is more than likely that Sir John, with his usual acuteness, perceived that the period of inflation, following the depression of preceding years was drawing to a close, and that the reaction would soon set in, and with his usual unfairness he decided to precipitate the General Election. He felt that if the N.P. had once a taste of hard times, it would be shown how false and baseless were its claims, to being the great panacea for these same hard times, its friends had dishonestly claimed it to be. The following, however, is the excuse he makes. At his first appearance in Lennox, at Napanee, a short time since, Sir John said:—

"Sir, the progress of our manufacturing interests has been surprising. The new industries that have been started are in their number wonderful. But they would be quadrupled if it were not for the uncertainty as to whether the policy of 1879 will be continued for the next few years or not. I know this of my own knowledge, and I may say we have continually communications from capitalists in Europe, in England, in Scotland, and especially in the United States, saying they are quite ready to invest large sums of money in Canada, in opening new industries and developing old ones. But they add, 'How are we to know that this policy is going to last? The leaders of the Opposition state that the moment they come in they will reverse the policy; and we have no certainty but that as soon as we have our factories built, our machinery in operation, and our hundreds of thousands of dollars invested, the free-traders will be elected, the policy of protection will be reversed, and our capital will be lost.' As a result of such representations as these, we came to the conclusion that the country, having had an experience of three years of protection, should now have an opportunity of saying whether the system of fostering our industries should be continued or not. So, here we are now, appealing to the country and asking the people."

Sir John, it will be observed, gives his hearers to understand that our new industries would be quadrupled if capitalists were only assured of the N.P. being sustained by the people. But there are evidences that this statement is misleading and incorrect. Mr. Smithers, president of the Bank of Montreal, holds a directly different opinion. He claims that the business bubble has been so largely and so long inflated that it must soon burst. He says—but we will allow him to tell his own story. In his address concerning the business of his bank, he says:

"The total loans and discounts of all classes [illegible] show an increase over the same day in 1881 of $36,000,000—amounting in all to the enormous sum of $176,000,000, a sum which I am quite safe in saying they never reached before. In 1875 they touched $160,000,000, which was then thought to be, and doubtless was at that time, a very dangerous expansion; the result proved it, for the banks did not get back to safe limits without passing through a very severe ordeal, which overwhelmed some of them, seriously crippled others, and damaged all to a greater or less degree; and in calling attention to the enormous larger figures which have now been reached, I do not wish to be considered an alarmist; but, in fact the least, these figures are [illegible] startling. It is possible that the conditions of the country have greatly changed, and we can perhaps carry a heavier load now, still it is the part of wisdom to look the matter squarely in the face. I do not say that I see trouble in the immediate future, but it is [illegible] that we—that is the banks generally—cannot go on expanding at this rate much longer, and the sooner we understand this the better. Of course much depends upon the crops, about which there is, of course, as yet, considerable uncertainty. I do not wish to make any extravagant or exaggerated statements, but I think it is an undeniable fact that trade is not in as [illegible] satisfactory condition. Complaints are very general that profits are light, and it is pretty well understood that considerable stocks of merchandise have had to be carried over, and often it is feared that manufactures are being, or are likely to be overdone, at least in certain directions—for example, I find from information obtained from the most reliable source, that there are thirteen cotton mills now running and six under construction, making nineteen in all, in addition to which we know that many others have largely increased their [illegible], which other are doing. Another feature of the times which must not be overlooked is the large falling off in the exports in the face of increasing imports.

Mr. Smithers' opinion on financial matters should be prefered to that of anyone not so familiar with financial and trade

"An Inhuman Welcome."

When one political journal savagely drubs another of the same kidney, especially at election times, when the ties of brotherhood are supposed to be drawn the closest, there must be some exceedingly strong provocation to the attack; yet the Irish Canadian, a most enthusiastic and ardent supporter of the Government of Sir John Macdonald, handles the Review without gloves for its shameful insult to the Irish people, through its remarks in reference to a party of immigrants lately arrived in Peterborough. The Irish Canadian, under the heading of "An Inhuman Welcome," speaks as follows:—

"A number of Irish emigrants, principally from the estates of the late Lord Leitrim, of unsavory memory, recently arrived at Peterborough, and the Review of that town seized the opportunity to assail them coarsely. When it says these poor people, who had fled from the Crowbar, were in a "pitiable plight," we can well believe it. It is probable, however, that Mr. Carnegie's ancestors were no better off when they made their escape from the terrors of eviction in the Highlands of Scotland. But when the Review says that they were "emigrants of the very lowest class," and adds that "the very lowest type of people to be met with in Canada are vastly their superior in every respect," the Review should at least except from the comparison its own conductors, for we take it that the meanest type of humanity in Canada or elsewhere is the wretch who can greet a poor emigrant with contumely, and gloat over the misfortunes which have forced him into exile. The good people of Peterborough evidently had a better opinion of these unfortunate newcomers, and a much more exalted idea of the duty men owe to their suffering fellow men, than the gentlemen of the Review, for they treated them with great kindness, fed them and cared for them in every possible way, and gave them, or most of them, employment. All that the Irish emigrant asks upon his arrival in Canada is the chance to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow; but he has the right also to expect that the public press shall treat him fairly. Poverty is no crime, especially in Ireland; but conduct such as that of which the Review has been guilty, would be considered base and inhuman, even in an uncivilized land."

Conservatives on the Liberal Platform.

The Listowell Standard, speaking of Mr. Monteith, who was at one time in the field in North Perth, as an independent Conservative, against Mr. Hinen, the regular party nominee, says:—

"We believe that Mr. Monteith calls himself a Conservative still; yet we understand that his platform is almost wholly made up of Grit planks."

And if the Grit planks are the best materials out of which to construct a sound platform, why should not Mr. Monteith, or any other Conservative, use them? Must every man who calls himself a Conservative support everything Sir John Macdonald does, and oppose everything emanating from Mr. Blake? Sir John is in the habit of saying he does not care for followers who support him only when he is right; what he wants is men who will support him when he is wrong, for then he needs support most. Mr. Monteith has been made to feel that no other position can be assumed by him unless he is prepared to cut altogether his connection with his party associates. That he has not the courage of his conviction is shown by the fact that at his master's bidding he has already retired.

And what are these "Grit planks" on which the Tories decline to stand? A few of them are:—Justice to Ontario in the matter of the boundary award; freedom from outside interference in purely Provincial affairs; the right to make our own commercial treaties, with a view to the extension of our foreign trade; free fuel and bread for all who have to buy them; lower taxation on raw materials, so as to benefit both the manufacturer and the consumer; a system of taxation which will fall as heavily on the rich as on the poor; a reduction in the rate of taxation generally, so that the money which is now collected over and above the actual needs of the public service, may remain in the pockets of the people; the abolition of all monopolies, including the railway monopoly in the Northwest; a land policy which will keep the land for the settler, and put all the proceeds in the public treasury, instead of allowing the larger part of it to fall into the hands of the speculator; such a reform of the Senate, as will either put it out of existence altogether, or render it amenable to public opinion, and fill it with competent men.

This is only a partial list of Liberal planks, and any Conservative who declines to stand on them, will sooner or later find himself without any standing ground at all. What is more, these planks are meeting with such acceptance amongst the people in this very contest, that they will form the platform of the new Government which Mr. Blake will be very shortly called upon to form. The evidences are accumulating every day that the Liberals will have a majority in every province except British Columbia and Quebec, and that even in Quebec they will be a strong minority. Will the old Midland district be behind in the adoption and ratification of such a platform as we have outlined?

A pertinent commentary on Sir John's labored and muddling explanation of the Boundary award matter, at the Drill Shed on Monday night week, are his remarks on the subject in the House, and his vote in favor of referring it to arbitration. In 1878, in the House, he said:—"I think the arbitrators will be acceptable to the country as they are to me. (Cheers.) If they wanted to retain their territory they would have to stand man to man and oppose the men who now wanted to deprive us of it." (Cheers). And he voted for the motion. How can Sir John reconcile the above, as well as his Yorkville, "Why, my God, I voted against it," with his statements in the Drill Shed?

A Fraud on the Workingmen.

To show how the present paternal government at Ottawa, delights in protecting the interests of the workingman, it is only necessary to note how the Chinese are pouring into British Columbia to work on Yankee Onderdonk's contract on the Pacific Railway. The following published reports show that in reference to the Chinese invasion, the facts have not been exaggerated an iota:—

"A Portland (Oregon) dispatch says:—Edward G. Tilton, contractor and General Superintendent of Canadian Pacific Railroad, is in the city and was interviewed. Work on the section between Burrard Inlet and Emory Point, eighty-five miles, is going on actively. Arrangements have been made for the importation of 8,000 Chinese within sixty days."

The Victoria (B.C.) Standard (Tory,) of May 10th, says:—"We learn of the following arrivals:—Escambia, 1,700 tons, 27 days from Hong Kong, with 932 Chinamen. Adam Simpson, 45 days from Hong Kong, with 532 Chinamen. Syren, 54 days from Hong Kong, with 925 Chinamen. Edwin Reed, left Hong Kong March 5th, with 500. Canopus and Sues, with cargoes of Chinamen. Euphrates, with 550 Chinamen.

This is the way in which the Government has been carrying out its pledge of "Canada for the Canadians," and yet we find its partisan supporters appealing to the public for a renewal of confidence on the ground that it still professes to give Canadians a preference in matters over which the administration exercises control.

Late British Columbia papers say the steamers on the Fraser River are crowded with Chinese coolies going to work on the Pacific Railway, and that over 8,000 will be employed on the road before the end of the season. It may be said without exaggeration and without prejudice that the Pacific Province is now fully in the grip of Americans and Chinamen. It is demonstrated every day that no Canadian contractor need apply until the Ministerial Department of Railways and Canals is remodelled. The object of importing these "moon-eyed lepers" is because they work at lower wages than Canadians, and Onderdonk, the Yankee contractor, who was awarded a section the other day at $900,000 over that of a Canadian firm, is the man who is bringing them in. Not only does the Government swindle people out of their money by giving contracts to their friends at high figures, but they prevent the employment of our own citizens by encouraging Chinese immigration.

As Sir John Macdonald has hardly omitted an opportunity of injuring Ontario, so he never allows an opportunity of insulting Ontario to escape him. In his amphitheatre speech in Toronto, he remarked sneeringly that "little Oliver Mowat" was "too small potatoes" for him. Hon. Oliver Mowat is the honored and trusted first Minister of the Government of this Province, and in insulting and slighting him, Sir John insults Ontario.

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN,—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

I remain Gentlemen,

Your obedient humble servant,

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 15, 1882.

To the Electors.

This is the last opportunity we shall have of appealing to the Reform electors of these ridings before the 20th day of June. Feeling deeply the vast importance of the present crisis in the history of Canada; the immense interests dependent on the verdict of the people, we cannot avoid the duty of urging on the Reform electors the necessity of (each man) doing his whole duty. The elections have been sprung upon you by a Government, which, unscrupulous as it may be in all other respects, is ready to sacrifice everything to the retention of office. It has made the time as short as possible, with the hope that lack of time for discussion of their acts and policy would save exposure of the one and fail to disclose the mischievous nature of the other, but their acts have been so flagrantly bad and their policy is so transparently noxious to the interests of the country, that no voter has any excuse for inaction because the whole case is not before him. No doubt every one of you is prepared with his verdict, and all that is wanting to give it effect is the expression of it at the polls. And it is here that we wish to impress upon every elector his solumn duty to record his vote in favor of good government. No man can escape it and be blameless. It is an imperative duty at any time to exercise the franchise, and especially at the present critical juncture; when neglect, it will be little short of a crime. Let no man excuse himself on the plea that the lack of his individual vote will not amount to much; one man in each division thinking thus and acting accordingly will make, perhaps, all the difference between victory and defeat. Be sure to poll your vote; make all business arrangements between now and polling day with reference to that. Let nothing but death or absolute impossibility prevent you recording your vote at the earliest possible moment. You will thus be buoyed up with the sense of duty done, and will be at liberty to assist your friends in working to secure a triumph. It is not only your duty to vote, but to do your best to see that every one of your neighbors does likewise. Whatever you do be sure to vote yourself. Do not "pair off" with anybody. Trust not the enemy or you will be deceived; trust only your own honest right hand to mark your ballot for Lundy or Roxburgh. You have all the rest of the year to give to your own affairs; consecrate then next Tuesday, June 20th, especially and exclusively to the service of your country. We have tried to place the whole case fully and fairly before the electors, and now every man should have his decision ready; the time for talk and speculation is over, nothing but work, work, work, remains to be done. Work to checkmate or neutralise the unscrupulous tactics of the enemy; work to catch the ready lie of the enemy and expose it; work to make every vote count at the polls. Our cause is just, our prospects are bright, but, remember, it is only the recorded vote that counts. From this time forth let there be only work, and on the 20th let every man vote and vote early, and victory will crown the day.

Vote for Mr. Lundy, who will find time to attend to your interests and his Parliamentary Duties.

Corruption in Contract Letting.

One of the chief reasons why the present Government should be dismissed is the corruption which pervades the whole department of Public Works. The trail of the serpent is over everything Sir Charles Tupper puts his hands to. He wasted over $200,000 of public money in order to favour Tory and Nova Scotian friends, in letting the contract for Section B., of the Thunder Bay branch, and in a still more shameless manner he made Onderdonk & Co., the importers of Chinese labor, a present of over $900,000 in connection with the Port Moody section. Is it at all likely that at a time when the manufacturers and the colonization companies are being freely bled for election funds, wealthy contractors like Onderdonk, Manning, and others of the same class, are going to get off scot free? Murray, Oates & Co. got a bad claim for $100,000 in connection with the Intercolonial settled since the present Government came into power; how much of that sum has been returned into the corruption fund? How much have the Syndicate been compelled to agree to pay in order to secure such a bargain as they got in 1881, and to secure the additional advantage of the disallowance of the Manitoba South Eastern charter, which their bargain did not call for?

The public have a deep interest in purity of administration. In spite of the efforts of his opponents to traduce him, no man stands higher to-day in the affections of the people of Canada than Mr. Mackenzie and the chief reason for the hold he has on public opinion is the universal belief in his incorruptible integrity. No such belief prevails with reference to Sir Charles Tupper. He is notoriously corrupt and unscrupulous, and is generally believed, by his own party, to be not above putting money in his own pockets. Of this very crime he was accused to his face in the Nova Scotian Legislature, by his present colleague, Mr. McLelan, who fastened upon him a title he can never shake off, the "High Priest of Corruption."

The significance of this question of administrative purity in the present contest lies in the fact that in the near future this country must choose between entrusting the management of its affairs to Mr. Blake and entrusting it to Sir Charles Tupper. For, in the natural course of events Sir John Macdonald, who, with all his political profligacy, has never been accused of putting public money in his own pockets, will ere long be compelled to resign the reins of administration to other hands, even if he carries the country at this election, and it is easy to see into whose hands they will fall. Sir Leonard Tilley has neither the intellectual ability nor the force of character necessary to qualify him for leadership, and he has, besides, to admit that he cannot control his own province. Sir Charles Tupper is in a position to force himself as leader on his party and, though some will do it with a bad grace, his party will accept the situation. What do the people of Ontario think about it? Do they prefer trusting the destiny of the Dominion and the interests of their province to one of themselves who can boast a spotless record, of whose political abilities even his political opponents are proud, and who has spent more of his own means in the public service than Sir Charles Tupper has made out of his public position; or will they put their trust in a man whose record for political corruption is one of the darkest in our political annals, who is distrusted and disliked by his own allies, and whose whole public career has been one of treachery and self-seeking. The contrast is clear and instructive, and the issue plain. Which shall it be, Blake or Tupper?

Vote for Lundy & Roxburgh, and "Canada for the Canadians," and not for a Yankee Railway Syndicate.

The Wool Question.

If there is one way more flagrant than another in which the Tory Government has, literally as well as figuratively, "pulled the wool over the eyes," of the farming community, it is in their treatment of home-grown wool. In spite of their promises in 1878 that the N. P. would increase the price of wool and thus benefit the farmer, the price of wool is now greatly lower than in 1878, or any of the four preceding years of the Mackenzie administration, as will be shown by the subjoined table of Toronto prices, which are higher than the range of local markets:—

1875	37
1876	34
1877	32
1878	28

The farmers were assured by the Tory election orators that the N. P. would be a blessing and a boon to them, especially in the matter of wool.

The woollen manufacturers are very fully protected by the tariff. The first imposition of the tariff entirely ignored the wool duty, but on the farmers complaining that ante-election promises had not been fulfilled in this matter, the Government enacted the most brilliant bit of humbug in relation to the wool tax, that was ever used to gull a confiding agricultural community. Thinking, as they must have done, that the farmers were fools, pure and simple, Sir Leonard Tilley insulted their good sense by imposing a tax of three cents per lb, on coarse wools, such as are never imported, and therefore need no protection, while fine wools, such as are imported in immense quantities, are allowed to come in free.

The wits of the farmer who cannot see through this transparent humbug, must indeed have gone wool-gathering.

Last year there were imported into Canada the enormous quantity of 8,-040,267 lbs. of wool, which did not pay one cent of duty, while the bulk of the clip of home grown wool lies unsold in farmer's barns, or has been sold at the sacrifice implied in such prices as from 18 to 20 cents per lb. Let us see how the N. P. has increased the price of wool. The past four years the following prices obtained:—

1879	20
1880	18
1882	20

The farmers cannot now help observing that the Tory candidate or canvasser never once mentions wool, while in '78 he never missed an opportunity of thrusting wool, and his false and humbugging promises in reference to the tax on it, down the farmer's throat. Farmers, a wise man never allows himself to be fooled more than once by the same party.

Some Plot Ahead.

Note the fact of a Ministry with a majority of eighty, dissolving Parliament without the slightest apparent reason. Even if the Government is returned by a small majority, will they be cleared of the foul charges that stain their skirts? Will a verdict secured by gerrymandering constituencies, subsidising local railways, and making bogus grants for public works be accepted as a vindication of the policy and acts of the administration? By no means. A Government victory at the imminent elections will simply mean that the plot to maintain power by means of treachery and fraud has been successful. The only excuse for a dissolution just now is the presumption that the Ministry of Sir John Macdonald has on hand some atrocious scheme which they dare not disclose until a new lease of power is granted and another obedient "brute majority," made certain. Electors, be on your guard. You know from the antecedents of the two great political parties which is to be most trusted. Bring to recollection only the most recent examples of Sir John's trickery and corruption, such as the Pacific scandal, the Pacific Syndicate sacrifice, Onderdonkery, the gerrymander, and so on, and reflect whether it is wise to entrust to him and his pliant supporters, a chance to repeat them in some modified, but still aggravated form?

Vote for Lundy & Roxburgh, and encouragement to Manufacturers by lowering the Tax on Coal and Raw Material.

Sir John's Baits.

To catch the Catholic vote Sir John gives a seat in the Senate to John O'Donoghue, an alleged Fenian sympathizer, and a renegade Grit.

To catch the Orange vote, Sir John promises an Orange Incorporation Act.

To catch the Temperance vote, Sir John smiles on the Temperance Colonization scheme.

To catch the Licensed Victualler's vote Sir John gives them a similar land privilege.

To catch the unlicensed grogshop vote, Sir John promises to destroy our present excellent liquor license law, and introduce free trade in whiskey.

To catch the monopolist manufacturers' votes, influence and money, he taxes imports so as to permit manufacturers to charge their own prices for goods, to be paid by the consumer, and thus become rich at the public expense.

To catch the workingman's vote, he says he will send back to China, after the railway in British Columbia is built, the Chinamen that have crowded out native workmen.

To catch the farmer's vote—well, he just fishes for them with the bare hook. They pay the lion's share of all taxes and duties, in the increased price of clothing, woolen goods, hardware, nails, stoves machinery, coal oil, etc., etc., and in return they get "agricultural protection," that is a tax on oats to keep out the Yankee grain, which is about 20 cents lower than Canadian oats, and therefore is likely to be imported at a dead loss in immense quantities; and they get protection on wool, by putting a tax on a grade of which no Canadian farmer ever had an ounce to sell.

THE reason why, is plain. A prominent Grand Trunk official, in Toronto said recently that from personal observation he was prepared to say that nearly all the employees of the Company would vote the Reform ticket at the coming election. "Why" said he, "I have been a tory for the past twenty years, and always cast my vote in their favour, but I wont do it again, and I could mention at least eighty officials (hitherto Tories) who have pledged themselves to do the same. You may wonder why, but I assure you it is solely on account of the the National Policy. Why when the delegates from the conductors and brakemen went to Montreal to ask Mr. Hickson for more pay he told them the company could not afford to grant their request. The delegates pointed out that owing to the National Policy the cost of living had increased at least 20 per cent. and after all the great promises the Government had made they did not receive a cent more pay. Before taking leave of Mr. Hickson they stated that they would vote against the N. P., and induce all other employees to do the same, for they considered it direct outrage on the poor man. Their threat," continued the official, has been acted on to such an extent as will surprise the public at the general election, for I can assure you the Grand Trunk will give the Reformers a handsome majority." The above information was voluntary.

NORWOUD.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

On Tuesday morning last a young man named Stevens, residing near Hairton, met with an accident which resulted in his death shortly after its occurrence. He was in the act of leading a stallion out of the stable to water, when the animal became restive, and the lad fell down under his feet, and was trampled on in such a manner as in a few hours to cause his death. Stevens was only 16 years of age.

OBITUARY.

Another old and highly respected resident of the Township of Dummer, in the person of Mrs. Wm. Pegg, died last week, in the 69th year of her age. Her funeral, which took place on Friday last, was attended by a large concourse of friends from the neighboring community for many miles around, showing the esteem and respect in which she was held. Ralph Brennan, aged 5 years, youngest son of Mr. D. Brennan, of this village, died on Friday evening last, of brain fever, after a brief illness. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon last, and was attended by a remarkably large assemblage of sympathizing friends of Norwood and surrounding country.

HORSE LOST.

Mr. T. M. Grover, barrister, lost a very valuable young horse a few days ago. The animal had been stabled all the season, and one day last week was put out to grass, when in an hour or so after it gave evidence of some ailment, lingered in pain a few hours and then died. Though a V. S. was called, he failed to discover the cause of the sudden death of the horse.

FOR THE RAILWAY.

A large party of railway contractors arrived in our village on Saturday evening last, and on Monday evening started on eastward to view the line of the Ontario and Quebec Railway, as recently surveyed from this village towards Madoc. This tour is being made for the purpose of estimating the cost of the construction of the road, preparatory to putting in tenders to the company for the section to be let in this vicinity. It is said that several other parties are now inspecting other portions of the line, with the same object in view. This, at last, looks like business.

MASONIC.

The Masons of this village have received a cordial invitation from their brethren of Peterborough to attend a Masonic Excursion to Belleville and Massassaga Point on the 26th instant. As quiet will be restored to the public mind by that date—the elections being over by the 20th—there is no doubt a number of Masons of this village will accept the invitation.

Editorial Notes.

READING between the lines, we note that the electors are called on to vote for the Conservative candidate whose motto is "Canada for the Canadians,"—and half of Ontario for Manitoba.

IT appears that the Syndicate is not alone "American" in men and money, but in sympathy as well; for when that goodly monopoly has a place of trust to fill, it selects not a man from among the many qualified Canadians, but gets an American. "No Canadians need apply."

THE directors of the Richelieu Navigation Company have decided to increase passenger rates from Cornwall to Montreal fifty cents, and it is their intention at their next meeting to make a general advance of passenger and freight rates all over the line. This is only another example of the manner in which the coal tax is adding to the burdens of the travelling and shipping public.

WAS it fair that deputations of already rich manufacturers, who visited Ottawa to advise how taxes should best be levied to enrich them most effectually, had their expenses paid by the Government—the taxes of the people—while the people, who are fleeced by the tariff, hadn't a word to say in the matter. Why didn't the Government invite a deputation of the working men and ask them if they could stand the taxes that were imposed on them in the rich manufacturers' interest?

THE Napanee Express, published in Lennox, where Sir John is a candidate, remarks:—"It is worthy of note that the men who are now so loud-mouthed in praise of Sir John Macdonald are the very same who gushed over Edmund Hooper in 1878, and gave him a character for honesty. Hooper proved a defaulter to the county of upwards of $30,000—they condoned the offence. Sir John Macdonald is trying to rob Ontario of hundreds of millions of dollars—they applaud the act. And yet these men have the cheek to talk about honesty!"

A farmer gives his reason why he should not support the N. P. The farmer was promised protection as well as the manufacturer, but he has been deceived, for at one time he sold his wool for fifty cents a pound and bought horse blankets for five dollars a pair, but now he only gets twenty cents for his wool and has to pay seven dollars a pair for horse-blankets which are no better than those he used to purchase for five dollars. This is a very pointed instance of the result of the N. P., which all farmers can readily understand, but the principle of Protection is of this very character all through the chapter—some are compelled to contribute to the wealth of others without receiving value for it.

THE Port Hood Referee has been looking up Sir C. Tupper's pleasure trips account and finds that during the last three years he drew from the public treasury, for trips to England, the enormous sum of $5,379.99. Besides this he drew $1,600 for the expense of his trip to British Columbia in the fall of 1881, and also charges the country with the sum of $1,524.44. for the travelling expenses of two officers of his department, who shared with him the pleasures of the trip. In addition to a departmental salary of $7,000 per year, Sir Charles Tupper's travelling expenses have cost the country within a trifle of $7,000. Is it any wonder that our people are complaining of heavy taxes?

THE consumer of cotton pays to-day on an average sixteen cents out of every dollar he invests in this staple, more than he was required to do in 1878. Electors, you pay this sum to support a cottonocracy, whose profits are from 40 to 50 per cent. If the Government wants to enrich these cotton lords, beyond the handsome profit that the revenue tariff of '78 yielded, let them "pass around the hat" directly, and allow you to decide, like free men whether you are willing to make contributions to them, and not force you to bestow charity by act of parliament. The only taxes the people should be compelled to pay are those necessary to the effective maintenance of the public service. A tax levied to raise a needless surplus or to enrich manufacturers is nothing less than legalized robbery.

THE Review is badly stuck for argument when it calls attention to the fact that some of Mr. Roxburgh's meetings were not advertised, to give consistency to the insinuation that he wished to elude discussion. THE EXAMINER has a keen eye enough to business to have secured the advertisement whose omission is noted by the Review, but as a matter of fact, the meetings were held at such dates, with reference to the date of publication of the THE EXAMINER, as would have rendered their announcement ineffective. A small matter to stretch the truth about. These meetings were not hole and corner meetings any more than those attended by the editorial representative of the Review, which generally would bear that title from the fact of the editorial orator creeping out by some pretty small holes, and getting badly cornered in argument.

THE essence of Sir Leonard Tilley's N. P. is to squeeze the many for the benefit of the few. Let us illustrate:—The industries directly benefitted by this jug-handled protection policy, employ 44,000 men, a capital of $20,000,000 and turn out an annual product of the value of $51,000,000. The industries injured by the N. P., (through dunder-headed duties on raw material) employ 99,000, use a capital of $36,000,000 and produce annually goods to the value of $92,000,000. Therefore the four millions of people in the Dominion are compelled to pay the enormous taxes implied in a needless surplus of seven or eight million dollars to give employment to 44,000 workmen, a thousandth part of the population. The workmen are not particularly benefitted either; their employers get all the profit, and the workman has to pay higher for all the articles that enter into his living. A readjustment of the tariff to remedy the defects that lead to this state of affairs is what Mr. Blake proposes.

Vote for Lundy & Roxburgh, and for "Provincial Rights," and for the preservation of the Confederation, which can only last while "Provincial Rights" are respected.

STILL ANOTHER CONSERVATIVE PRONOUNCES FOR BLAKE.

ADDRESS TO THE CATHOLIC ELECTORS OF ONTARIO.

Mr. Joseph A. Donovan, of Toronto, a life-long Conservative, who contested South Perth with Mr. Trow in 1867, has a very able letter in Friday's Globe on Catholic representation in the Dominion Parliament, and how to increase it. After explaining fully his scheme he pronounces on the Hon. Mr. Blake the following high and well deserved eulogy:—

"To attain the object I have outlined, I propose, at the coming election, that we range ourselves as one man on the side of Hon. Edward Blake, and employ every means in our power to plant his banner victorious at every polling place in Ontario on election day. He is the one public man who, with the insight of a statesman, has acknowledged the unfairness and declare against the present system of representation. The Reform party, which he leads as it was never led before, with justice on its banner, and equality for its watchword, is recovering from the treacherous assault of Sir John Macdonald, and is now moving with giant stride to measure strength with the assailant of its freedom. Our interests and theirs are the same in this election. The blow struck by Sir John Macdonald at their electoral freedom has fallen with equal destructiveness upon ours. Let us march together in the way of our common deliverance against the common enemy.

We are now face to face with Sir John Macdonald, with all his treachery and deceit; he has rewarded our faithful following of years with disfranchisement, and the stigma of inferiority; the moment has come to flash back resentment for wrong.

A chief of our race and blood, rich in intellectual gifts, which, even from this distant land, shed a splendid light around the name of Ireland, to-day champions the cause of freedom, strangled by Sir John Macdonald, and summons the patriotism and virtue of the country to its rescue. Read his speech on the "Irish resolutions;" how it burns and thrills with the holy passion for liberty which stirs his soul while pleading justice for Ireland! In no craven tones, with bated breath and whispering humbleness, does he exclaim against the cruel policy that is yielding only tears and blood: but in eloquent words, now echoing through the world, instinct with inspiration, he demands legislative freedom for the land of his fathers!

In the name of Ontario, Hon. Edward Blake to-day invites your suffrage; by voting for him we assure his triumph, and that of just representation; we aid in rescuing the country from outrage by an obsequious House of Commons, and an appointed Senate; we declare for the principle of Parliament, and for a House of Commons which shall reflect the whole people of the country, and not the partizans of a faction.

The Catholic who votes for Sir John Macdonald tramples country and honor in the dust; votes for ten more years of Catholic disfranchisement; countenances the fraud of Catholic representation by the appointment of hirelings and renegades to office; stigmatizes Catholic intellect as inferior and debased; votes himself a serf; his children aliens!

I have given the reason and the motive for the course I adopt; they apply equally to you. Let us vote unitedly for Hon. Edward Blake, and earn the gratitude of the country, and of our own good conscience.

JOSEPH A. DONOVAN.

"Canada for Canadians."

How the Principle is Worked on the Canada Pacific R.R.—"No Canadians Need Apply."

The Conservatives are proud of quoting "Canada for the Canadians," yet the half Yankee railway syndicate, foisted by their government on the country, ignores the principle by discharging Canadian officials and employees on the C. P. R. and putting Yankees in their places.

The following is a partial list only, a full list being difficult to procure, of the Canadians discharged or bulldozed into resigning up to the middle of May:

G. P. Nelson, Canadian store keeper, "frozen out" to make room for a Yankee.

J. M. Ross, Canadian superintendent of construction, guillotined to give place to a Yankee.

J. Patterson, superintendent water supply, Canadian, put out for a Yankee.

J. Egan, Canadian, train despatcher, gave place to a Yankee.

J. Lynskey, Canadian, assistant superintendent, "frozen out" for a Yankee

C. V. Cameron and R. J. Colman, superintendents wood stores, "frozen out" for Yankees.

CONDUCTORS DISCHARGED.—(Canadians)—C. Frost, E. Drahan, T. Chadwick, — Egan, (22 years on Grand Trunk.)

Despatcher Foster, and E. A. Baker, clerk, Canadians, forced to resign.

The following Canadian conductors were "frozen out":—D. Hyssop, G. Hyssop, P. McTavish, W. T. Millican, O. Booter.

The following Canadian brakemen "frozen out" to give place to Yankees:—D. Gardner, J. Pooley, W. Macdonald, J. McCutcheon, Jas. Glass, Thos. Herd, W. C. Wilson, Alfred Hall, Frank Cronk, Alfred Labrauer, George Thomas, T. Sloman, George Hewitt, Jas. Walker, H. Beckwith, R. Manns, J. Nott, J. J. Campbell, J Newton, J. H. Mathieson, H. McPhee, F. Skelding, Milton Laycock, William Scott, John Elliott, John Copeland, M. J. Campbell, Robert Ferris, Thomas Shipley, Daniel Mathieson, Robert Copeland and Alex. Mathieson.

This is a specimen of the beginning of the way in which this half Yankee syndicate will bulldoze Canadians, and the Government is responsible for handing over our North-West to a band of harpies who ignore the claims of Canadians, who supply the funds to build the railway, insult them and impose burdensome exactions on the passenger and business public. This is the railway syndicate which John A. lauded so loudly at the Drill Shed; the most gigantic, far reaching and long-lasting injury of the many he has inflicted on the country. And the electors of East and West Peterborough are asked to condone the crime. Electors, condemn it by voting for Messrs. Roxburgh and Lundy.

SIR L. TILLEY DENOUNCES "GERRYMANDERING."

A correspondent telegraphs that Sir Leonard Tilley's organ, the St. John, N. B., Sun, recently contained a report of Sir Leonard's reception at Campbellton, Restigouche, on the 1st inst., where in the course of a speech, he referred," quoting the Sun's report' "with deep feeling to "the offer made to him in the Con-"federation election, when defeated in "St. John, to return him for Restigouche. "The feeling which had been manifested "then had been borne in mind by "him when the question of the re-"distribution of the counties came up "recently in Parliament, and aided him "and others in keeping intact the boun-"daries of Restigouche." A more implicit condemnation of the gerrymandering tactics of his Ontario Tory associates than this it would be difficult to obtain.

Vote for Lundy & Roxburgh, and justice to Ontario.

The Campaign.

GENTLEMEN:—

The political issues of the campaign are with us. Let us cherish them—they are about the best we are likely to see for some time.

It is reasonable to expect that for the next three weeks, votes will be an article of commerical value—that is, we so anticipate.

A voter in a new suit of clothes is a more estimable constituent than a voter in an old suit; though of course a voter in an old suit is preferable to no voter at all—at least so we're told.

It will be an extremely proper thing that the candidate who gets the most votes will get elected. Still the exception to this general rule has occurred.

It will be an additionally gratifying circumstance to find that the successful man has been elected by men wearing DOLAN'S Stylish Suits.

Hence it is the manifest duty of all, without regard to previous condition of political servitude, to repair to DOLAN & CO'S. and clothe themselves as befits the "free and independent."

The Contented Man, Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

LIVER PAD CO.:

GENTLEMEN,—I have not worn your Pad for nearly three months, and although I sometimes feel the pains in my shoulders, yet I must say I never took medicine that did me so much good for that kind of rheumatism. I will therefore give you a list of parties in the neighborhood to whom the Pad would be a benefit, by sending them circulars you will oblige.

HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.,

GENTLEMEN,—I have been troubled four or five years with diseases of the liver, accompanied by severe dyspepsia and pain in the region of the heart, with great prostration. About seven weeks ago I bought a Holman Pad, which gave me relief from the very first, and I am happy to say I am now, I believe, entirely cured, so that I am about my work as usual and can eat any kind of food (even to cold cabbage) without distressing me at all. I can gladly recommend the Pad to any person.

THE N. P. OPPRESSION.

FIFTY-SEVEN REASONS WHY FARMERS SHOULD VOTE AGAINST HILLIARD AND BURNHAM ITS SUPPORTERS AND APOLOGISTS.

1. The N. P. discriminates against agriculture at every possible point.

2. Every article the farmer purchases has been increased in price by the tariff.

3. Not a single article he has to sell, except corn and meat, are increased in price by the tariff, and meat is increased largely because the corn tax has made it unprofitable for farmers to fatten cattle.

4. Where there was the slightest chance of protection raising the price of farmers' commodities, no duty was put on, or the previous duty was not increased. Thus:—

5. Wool was not protected in the original N. P.

6. And is not protected now, inasmuch as their is no duty on the article except the purely humbugging duty of three cents imposed only upon those kinds of wool which we never imported.

7. Hides and skins are left on the free list.

8. Boots and shoes, harness, and leather of all kinds are heavily protected.

9. In defiance of explicit promises, the Tories omitted to increase the tax on American pork.

10. The consequence was that, in 1881, we imported 14,809,078 pounds of American pork against 12,913,311 pounds in 1878.

11. In defiance of express promises, the Tories virtually abolished the duty on American hogs by giving new privileges to pork packers who import swine in bond.

12. The consequence was that in 1881 there were $558,125 worth of American swine imported into Canada against $116,022 worth in 1878.

13. The tariff levies a heavy tax on the farmers' seeds—15 per cent.

14. So that the seeds which the farmer has to import, such as timothy, all kinds of grass, turnip, corn, etc., are heavily increased in price;

15. While the seeds which the Canadian farmer sells, namely, clover, peas, barley, and all cereals are actually depressed in price by the increased cost of handling caused by the tariff.

16. The tax actually paid by the farmers on seeds since the N. P. came in amounts to $76,993.69.

17. Corn, if imported for seed by a farmer, has to pay 15 per cent., which at present prices is equal to 13½ cents per bushel.

18. Corn, if imported by a distiller, has to pay only 7½ cents a bushel.

19. The tariff has for one-half at least, of the time that has elapsed since September, 1878, caused the Canadian markets to fall far below the American prices; whereas

20. In September, 1878, Canadian prices were far above American prices.

21. The tariff has caused the price of oats in Canada to fall on the average ten cents a bushel below the Buffalo price for about ten months past; whereas

22. In September, 1878, the Canadian price was higher than the Buffalo price.

23. The taxes on coal and other railway supplies so increase freight charges that the price of Canadian produce has to be reduced.

24. The tariff so hampers the trade in American grain that our shippers lose 5,000,000 bushels of grain business, and have to take a larger profit out of Canadian grain to make up their losses.

25. The freight on all articles purchased by the farmer is increased, and the price of the articles is thus reduced.

26. The price of every implement purchased by the farmer is increased, and the price of the articles is thus increased.

27. In order to escape the burden of increased taxes on raw materials, such as iron, paint, varnish, etc., the implement-makers have had to decrease the weight of metal in all implements. If it were not for the tariff, farmers would have reaped the benefits of this reduction.

28. The tariff discriminates at every possible point against the class of articles which the farmer wants to buy. Thus:—

29. The farmers' striped cotton shirt is taxed 65 per cent.

30. The rich man's fancy French shirt is taxed 20 per cent.

31. The farmers' coat is taxed 50 per cent.

32. The rich man's coat is taxed 22½ per cent.

33. The farmer's overcoat is taxed 45½ per cent.

34. The rich man's overcoat is taxed 24½ per cent.

35. The farmer's blanket is taxed 110 per cent.

36. The rich man's blanket is let off with 35 per cent.

37. In all articles of woollen and cotton the same discrimination is practised against the farmer.

38. In musical instruments the discrimination is the same. The farmer's organ or piano pays 50 or 60 per cent. The rich man's instrument pays not more than 20 per cent.

39. It is the N. P. party that wants to give to a monopoly the control of the purchase of all elm, oak, and other logs from which staves can be made.

40. It is the same party that, immediately on assuming power, revived the obsolete export tax on shingle-bolts, thus robbing many farmers for the benefit of a few manufacturers.

41. It is the same party which, by the grinding-in-bond regulations, tried to destroy the trade of the country millers.

42. The effect of this destruction would be to give to the grinders-in-bond a monopoly of the purchase of Canadian wheat for their only competitors after the country millers were gone would be the exporters, and a ring could easily be formed among them.

43. The tariff puts a heavy tax on dairymalt—50 per cent. when the tax on the bag is included.

44. Cheese cloth is taxed 97 per cent.

45. All the implements of the dairy are heavily taxed.

46. Yet the N. P. does not pretend to do anything for the dairy interest, for the old duties in butter and cheese were left untouched.

47. The taxation levied upon refined sugar in Canada under the N. P is 55 per cent.

48. The Government takes about 4 cts. out of every 11 cents spent on imported refined sugar; and

49. When the raw sugar is imported by refiners, the Government gets about 2 cents a pound, and the refiner collects as much as he chooses of the other two cents.

50. The Government loses $750,000 of revenue by the change in the sugar tax; and this loss is, of course, made up by increased taxation from other sources; and

51. The refiners pocket about $1,000,000 per annum, principally of the farmer's money, over and above a fair working profit.

52. If the N. P. has caused the enormous demand for labor which the Tories say it has, then the N. P. is chargeable with having doubled the farmer's expenditure for labor.

53. Farmers who vote for the N.P. also vote for the repudiation of the Boundary Award; and that for ever.

54. A serious increase in township and county taxation at no very distant day; for

55. Without the revenue from the Crown lands and minerals on the vast tract of debatable land the Provincial Government will not be able to continue paying for a great many expenses which it now assumes, but which properly belong to the townships and counties.

56. This Province spends annually $2,500,000. Of this only $900,000 is spent for purely Provincial purposes. The remainder, $1,900,000, is spent for purposes which, in the event of our revenue running short, will have to be met out of township taxes.

57. Every farmer who does not wish to see cast upon townships and counties the expense of maintaining lunatic asylums, prisons, prosecutions of felons, and a hundred other things, should

VOTE AGAINST THE TORIES!

STIRRING APPEAL TO THE ELECTORATE.

(Communicated.)

If there ever was a time in the history of any country when men of every political creed were called on to sink mere party feelings and rise to the serener altitude of a pure and holy patriotism, such a time is the present, and that country is our own. That the liberties of Ontario are not only insidiously assailed but openly attacked, no man of ordinary intelligence can fail to see. The political franchise, one of the most sacred trusts bestowed on mortals, the noblest guarantee of a people's rights and the palladium of a nation's freedom, has become the plaything of scheming politicians, and been virtually wrested from the hands of thousands of our electors. A conspiracy exists by which Ontario is to be deliberately stripped of half her territory. The railway and land policy of the present Government is already producing its baneful fruits. Unless something can be done now to check its despotism, it will soon turn a magnificent country into a field for the display of tyranny and cupidity. Colossal fortunes will be built up, wrung from the settler's industry, and alien landlords will spend them in luxury beyond the seas. That this will retard the growth of the country, and strike a cruel blow at its prosperity, no man of average intellect can doubt. The entire character of the population will be determined by a policy so essentially oriental and mediæval in its nature, but so repulsive to western ideas, and so obnoxious to the spirit of the age. Instead of the independent and prosperous yeomanry, that should naturally be nursed on that virgin soil, holding their unencumbered title-deeds, and free as the breezes of their prairies, there will be found a crushed and struggling tenantry, akin to the Irish tenantry of to-day, cursed by the same oppressive system, and ministering to the greed of the same foreign oligarchy. Men, who aim at independence, and who purchase land at prices fixed by some absentee Duke, will struggle on their mortgaged farms, ever crouching under that most hideous instrument of human tyranny, a land monopoly. These are not imaginary evils. They are taking shape in stern facts with a rapidity that leaves the laggard steps of the boldest prophet of evil far behind. One short year ago, the mind most full of forebodings could scarcely have conceived that the Pacific Syndicate would by this time have so fully revealed its intention to oppress and its capacity for evil. Not one of us could then have dreamed that already, as the first instalment of a vicious system, an estate of 5,000,000 acres of our most fertile prairie land should be controlled by an alien noblemen—that an estate so vast that Ireland could contain only four such, and England only six, should be in the hands of a foreign company, who expect to reap a golden harvest from the toil-bought earnings of our people. Can a man whose soul has ever felt the generous glow of patriotism, contemplate without burning shame, and righteous indignation, an infatuated policy that must, with the certainty of doom produce such bitter fruits? Yet the Government of the day have already introduced into the North-West those seeds of evil by which, unless their growth is speedily checked, a land vaster than the Cæsar ruled must eventually be cursed.

Nor can any one be blind to the appalling fact that deeds of the foulest character are done in the Public Works Department at Ottawa. It is an open secret among both the successful and disappointed contractors that the Minister of Railways is among the most unscrupulous and venal of living men. He is accumulating an immense fortune, which, as the most blinded partisans know well enough, is simply stolen by a scarcely indirect method, from the public chest. No sane man believes that Sir Charles did not get his quota of the $209,000 of which he feloniously robbed his country on behalf of Onderdonk & Company.

Measures opposed to every principle of public justice; bills creating and perpetuating monopolies which drain the best blood out of the industries on the State, are pushed through in the teeth of all the opposition which a few heroic men with a knowledge of their evil character, can heave in their path. The outrage upon public sentiment and the true interests of the country is committed openly, defiantly, unblushingly. And if such is the fearful capacity for evil of a system of public policy only yet in its childhood, what may we expect when it has had time to develop and mature, and when it enters the lists against public morality and public interest in all the might of its manhood, equipped at every point? Will the words of a patriotic American poet, who was sorrowfully obliged to describe his own country as "the land of broken promises," not be entirely applicable to our own land of broken oaths.

"The ten commandments had a meaning once,
Felt in their bones by least considerate men,
Because behind them public conscience stood,
And without wincing made their mandates good.
But now that statesmanship is just a way
To dodge the primal curse and make it pay:
Since office means a kind of patent drill
To force an entrance to the nation's till,
And peculation something rather less
Ri-ky than if you spelt it with an S;
Now that to steal by law is grown an art,
Whom sires called rogue, their milder sons call smart."

What, then, is to become of the country if this state of things is to be prolonged? No patriot—and it is only to such we can appeal in a crisis like this—can afford to dismiss that question from his mind.

Men, worthy of a trust so sacred as the franchise, and who feel the responsibility of an occasion by the use of which both the present and coming generations may be either blighted or blessed, must pick their way by the exercise of their own conscience and judgment. This generation has the rare privilege of changing its course without mortification and its suffrage without inconsistency. And surely never in the history of the world has the line between right and wrong, between patriotic duty and party spirit been more clearly marked than in the issue at present before the electors of this Dominion. He who can fail to see it, and no confusing of issues, no partisan jugglery, no evasion of duty, can ever wipe it out.

THE TORY PLATFORM.

As Laid Down by the Tory Leaders.

REPRESENTATION BY POPULATION.

"We hived the Grits."—Sir John at Yorkville, June 1, '82.

WHO PAYS THE DUTY?

"You really do pay on your coal the trifling duty of fifty cents a ton."—Sir John at Napanee, May 29, '82.

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS.

"If I am again returned to power * * * I will pass a Bill at Ottawa by which the whole license power will be handed over to the municipalities."—Sir John at Yorkville, June 1, '82.

ONTARIO'S STOLEN TERRITORY.

"Not one stick of timber, one acre of land, or one lump of lead, iron, or gold that does not belong to the Dominion."—Sir John at the Amphitheatre, May 30, '82.

A LOW TARIFF BEST.

"A fifteen per cent. tariff means more than fifteen per cent. protection to manufacturers. There is the cost of the transport of goods from the other side of the water, which amounts, on an average, to at least five per cent., so that there is now a protection equal to twenty per cent. That ought to be sufficient for any industry suited to the country; and as to others, it would be unwise to attempt to sustain them by fiscal props."—Mr. Thos. White, before the Dominion Board of Trade in '73.

SURPLUSES—A CONTRAST.

"I say the Government have no right to have a surplus. If they have a surplus they should endeavour to get rid of it, and the best way to do so is that pursued by us and by the Government of Great Britain—by lightening the taxes on the people."—Sir Charles Tupper, February 16, '75.

"Though I stated in the House that the surplus of this year would be $4,500,000, I am here to say that it will be $5,500,000, or $7,500,000, taking into account the sales from Dominion lands. The indications are that next year, notwithstanding the large expenditure which our opponents have pointed out that we have been making, there will be a still further increase of from $3,000,000 to $3,500,000—over $13,000,000 surplus in three years.—Sir Leonard Tilley at Ottawa, May, '82.

VARIOUS.

"The N. P. is a very good thing because it will make a few men rich, and by their expenditure upon luxuries the poor will be benefitted and the country made prosperous."—Sir Leonard Tilley to Montreal reporter.

"While they had increased expenditure, the taxation of the people was not increased. A return for it was obtained and therefore it (increased expenditure) was not taxation.—Sir L. Tilley, in House of Commons, May 1882.

"I do not think the farmer pays his fair share of taxation."—Sir L. Tilley in Budget Speech, 1879.

"The lumber trade is a waning industry.—Sir L. Tilley in New Brunswick, June, 1882.

MR. MOWAT'S "GERRYMANDERING."

A FALSE CHARGE REFUTED.

In attempting to justify Sir John's gerrymandering bill tory newspapers and orators state that the Hon. Mr. Mowat gerrymandered Ontario in 1874. What Mr. Mowat did on that occasion was not done from a party point of view at all, as will be seen from what follows, and we defy the tory scribes and speakers to controvert the facts of the case which we herewith present:—

Niagara was added to Lincoln.

The great county of Huron had two members with a population under the census of 1881 of 77,000. It was given three members.

Bothwell was only an electoral division composed of parts of Kent and Lambton. To keep the county boundaries Bothwell was abolished, and each of these counties given two members, instead of one as before. Previously, taking 1881 census as a basis. Bothwell had 27,000, Lambton 42,000, and Kent 36,000.

Essex with 46,000 population was given two members instead of one.

Dufferin new county formed by petition of the townships interested, as a new county was given a new member.

The township of Mono, taken from Cardwell to form Dufferin, reduced that riding to 12,000. Tecumseth, with 5,000 population was added to it from South Simcoe. Cardwell, be it remembered, is not a county, only an electoral division.

Part of Wellington being taken from Dufferin, the three ridings of this county were equalised.

The county of Simcoe, with a population of about 75,000 was given three members instead of two.

In Victoria, Muskoka and Parry Sound Peterborough and Renfrew, the boundaries were extended to include townships hitherto unorganised.

Brockville, with a population of 12,000 had two townships, with a population of 1,000, added to it from South Leeds. Sir John, by the way, to gerrymander, added, Kitley, with a population of 2,500, to Brockville from North Leeds, which has a population of 12,900, while Mr. Mowat added from South Leeds, with a population of 22,200. Sir John was looking to his party, Mr. Mowat to equalising the population.

Four villages, which were cut in two under Sir John's arrangement, were each placed wholly in one riding, and a clause of the same acts enacts that were towns or villages are included in two or more ridings, the whole of it shall go to the riding which has the smaller population.

This is the whole sum and substance of Mr. Mowat's redistribution. There was no hiving—no browsing all over the province to throw townships together for political purposes, and no attempt to gerrymander the tories out of the house.

 "Magnificent promises sometimes end in paltry performances." A magnificent exception to this is found in Kidney-Wort, which invariably performs even more cures than it promises. Here is a single instance: "Mother has recovered," wrote an Illinois girl to her Eastern relatives. "She took bitters for a long time but without any good. So, when she heard of the virtues of Kidney-Wort she got a box and it has completely cured her liver complaint."

TO THE FREE AND INDEPENDENT ELECTORS:

GENTLEMEN,—

A large number of my friends having requested that if I could manage to enter Parliament I would be in a position to better my fortunes, I have, after carefully considering whether my business (that of a thimble rigger and bedstead cure) will permit of my attending Parliamentary duties, decided to offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages at the forthcoming election. I am not particular which party elects me, long as I get in. Of course I am a supporter of the present Government, and promise, if elected, to give the leaders of that Government a support as steady, unreasoning, and slavish (if possible), as either of their late members for these ridings have done.

I shall do what I can to maintain the National Policy in its present shape, believing as I do, that it is incapable of improvement. I shall therefore vote against any resolutions looking to the reduction of the taxes on coal, flour, or manufacturers' raw material, or in favor of the more general distribution of the burden of taxation, as I am convinced that it is just and right that the poor man should be taxed more heavily, in proportion, than the rich. If at any time Sir John A. Macdonald should propose any such changes in the tariff, I will, of course, (in that case), vote for them.

If elected, I will do my best to stand in with Tupper and the gang on all their little contract dickers, and anything I may have left over from session to session, I will use for the interests of my constituents, (after my own wants are supplied.)

I regret to observe that the Liberal-Conservative candidates don't come to the scratch in their addresses on the questions now before the people. They act as if they were afraid of these issues. I am not that sort of a wall-flower myself. I'm a square cut and outer, and I tackle these points as follows:—

THE GERRYMANDER ACT.—This measure I approve of all the way down to the ground. It was one of the smartest things that Canada's Greatest Statesman ever did, and it's going to knock the Grits into a cocked hat. The basis of Confederation, as I understand it, is that the Treasury belongs to the Liberal-Conservative Party, and it is therefore the duty of every loyal Premier to do what he can to prevent the Grits from getting into office. Besides, no prudent Government would let the Opposition get in and examine their little pigeon-holes if a Bill like this could be carried through to prevent it.

THE BOUNDARY AWARD.—I heartily approve of the Government's action in refusing to sanction this award. In order that the fundamental principle of Confederation, as aforesaid, may be maintained, it is necessary that the Bleus of Quebec must be kept solid for John A., and therefore it is a stern necessity of state, that Ontario or any other Province must be fixed to suit the Bleus. By the addition of the awarded territory, Ontario would be as big as Quebec. This sort of thing must be sat upon.

DISALLOWANCE.—The fundamental principle aforesaid cannot be kept intact unless the Liberal-Conservative party keep their friends, and I consider it right and proper that Provincial Acts should be disallowed according to Sir John's sweet will, if thereby he can oblige any of his friends.

PACIFIC RAILWAY BARGAIN.—I go the whole hog on this question. In the first place I think it was proper, decent, and clever for the Government to fix the whole business up on the quiet. I hold that it was decidedly cute of the old chieftain to tell that whopper in Montreal—that the railway would not cost the country a cent, and I maintain that it was prudent, business-like, and an evidence of high statesmanship and honor to carry through the bargain rather than wait a while in order to save $9,000,000 or $10,000,000.

MONOPOLY.—I am a sincere believer in monopolies, and will heartily support the Government in creating and fostering them, especially such monopolies as the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, which, in addition to its usefulness in contributing funds to the support of the fundamental principle of Confederation, before mentioned, has the further advantage of being a foreign monopoly, which lends its aid in crushing out "Canada First" ideas by employing only Yankee workmen.

CONTRACT JOBBERY.—Being a practical man myself, I have a strong taste for this branch of public life, and shall ardently support Tupper in his devotion to Onderdonk, Mackintosh, and other patriotic citizens. I hold it as a principle that the highest tender should always get the job providing he will whack up.

Trusting that these few observations may commend me to your regards, as at least the most candid Liberal-Conservative candidate now before you, and that you will therefore elect me by an over-whelming majority, I remain, gentlemen,

Your humble servant.

—The Scotch definition of metaphysics is, after all, not a bad one. "Two men are talking together. He that's listening disna ken what he that's speaking means; and he that's speaking disna ken what he means himsel'—that's metafeesics."

Mr. George Toles, druggist, Gravenhurst, Ont., writes: "My customers who have used Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure say it has done them more good than anything they have ever used."

A large nose is a sign of character. If it has a turkey-red finish or a big knob on one end, it is a sign that character has gone on a protracted vacation.

No person can enjoy health while suffering Constipation of the Bowels. Harsh purgatives always do harm. Burdock Blood Bitters is Nature's own Cathartic. It regulates, purifies and strengthens the system. Trial bottles 10 cents. 24-2t

After the funeral.—Farmer—"Ah, well we've buried a good man when we buried poor Wuzzel! Howsomever, yer can't get no good out o' the ground 'thout you put some good in!"

Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P.Q., writes:—"I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief. I got a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and found it gave instant relief, and since then have had no attack. I would recommend it to all."

"What! only five policemen for a town like this?" exclaimed a traveller. "Oh," replied the native calmly, "they have no difficulty in keeping what little peace we have."

Do not take such vile trash as cheap Whisky Bitters and stimulants that only pander to a depraved appetite. Burdock Blood Bitters is a pure vegetable medicine not a drink. It cleanses the blood and builds up the system. Sample bottles 10 cents. 24-2t

When an old backwoodsman was about to take a first ride on a Mississippi steamer he was asked whether he would take deck or cabin passage. "Well," said he, in a resigned sort of way, "I've lived all my life in a cabin, and I guess cabin passage will be good enough for a rough chap like me."

SNATCHED FROM THE GRAVE.—Mrs. Helen Pharvis, No. 331, Dayton St., Chicago, Ill., is now in her sixty-eighth year and states that she has suffered with Consumption for about ten years, was treated by nine physicians, all of them pronouncing her case hopeless. She had given up all hopes of ever recovering. Seven bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption completely cured her. Doubting ones, please drop her a postal and satisfy yourselves. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store. Large size, $1.

A Dutchman who was visiting his native fellows escape from drowning when thirteen of his companions were lost by the upsetting of a boat, and he alone was saved. "And how did you escape their fate?" asked one of his hearers. "I did not go in to pote," was the Dutchman's placid answer.

NEVER GIVE UP.—If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50 cents a bottle by Taylor & Macdonald.

A wealthy man displaying one day his jewels to a philosopher, the latter said: "Thank you, sir, for being willing to share such magnificent jewels with me." "Share them with you, sir?" exclaimed the man. "What do you mean?" "Why you allow me to look at them, and what more can you do with them yourself?" replied the philosopher.

A PROLIFIC SOURCE OF DISEASE.—A trifling indiscretion in diet may lay the foundation of confirmed dyspepsia, and there is no fact in medical science more positively ascertained or more authoritatively asserted than that dyspepsia is the parent of a host of bodily ills, not the least of which is contamination of the blood and the maladies of which that is the direct consequence. Their original cause is, however, thoroughly eradicated from the system by NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, a medicine which only requires regularity and persistence in its use to cure dyspepsia and the many ills that arise from it. No deleterious mineral ingredient is contained in it, and though its action is thorough in cases of costiveness, it never produces griping pains in the abdominal region, or weakens the bowels like a violent purgative. It invigorates the system through the medium of the increasing digestive and assimilative activity which it promotes, and is also a most efficient remedy for kidney complaints, scrofulous and all diseases of the blood, female weaknesses, &c., &c. Price, $1.00. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

A MANUFACTURER'S MIND.

CONFIRMATION OF JOB-HANDLED PROTECTION.

Mr. E. W. Rathbun, the great lumberman of Deseronto, conceded to be one of the shrewdest business men and financiers in the country, is out strong against the Government, though he is one of the Rebecca manufacturers, whom the Tories claim as endorsing the policy of the taxation party. He has, we presume, about as much regard for the workingman as the average manufacturer, and what does he say: "The Government have built a high wall around the country, and placed a duty on the average of 20½ per cent., to establish a few industries. Were the laboring men of the country willing to put their hands into their pockets and pay for this? The mechanics and laborers certainly did contribute the greatest amount of the taxes. Every man must admit that in order to raise this revenue the cost of living has been greatly increased. Some say that the mechanics get high wages. So they do. But at the end of the week do you have one single cent more in your pocket? No, therefore, you will not renew the promise you gave at the polls in 1878." So say the workingmen of Deseronto and Kingston, and every place where they are free to use their franchise, for although employers cannot scrutinize the ballots, they can "hive" their employees and prevent their voting.

J. FULTON, M.D., Prof. Trinity Medical College, Toronto, says: Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya is a combination of great reliability and efficacy. It has been very highly recommended by the medical profession, both at home and abroad, wherever it has been tried. We have used it in many cases of indigestion, nervous prostration, chlorosis and anæmia, and we have no hesitation in giving it our unqualified recommendation. We have, therefore, great pleasure in calling the attention of the profession to a preparation so worthy of confidence, and so reliable in the treatment of convalescing patients, and all diseases attended with debility of the nervous and muscular system.

A GREAT CAUSE OF HUMAN MISERY

is the Loss of

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

Local News Record.

HON. EDWARD BLAKE in the Drill Shed on Friday afternoon.

ANOTHER CAR-LOAD of machinery for Brodie's Woollen Mills arrived at the Midland station on Monday.

ACCIDENT.—Samuel Clegg broke one of the small bones of one of his legs while playing lacrosse on the Ashburnham grounds.

STOCK IMPROVEMENT.—As will be seen by advertisement, Mr. John Ludgate, of Ashburnham, has purchased a thoroughbred Jersey Bull. This is a breed of animals, that for many reasons, should be more plentiful in this county.

PEDESTRIANISM.—Mr. Thos. McNaughton, whose success in the past has resulted satisfactorily, both for himself and the pleasure of the sporting public, has on hand another pedestrian entertainment, which will take place in the Skating Rink, on Thursday evening, June 22d. Some excellent performance in competition is promised.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending June 3rd, 1882, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $4,903.92; freight, $15,341.72; total, $20,335.64, as compared with $16,419.81 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $3,915.83; and the aggregate traffic to date is $374,160.79, being an increase of $106,675.97 over 1881.

FALSE ECONOMY.—Laying the sleepers of the new sidewalk on George street directly in the mud seems a waste of money. The timbers rot quickly, the walk becomes shaky and warped and the cost for repairs is greater than the cost of putting good substantial stone foundations under the timbers to begin with, especially when stones are so plentiful as to be in some parts of the town an encumbrance.

JOURNALISTIC CHANGE.—The Victoria Warder, Lindsay, has passed out of the hands of Mr. Edwin Flood and Messrs. Newton Bros. have become its proprietors. We are given to understand that they are practical and experienced young men, and we trust that their management will result in a large measure of success. Politically the paper will be retained as a servitor of the Tory party and will in that respect run in the same old rut. The retirement of Mr. Flood evoked a general expression of regret in Lindsay.

GRAND UNION PIC-NIC.—Carswell Lodge, No. 411, Peterborough, and Union Lodge, No. 51, 4th Line Smith, I.O.G.T. will hold a grand Union Pic-Nic, at Idyl-Wild on Thursday, June the 22nd, the steamer Golden-Eye with Palace Scow, has been chartered for the occasion, and will leave Sherbrooke Street Wharf at 7 o'clock sharp. Tea will be furnished by the committe, Gentleman's Ticket, 50c.; Lady's Ticket, 40c.; Children under 12 years, 25c. Come One! Come All!

GOLDEN WEDDING.—A clear conscience, such as belongs to a good Reformer, is an important factor in prolonging life to a good and honored old age, of which Mr. Abram Dormer, of Ashburnham, is an example. Last Saturday he celebrated his golden wedding; the first having been celebranted in Ireland fifty years ago—1832. He came to Canada in 1848, since which time he has been a resident of the county. He has always been a consistent and straight-forward Reformer, and we wish him and his wife many happy returns of their wedding day.

MASONIC EXCURSION.—The Masonic lodges of Peterborough, Lakefield, etc., have arranged for an excursion by train to Belleville, and by steamer to Massassaga Point, in Bay of Quinte, Monday, June 26th. A special train will leave Lakefield at 6:45, and Peterborough at 7:30 a.m., calling at intermediatestations, and returning will leave Belleville at 6 p.m. Tickets for the round trip (including the fare on steamer) from Lakefield and Peterborough, $1.50, and from all points east of Peterborough, $1. Tickets to be had of any member of the committee, or from the secretaries of the respective lodges.

MR. BLAKE'S VISIT.—Mr. Arthur Rutherford has efficiently superintended the comfortable seating of the whole of the drill shed for the Hon. Mr. Blake's meeting on Friday afternoon next. No small boys will be allowed to form part of the attendance, and the best of arrangements will be maintained for securing the comfort of those attending. Mr. Blake will arrive by special train at 12 o'clock noon, and his friends will form a procession, headed by the band, and will proceed to the Caissie House. Mr. Blake will begin speaking at 2 o'clock. None need hesitate attending, for every part of the drill shed will be comfortably seated.

A GRAND CHANCE to secure bargains in Household furniture, which is comparatively new and in the best of repair will be afforded those requiring anything in this line on Thursday of next week, 22nd instant, when the whole of the furniture belonging to Mr. Chas. Burnham, will be disposed of by auction at his late residence George street, near the corner of Dublin. The furniture has only been in use a few months and has been well kept, and must be sold at whatever it will bring as Mr. Burnham has removed from Peterborough. For description of furniture and general particulars see posters to be issued in a few days.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—On Friday last deeply interesting ordination services were held in the church, Aylmer street. The occasion was the ordination of Mr. W. Walker, late of McMaster Hall, Toronto. The following Ministers were present:—Rev. Dr. Castle, Principal of McMaster Hall; Rev. Messrs. W. Walker, Galt; McDiarmid, Port Hope; Turnball, Belleville; Anderson, Lindsay, Ratcliffe, Smith; and lay delegates from several churches. Rev. Dr. Castle was chosen Moderator. After the examination of the candidate which was eminently satisfactory, Rev. Mr. Anderson offered the ordination prayer. Rev. Mr. McDiarmid followed with the ordination sermon. Rev. Mr. Turnball extended the right hand of fellowship to the candidate, Rev. W. Walker, of Galt, delivered the address to the candidate, and Rev. Dr. Castle addressed the people. The services throughout were exceedingly interesting, instructive and impressive. Rev. Mr. Walker, the new pastor of the Baptist Church in Peterborough, is a young man of deep and fervent piety, full of Christian zeal, of scholarly attainments and gives promise of proving a very acceptable and useful minister, and we hope the interests of the Baptist Church here will abundantly prosper under his ministrations.

WOOD PULP MILLS.—A local manufacturing industry entirely new to Peterborough is now in course of establishment. It is the manufacture of wood pulp so extensively used in the production of papers of nearly all kinds. On Monday morning last Messrs. W. Usborne & Co., of Belleville, broke ground for the erection of a building 40 x 80, two stories in height, as premises for the Peterborough Wood Pulp Mills. The building will be situated on the Ashburnham side of Dixon's Dam, and will be pushed forward to completion as rapidly as possible. All the necessary timber and lumber have been ordered as well as the machinery, including shafting and two (250-horse-power) tarbine water wheels from an Oshawa firm. Wood pulp is largely used in the manufacture of all kinds of paper, the difference being in the percentage used. The average daily out put will be about 13 tons of wood pulp ready for shipment. About 22 men will be employed, and the factory will be kept running day and night. The weekly outlay in town for wages, material, etc., will be in the neighborhood of $60 per day or $300 per week. It is intended next year if the first year's experience with the pulp mills proper is satisfactory to extend the business to the manufacture of paper. It is likely that the business will be remunerative, as there is a large and constant demand for wood pulp and besides the one under consideration there are only 2 more mills in Ontario. We give Messrs. Usborne & Co. our best wishes for success, and Mr. Usborne who is superintending the construction and equipment of the buildings, has a thoroughly practical knowledge of all the details of the business, that can scarcely fail to bring it about.

PERSONAL.

Mr. H. Calcutt is home from Winnipeg.

Mr. R. B. Rogers has returned home from a trip to the Prairie Province.

REV. DR. WILD will probably be soon brought to Peterborough by the Young Men's Christian Association.

Rev. Mr. Joliffe was appointed chairman of the committee on the spiritual state of the Church at the Conference held the past week at Port Hope.

Messrs. D. J. Lynch and W. A. Stratton, two Peterborough boys, have passed the law examinations of Toronto University for the second and third years respectively, with creditable standings.

Mr. J. G. Howorth, formerly with the firm of J. C. Wilson & C., manufacturers of paper bags, etc., was in town on Monday, taking orders for the goods of the firm of Brayley, Howorth & Co., in the same line, of which he is a member.

At the Peterborough District meeting of the Methodist Church, lately held at Norwood, Mr. W. A. Morrow was elected a representative of the district to the General Conference, to be held in Hamilton in September next.

Rev. Mr. Mason, formerly of Peterborough, preached in the Bible Christian Church on Sunday morning, in the absence of Rev. Mr. Joliffe, who was absent in Port Hope, attending the meeting of the Conference.

During the past few days Rev. Mr. Butcher, of the Bible Christian Church, who has, owing to ill health, been superannuated, paid a visit to old friends in town. We are pleased to hear it hinted that the reverend gentlemen is likely to take up his residence amongst us.

Mr. Wm. Ross, general agent of the Confederation Life Association, has taken up his residence in Peterborough, removing from Barrie. To show the high estimation in which he was held, the members of Barrie Lodge of Oddfellows presented Mr. Ross, on the eve of his departure, with a Past Grand Master's jewel, and a complimentary address, recounting the recipient's excellent personal qualities and the services he had rendered to the craft. We welcome Mr. Ross as a citizen of Peterborough, and hope his residence here may result to him in both pleasure and profit.

Vote for Lundy & Roxburgh, and the Trent Valley Canal.

New Patent Force Pumps!

AHEAD OF ALL COMPETITION.

In again presenting the claims of my justly Celebrated Pumps to the attention of my numerous friends in the Town and County of Peterborough, I beg to return my sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage accorded to me during the fourteen years that I have conducted the Pump business in their midst. After such a long experience I feel convinced that I know what constitutes a Good Pump, and as long as I remain in the business, I am determined to furnish an article unsurpassed by any in the Dominion.

During my long residence in Peterborough, my business has continued to grow, and I have been able to extend it to other localities. I wish to call special attention to my NEW PATENT MODEL FORCE PUMP, of which the above cut is a representation. This Pump, I can confidently claim is the best Combined, Lift and Force Pump made. It is adapted to all the uses to which an ordinary Lift Pump may be applied, and is frequently of valuable value in case of Fire, and is just what is wanted for washing Buggies and Windows, Watering Gardens, Lawns, &c., &c., &c. The improvements in this Pump are the results of over twenty year's experience.

OTTAWA.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

My letter, written to-day, (Monday), may perhaps be a little unseasonable for your next issue, but here goes.

Before this reaches you the political battle which is being so hotly fought all over this Dominion, but especially in the Province of Ontario, will be over, and it will only remain to bury the dead and shout with the living. As to-morrow will tell the tale, (when the ballot boxes are opened) it is useless to say much about the prospects. Suffice it to say that the cause of Reform and equal rights has been well championed in eastern Ontario, and a favourable result may be looked for. Speculation as to the general result is very rife here. It is conceded that Prince Edward's Island will send at least four Opposition members out of the six she sends to the House of Commons. In Quebec the Government will get a large majority, but the real battle will be in Ontario. If the calculation of the Reform leaders is at all to be depended upon, and Mr. Blake has as large a majority at his back from Ontario as has been spoken of, Government by the present men

WILL BE IMPOSSIBLE,

save by the forbearance of the Reform leader. Should the Reform party have a clear majority it will, of course, be their duty to accept the responsibility of Government But I am one of these humble members of the Reform party who think that the time is not yet come for the Reform party to take into its hands the Government of this Dominion. Everything would appear to indicate that we are on the

which is coming as the result, in part, of the policy of our present rulers. In the interest alike of the country and the Reform party it will be better that the present Government should hold the reins of power for a time longer until the evil effect of their policy shall have fully developed itself. This will not take long. The people of this country will then be able to fully and dishonesty of the cry of 1878. They deserve some punishment for turning their backs on honest men and they are in a fair way to get it. The present men from the hour they got power until now, have been sowing the seed that will produce the harvest of commercial depression and grinding times for the workingmen, that is rapidly ripening. Let those that sowed the seed reap the harvest, say I. If after the elections a change of Government was to take place, and the cloud that is but now just appearing, but which will certainly grow and burst, should burst on a Reform Government, of the Tory leaders at seeing the storm of their brewing fall upon the Reform party, and the dishonest howl they would raise as to the hard times being the result of a change of Government. They would say had we remained in power things would have been different. The Reform party do not want power just now. In all probability the party will get what is best for the country and the party itself, strong in numbers and intellectual capacity, strong enough to prevent any further bad legislation, and while it holds the Government in wholesome check, yet takes not the responsibilities of the Government upon itself.

FANCY THE DEVILISH GLEE

The Conservative party to-day is dependent upon the life of one man, an old man, who cannot, in the nature of things, long hold it together. It lacks high principles. What cohesion there is about it is founded on the lowest and basest attributes of human nature. Individual and class interest, without any regard to the effect on the general well being, is what is aimed at. Patriotism and a care for the future of the country is and derided. The time of its dissolution is now at hand, but to make that dissolution complete, it should be allowed to reign yet for a time that the seed sown may ripen fully.

Sagacious men already see the rocks on which the ship is drifting, and as only hard and rough experience will teach some people, unfortunately a too numerous class, it were, just as well, to let her get well into the breakers before we change the captain.

Aside from politics

THE CAPITAL IS VERY DULL.

There is great activity in the lumber districts, but general business is not at all satisfactory, especially is this the case in the dry goods trade; the winter was not wintry enough and the spring has been too much like winter, so that winter and spring stocks are largely left on hand. Yet, in the face of this, our imports are rapidly on the increase, while our exports are about the same, and our manufacturing capacity is being largely increased, in cotton fabrics especially. There are people in this country so dull and stupid that they cannot see that when we reach the point where we produce more than we want and we have a surplus (and we are rapidly reaching that point in some branches) to send out of the country, we must accept the outside price. This we cannot do, as we are

MANUFACTURING UNDER EXPENSIVE CONDITIONS.

What then will be the result? Either combinations to keep wages at a starvation point, and to shut up some mills or ruin and disaster to the trade by a cut-throat competition.

The first condition, in order that we might become a manufacturing people, has been lost sight of; that is—that we make our country a cheap one to live in. Instead of that we are making it a dear one, and all in order that a very small class may reap a large return from their investments, and be able to come down handsomely at election times to keep the men in power who pamper and legislate for them A day or two ago an intelligent mechanic stopped me to talk about what was passing around us. My friend said to me: "Well, there are some curious people in this country. I have just been talking to a man from the County of Russell about the candidates in that county; he admitted to me that there was no comparison between the two men; one being superior to the other in every way. One was a dreamer who had never done any good for himself or the community; the other, a man of high intelligence in business and very successful." But, said the man,

"HE IS NOT OF THE RIGHT PARTY."

This boiled down, simply means that this man had listened to the candidates, and had what reason there was in him convinced, that afterwards he had shown signs of wavering, and was whipped into line by being taunted with deserting his party. Let the electors mark this fact, which is a fact here, and in nearly every county it will be found to be the same, that every ardent wire-pulling-Tory has been

ACTUATED BY SOME SELFISH INTEREST.

Why, bear their platform orators and canvassers. All have axes to grind, and it is pretty well understood what kind of an axe it is, and the Tory nominee, if he gets in is expected and, no doubt, has promised to turn the grindstone.

THE CHEESE FACTORY.—The Myrtle cheese factory commenced operations on Monday the 22nd of May, with very favourable prospects, although the full supply of milk has not yet been obtained. Mr. Crebbins has already made a quantity of fine cheese, from 60 to 70 pounds weight. The directors have appointed the officers required at present, so that we will soon be able to take our place at the cheese market in Peterborough, when we expect, through the management of Mr. Crebbins, we will be second to none. The progress of our enterprise will be watched with interest, not only by those who have already joined, but by those who yet intend doing so, should all go well during the year.

THE CROPS.—Crops are making little progress owing to the quantity of rain falling, the soil not yet attaining much warmth for the first week of June. The rain storm of last Saturday has made the roads bad in some localities, a very uncommon thing for this time of year. (Crowded out last week.)

WEATHER NOTES.—The month of May, on the whole, has been a wet, cold, backward month. Rain fell on 13 days, and according to Hick's measuring, to the depth of 3½ inches. Snow fell on the evening of the 1st and morning of the 2nd. There was frost on 7 mornings, with thermometer at the freezing point or below it, the lowest was on the morning of the 3rd, namely, 27°, and the highest on the evening of the 20th, namely, 64°. The hottest day was on the 21st, the mercury standing at 78° at 1 o'clock, the average at sun rise and sun set giving 44° 3' above zero. Crops have made little progress owing to the continued cold. Fall wheat is doing pretty well; but hay will be a short crop; fruit of all kinds has a fine promising appearance, the trees being covered with blossom. We might have a short crop with plenty of blossom, but one thing is certain—we can't have a heavy crop with light blossoms. During the last thirty years I have remarked that as a general rule with a late cold spring and our natural forest trees not being in full leaf till between the 24th of May and 1st of June, we will have a good crop of fruit, the reason, I believe, is the cold keeping the blossom back till the frost is gone, which would be otherwise in an early spring.

HARVEY.

The Court of Revision for Harvey was held at the Town Hall, on Monday, the 29th May, 1882. Wm. Bick's assessment was reduced $75. Francis Freeman's was allowed to stand as assessed. Part of lot 16, con. 10, was changed from M. Boyd's assessment to T. W. Robinson & Co's. assessment. W. ½ of lot 24, con. 16, was changed from Reuben Clarke's to Wm. Ventress' assessment, and Reuben Clark entered for part of lot 23, con. 16. Several errors and omissions in copying the roll were corrected, and the assessment roll as revised finally passed, when the members of the Court resumed in Council. Patrick Murphy's taxes for 1881 were erased from the Collector's roll. The collector returned his roll to the Treasurer. Thomas Nichols, pathmaster on beat No. 6, was authorised to procure a road scraper from Peter Hamilton. James Crowley was allowed to commute 25 days of Statute Labor in building a bridge between two of his islands, under the inspection of the pathmaster. Orders drawn on the Treasurer in favor of James Weir, salary as assessor and postage, $40.60; Wm. Ventress, salary as collector and postage, $51.00; Jas. Hicks and W. P. Chase, each $2 as auditors; Peter N. Murdoch, for work done on side line, between lots 24 and 25, concession 19, $6.00. Wm. J. Northey was appointed road commissioner to expend $300 on the roads in South Harvey, and John Tate was appointed road commissioner to expend $250 on the roads in North Harvey. The Council adjourned to meet at Lark Hall, on the 10th of July next.—COM.—(Crowded out last week.)

BELLEVILLE.

STILL DOING GOOD.—We learn from the Intelligencer that "on Friday evening a magnificent baptismal font was placed in position in Christ Church, being the gift of Mrs. J. W. Dunnet. The font is of white marble, elegantly designed. The rim of the basin bears the following inscription:—'Suffer little children to come unto me.' It will be used the first time on Sunday afternoon, at 2.30." This lady was formerly a resident of Peterborough, and it is pleasant to know that change of place has made no change in her disposition to assist, by substantial means, the promotion of the prosperity of the church.

About Railroad Men.

In this practical and busy age, whatever projects are set on foot for the temporal and spiritual welfare of our fellow-creatures, demands the attention and sympathy of the press. Newspapers are such a power in the land, and matters within their province are so wide and far-reaching that whatever they advocate consistently with truth and right exerts a very great and wide spread influence upon the community for good. Every week they reach the ears of hundreds upon whom the pulpit exerts no power, and so it is essential that the press should ever be found on the side of truth and righteousness, and should raise its voice in favor of what is noble and good. Woe be to the country whose newspaper men are found ready to wield the tremendous power they possess in aid of injustice, oppression or wrong. Fully alive, then, to the influence of the press, we deem it right to draw the attention of the citizens of Peterborough to a class of men in our midst, whose peculiar occupation and habits preclude them from many special privileges, particularly as regards the the Lord's day, which are open to the majority of our readers. Since Peterborough became the headquarters of the Midland Railway system it is well known that many of its ordinary employees reside here. Some of them have to work more or less on the Sunday. Many of them are young men without homes of their own, subject to the peculiar temptations and evil influences that beset the dwellers in towns. Largely owing to their occupations, neglect of church-going is, with the most of them, a fixed habit, so that they are almost entirely beyond the reach of the ordinary means of grace. They are a class of men strongly attached to each other, and though difficult to reach, once enlisted in any good cause, this very peculiarity afterwards becomes a source of strength. Certainly some efforts should be made to reach them here and influence them for good. The lives of many of them are of such a nature—so precarious, so subject to accident and sudden death, that endeavours to bring them under the power of Divine truth, are likely to prove most effectual. It would be too much to expect that they are all sober, earnest, Christian men, though we believe that as a class, they are neither better nor worse than their fellows. But what is being done to reach them? Simply nothing. The other day it was stated at St. Thomas that no railroad branches of the Young Men's Christian Association exist either at Stratford, Hamilton, Montreal, Port Hope, Brantford or Cobourg. These are all railway centres, and many of them have no larger number of railway officials than are to be found in Peterborough. In the United States and at a few places in Canada, special efforts are made to reach railroad men, and meetings are held which are largely attended and highly appreciated. This kind of evangelistic work was first inaugurated at Cleveland, Ohio, in the year 1870, and now it has spread to nearly every State in the Union. Still, not half enough is done as yet. It is estimated that there are no less than five hundred thousand young men employed in operating the railways of Canada and the United States. If we would reach them we must go to them at their homes, at the depots, or wherever they congregate in sufficiently large numbers. Brief, pithy and pointed cottage addresses, or short lectures in a room set apart for the purpose, and accompanied with hearty singing, would, we are sure, attract these men, and be highly appreciated. Of course it would require to be done in the right locality and in the right way. Then a reading room might be fitted up for their own use. This, we are sure, the men would willingly support, while additional help could be obtained from the charitably disposed amongst our citizens. The services might be taken by the various resident clergymen, and could be held, perhaps, in the station rooms for the present. We are confident if the President were appealed on this subject, this matter would receive his hearty sympathy and support. We advise the men to make an effort among themselves in some such direction as we have pointed out. The importance of reaching and influencing this particular class cannot be over estimated. It can only be done on their own ground, were there will be no reserved, seats or cushioned pews, or fashionable audiences, and where the men can come in their working clothes if they wish. There should be no restraint, no compulsion, and no cast-iron forms. Let the men be free to come and go as they choose, and above all let the services be short, lively and attractive; the addresses pointed and practical; the music earnest and plentiful, and all lasting not more than an hour. We will gladly open our columns to correspondence on this subject, and we heartily commend its consideration to our readers.

Notes of the Day.

The St. Gothard Tunnel, which has been under construction for a period of no less than ten years, has been completed at last. Its formal consecration and opening took place a few weeks ago, and strange to say, Sunday was chosen for this purpose. Starting from the Italian side, a distinguished party of four hundred, including the members of the Italian Ministry, Senators, Deputies, and noted men in every department of literature, science and the fine arts, entered the tunnel, and in twenty minutes had reached the other side. It appears the discomfort arising from noxious odours is not so bad as in many shorter tunnels.

The election of Dr. Sullivan to the vacant bishopric of Algoma has given entire satisfaction, and is likely to advance missionary efforts in the Canadian Church very considerably. The new Bishop will be consecrated in Montreal on the 29th of this month—St. Peter's day. A suggestion has been made that some mark of appreciation in view of Dr. Sullivan's self-sacrifice in undertaking this arduous, post would only be right and proper. A small steam yacht, which would enable him to visit the outlying districts of his immense diocese has been spoken of, and meets with much approval. Certainly it would be a very appropriate present, and a useful one, and it cannot be denied that Dr. Sullivan's ready acceptance deserves some such token of esteem. Who will take the matter up?

The Presbyterian Church is making strenuous efforts to extend their denomination in the Northwest. The Superintendent of Missions, Mr. Robertson, is prosecuting a vigorous canvass in aid of church extension throughout Ontario, and is meeting with marked success in procuring subscriptions. Already seventeen thousand dollars have been secured by him in a few centres of Presbyterian life in the Dominion, distributed as follows: Toronto, $4,400; Hamilton, $3,450; Montreal, $3,700; Ottawa, $1,760; London, $500; Belleville, $400; Cobourg, $305; Seaforth, $450; Kingston, $635; Thamesville, $210; Renfrew, $340; and Peterborough, $275. The subscribers in our own town are Mr. G. M. Roger, $150; Rev. E. F. Torrance, $100; and Col. Haultain, $25. Great credit is due these men for their activity and zeal in the furtherance of Mission work in the Nor'-west. It will not be their fault if the settlers there have not access to the privileges of their more favoured brethren, and are not aided in the spiritual life. We should not be surprised should this liberal outlay of men and funds result in large accessions to the Presbyterian church there in the next few years. The other denominations will have to look to their laurels if they do not want to be left behind. Men once sought out on the prairies by any Protestant minister, and attended to in time of poverty or distress, or when fighting life's battle, will not forsake that church or that minister in the day of affluence and prosperity.

The Geneva Award, paid by Great Britain in satisfaction of the many absurd claims of the U. S. Government for compensation for the depredations committed by Confederate cruisers fitted out in England, has not yet been fully expended. Grave suspicions are entertained that the methods by which the money was obtained will not bear an investigation, or stand too close a scrutiny. This much is even admitted by the United States organs. It can hardly be expected that there is not something rotten in the transaction, when we are told that no less than ten millions still remains unappropriated! Year by year Congress has entertained propositions to parcel out the unexpended balance among men whose claims were utterly repudiated by the arbitrators. Owners of vessels captured or destroyed by their own nation's ships, and the loss of which has long since been reimbursed to them by insurance companies are again pleading for a share of this unexpended balance. They were told distinctly by a regular board of arbitrators that their claims could not be entertained. Still a bill has now passed the Congress, stating that they shall be paid! This is an outrage on good faith, a fraudulent and extremely dishonest act. This money belongs to England. It was obtained under false pretences. It cannot lawfully be paid to anyone under conditions such as we have referred to, and the only proper thing under the circumstances is to restore it to Great Britain.

Grain speculation, as carried on especially in the United States, if persisted in, is likely to bring in its train both ruin and disaster. The national prosperity depends upon America being able to retain control of the European markets for the disposal of her surplus agricultural products. Should foreign customers be induced to go elsewhere to supply their wants, the consequences to this country would be terribly disastrous. Whatever tends to this end should be stamped down as a crime, and the powerful arm of the law should, if possible, be evoked in aiding in this direction. It appears that already grain speculation in the United States has turned the attention of European purchasers from American markets to Russia and Asia. A Calcutta letter, published in the London Times, clearly shows that the wheat corners in this country, which were rotten up to enhance prices in England, were baffled by the immense grain resources of India. It appears that India exported to England last year, 22,400,000 bushels in excess of any previous period, and it is claimed that the surplus available for shipping will probably be one hundred million bushels in the course of a very few years. In this country it will take us all our time to retain possession of the European market, and to compete with Russia and Asia, especially when the cost of labor here is so much enhanced. But speculators and gamblers will soon contrive to make it impossible if they persist in their foolish and wicked practices.

The opium traffic with China, for which Great Britain is responsible, is still attracting considerable attention. Owing to this nefarious trade supplying a large portion of the revenue of India, the difficulties connected with its consideration are very great. Recently a most interesting, lucid and terse speech was made on the subject by the Bishop of Gloucester, in the Convocation of Canterbury, and the following resolution was afterwards adopted:—"That the effect of the opium trade as now carried on between India and China, is not consistent with Christian and International morality, and that it is the duty of this country to put an end to the opium trade, as now conducted, and to suppport the Chinese in their efforts to suppress the traffic." It appears that the output of opium for the whole of India is now 92,000 chests annually. In the year 1765 not more than 200 chests were sold by the Portugese in the Chinese market. Then it was employed simply for medicinal purposes. The value of the annual export at present is about thirteen millions of pounds sterling; the expenses of its cultivation (under the care of the Government of India,) is not more than five millions, leaving a net profit of eight millions sterling a year! Almost the whole of the export goes to China, a little under 2,000 chests being sent to British Burmah, and the Malay peninsula. The destruction of 23,000 chests by a Chinese Minister, led the war of 1840, and from that time all appeals to England to stop the traffic, legalized in 1858, have proved utterly futile. But recently the Chinese Ambassador said his Government viewed the consumption of opium by its subjects as one of the most greivous evils which can befall a nation. Most certainly the horrible traffic should be suppressed, tending, as it does, to the misery, degradation and demoralization of both body and soul. We are glad to see a healthy public opinion spreading in England on this subject.

The murder of his wife by W. Rowland, an Oxford Township farmer, appears to have been the demented act of a man who for years past has been brooding over the belief that his wife was trying to poison him. He has been commited for trial.

The body of a man with his head cut off was found at a point about nine miles up the Ottawa River on the 15th. It is supposed that deceased was one of a party who, when crossing from the head of Deschenes Lake to Aylmer in a canoe last fall, met with a watery grave. A man named Halpenny found the body while engaged in fishing. After the rumour of the body being found had spread abroad, three gentlemen came from the other side of the water and identified deceased by a revolver which was found in one of his pockets. His remains were taken away and buried.

Kidney Disease.

Pain, Irritation, Retention, Incontinence, Deposits, Gravel, &c., cured by "Buchupaiba." $1.

A NOTED HOT SUFFERER WOMAN.

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as many of her correspondents love to call her. She is anxiously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

New Patent Force Pumps!

AHEAD OF ALL COMPETITION.

In again presenting the claims of my justly Celebrated Pumps to the attention of my numerous friends in the Town and County of Peterborough, I beg to return my sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage accorded to me during the fourteen years that I have conducted the Pump business in their midst. After such a long experience I feel convinced that I know what constitutes a Good Pump, and as long as I remain in the business, I am determined to furnish an article unsurpassed by any in the Dominion.

During my long residence in Peterborough, my business has continued to grow, and I have been able to extend it to other localities. I wish to call special attention to my NEW PATENT MODEL FORCE PUMP, of which the above cut is a representation. This Pump, I can confidently claim is the best Combined, Lift and Force Pump made. It is adapted to all the uses to which an ordinary Lift Pump may be applied, and is frequently of invaluable value in case of Fire, and is just what is wanted for washing Buggies and Windows, Watering Gardens, Lawns, &c., &c., &c. The improvements in this Pump are the results of over twenty year's experience.

A REFORM GALA DAY.

Reform Reception of Mr. Blake.

A Grand Procession—An Immense Audience—A Magnificent Speech.

The Reform rally to greet Hon. Edward Blake on his arrival at Peterborough, on Friday last, was a magnificent tribute to the first statesman of Canada. At 12 o'clock, noon, a great crowd assembled at the Midland Railway station, and when the Midland Official car rolled silently into the station, cheer after cheer welcomed Mr. Blake, who came to the door of the carriage. He alighted amidst enthusiastic plaudits and proceeded at once to the carriage in waiting for him, to which were attached four white horses with the head pieces of the harness decked with small Union Jacks. In this carriage with him were Messrs. Roxburgh and Landy, the candidates for East and West Peterborough, and Mr. John Walton. Several other carriages containing the leading Reformers of the town, followed. The procession formed, and preceded by the Band, filed up Charlotte street, Aylmer, Simcoe and Water as far as London street. Never was there such an immense procession in the town; there being between 150 and 200 equipages in the procession. The leading carriages, after piloting the procession, halted at the Chimo House, when on Mr. Blake alighting, he was again greeted with deafening cheers.

Among those whom we noted in the procession we may mention the following: From the Township of Smith.—M. Sandercon, Reeve; T. E. Fitzgerald, Deputy-Reeve; H. Davidson, C. Boyce, John Garbutt, Jas. Davidson, Alex. Edmison, Andrew Young, F. E. Bell, G. A. Elliott, W. Armstrong, S. Mann, W. Graham, W. Simpson, Jno. Fitzgerald, R. Bradon, J. Elliots, J. B. Fowler, D. McIlmoyle, S. McKibbon. Township of Dowro.—J. Sullivan, W. Moher, E. Foley, G. J. Galvin, James Jury, Isaac Garbutt, jr., John Leahy, jr., John Walsh, Thos. Whaley, M. Scully. Village of Lakefield.—John Hull, R. Graham, J. H. McWilliams, John Isbister, Claren W. Harper, W. H. Casement, K. Urquhart, Dr. Caldwell, W. Graham, R. Chapin. Village of Norwood.—Thomas Fraser, John Clarke, James Raddon, John Harper, Dr. Mason, R. Waters. Municipality of Asphodel.—Thomas Rorke, Reeve; James Campbell, John Shearer, W. Gilchrist, L. Murphy, James Moore, H. Drain, H. Thistlenant, Job Humphries, John Burton, John Pettigrew, J. Holbrook, A. McKee. Municipality of Dummer.—A. R. Kidd, Reeve; Thos. Choate, Charles Nicholl, Thos. Campbell, W. Darling, J. J. Crowe, F. Payne, R. Crowe, A. F. Choate. Municipality of Otonabee.—J. Lang, Reeve; George Stewart, Deputy-Reeve; W. Millar, D. McFarlane, H. Nelson, R. Gowen, J. Drummond, W. Drummond, J. Bennett, D. Kennedy, R. Millar, Jas. Millar, W. Laing, W. Driel, R. Ingram, J. Cooney, W. Nelson, W. Learmouth, J. Matchett, John Claghorn, H. Nelson. South Monaghan.—W. Buckham, John Lightfoot, John Porter, D. Wood, Dr. Gray, John Greer, W. Morrison, D. Morrison, Jas. Lattimer, W. Riddell, J. McAllister, Wm. Kerr. Ashburnham.—Peter Glover, John Sargent, S. Smythe, J. Peters, Jas. McEwan. Municipality of Ennismore.—P. Crough, P. Killan, John Scollard, J. J. Sullivan, John Telford. Municipality of North Monaghan.—W. Robson, C. Leary, Jos. Tully, Jno. Fowler, Jno. Dobbin, W. Dobbin, R. Goodfellow, George Locke, George Hocey, A. Davidson, John Tully.

After Hon. Mr. Blake and several other gentlemen had done credit to the luncheon that did the highest credit to mine host Choate, the great orator proceeded to the Drill Shed, where an immense throng eagerly waited to listen to his unrivalled eloquence. The platform, which held beside the speaker, many prominent members of the Reform party, was gaily and tastefully decorated with flowers, and the whole arrangement of seating and preparing the Drill Shed for the occasion reflected the greatest credit on the committee entrusted with the work.

Mr. Edwards occupied the chair, and introduced

Mr. John Bertram, ex-M. P., who in a neat and effective speech of half an hour, opened the ball and paved the way for Mr. Blake.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, Secretary of the West Peterborough Reform Association, came forward and read, amidst cordial applause, the following

ADDRESS:

To the Hon. Edward Blake:

SIR:—

With feelings of the greatest satisfaction, the Reformers of the county of Peterborough welcome you as the leader of the Liberal party of Canada, in this your third political visit to this part of the province of Ontario. The occasion is one of the deepest interest and we feel confident that your advent amongst us, at this important crisis, will give a decided impetus to the cause of good Government, which you have come to advocate.

Every step in your brilliant career, since you entered public life, in 1867, has been watched with special interest by the Liberals of your own Province, and by none with greater admiration than by those of Peterborough. At the very outset you gave most convincing proof of the possession of rare political sagacity and tactical skill, combined with that breadth of view, which always distinguishes the true statesman from the mere parliamentary strategist and time-serving opportunist, and your political addresses, both in and out of Parliament, have been as conspicuous for loftiness of tone and true liberality, as for the intellectual ability and forensic skill, which have placed you in the front rank of political orators. The gravity of the present crisis calls for the highest talent as well as the greatest purity on the part of our public men, and the enthusiasm with which you have everywhere been received during the present campaign, is the best possible evidence that you have succeeded in establishing, to the satisfaction of the people, your title to the high position to which, by the unanimous choice of the Liberal party, you have been raised.

It is hardly necessary to inform you that the platform which you have formulated during your term of leadership, meets with the heartfelt acceptance from the Liberals of Peterborough. The strenuous efforts made by the small but steadfast band who look to you as their leader in the House of Commons, to prevent the consummation of the reckless, if not corrupt, Pacific Railway bargain; your resolutions, looking to the removal of the worst defects of the present very defective customs tariff; your struggle in Parliament to secure the rights of Ontario in the matter of the disputed boundary, and the rights of all the Provinces to legislative independence in purely local matters; your persistent endeavour to secure the adoption of a Northwest land policy which will give "the land to the settler and the price to the people;" your manly exposure and condemnation of every species of corruption and wrong-doing in matters of administration; and your efforts to secure a larger measure of autonomy in the negotiation of commercial treaties with foreign nations, have all struck a responsive chord in the hearts of the people and appealed strongly and successfully to thousands, who, up to the present time have never allied themselves with the Liberal party.

The insult offered to Ontario in the Redistribution-of-seats Bill has done more than anything else to rouse the people of this locality, as of other localities, to a sense of the danger to Confederation which it involves. At the dictation of his supporters in Quebec, the leader of the Government has consented to use his influence for the purpose of depriving us of territory that is lawfully ours, and in order to prevent the retribution due to his treachery to his own Province, he has endeavoured by a base and cowardly political trick to snatch a verdict at the polls. To you is due the credit of having years ago persistently called attention to the defects in our present system of representation in words of warning, that the Redistribution Bill have made prophetic, and to you the country now looks for the adoption of some measure of comprehensive reform which will help to prevent it from falling permanently under the worst of tyrannies—a system under which the minority may tyrannize over the majority, by means of representative institutions and parliamentary forms.

In conclusion, we trust that you may long be spared to serve your country, not in your present position of leader of the Opposition in Parliament, but in the still higher and more responsible position of leader of the Government which we confidently expect to see you called to fill within the next few weeks.

Mr. Blake then advanced, and when the vociferous cheering that arose had subsided, he entered on a magnificent oratorial effort, such as has never before been heard in Peterborough, in which he touched upon all the living public issues of the day. During the two hours in which he held his audience spellbound, the applause was frequent and enthusiastic

In the evening the Liberal leader was present and gave a brief address in Mr. Lundy's interest, which was also favored with a tremendous attendance.

DUMMER.

COURT OF REVISION.—Council met at Warsaw, May 26th, 1882. All the members present, who took the necessary oaths, and organized. On appeals, the following changes were made in the roll: Alexander Rose, real property reduced $100; Alex. E. W. Kidd, real property reduced $200; Wm. H. Elliott, real property reduced $300; David Lewis, real property reduced $200. Hugh Mathews, placed on roll as a farmer's son. C. Bell's name struck off, and J. White's put on as owner of S. W. ½ lot 20, con. 3. John Robb, sr., put on roll for E. ½ 28 and E. ½ 29, con 10. Benjamin Roraback's name struck off for W. ½ lot 15, con. 8, and that of John Willoughby put on as tenant for the same, and T. M. Grover, as owner. Thomas Kempt put on jointly with Kenneth Kempt for W. ½ 1 and W. ½ 2, con. 11. James McMillan put on as farmer's son. John and George McMillan put on as farmer's sons. West Peterborough St., lot 1, Warsaw, changed from Mrs. E. Thompson, owner, to William Wason, tenant. John Finlay put on as owner for N. ½ lot 15, con. 6. Thomas Hamblin, real property reduced $300. 10 acres of E. pt. N. ½ lot 13, con. 7, was taken from the N. R. roll and placed to Nelson Emery. After some minor changes, it was moved by J. White, seconded by George Kirk,—That the Clerk certify to the roll as being the "Revised Assessment Roll for the Township of Dummer for 1882," and that this Court of Revision do now adjourn.—Carried.

COUNCIL MEETING.—On motion, Council went into session, and minutes of last meeting were read and signed. Clerk was instructed to give notice that Council intends to pass a by-law to close a road on part of lot 12, con. 2, at a meeting to be held at Old Town Hall, on 11th August next. On motion a road appropriation of $500 was made in terms of by-law No. 470. Orders granted:—To Jas. Robb, salary as assessor, &c., $38, refund of Statute Labor tax on 29/10, that accrued through lot being divided, $3; to W. Darling, refund for registering by-law, $1.08, Davis' account, 80 cents; to George Payne, sen., for assisting in locating road on lot 17, con. 2, $2.00. By-laws passed: One to make a road appropriation and to appoint commissioners for expending the same. Council adjourned to meet at Old Town Hall, on the 11th of August next.

TORONTO, 28th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

The Result.

The battle is over and it has gone against us. We make this announcement with regret, not so much on account of the defeat as from the fact that the principles for which we honestly contended, have—we believe, only temporarily, failed to triumph. But right must eventually get its own, and the result of the elections tend to increase the zeal of the Reform party, which feels the time will come when a fairer field and a further experience of the blessings of Tory misrule by the country, will show the country which party is its real friend.

That the government has been sustained is, in one sense no matter of surprise. The accident of good times being coincident with the later years of their rule, has invested the N. P. with a meretricious merit, showing that the people have not yet been "fooled to the top of their bent." But it is doubtful if this alone would have saved them from defeat. They instituted a systematic scheme of political bribery, consisting of many, and large government grants to public works and buildings which were as much needed in the first year of their power as on the eve of the elections. They made themselves friends of the mammon of monopoly and the beneficiaries by monopolies granted, have not at all been backward in contributing both material and moral aid and comfort to the government. The manufacturers made rich by the enforced contributions, in the way of taxes of the people met the chieftain in Toronto and "came down handsomely." The Pacific Syndicate with its vast influence, which permeates almost every part of the Dominion, was without doubt a mighty factor, in accomplishing the success of the Conservatives. As far as the local elections are concerned, it is evident that the astute dodge of making a grant to the Trent Valley Canal and the promise to speedily construct the work, had a decisive effect on the result especially in East Peterborough and in certain portions of the West riding. This work is of such vast local importance that credulous electors, being made to believe that the government were sincere in their promise to complete it, would not hesitate to vote for the government that promised so liberally. We sincerely wish that these promises may be performed, but judging from the past record of the party, which is willing to promise everything to secure an election, there is large room for doubt. The result in West Peterborough, shows that the farmers are the first to awaken from the delusive dreams of 1878. In the country where no side issues interfered, the vote in favor of the Reform candidate was largely increased, but in the town where it was to be expected, the Tories had a gain. That this was due to other influences than the deliberate judgment of the electors may not be doubted. From instances that have presented themselves, one cannot escape from the belief that corrupt practices very largely contributed to the majority of the successful candidate. However the fact remains that we are beaten, fairly or unfairly a test will decide. But the Reformers of the Peterboroughs are not discouraged. The justice of the principles—not party cries—they labored for remains and they will fight for them till they must again, in as the past, after many a reverse and dark discouragement, triumph. We are beaten but not subdued.

The result in the province generally has been to reduce the Government majority in the late house of 86 to about sixty. This is an important gain; it will conduce, if anything can, to make the Government a little more careful in their management of public affairs—a majority largely mercenary cannot be depended on entirely. The opposition elected on Tuesday really represent the bone and sinew of the country, and the people may count on their interests being protected, as far as a conscientious vigilance may avail.

Shameless to the Last.

The Review seems given over utterly to its evil courses of recklessly slandering its opponents. In the issue of Saturday it states that Mr. Bertram told a "deliberate falsehood" in reading, in his Friday evening speech in the drill shed, an extract from the Review, which he "falsely stated" was Mr. Carnegie's paper, though he knew it was Mr. Romaine's. But it can easily be seen where the real falsehood lies when it is explained that, though it was Mr. Romaine's paper, Mr. Carnegie was its editor. A lie is a statement made to deceive. Mr. Bertram's statement was not intended to deceive. It was essentially true in making Mr. Carnegie responsible for the extract quoted, whereas the attempt to deceive was in the statement that at the time it was Mr. Romaine's paper, and suppressing the fact that Mr. Carnegie was editor. The editor of the Review must see that his style of writing and reasoning will react against himself. After repeatedly being cornered in misstatements, it follows that, like the boy with the cry of "wolf," even his true assertions will not gain credence. It has all the richness of burlesque to hear the editor of the Review speak of Mr. Bertram as "an unscrupulous debater," accusing him of "dishonesty" "stating wilful falsehoods" comparing him to a "thief" and applying a great deal more language of a similar choice nature. Even if his charges against Mr. B. were true—but they are not—it would only be another instance of the pot indulging in recriminations against the kettle. Mr. Bertram, in making a certain assertion to the effect that at a certain time the Review was Mr. Carnegie's paper was virtually correct, though technically, as regards proprietorship, the paper was Mr. Romaine's. But Mr. Carnegie was editor, and in that sense—the one which Mr. Bertram intended—it was his paper. Then to publicly accuse Mr. B. of uttering a "wilful falsehood" is decidedly unfair, but no more than might have been expected from such a source. The spectacle of the Review man lecturing anybody on the evils of lying is a most charming companion picture to that of Satan reproving sin.

Low Tactics.

That any respectable journal (even in its own esteem), should countenance the dastardly attempt of the Mail to blacken for party purposes the character of the factory girls of the Dominion is something, that for the sake of civilization alone is deeply to be lamented. Yet the Review has lent its aid to this cowardly endeavor. It republishes from the Mail a letter from the operatives of the Auburn Woollen Mills, in protest against the aspersions cast upon them by the Globe. Here a great deal of indignation is wasted. The writers of the letter should know that the Globe never made such an assertion. It merely published as an item of news, the belief of a gentleman expressed to its correspondent that the female operatives of one certain factory in Quebec Province were not leading correct lives. Then for the sake of scoring a political point the Mail applies the item to all operatives of all factories in Canada and sows the slander thus made, broadcast over the Dominion. To gain a paltry party advantage it does not hesitate to falsely fasten on all the female operatives of Canada an accusation of unchastity, which was not made by the Globe and would never have been heard of if it had not been suggested by the Mail. The Review when it re-published the Auburn Mills letter, knew perfectly well that the operatives of that factory had never been alluded to in the paragraph in the Globe of "last Saturday," yet to gain a political point it assists in giving currency to a gratuitous slander.

These journals and others, practically argue, 'never mind the reputation or feelings of these girls; if we can make the public believe that the Globe said they were not leading correct lives, we may win a vote or two'. Perish such contemptible tactics! Bad, as, from our point of view, the principles and practices of the Tory party are, we are glad to believe that no respectable Conservative will endorse so barbarous and degrading a mode of party warfare as that pursued by the Mail and others.

DUMMER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AT STONY LAKE.—On Tuesday of last week, as a son of Mr. Charles Armstrong was proceeding to the Stony Lake post office on horse back, he had to pass the school house. It was "recess" time and he stopped to chat with the children, and when he started again, he set off at a furious pace, but he had only proceeded a few rods, when by some means he reined his horse against a stump. The horse fell and threw the rider to the ground. The children ran to where he was lying and found him insensible, and he might have died in a few minutes, as his face was lying in the sand. He was carried to a neighboring house, and a doctor and his parents summoned. Up to the date of this writing, Monday, June 19th, 7 days, he has remained unconscious, and has not spoken a word, but it is still hoped that under the skilful treatment of Dr. Yourex and Dr. Caldwell he may recover. The injured lad is, or was, about fifteen years of age.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—On Saturday last during the heavy thunder storm which passed over this township, the lightning struck the barn of William Curtain, lot 4. con 4. from which his two barns, stable, and out buildings, along with several ordinary contents, a threshing machine, nearly new, belonging to his son Timothy, and six pigs was completely destroyed. Loss on buildings and contents $700. Insured in the London Mutual for $320 on buildings. The contents fully covered by insurence; none on the threshing machine.

WORTH MENTIONING.

When anything worth saying is spoken in that terse and pointed way that bears the impress of honest conviction, we like to have people know the nature of the communication. Of such a nature is the following from Mr. W. F. Hust says: "With great joy over my restored health I would write a few lines concerning that great remedy, St. Jacobs Oil. For the last six years I have been using various medicines internally and externally, but nothing would help me. Finally I procured a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, which cured me after a few applications. My mother-in-law, who has also been a great sufferer from rheumatism, was also relieved by the use of the great German Remedy. St. Jacobs Oil is a great boon to suffering humanity, and I shall do everything in my power to make known its merits.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

Cape Colony exported last year $32,500,000 worth of diamonds.

In Sicily the total quantity of sulphur annually melted is estimated at 390,000 tons.

A swarm of locusts, observed near Boulder City, Col., travelled 600 miles to eastern Kansas and Missouri.

Since 1865 the ratio of suicides has been greater in the kingdom of Saxony than any other part of Europe.

It is estimated that there are 11,333 blind men and 8,977 blind women, or a total of 20,310, in the United States.

The most unhealthy city in the world is St. Petersburg, in which one twentieth of all the inhabitants die annually.

The people of Geneva, Switzerland, expend more money for wine, than they do for bread, the average amount spent by each person for this article being 300 francs yearly.

The work of the United States Fish Commission this season will include the distribution of about 80,000,000 shad in different sections of the country, besides innumerable herring.

Frankfort-on-the-Main, containing a population of about 100,000, is said to be the richest city of its size in the world. If its wealth was equally divided among the inhabitants, every man, woman and child would have, it is said, 20,000 marks, or some $4,000 apiece.

Switzerland has 1594 miles of railroad, representing over $200,000,000 of capital. These railroads do not pay well, some having paid no interest for years, even to debenture holders. Over 13,000 persons are employed, and accidents are said to occur very rarely.

GARDNER'S PRICE INDICATOR.—We have received from the author, Mr. Charles T. Gardner, Napanee, a copy of his convenient little book, "Price Indicator for Picture Frames." It is a sort of ready reckoner by which the cost of the material of a picture frame, of any size and any priced moulding, is at once accurately indicated. To parties engaged in the business or soliciting orders, the book is invaluable; by the saving of time and mistakes, the price, which is only one dollar, may be saved in a month. No one in the trade can afford to be without it. It is the handiest thing of the kind ever published. Price $1. Address Charles T. Gardner, Napanee, Ont.

FIRE IN TORONTO.

TWO LARGE PUBLISHING HOUSES BURNED.

TORONTO, June 17.—At 10:20 Saturday morning a fire was discovered in the drying room of the publishing house of Hunter Rose & Co. and the Rose Belford Publishing Co. The firemen were quickly on the spot, but the flames spread rapidly and the greater part of the stock was soon destroyed. The stock consists of machinery, presses, plant, books, etc. At present it is impossible to ascertain the correct amount of the losses, but they will be heavy, possibly over $75,000. The plates and engravings of Belden & Co., who are getting out Picturesque Canada, are slightly damaged. They are insured for $6,000 in the Guardian. In the upper portion of the building are the offices of Smith and Leith, barristers. On their books the Norwich holds an insurance of $750.

Daniel Murphy, who was employed in the drying room, visited that place about 10:20, and missed some papers he required for use, and while searching for it lighted a piece of paper in peering into a closet. Some overhanging paper became ignited, and in a second the flames spread to the ceiling, sending out a dense smoke. Murphy made several desperate attempts to put out the flames, but without success.

PROTECTION!

The undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Norwood and surrounding country that he has leased for a number of years, the Grist Mill belonging to Mr. N. B. Gould, on Colborne Street, Norwood, and is now prepared to carry on the

in all its various branches. The mill has just been enlarged and additions made to the premises that will add materially to its capacity and convenience. A large amount of new machinery, of the very latest improvements, has also been added to meet the requirements of the mill, which has received such a thorough renewing and refitting as the public may rely in future on all kinds of Gristing and Milling being performed in such a manner as to give entire satisfaction in all its departments. Having had a large and varied experience in the gristing business in different parts of Canada, and having always been patronized with a large amount of Custom Gristing in all its different branches, as has been a convincing proof of the quality of the work performed by him, he can confidently ask the patronage of the people of Norwood and vicinity. Flour and Mill Feed of all kinds kept constantly on hand. Farmers may rely upon having their Gristing home with them on the day brought to the mill. ☞A Call Respectfully Solicited.

TRENTON.

STARTED FOR HOME.—Rev. H. Brettargh, late parish priest of Trenton, has started for England, and from thence he will proceed to Rome, to lay his case before the Consistory and His Holiness the Pope. Previous to his departure from Trenton he received an address and $1,500. The address was signed by all the Protestant clergyman in Trenton.

STIRLING.

M. E. CHURCH DEDICATION.—The dedicatory services of the new M. E. Church, Stirling, will be held on Thursday, July 6th, when Bishop Carman will preach at 10 o'clock, a.m. A dinner will be served at 1. p.m., followed by a platform meeting with speeches, etc. Collections for building fund. Tickets at half fare, issued to Stirling on the 6th, good for five days on the N. H. and G. J. Railways.

BAILLIEBORO'.

The friends of Mrs. John Byers, of this place, will be glad to learn that she was out for a drive last Monday, it being the first time that she had ventured out since meeting with that severe runaway accident, nearly a month ago.

Two little lads, sons of Messrs. D. Byers and D Lang, of Baillieboro', ventured in a boat on Rice Lake a few days ago, and drifted out farther than they had reckoned. Fortunately they were discovered in time. Nothing can induce them to try the lake again.

LINDSAY.

A celebration of Dominion Day is to take place in Lindsay. The Council will give a grant of $100 if $160 are raised by private subscription.

An Ops man recently sold a consignment of apples to a Toronto firm for $7 per barrel.

Father Stafford's Annual Picnic takes place at Hutton's Grove on the 1st of July.

Mr. John Kennedy embarked on the Samaritan last Wednesday for a trip to the Old Country.

Rev. Dean Allen, rector of the rural deanery of Cavan, has taken a vacation, and will visit the Old Country.

At the late session of the County Court here, a widow lady, named Mrs. McKaskill, recovered $200 from one Edwards, a tavern keeper, who had supplied her son, an habitual drunkard, with liquor, after having been legally warned by the mother not to do so. The same plaintiff secured a verdict for $20 from a hotel keeper, named Smith, for a like offence.

PORT HOPE.

Mr. Levi Reynolds is acting as Chief Constable during the absence of Mr. Marshall in Ireland.

Tuesday morning a large excursion from Toronto, consisting of one hundred and fifty persons in all, passed through here on their way to New York, via the Norseman. They will return about the 23rd of June.

Bird-nest robbing is carried on in town to a lamentable extent by some of the pupils of the schools.

The Port Hope Lacrosse Club is organised for the season. The boys are practising steadily mornings and evenings.

Mr. David Marshall, Chief Constable, started on his trip for the "Emerald Isle" by the late express Thursday. He was accompanied to the station by a number of friends, who wished him a pleasant time and a safe return. It is forty years since Mr. M. left his native land.

Port Hope comes out strong on Dominion Day. $1,200 will be given away in prizes, of which sum the Council has given $200, on conditions that it be refunded from the proceeds of the celebration.

A Lacrosse Match is likely to be one of the attractions of Dominion Day in town. Our home club are trying to arrange with the Millbrook club for a match to be played in Penryn Park. Efforts are being made to secure either the Bowmanville or Cobourg brass bands for the occasion. Horse-racing, a lacrosse match, games, sports, and fireworks have been decided upon. $1,200 will be given in prizes.

CAMPBELLFORD.

A beastly fight among river-drivers was on the bill-of fare for spectators the other night.

Among the games to be introduced to the Warkworth public, on the 1st of July, is a tug-of-war between twelve Grits and twelve Tories. The prize to the winning party will be $6.

Four new looms and three sets of cards have arrived for the Trent Valley Woollen Mills, here. This will require an increased number of employees.

Two new and costly dwellings are now in course of erection. One is for Mr. R. W. Turner, the manager of the Trent Valley Woollen Mills, which will cost about $2,000, and the other whose foundation is being laid, is for Rev. Father Carey. It will cost, it is said, between $5,000 and $6,000.

Messrs. Whitton and Johns shipped from Campbellford to Montreal, on Saturday last, 13 cattle, 15 lambs and 46 hogs. They were sent via the Grand Junction to Belleville, and are intended for the Montreal market.

A horse belonging to Mr. Thomas Hume, Seymour east, was severely injured a few days ago, by jumping a barbed wire fence.

The saw mill situated a short distance north of this village, on the River Trent, built a few years ago, by Mr. John Drennan, was sold recently, to Messrs. Gilmour & Co., for the very handsome figure of $18,500 cash. This sum secured both mill property and limits. Mr. Drennan retires from the ownership and enters the service of the purchasers with a large salary.

FIERY JUNE.

A MONTH NOTORIOUS FOR CONFLAGRATIONS.

The month of June is proverbially the month of disastrous and terrible conflagrations.

On the 21st of June, 1877, the terrible fire of St. John N.B., took place, which swept away fully half the city, and nearly every place of business, rendering 15,000 people homeless, destitute and starving. The loss of property is estimated at $15,000,000, while the Insurance Companies lost in the vicinity of $8,000,000.

On the 22nd of June, 1876, a large fire broke out on Queen street in Montreal, destroying the Messrs. Ives & Co's hardware manufacturing establishment, and the coffee and spice mills of Messrs. Ewing & Co. The loss was estimated in the vicinity of $200,000.

What is commonly known as the Quenneville tragedy (Montreal) occurred on the 2nd of June, 1879, consisting in the destruction by fire of Morey's livery stable and the foul murder of the night watchman, Alphonse Quenneville, by parties unknown.

The burning to the water's edge of the Sound steamer Saxonshaka, opposite Randall's Island, East River, took place on June 29th, 1880, and resulted in the loss of over forty lives, under the most distressing circumstances.

On the 9th of June, 1881, the terrible conflagration at Quebec destroyed St. John's Ward, entirely sweeping away over one thousand houses, and leaving nearly two thousand families homeless, and unprovided for. The total loss was estimated at $2,000,000.

THE "JEANNETTE."

DISCOVERY OF THE REMAINDER OF THE CREW.

NEW YORK, June 19. The Herald correspondent telegraphs from Lena Delta, April 12th, that Melville has found the bodies of Delong's party in two places, 500 and 1,000 yards from the wreck of the scow. None of the dead had boots. Their feet were covered with rags tied on. In the pockets of all were pieces of skin and clothing which they had been eating. The hands of all were burned and looked as if when dying they had crawled into the fire. All the bodies were carried to a hill three hundred feet high, forty versts to the south-west from where they were found, and interred in a mausoleum constructed of wood from the scow, surmounted by a cross. The mausoleum was covered with stones and will be sodded in spring. The cross is inscribed with the record and names of the dead. Melville's party then separated to search the Delta for traces of Chipp's people. Nindermann and Bartlett found nothing. Melville has not yet returned. The search will be extended.

SCIENCE.

Thirty-six very small glands in the eyelid supply oil for the eye.

Rain is generally formed from one to two miles above the surface of the earth.

The joists and sleepers of basement-floors are rendered less subject to decay by a coating of lime white.

The heat of a room is made much more endurable by the vapor arising from a dish of water kept on the stove.

The wearing of veils prematurely weakens many naturally good eyes on account of the endeavors of the eye to adjust itself to the ceaseless vibration of that too common article of dress.

Mend tea-kettle cracks with a paste made of the white of an egg and iron filings; press this paste into the cracks with a knife, and set away for a week or more to dry. It will leak no more.

The English medicial writer, Dr. Goldie thinks that epidemics are often spread by milk which before its delivery to consumers has been kept in vile places, where it has "licked up" infection from the surrounding atmosphere.

Experiments in keeping silk-worm eggs in different gases prove that the worms produced from eggs immersed in carbonic acid showed more vivacity than any. Those from hydrogen were most backward in development, and those from oxygen were large, fat and lazy.

Simple pure white lead ground in oil, and used very thick, is an excellent cement for mending broken crockery ware but it takes a very long time to harden sufficiently. The best plan is to place the mended object in some storeroom, and not to look after it for several weeks, or even months. After that time it will be found so firmly united that, if ever again broken, it will not part on the line of the former fracture. It resists moisture and a heat not exceeding that of boiling water.

SHORTER SERMONS SEASONABLE.

The Presbyterian says that we are getting near the time when the evening attendance at our churches, especially in towns and cities, becomes thin. It goes without saying that in our larger communities evening congregations in summer are necessarily smaller than during the rest of the year. If people move away to some summer resort, they cannot, of course, attend their own places of worship. We wish we could say that none are absent on summer evenings but those who are "out of town." In some way or other it has come to be taken for granted that it is the "correct thing" not to go to church in the evenings at a certain season of the year. There is a good deal of snobbery about this feeling. The "upper ten" are at the seaside, and if those who have less money are absent people may think they are at the seaside too. The heat has not much to do with it. There are not generally more than two or three very hot Sabbaths in the year. Ministers might mend matters materially by shortening their services on Sabbath evenings in summer.

A reception was given at the Quebec Citadel Monday night from 4 to 7 o'clock by H. R. H. Princess Louise.

I WILL BE SLEEPING THUS, SOME DAY.

I.

She will not smile;
She will not sit;
I marvel while
I look on her.
And will not speak:
The ghost of a sly,
In either cheek.

II.

Her hair—ah me!
Her hair—her hair!—
How helplessly
My hands go there!
Fall my caresses
Meet not here.
O golden tresses
That thread my tears!

III.

I kiss the eyes
On either lid.
Where her love lies
Forever hid.
I cease my weeping
And smile and say,
I will be sleeping
Thus, some day.

BONNER'S BURGLARS.

CLEVER CAPTURE OF A COUPLE OF THIEVES.

While Mr. Bonner, proprietor of the New York Ledger was yet at work, in the library of his residence, about one o'clock Saturday morning, he heard an unusual noise, as if somebody was prying at woodwork. Mr. Bonner's son Frederick, who was reading in his room, came down stairs and, with his father, descended to the basement. Some chips of wood on the floor of the hall, and a small hole in the door leading to the cellar confirmed the suspicion that burglars had entered the house. They had evidently got no farther in than the cellar. The burglar alarm was sounded, and a watchman answered it. The cellar was searched, and no one was found there. A part of the heating apparatus in the cellar is a coil of pipes. Under the pipes there is room for several men to hide, but to get there they must lie flat down and crawl through a small aperture. The watchman saw that at least one man was there. Frederick Bonner was armed and so was the watchman. The latter called to the burglar to come out but got no answer. "Then," said Mr. Bonner, "I informed the man, or men, how strong we were in numbers and in arms, and said if they did not come out we would shoot them. Then two men crawled out. When the first appeared, my son ordered him to throw up his hands. Both men complied sullenly. They were young men and evidently desperate. It is the opinion that the burglars were led to visit Bonner's house in the hope that the many costly presents made to his daughter on the occasion of her weedding, a few days ago, might yet be in the house. Mr. Bonner says, however, that the thieves would have been disappointed if they expected to find many valuables, for it is not his practice to keep them in the house.

A WONDROUS PEOPLE.

THE INHABITANTS OF THE ISLE OF SKYE.

The following item clipped from the Scottish American Journal may not be without some interest to readers, as there is some likelihood of many of these people coming to Canada:—

The Isle of Syke has, during the period of forty years, furnished the British public services with twenty-one lieutenant-generals; forty-five lieutenant-colonels, six hundred majors, captains, lieutenants and subalterns; ten thousand foot soldiers; one hundred and twenty pipers; four Governors of British Colonies; one Governor General; one Adjutant-General; one Chief Baron of England; and one Judge of the Supreme Court of Scotland. The generals may be classified thus:—Eight Macdonalds, six MacLeods, two MacAllisters, two MacCaskills, one MacQueen, and one Elder. It is the birth place of Cuthullin, the celebrated hero mentioned in Ossian's poems; and it is the burial place of that devoted heroine, Flora Macdonald, who accompanied Prince Charlie during his exile, and to whose memory a monument is erected in one of the cemeteries of the island.

When it is considered that the island is only sixty miles in length, with an average breadth of twenty miles, it has been well said by an Edinburgh paper, that "truly the inhabitants are a wonderful people."

ALL THE PEOPLE OF THE DOMINION OF CANDA ARE CONCERNED.

Here are some more of the many hundreds of the leading people of the Dominion of Canada who have been cured of Catarrah, Bronchitis, Asthma and Lung disease by Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer and instrument, which conveys medicinal properties direct to the seat of disease. Read and judge for yourself:

Several of my family and friends have been cured of bronchitis, asthma and catarrh by using the Spirometer. JOHN P. WHELAN, Manager POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal. Mr. C. HILL, Montreal, catarrh and bronchitis. MR. DEBOUCHERVILLE, of the Indian Department, Ottawa, catarrh of many years; now cured. MR. GEO. AGER, Ottawa, catarrh and lung disease; cured. MRS. SMITH, London, wife of Medical Detective, cured of catarrh. GEO. MAGUIRE, Toronto, 482 Adelaide Street West; daughter cured of asthma. GEORGE WILLIS, Exeter, Ont., catarrh and bronchitis. J. D. ARMSTRONG, 186 Young street, Toronto, catarrh and catarrhal deafness. THOMAS TELFER, 12 Melinda street, Toronto, asthma; cured. MR. BENJ. A. DRAKE, St. Urbain Street, Montreal, for many years suffering from bronchitis and asthma, is now cured.

Also, the no less surprising cure of Mrs. DENOFF, 114 Cathedral Street, daughter of Mrs. David Parrault, who suffered from asthma and bronchitis for over eight years, and who is now perfectly cured.

Mrs. ADAMSON, of Belleville, cured of bronchitis, and her sister cured of bronchitis and lung disease.

I have no hesitation in saying Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer will cure catarrh and bronchitis, JOHN C. FLEMING, Editor of POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal.

The above is sufficient to convince the public of the merits of the Spirometer. The instrument will be expressed to any address.

Call or write, inclosing stamp for reply, to the International Throat and Lung Institute, 75 Young Street, Toronto, Dr. M. Souvielle and a competent body of English and French physicians always in attendance. Every information given. Physicians and sufferers can try the Spirometer free.

Imitators vs. Substitutors.

Good points are worth remembering, for the reason that they assist us in avoiding many discomforts, and protect us against the cupidity of overreaching people. When you learn from friends that PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR is safe, prompt and effectual, don't allow druggists to palm off a worthless and perhaps poisonous substitute. His object is quite patent. He wishes to make a few cents difference between a good article and a cheap imitation or substitute. Putnam's Corn Extractor. Sold everywhere.

The Campaign.

GENTLEMEN:—

The political issues of the campaign are with us. Let us cherish them—they are about the best we are likely to see for some time.

It is reasonable to expect that for the next three weeks, votes will be an article of commerical value—that is, we no anticipate.

A voter in a neg suit of clothes is a more estimable constituent than a voter in an old suit; though of course a voter in an old suit is preferable to no voter at all—at least so we're told.

It will be an extremely proper thing that the candidate who gets the most votes will get elected. Still the exception to this general rule has occurred.

It will be an additionally gratifying circumstance to find that the successful man has been elected by men wearing DOLAN'S Stylish Suits.

Hence it is the manifest duty of all, without regard to previous condition of political servitude, to repair to DOLAN & CO'S, and clothe themselves as befits the "free and independent."

The Contented Man, Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

The Farmer's Hymn.

O Painter of the fruits and flowers,
We own Thy wise design,
Whereby these human hands of ours
May share the work of Thine.

Our toil is sweet with thankfulness,
Our burden is our boon;
The curse of earth's gray morning is
The blessing of its noon.

And still with reverend hands we call
Thy gifts, each year renewed;
The good is always beautiful,
The beautiful is good.

Farm, Garden and Household.

BOILS.—The skin of a boiled egg is the most efficacious remedy that can be applied to a boil. Peel it carefully, wet and apply to the part affected. It will draw off the matter and relieve the soreness in a few hours.

BLACKBERRY CORDIAL.—Simmer the blackberrys till they break, strain, and to each pint of juice put a pound of white sugar, one-half ounce of cinnimon, one-quarter ounce mace, two teaspoonsful cloves. Boil fifteen minutes.

BOILED RICE AND MINCED EGGS.—Wash and cook the rice until tender. Boil the eggs hard, and chop fine; mix with the rice, adding a little pepper, salt, and butter. Allow an egg to each person. The rice when cooked should not be too watery or to stiff.

CHEAP PAINT.—Three hundred parts of washed and sieved white sand, forty parts precipitated chalk, fifty parts of resin and four parts of linseed oil are mixed and boiled in an iron kettle, and then one part of oxide of copper and one part of sulphuric acid are added. The mass is applied with an ordinary paint brush while warm. If too thick, it is dilated with linseed oil. This paint dries rapidly and gets very hard, but protects woodwork excellently.

COLD WATER DRINKING.—Cold baths of the skin are good, but it is doubtful if flooding the stomach on going to bed and on rising is not, on the whole, the most profitable form of cold bathing. Costiveness, piles and indigestion are uniformly relieved by this morning and evening cold douche. The quantity must be determined by each one for himself. Two or three swallows will do to begin with, but the quantity will soon grow to a tumbler full; and I have known persons to use much more with remarked benefit. If wisely managed, every dyspeptic will be greatly improved by this cold stomach bath.

WOMEN AND SLEEP.—Women sleep by far to little. Sleeplessness is one of the most fruitful causes of the paleness and nervousness so characteristic of American mothers. You will excuse us, sir, but permit us to ask whether your wife is not still busy with the care of your family six hours after your day's work is done? And then, when your children cry at night, don't you turn over your lazy two hundred pounds for another good sleep and let that little, thin, pale wife get up and worry by the hour with the little ones? And now, forsooth, you wish to know whether it is not bad for her to lie till eight o'clock in the morning.

PANDOWDY.—Five moderate-sized apples, two tablespoonsful of finely-chopped suet, three eggs, three tablespoonsful of flour, one pint of milk, a little grated nutmeg. Mix the flour to a smooth batter with the milk, add the eggs, which should be well whisked, and put the batter into a well-buttered pie dish. Wipe the apples, but do not pare them; cut them in halves, and take out the cores; lay them in the batter, rind uppermost; shake the suet on the top, over which also grate a little nutmeg; bake in a moderate oven for one hour, and cover, when served with sifted loaf sugar. This pudding is also very good with the apples pared, sliced and mixed with the batter.

Water for Stock.

Although a wholesome and plentiful supply of water is one of the most important matters to be considered in relation to stock, yet it is frequently neglected, and so long as there is water at all, the owner is satisfied. There are few matters in connection with farming less understood, or at least, less care shown for, generally speaking, among farmers than the treatment of water for stock. Open drains which are oftentimes expected to give enough water for cattle during summer, are allowed to accumulate mud and all sorts of filth perhaps for years without a thought being bestowed on scouring or cleaning them up at the proper time. To such a state are these drains allowed to go, that they become choked up, the water of course remains stagnant and fetid, and for want of anything better the poor animals are obliged to drink it. Sometimes a certain distance along the line of drain, openings are made, and some of the filth is cleared to make what is termed a "drinking pool." A drinking puddle would be more correct, and after forcing their stock to drink such stuff, people wonder at their cattle getting diseases, evidently arising from blood-poisoning, and brought on no doubt by having to drink water stagnant and polluted with teeming animal life, as well as the remains of myriads of defunct generations, which have already lived their "span," and instead of "sinking down to their home in the clay," have gone into the mud. Water intended for cattle drinking should always be running; we always feel pleasure in hearing the water stream "bubbling" through the lands that the cattle are grazing on; it is a sure indication that if the source is good, the water is almost certain to be good for the stock. Then as to the source from which the water comes, it ought to be always a point for special consideration of the farmer, to see that no sewage can possibly pollute his water stream. For milch cows, above all others, it is particularly dangerous to allow them to partake of water containing sewage, as they may be the means of disseminating disease among those who may use the milk of such cows.

Age of Sheep for Fattening.

Sheep fatten most rapidly at two or three years of age. By feeding with rich fodder, one year old sheep will increase in weight more rapidly than when older, for the period of growth is not yet passed. Whilst they will also fatten at this age, the flesh is not esteemed as when older, as it is more watery. Lambs taken very young and fed high are fattened and made palatable, but when fattened for profit as well as palatable flesh, sheep, as other animals, should be matured in growth first. It is also true that after animals have become too old neither profitable fattening nor the most palatable flesh can be secured with the best of food. Whether for economy in feeding, or choice meat, the best is attainable when the animal is well matured; neither before nor much after that period.

Gentleness With Horses.

A horse cannot be screamed at and cursed without becoming less valuable in every particular. To reach the highest degree of value the animal should be gentle and always reliable, but if it expects every moment that it is in harness to be "jawed" at and struck, it will be in a constant state of nervousness, and in its excitement is as liable, through fear, to do something which is not expected, as to go along doing what you started it to do.

It is possible to train a horse to be governed by word of mouth, almost as completely as it is to train a child and in such training the horse reaches its highest value. When the horse is soothed by the gentle words of his driver—and we have seen him calmed down from great excitement by no other means—it may be fairly concluded that he is a valuable animal for all practicable purposes, and it may be certainly concluded that the man who has such power over him is a humane and a sensible one.

But all this simply means that the man must secure the animal's confidence. Only in exceptional instances is he stubborn or vicious. If he understands his surroundings and what is required of him he gives no trouble. As almost every reader must know, if the animal, when frightened, can be brought up to the object he will become calm. The reason is that he understands that there is nothing to fear. So he must be taught to have confidence in the man who handles him, and then this powerful animal, which usually no man could handle if it were disposed to be vicious, will give no trouble.

The very best rule, therefore, which we would lay down for the management of the horse, is gentleness and good sense on the part of the driver. Bad drivers make bad horses usually.

Sweet-flag Candy.

A good digestive candy for children and dyspeptics is made from the roots of the sweet-flag by washing and slicing them fine, then placing them in a pan with enough cold water to cover them, and slowly heating it over a stove or fire until the water boils. If the candy is to be used rather as a sweetmeat than a medicine, the roots should be treated four or five times in this way, each time pouring off the water. To each two cupsful of the boiled roots add a cupful and a half of white sugar, then water sufficient to cover them, and allow the whole to simmer slowly on the stove till the water has quite boiled away. The candy is then to be emptied out on buttered plates, and stirred frequently till dry.

AN OBTUSE OLD MAN.

She was a stylish young lady, about eighteen years old, and to accommodate a friend, she took the baby out for an airing. She was wheeling it up and down the walk, when an oldish man, very deaf, came along, and inquired for a certain person supposed to live in that street. She nearly yelled her head off trying to answer him, and he looked around, caught sight of the baby and said:—

"Nice child, that; I suppose you feel proud of him?"

"It isn't mine," she yelled at him.

"Boy, eh? Well, he looks like you."

"It isn't mine!" she yelled again; but he nodded his head and continued—

"Twins, eh? Where's the other one?"

She started off with the cab but he followed and asked—

"Did it die of colic?"

Despairing of making him understand by words of mouth, she pointed to the baby, at herself and then shook her head.

"Yes, yes, I see; t'other twin in the house. Their father is fond of them of course?"

She turned the cab, and hurried the other way; but he followed, and asked—

"Do they kick round much at night?"

"I tell you 'tain't mine," she shouted looking very red in the face.

"I think you are wrong there," he answered. "Children brought up on the bottle are apt to pine and die."

She started on a run for the gate, but before she had it opened he came up and asked—

"Have to spank 'em once in a while, I suppose?

She makes about twenty gestures in half a minute, and he helped the cab through the gate, and said—

"Our children were all twins, and I'll send my wife down to give you some advice. You see—"

But she picked up a flower pot and flung it at him. He jumped back, and as she entered the house he called out—"Hope insanity won't break out in the twins."

THE CLERK WHO KNOWS EVERYTHING.

A newly arrived and singularly-assorted couple at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, consisting of a Londoner and an out-and-out American Western man, stood watching the throng of people coming and going to the marble counter the other evening, and listening with surprise to the endless number of quick questions made to the hotel clerk about the trains, rooms and individuals, and his instantaneous replies, when the Englishman broke out with:—

"Most extradinory man, seems to know everybody and everything—wonder if there is any question about a railway train or any person he can't answer?"

"I'll bet half a dozen champagne I'll put him a question about a train he can't answer," said the Westerner.

"Done! I'll stand six to see him go to grass," said Her Majesty's subject.

"Well, here goes, then," and Westerner stepped up to the marble counter.

"Say," you appear to know everything and everybody; who is there that's going to h—, and when'll the train start?"

"Charles J. Guiteau; starts June 30th, sir," replied the clerk, looking the querist right in the eye without moving a muscle.

"Well I recon you are about right, but you can't tell me where I can get a ticket, can you?"

"Go to the d— l" said the clerk turning away.

"Mister said the Western guest, looking over to the blonde book-keeper, after the laughter had subsided, "you can charge six bottles of 'Fiz' in my bill for the use of them, for I must weaken on on this bet - it's agin me." He withdrew; and the clerk kept answering questions about other more familiar routes with perfect equanimity.

HUME IN A FIX.

Hume, the historian, passing one day by the back of Edinburgh Castle, where the ground was very swampy, and the footpath narrow, inadvertently tumbled into the bog, where he stuck, not being able to extricate himself. A washerwoman happening to pass at the time, looked at him, and was travelling on, when he shouted after her to lend him her assistance. "Na, Na," replied the woman, "yer Hume the Deist." "Well well, no matter, replied he, "you know, good woman, your Christian charity commands you to do good, even to your enemies." "I'll dae naething o' the sort," said she, "unless you repeat the Creed and the Lord's Prayer." Having no alternative he was forced to accede to the pious woman's terms.

THE LOST "GOLD" PIPCE.

"Pardon me for troubling you, sir, but did you drop a twenty-dollar gold piece?" asked a man with an earnest look on his face and a memorandum book in his hand of a well-dressed individual. The man addressed ran his hand nervously into various pockets, and replied: "Well, now, I declare! Can it be possible that I was so careless as to drop that coin? Yes, it's gone. I must have lost it right here, where we stand." The man opened his memorandum book, took from his vest pocket the stub of a lead pencil, and said: "Will you favor me with your name and address?" They were given, and the questioner started on, when the well-dressed man cried: "Hi, there! Where's the money? Give me my gold piece." Oh, I didn't find any money. I took a notion this morning that in a city like this where thousands and thousands of dollars are handled every hour, there must be great losses, and started out to investigate the matter. Between here and the river, I found seven men had lost twenty-dollar gold pieces, and I expect to run the list up to two hundred before I reach the City Hall. Good-day, sir."

SPECIAL MARKET REPORT.

Hats & Caps—Not as high as last spring, except foolscap, which is stationery.
Tobacco—Very low, and has a downward tendency.
Silver—Close, but not close enough to get hold of.

HE RESUMED.

"Father," said the young man as he leaned on his hoe, "they say the balance of trade is agin us."

"They do, eh?"

"And that our bank reserves are rapidly diminishing?"

"Du tell!"

"And that railway extension has come to a halt."

"Well, I declare!"

"And that the volume of securities is substantially without a market."

"Dear me! Well I never! And do they say anything about a fellow stopping to lean on his hoe to talk when he might just as well talk and hoe too?"

Reuben looked at his hands and resumed.

GOING WITH THE BOYS.

"So you have come to tell me that you are going to strike for higher wages?"

"Yes'r; you see, sir, I can't live on two dollars a day. I must go wid the b'ys and strike for three."

"Two dollars a day? Why, when you hired to me yesterday I told you it was three."

"Is that so? Very well, sir, very well. I must go wid the b'ys, an', strike for four then?"

THE REAL THING.

A down-town ten-year-old daughter went into her home yesterday afternoon, and her mother on seeing her cried:

"Why, what in the world are you doing with that doll, you great big child?

"Oh, it's all right mamma; a "lady" gave it to me and said I could keep it," returned the innocent girl, as she handed into the arms of her surprised and then enraged mother, a three day old infant.

THE MEDICAL FACULTY were among the first to recognize the value of Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda as a remedy for throat and lung affections, premature decline and general debility. Physicians not only recommend it for incipient consumption, bronchitis, asthma, and minor pulmonary and bronchial troubles, but speak in the highest terms of it as a means of enriching the blood and counteracting a hereditary tendency to consumption. In every part of the Dominion and throughout the United States it has attained a popularity as wide-spread as it is deserved, and the evidence attesting its efficacy is voluminous and convincing. The Cod Liver Oil, which is its pulmonic constituent, is absolutely pure and does not nauseate the stomach; while the Hypophosphites, superadded to and chemically blended with this ingredient, possess invigorating properties which render it most desirable in diseases involving such a tremendous waste of tissue and loss of bodily substance as incipient consumption, which it checks with a promptitude truly marvellous. In addition to pulmonic effects, it imparts tone to the whole system, and being a fine blood depurent, counteracts a tendency to scrofula. Moreover, it is sold at a reasonable price, the cost of the smaller bottles (the contents of one often sufficient to break up a bad cold) being 50 cents, and of the larger, $1.00. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont.

SANDERSON'S

MISS ESTHER'S OPPORTUNITY.

BY MRS. C. E. K. DAVIS.

"If one only knew what to do, and the wise way to do it! One can see with half an eye that there is work enough, but I am puzzled to know how and where to begin," said Miss Esther Craydock, who had been standing by the window and gazing out upon the narrow busy street for the past ten minutes, now crossed the room and sat down in front of the fire.

"Yes, there is enough to do," said Miss Esther's mother, smiling placidly over her knitting. "It isn't work but workers that are wanted in the Lord's harvest field."

"I know, I know," rejoined Miss Esther, almost impatiently; "and I believe I am ready to do what I can there; the question that vexes me is, what can I do? Answer me that, mother dear, if you please."

"Saint Paul asked that question of the Lord Himself," said Mrs. Craydock. Miss Esther sat looking into the fire. She, too, had asked the Lord every day since they left their quiet country home for this busy, closely settled town, but as yet the answer had seemed withholden.

"One knew just what to do in Brookside," she said presently.

"There was the church and our regular church work, Sunday-school and district visiting, with dear Mr. Ellersley to direct it all, but here—"

"Here is regular church work, too," interrupted Mrs. Craydock.

Miss Esther shook her head. "There are a great many who are doing it," she said; "the church is rich and full, but there are hundreds outside of it, and no one cares for their souls. It breaks my heart to see them staggering along under their burdens of sin and shame, and hard toil, while I sit here by the fire, warm and comfortable. I want to do something for the neglected ones."

"Keep your eyes and ears open, and watch your opportunity." This was Mrs. Craydock's advice, as she smiled over her knitting.

Just then, Betty, the maid of all work, came up stairs to say that there was an old woman at the door, who insisted on seeing the mistress, "and all I could do, she wouldn't take herself away, till I'd brought you word, and there she sits under the stoop, a-trotting of her foot, and a-shaking her head, and a-mumbling over words as I can't understand nor make sense of, and a-twirling of her thumbs."

Miss Esther rose with alacrity, and was half way down stairs before Betty had finished her tale.

Under the porch she found the feeble old woman, waiting with bowed head. At the sound of the light step on the stair she lifted her face—a poor, pinched face, full of sorrow and of years—and rising, dropped a curtsey.

"Is it the mistress?" she asked, and Miss Esther answered gently:

"Yes: what can I do for you?"

"Is it the mistress that put a flower into the hand of my little lass next Saturday four weeks, and bade her love the Lord?"

Miss Esther pondered a moment. It had been such a very small act of kindness that the memory of it had quite escaped her, until it was thus recalled.

"It was on the steps of your own door," continued the woman, eagerly, "and my little lass was passing by; do you mind her, mistress, with blue eyes, and hair like threads of gold, and a smile like the dawning of the day?"

Miss Esther nodded.

"Then, for the good Lord's sake, that you bade her love, come with me, mistress, for my lass is dying, and she begged old granny to fetch you."

Miss Esther waited to ask no questions, but slipping on her shawl and bonnet, quietly followed the feeble but rapid steps of her guide. It was a long and dreary walk from No. 15 Hawthorn street to the small house at the end of Slater court, and but few words passed between them until they reached the door. Then the poor grandame paused, and laid her trembling old hand on her heart. "Go ye in first, mistress," she gasped; "go ye in first, for if the change hasn't come a'-ready to my little lass, she'll grieve to see granny so out of breath: she's wonderful pitiful, is my little Em'ly!"

Miss Esther stepped across the bare creaking boards of the entry, and pushed open the door that stood ajar. The bit of a room within was darkened by an old quilt pinned up at the window, but in one corner Miss Esther spied the bed on which lay the little lass so white and still, that for an instant she thought the change dreaded by the old grandmother had indeed come. Another old woman, left to watch, had fallen asleep, and sat at the bed's head with her chin dropped upon her breast, breathing heavily. As Miss Esther drew near, little Emily opened her eyes with a glad smile of recognition.

"I thought grammy'd find you," she said in a very weak, pitying voice. "I told her the street, and just how the house looked, and I knew you'd come!"

"I was glad you sent for me," said Miss Esther, kneeling beside the bed, and tenderly smoothing the child's bright hair. "What can I do for you?"

"You said for me to love the Lord, and you gave me a posy," answered little Emily, "and every time I looked at the posy, I thought I must love the Lord. So then I told grammy how was I to do it? and grammy said He made me, and I must be good, and I tried real hard, but one day I got sick, and I kept growing sicker, and I've got to die, and be put into a box and buried up in the ground, and old Vickey says I'll go back to dust. But will I, Miss? What did the Lord make me for, if He was going to send me back into dust again, when I'm such a little girl? Please tell me about the Lord. Won't he take care of me?"

"That's the way she runs on, Miss," said old Vickey, rousing herself at the sound of voices; "out of her head more'n half the time, you see." But Miss Esther knew better. She bent over the bed, and in simple, loving words, told of the Lord Christ, the Saviour of sinners; the friend of all suffering souls; the resurrection and the life; the old, old story, that has brought peace, and comfort, and light to millions of burdened hearts.

Little Emily listened, and the troubled look on her face passed away, the brow smoothed, the blue eyes brightened, and a "smile like the dawning of the day," parted her lips.

"Now, I'm not afraid any more," she said, folding her hands across her breast. "Vickey, do you mind what I tell you? I'm not afraid any more, and don't you be, either, Vickey. You and grammy must love the Lord, and then when you die He will take you home to heaven. Did you hear what the mistress said, grammy?"

"Every word, my little lass," sobbed the old woman, as she tottered into the room, with the corner of her shawl at her eyes.

"Then you'll let me go, grammy, and you won't cry, either. I wish you were going, too; you'll be so cold and hungry and lonesome this winter!"

The poor old creature sank down upon the side of the bed, and lifted her tearful eyes to Miss Esther's face.

"I've got to lose her," she cried; "I've got to lose little Em'ly, and in all the wide world, mistress, there isn't another soul that'll care for me. But it's no use for me to think of going where she's going, mistress. Those words you spoke are only for innocent lambs like my little lass; they aren't for old white-headed sinners like me."

"Oh, yes, they are, grammy!" and little Emily took the wrinkled old hand, between her own, and held them fast She said, "Whosoever would might come to the Lord, and whosoever means you as much as anybody. You will come come—won't you, grammy?"

"Oh, little lass! Oh, little Em'ly!"

"Love the Lord, grammy."

"Oh, little Em'ly!"

"Promise, grammy—promise, grammy!"

"Anybody? Anybody—even such as me," repeated the old woman, as if striving to grasp the truth that she could not understand.

"Whosoever will," said Miss Esther, gently. "Though your sins be as scarlet they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson they shall be as wool."

"That seems like me. Oh, little Em'ly, if He would only leave you a bit longer, you'd show me how to believe it!"

"I want to go" said the child, wearily. "I'm wanting to see the Lord, and when I see Him the first thing I'll ask Him will be to fetch you, too, grammy. I'll tell Him all about how poor you are, and how 'fraid you are, and I'm sure He will fetch you before it is very cold."

"If He's got a mite of a corner, Em'ly," said the old woman, humbly, and rubbing her shawl into her eyes again; "just a bit of a corn somewheres out of the way, behind the door, may be, where I could just peep through the cracks once in a while and see you shining and happy among the angels, my little lass. You might tell Him that I'd keep very still, and not harm anybody, and I'd be that grateful for the chance, as I can't find words to tell."

Little Em'ly nodded her head. She was too much exhausted to speak aloud. The shadows of evening were gathering in the dingy room, and Miss Esther had her long way to make home before night should fall.

"I will come again to-morrow," she said in answer to the pleading looks of grammy and her little lass.

"You may look for me early in the morning," and so she went away, thanking God for the opportunity of pointing these two souls to the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world, and offering the silent prayer that the Holy Spirit would enlighten the understanding of poor old grammy.

Early in the morning Miss Esther returned, laden with flowers to brighten little Emily's bedside, but the angels had been there before her, and borne the child away to the garden of the Lord.

A HINT TO OFFICE SEEKERS.

A number of politicians, all of whom were seeking office under the government, were seated under a tavern porch, when an old toper named Joel B——, a person who was very loquacious when corned, but exactly opposite when sober, said that he would tell them a story.

They told him to fire away, whereupon he spoke as follows:—

"A certain king—I don't recollect his name—had a philosopher upon whose judgment he always depended. Now it happened one day that the king took it into his head to go hunting, and summoned his nobles; and making the necessary preparations, he summoned the philosopher and asked him if it would rain. The philosopher told him it would not, and they started. While journeying, they met a countryman mounted on a jackass.

"He advised them to return, 'for,' said he, 'it will certainly rain.' They smiled contemptuously upon him, and passed on. Before they had gone many miles, they had reason to regret not having taken the rustic's advice, as a shower coming up drenched them to the skin. When they had returned to the palace, the king reprimanded the philosopher severely.

"I met a countryman," said he, 'and he knows more than you do. He told me it would rain, whereas you told me it would not.' The king then gave him his walking paper and sent for the countryman, who soon made his appearance.

"'Tell me,' said the King, 'how you knew it would rain.'

'I didn't know,' said the countryman, 'my jackass told me so.'

'And how, pray, did he tell you?' said the King.

'By pricking up his ears, your majesty,' said the rustic.

The king then sent the rustic away, and procuring the jackass of him, he placed him—the jackass—in the office the philosopher filled.

'And here,' observed Joel, looking wise, 'is where the King made a great mistake.'

'How so?' inquired the auditors.

'Why, ever since that time said Joel, with a grin on his phiz, 'every jackass wants office.'"

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth. If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y.

TOTAL ANNIHILATION.

Oh, he was a Bowery-boot-black bold.
And his years they numbered nine;
Ragged and unpolished was he, albeit
He constantly aimed to shine.

As proud as a king his box he sat,
Munching an apple red,
While the boys of his set looked wistfully on
And "Give us a bite!" they said.

But the boot-black smiled a kindly smile;
"No free bites here!" he cried.
Then the boys they sadly walked away.
Save one who stood at his side.

"Bill, give us the core," he whispered low.
That boot-black smiled once more,
And a mischievous dimple grew on his cheek—
There ain't gonta' to be no core!"

Mrs. A. Nelson, No. 94 Colborne Street, Brantford, writes:—"I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years. Always after eating an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, causing a drooping and languid feeling, which would last for several hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, chemist, of our city, to try Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and I am thankful to say that I have not been better for years; that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lay heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with the best results."

Being personally acquainted with Mrs. Nelson, I certify to the truth of the above statement.

A GREAT CAUSE OF HUMAN MISERY

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

STOP AND ADMIRE.—It is worth one's while to pause in front of Mr. Sanderson's show window and admire the handsome prizes to be offered for the amateur races in the tournament that takes place to-night (Thursday).

WELL OBSERVED.—There was a great thirst in town last Tuesday. That portion of the election law relating to the closing of bars on polling day was rigidly observed, and a drink of substantial strength was out of the question.

DANGEROUS PASTIME.—A little boy named Hamilton was amusing himself at the station a day or two ago by putting pins on the track to be flattened by the car wheels, and, becoming too venturesome, a wheel ran over his hand crushing it badly. If there is such a thing for boys, this is a warning.

ELECTION DAY passed off quietly in town, the utmost good feeling between the opponents prevailing. There was a great deal of betting done on different phases of the result of the contest, in some cases opinions being backed with money in the most reckless manner.

THE CIRCUS attracted an immense crowd to town, and the performances appear to have given general satisfaction. The usual consumption of whiskey co-incident with a circus, was indulged in, giving the Police Magistrate a little extra labor the following morning.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending June 10th, 1882, was as follows: Passengers and Mails, $7,256.90; Freight, $20,568.54; Total, $27,825.44, as compared with $24,511.58, for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $3,213.86, and the aggregate traffic to date is $401,986.23, being an increase of $111,989.83, over 1881.

LACROSSE.—The juveniles are now represented in a lacrosse club. A club has been organized under the title of the "Young Mechanics." Though as the name implies, they are apprentices at their trades, we hope they will show in their matches that they are master mechanics. The officers are:—Captain, R. McMann; Secretary, Wm. McDowell, Treasurer, John McAuliffe; Committee, G. Britton, F. Hope, L. Mowry and W. McDonald.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN.—At the conference of this church, held recently in Port Hope, the following stations of ministers for the Peterborough and Victoria districts were decided on:—Peterboro, Rev. Mr. Joliffe, who is also chairman of the district; Little Britain, W. C. Beer, A. Richard, F. Woodger; Fenelon, M. Metherell; Lindsay, W. Limbert; Manvers and Cartwright, J. Whitlock, T. Brown; Ashburnham, J. W. Butcher, Lakefield, R. Allin.

ONTARIO & QUEBEC R. R.—On Tuesday Mr. J. Rudd Perry, C.E., of the survey staff of this line, arrived in town from Toronto, with a party of twelve men to "locate" the three miles east of Peterborough, not yet located—all that remains between this place and Perth. The company has now about five hundred men employed near Perth, but the remainder of the line from Perth will be put under contract at once.

SALE OF FURNITURE.—We call the attention of householders to the important sale of the entire household furniture of Mr. Chas. Burnham, by auction, which takes place at his residence on George Street, near the corner of Dublin, on Thursday (to-day) at 1.30 sharp. The furniture is all new and well preserved, consisting of parlour, dining-room, smoking-room, bedroom and kitchen furniture. This will be a first-rate chance to secure bargains, as the sale is an unreserved cash sale. The goods must be sold. The house will also be let to a suitable tenant.

DOMINION DAY.—Preparations for the celebration of the First of July, are progressing finely, and it is likely the day will be honored in a manner worthy of its importance. It is a little singular, however, that the general citizenship of the town is not more fully represented among those striving to see that credit is done to the celebration of the day. It cannot be that sporting men monopolise all the loyalty of the town, yet the celebration of the two days dearest to the Canadian heart, Dominion day and Her Majesty's, should be due, so far as initiation is concerned, entirely to members of our sporting clubs.

MASONIC EXCURSION.—The Freemasons of Peterborough will celebrate St. John's Day, on Monday next, by a grand excursion to Belleville and Massassaga Point. Massassaga Point is a beautifully shaded, breezy spot to be happy in for a few hours. The committee have made every arrangement for the comfort of the excursion party. The utmost order and decorum will be insisted on. The fare for the round trip, including—bear this in mind—the trip on the boat from the city to Massassaga Point, and a cruise about the beautiful Bay of Quinte, is only $1.50.

FAREWELL SERMONS.—On Sunday morning, Rev. G. C. Workman, M.A., preached valedictory sermons in Charlotte and George street C. M. churches. The reverend gentleman has been for some time unable to discharge his ministerial duties, but last Sunday he made the attempt, and preached two excellent and touching farewell sermons to large audiences. Rev. Mr. Workman has during his brief stay in town, won hosts of friends by his kindly and unostentatious manner; and universal sympathy is with him in his affliction. The great exertion of preaching twice last Sunday, and the agitation of mind incident to farewell discourses, has had a very unfavorable effect on Mr. Workman physically. On Tuesday morning he was prostrated with another attack of illness, and is under his physicians care. He will be succeeded in the pastorate by Rev. Mr. Manning, of Fraserville. His ill health forced him to resign.

THE EXHAUSTIVE OUTLAY of intellectual exertion implied in the Review's calculation of the number that listened to Mr. Blake in the drill shed last Friday is awe-inspiring. The grand result arrived at is 1,750, but it is likely that the statistician of the Review overlooked the small boy who had been suborned to peddle abroad Macpherson's dryasdust pamphlets, and who, tired of his task, had retired to a corner to discuss some peanuts, while Mr. Blake was giving the Tories some harder nuts to crack. This boy, and a baby in arms, who possibly escaped enumeration, would make the grand total 1751½. Besides if we include the half dozen voters, which one good, honest Tory gentleman claimed he had in his pocket, the grand total will be further increased to 1,757½. These statistics form a fundamental part of the issue decided on Tuesday and the loss the country would have been incalculable if they had have been deprived of their due weight in deciding the contest.

A NEW INDUSTRY. The industrial establishments of Peterborough are to be increased by the erection of buildings for a pork packing house. Mr. George Matthews, of Lindsay, well known for his enterprise to many of the business men of Peterborough, has purchased from Mr. Francis Heather, the lot adjoining the residence of Mr. Comstock, south of Wolf street, and east of George street, in the southern part of the town. On this will be erected a brick building 100 x 40 feet, with an addition for ice house 30 x 40 feet. The buildings will be constructed on the most approved modern principles, after plans procured in Chicago and will constitute, as Mr. Matthews says, a model packing house. As soon as the plans are fully prepared, which will be in a few days, tenders for constructing the buildings will be called for, and the work will be proceeded with all possible speed. Mr. Matthews is a man of great business energy, and it is to be expected that he will carry on a live and thriving business. We wish him all the success his enterprise deserves.

HEALTH AND HEALTHY HOMES.—This is the terse and comprehensive title of a book on this important subject recently published by the author, Dr. Robert Sproule, B. A., of Brock street, Peterborough. We have to thank him for a copy and for the pleasure and profit we have derived from a careful perusal of it. The subject is a most important one and pertinent to the requirements of our every day life. Every branch of the subject is briefly and clearly treated, and the practical nature of the directions and suggestions relative to the maintenance of health and the construction and preservation of healthy homes, shows that the author knows, from both a wide range of reading and an abundant practical experience, whereof he speaks. Every householder and every man contemplating building a home will find in this little work valuable and practical hints, illustrated by wood-cuts, worth ten times the price of the book. No department of architectural or domestic economy having a bearing on health is neglected. The drainage of houses, their ventilation, situation and material are all fully and ably discussed. The important factors in our physical sustenance—food and water—receive full attention; in fact every part of the subject that can have a beneficial or opposite effect on our health is minutely considered. The work is written in plain and simple language, suitable to the popular capacity, and it shows throughout that the author is conscienciously dealing with a subject which is of the very foremost practical importance. Health and Healthy Homes should not only be in every family, but its contents should form a subject for conversation and discussion at every fireside, and if it is thus entertained and its practical and valuable suggestions acted on, the health of such a home and family and consequently the happiness, will be preserved and promoted.

POLICE COURT.

Circus day, as usual, brought grist galore to his worship's mill. The circus is entirely to blame for it. The show was so inferior that several of the boys became disgusted, and set out to have a circus of their own, but, as is almost always the case with amateurs, they overdid it, and stage manager McGhee hustled them into his green room.

On Friday morning the first specimen of his treasure trove submitted to magisterial inspection was Patrick Ryan, who was disturbed by our longitudinal conservator of the peace, while enjoying a drunken sleep. A fine of $2 without costs, promptly paid, was the penalty of his indiscretion.

Lawrence Murray filled himself with whiskey, and woke the watches of the night with demoniac howls. He was captured, confessed and contributed five dollars.

Henry Hobson, a missing link navvy, had laid down the shovel and the hoe and laid in a rather too full supply of liquid recreation. He enlisted the services of Thomas Hickey, and John Donovan to show him an hotel, and repaid the kindness by remarks reflecting on both Hickey's veracity and his maternal ancestry. Hickey at once knocked him down, and it was Hobson's choice to prosecute him for assault. Fine, $5 and $3 costs. Donovan had no part in the assault, and was discharged.

Henry Hobson was arraigned for being drunk. Confessed the crime, but his worship, considering that it was his first "time up" and that the pummelling he had received was pretty good punishment, discharged him with the caution that a repitition of the offence would be equivalent to six months in Central Prison.

SATURDAY'S SESSION.

James Riordan was charged with assaulting Mrs. John Newton. The dispute began by the prisoner discrediting John Newton's claim to the discovery of gravitation by the falling apple, and culminated in the assault complained of. Remanded till Wednesday.

Messrs. John Fagan and James Galloway were arraigned as drunks and disorderlies. Fagan was lectured and released, but Galloway was remanded till Wednesday.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

JUNE SESSION.

Owing to the general elections coming on Tuesday, the members of the County Council did not assemble until the following day, at the usual hour.

All the members of the Council were present except Mr. Golborne.

The minutes of the last day of the January session were read and confirmed.

THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

H. Collins, Esq., then read the following address;—

To the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—In opening the business of this session it is very gratifying to me, and I am sure to every one of you, to know that, notwithstanding the uncertainty of life, if not all are now present, I have every reason to believe that every member of this council will be able to take his accustomed place in the enjoyment of his usual health.

The report of the special committee appointed by you to enquire into the right of certain townships to be represented by Deputy-Reeves, will be laid before you.

Since the last meeting of this council the case of the Grand Junction Railway Company and the County of Peterborough, was argued in the Supreme Court, Messrs. Bethune and Edwards represented the county. Judgment was reserved, and the suit therefore stands in abeyance.

The new iron bridge at Lakefield has been completed, and was passed by the committee and County Engineer, and pronounced a good substantial structure that reflects great credit on the contractors.

The care-taker of the Mud Lake bridge notified me that the bridge was in great danger from the floating ice. I at once, accompanied by the Engineer, visited the bridge and found it broken in two by the ice shove. The chains having been torn from the anchors, and the bridge and booms being much damaged, I at once ordered the two parts to be united, so that public travel could be resumed with as little delay as possible. Then, when the weather permitted, the bridge was straightened and anchored, but it still requires additional anchorage.

The Locks Bridge was reported to me impassable or unsafe for travel. I at once notified the Mayor of the same, and he at once called the joint committee together, and then, jointly with the Mayor, I ordered temporary repairs to be made without delay, under the supervision of the County Engineer. The expenses connected with this and the other repairs referred to above, will be laid before you by the Engineer in his report, in which you will also find the result of our inspection of the bridge at Norwood.

I expect that the necessity of repairing or rebuilding several bridges will be brought under your notice. The bridges at Nassau and Young's Point and also the Pigeon Creek bridge have all been reported to me as in need of extensive repairs or rebuilding.

At this session of the Council it is your duty to equalize the assessment of our several municipalities, and to provide for the current expenses of the county.

The report of the joint committee; the report of the auditors; estimates for the current year, and other communications, reports, &c., will be laid before you in their proper order.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. COLLINS,

County Council Chamber, Warden.
Peterborough, June 21st, 1882.

Moved by Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Rorke,—That Messrs. Burnham, Sanderson, Lang, Molony, Strickland, Kidd and the mover and seconder be a committee on the Warden's address, and report on the same to this Council.—Carried.

On motion, the accounts, communications and other papers in the hands of the Warden and Clerk were referred to the proper committees.

Moved by Mr. Sanderson, seconded by Mr. Lang,—That the committee to whom was referred the matter of the right of the Townships of Asphodel and Douro to be represented by Deputy-Reves in the County Council be allowed to report.—Carried.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox, and family had a quiet and pleasant voyage to Liverpool, which they reached last Sunday.

We regret to learn that Rev. Mr. Workman, late pastor of the Charlotte st. Methodist Church, is again prostrated with his old complaint, and under medical attendance.

At the late meeting of the Synod of the diocese of Toronto in that city, Rev. Mr. Beck was appointed a member of the Executive Committee. Rev. Mr. Bradshaw of the Sunday School Committee, Rev. Mr. Clementi of the Clergy Commutation Trust Fund, and A. P. Poussette, Esq., a member of the Executive Committee.

PERSONALITIES AND ILL-REPORTS.

Keep clear of personalities in general conversation. Talk of things, objects, thoughts. The smallest minds occupy themselves with persons. Personalities must sometimes be talked about, because we have to learn and find out men's characteristics for legitimate objects; but it is to be with confidential persons. Poor Burns wrote and did many foolish things, but he was wise when he wrote to a young friend:

Aye, tell your story free, off-hand,
When wi' a bosom crony;
But still keep something to yourself
You'll scarcely tell to ony.

Do not needlessly report ill of others. There are times when we are compelled to say, "I do not think Bouncer a true and honest man." But when there is no need to express an opinion, let poor Bouncer swagger away. Others will take his measure, no doubt, and save you the trouble of analysing and instructing him. And as far as possible dwell on the good side of human beings. There are family boards where a constant process of depreciating, assigning motives, and cutting up character goes forward; they are not pleasant places. One who is healthy does not wish to dine at a dissecting table. There is evil enough in men, God knows. But it is not the mission of every young man and woman to report and detail it at all. Keep the atmosphere as pure as possible, and fragrant with gentleness and charity.

Victor Hugo says his intellect "grows stronger with age and does not rest." The gentleman will pardon the remark, but the same thing might be said of old cheese.

Now that the reaping and mowing season is coming on, farmers should remember that "Kaiser" Machine Oil is the best reaper and mower oil in the market. For sale by all dealers. 5-39t

Referred to Finance Committee.

PETITIONS.

The application of Mrs. Chrow for street improvements, was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee, with power to act.

A petition from certain inhabitants of Smith, asking to have the Smith street bridge raised, was next considered.

Mr. Richardson said that as the bridge was now, it was a dangerous place, and Mr. Cox had expressed himself willing to do it. He thought that if the matter were urged upon the company, the repairs could be accomplished satisfactorily.

Mr. Rutherford said the bridge had been injured by the sudden descent of teams from the railway embankment, and he would move that the petition be referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

Mr. Cahill said the bridge should be repaired, and to have it well done it should be referred to the inspector and town engineer.

Mr. Menzies also favoured this view, and the petition was referred to the Street and Bridge committee and the town engineer, with power to act.

LICENSE FEE REMITTED.

Mr. Wm. Bell presented a petition, asking that three quarters of the license paid the town by him for a pigeon-hole table be refunded. He explained that he had paid $40 license for such a table, but the license commissioners had refused to give him a hotel license unless he would remove the table. He had done so and asked that part of the license paid be refunded.

Referred to the License Committee to report.

STREET REPAIRS.

A petition of Jas. Trennum and others for street repairs on Dublin street, was referred to the Street and Bridge committee.

An application from John Smith, Secretary of the Orange Celebration Committee to be allowed to erect arches in the streets, on July 12th was granted on condition that they be removed in ten days.

ARREARS OF TAXES

Mr. Wm. Cummings presented a statement of arrears of certain parties for taxes, with the information that he had seized their household goods, but if they were sold they would not pay the expense of carting and sale.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

STREET WATERING.

Mr. Rutherford, chairman, presented the report of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, stating that the contract for watering the streets had been let to M. O'Donnell, for $435 per year.

Mr. Cahill asked if anything had been done in reference to the watering of Charlotte street?

Mr. Rutherford replied that the petition had not been sufficiently signed.

Report received and filed.

WATER WORKS.

Mr. Hatton, secretary of the water works company, was heard before the Council. He said that the secretary of the Company had been instructed to write to the Council in reference to extending the mains below Sherbrooke street, on George, but no answer had been received. If the Council desired that an eight inch main should be laid to Sherbrooke street, whenever an extension was necessary it should be made. He also urged that the Council should take action on the matter of having mains extended west and east of George street. Now was the time to speak, for after the T pipes had been put in, and the workmen had left town it could not be done. If the Council only said so, the whole fire limits might be supplied with water facilities by the 15th of August.

OPENING STREETS.

Mr. Wilson said that the Chief of Police had notified the parties having streets enclosed, but no attention had been paid to his notification.

Mr. Richardson inquired if anybody would be injured by having these streets kept closed? We had more streets now than we could properly care for,

Mr. McNaughton said that made no matter. No ratepayer had a right to close up any street.

No further action was taken.

BY-LAW.

On motion of Mr. Menzies, seconded by Mr. Kelly, the Clerk was instructed to have a by-law prepared in reference to the matter spoken of by Mr. Hatton.

Mr. Wilson gave notice of introducing a by-law in reference to the opening of certain streets.

Mr. Kelly asked that the time for entertaining the by-law in reference to stray cattle, of which notice had been given by Mr. Poussette be extended.

On motion the Council adjourned for one week.

News from Ireland is of an alarming character. A force of drilled men marched through Armagh on Saturday execrating the Queen and singing rebel songs and afterwards drilled. The authorities are satisfied that a serious attempt to seize Dublin is projected, and have taken precautions accordingly. In Cork serious riots have taken place, and the general dislike borne by portions of the Irish people against England has been deepened and intensified by the rash and treasonable utterances of Mr. Healy, M. P., in the Commons.

WATER-WORKS AND WATER-WORKS.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

The probability is that the late fires in this town will tend to revive the agitation about water-works. I will assume, for the sake of argument, the necessity of water-works, for fire purposes only. But, when I do this, it does not settle the question by any means. A few interested or easily persuaded persons recommended the adoption of the works now offered us, and I expect soon to hear this recommendation more strongly enforced. This is but one side of the question, and it is worth our while to consider how far this scheme is deserving of support. The present Water-Works Company are proceeding under a special Act of Parliament for that purpose. This Act taxes all the ratepayers of the town for the use of their water by but a portion of it. That is to say, a man living on the extreme outside edge of the town will be compelled to pay taxes for the use of water in another part of the town, which water he never sees or has the benefit of. It is calculated by the Water Committee of the Council, of which, I believe, Mr. Rutherford is chairman, that the town will require, for fire purposes alone, eighty-six hydrants. The cost of each hydrant is fixed by a by law of the council at $50 a year, making a total cost for these hydrants of $4,300 a year, to be paid by the taxes of the whole town. If the water is required for any other than fire purposes, it must be paid for separately. Assuming that, in the course of a few years, the water will be required for other purposes, and that an additional number of hydrants be asked for and given, in the same way as additional gas lamps have been asked for and given, it will hardly be out of the way to estimate the then cost of water, by means of these water-works, at not less than $10,000 a year. Now, I would like to ask the ratepayers if they are prepared to pay any such sum as this, or even less than this, for water, unless they are compelled to do it, and unless the water cannot be obtained cheaper in some other way. I contend that the water can be obtained very much cheaper, and I will now proceed to show why.

Besides the special Act above referred to, there was another Act passed during the same last session of Parliament, which authorizes the freeholders in any prescribed locality to petition the council to pass a by-law giving them authority to construct water-works for such locality, and to tax that locality only for the cost thereof. It is admitted by competent men that the expense of constructing such works for that part of the town bounded on the north by London street, on the west by Aylmer street, on the south by King street, and on the east by the first range of lots on the east of Water street, would not exceed $20,000. The interest on this sum would not exceed $1,200. The cost of keeping a man at the wheel house would be about $300, making in all $1,500 a year; the rate in the $ on the assessment to raise which would be so small as to be hardly worth notice. This would be the maximum cost for all time to come. The works would be the property of the town, and whatever profit is made would go in reduction of the expense of the works, which in time would be entirely extinguished, and then the town would hold the works and the water free. And the Act also provides for the extension of the works to another locality upon the same principle and at the same reduced cost. I now ask the ratepayers to say which is the cheaper and more profitable way of obtaining water-works? Whether to pay a private company, by a tax upon all parts of the town, a large revenue for their individual benefit, or to pay a small tax by the locality benefitted, and the town alone to be benefitted by whatever revenue is derived from the works. The ratepayers have the decision in their own hands, provided they make their councillors carry out their wishes in this respect, for, be it understood, the special Act above referred to, gives the council the power to override the will of the people if it chooses to do so. Upon the people then devolves the duty of watching the council, and of taking care that nothing shall be done without the full consent of the ratepayers; for a by-law, once passed, however improperly or clandestinely, will be binding upon all.

GUITTEAU DOOMED.

It appears that the hangman's rope is Guitteau's only way out of trouble. Up to the present strenuous and persistent efforts have been made to secure a reprieve, but President Arthur remains firm and tells Guiteau's friends they need not indulge any hope. It is to be wished that he may remain in this excellent frame of mind till after next Friday, when the murderer of Garfield will be hanged.

MASONIC EXCURSION.

A VERY PLEASANT TRIP BY A LARGE AND HAPPY PARTY.

The anniversary of the natal day of St. John the Baptist, being held in high reverance by the Masonic fraternity, the brethren of Peterborough and Lakefield, with a desire to celebrate it in a way that would be both becoming to the day itself and pleasant to themselves, organized the very pleasant and successful excursion that took place last Monday, which day was selected instead of Saturday, St. John's day, from business and other considerations. At 7.30 punctually the train was ready with its party of about two hundred passengers, including the Lakefield contingent which arrived by an earlier train. The excursion passengers were the first to use the five new excursion coaches that composed the train, and were used, we believe, that day for the first time. As the train progressed toward Belleville it received considerable additions to its passenger list from Keene, Norwood, Hastings, Campbellford, etc; before the train reached the city it had over three hundred on board.

BELLEVILLE WAS REACHED

at 12 o'clock, the train stopping at the Dafoe House, now conducted by Mr. A. F. Huffman, an old Peterborough favorite, who met the excursion party and made them welcome to the hospitality of his hotel, which is first-class in all respects. After the guests, who pretty well filled the house, had refreshed themselves with face baths and otherwise, DINNER WAS SERVED.

In anticipation of this, the committee had, on the road, gone through the coaches and taken the names of over 200 who wanted dinner, and had telegraphed to Mr. Huffman to that effect. However, dinner was partaken of by over three hundred and the repast was well served considering the circumstances, and everybody rose from the tables well satisfied in all respects some of the party were taken in charge by the Belleville brethren and taken to the Masonic hall, and to see the sights of the city, after which they took the street cars which were in waiting for them and proceeded to the wharf where they were met by the rest of the company who had strolled thither. The steamer Quinte was boarded and she steamed across the bay

TO MASSASSAGA POINT.

In this delightful spot, where the hand of art has added conveniences for comfort to its natural beauty, the company spent about an hour. Here they enjoyed the rambles among the shady aisles of this charming retreat, or stretched themselves at length on the cool herbage amidst bosky thickets, whose branches excluded the fierce heat of the sun, but not the bracing breeze from the bay, which filtered through them, odorous with the stolen fragrance of the pine and cedar.

SAIL ON THE BAY.

After an hour was spent on the point, the steamer was boarded and a steam of an hour more over the waters of the bay was eagerly enjoyed. The steamer returning, to the city the party prepared for supper at the Dafoe House. At six o'clock all was ready for the start homeward, and as the train moved out loud cheers were given by the Peterborough brethren to mine host of the Dafoe House and the Belleville brethren who had come to give their visitors

A HEARTY "SEND-OFF."

The journey home was rather slow, there being numerous stoppages to allow passengers to alight, etc. The way, however, was lightened by the employment of the musical resources of both the Peterborough and Lakefield parties. After the train left Hastings, the excursionists from these two places got together, and with singing songs, chat, chaff, laugh and joke gave welcome relief to the tedium of the trip, for it was 12 o'clock before the train drew up at the Midland station. On the whole, the day was delightfully spent. The committee were most assiduous and successful in attending to the comfort and convenience of the excursionists. The hospitalities of Belleville were generously and freely extended, and the only serious drawbacks to the general comfort and enjoyment were the necessarily slow progress of the train, due to so many stoppages on the way from here to the city, and the blinding dust that filled some of the streets in the latter place.

FRATERNAL COURTESIES.

The Intelligencer says that "among the Masonic brethren who came to the city on the excursion train this (Monday) morning, were the following: W. Bros. E. H. D. Hall, R. E. Wood, R. P. Boucher, M.D., R. A. Morrow, H. C. Winch, H. C. Rogers, R. S. Davidson, Dr. McCrea, N. D. Beck, John McClelland, G. S. Sproule, B. Shortly, D. Belleghem, Chas. Cameron, W. Patterson and Dr. Shaw, from Peterborough; Dr. Bell, R. Graham and W. H. Casement, from Lakefield; R. L. Dench, Geo. Cochrane, John Clarin, J. Bird and R. English, from Keene; and — German, from Hastings. They were met here by the following local brethren: L. H. Henderson, Jas. Smith, W. H. Ponton, J. P. Thomas, Alex. Robertson, Geo. D. Dickson, W. L. Hamilton, P. H. Hambly, A. McKeown, A. Brignall, Thos. Kelso, J. Macoun and others. The lodge-rooms were visited and refreshments partaken of prior to the departure of the visitors for the Point."

The Masonic brethren of Peterborough and Lakefield are to be congratulated on the pleasant success of their St. John's day excursion.

NO; IT WAS NOT A "FORGERY."

Mr. George Lipsett writes to the Review, complaining that his name appears on Mr. Roxburgh's nomination paper, when he did not sign it. His name does not appear there, nor did it appear in THE EXAMINER of the 15th. But the name of A. Lipsett appears as one that signed Mr. Roxburgh's paper, and it appeared there in this wise. Our reporter, who was a comparative stranger here at the time, and who did not know whether Geo. Lipsett was Tory or Grit, in copying the signatures came to a name that "stuck" him. The signature looked as if written very hastily and carelessly, as most signatures are, and was run into another name. The "a" was plain enough, and he, knowing that there was a Lipsett in the East Riding, and seeing a "p" and two "t"s" in the signature, he concluded that it was the name of A. Lipsett, when it was, in fact, the name of "A. Kempt." In this way the mistake, a purely clerical one, was made. We give Mr. Lipsett the explanation he deserves, but if he had really wished to have an explanation he would have applied for it at the EXAMINER.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 29, 1882.

Notes of the Day.

THE PRICES which are frequently realised in Great Britain for works of art are perfectly fabulous. Recently a picture sale was held at Christie's London, at which three paintings brought the enormous sum of $74,285! Two of these were entitled "The Babylonian Marriage Market," and "The Suppliants," both being the work of E. Long, R. A. They were purchased by Mr. Holloway, the great patent medicine maker. He is forming a gallery at an institution for the insane, which he is building, at an enormous expense, at a place called Virginia Water.

THE REVISED OLD TENTAMENT, will not be issued it is thought, much before 1884. The company, which consists of twenty-seven members, under the Presidency of the Bishop of Winchester, are getting on rapidly with the work. For the second time they have reached the book of Daniel, and the changes and emendations being made, it is whispered, are very numerous. Two-thirds of the members belong to the Church of England, but there are also representatives of the Wesleyan, Baptist and Presbyterian denominations. The cost of revising the New Testament, met by the authorities of the two great Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, who thereby obtained the right of publishing the work, was over $100,000.

DECORATION DAY, in the Republic to the South of the line, was duly observed again this year. An incident in connection therewith reminds us of the truth of the old latin proverb—"Tempora mutantur," etc. Truly the times indeed are changed when Ingersoll, a professed infidel, a man who denounces the scriptures and pours scorn and insult on the Christian religion, could be brought forward as the chief orator on such an occasion! Does this mean, as some say, that religion is declining, that infidelity is greatly on the increase, and that the tendency of the day is to scoff and revile that which our forefathers were ready to receive and adore? Or does it simply signify that the management of these civic and national festivals is in the hands of unscrupulous and ungodly men?

GERMANY is suffering so terribly under the grievous taxation, caused by the enormous military establishment she keeps up, that the people are in a state of extreme discontent and misery. The military are, of course, non-producers, and must be supported by taxation. Two years ago the protection fallacy was tried there, in order to aid the struggling industries of the country. The result was a large increase in the cost of living to the workingmen, and much consequent opposition. Now Bismarck proposes that the Government shall, in order to raise the revenue in a less objectionable manner, take over to itself the manufacture and sale of tobacco throughout the empire. This plan looks bad indeed, and will not help the case. In fact thousands are now leaving the country, and will do so until the Government spend less on Bismarck's hobby, the army.

THE LIFE-BOAT SERVICE of England and Ireland is in an admirable condition, and is becoming more and more serviceable owing to its greater efficiency, and to modern scientific improvements in life-saving apparatus. Eleven new lifeboats were placed at various stations last year. The institution was the means of saving, during the same period, no less than 1,121 lives from different shipwrecks. There are now 271 life-boats under the management of the institution, which was established in the year 1823. Up to the end of 1881, that is in the last 58 years, the number of lives saved through the exertions of its officials, and for which it has granted rewards, foots up to 28,724. The expenditure for the last twelve months, as gifts for saving lives was £5,783, besides the cost of 35 medals, granted as rewards for special acts of heroism. Since the establishment of the Institution it has expended £570,000 on life boat stations and apparatus, besides £70,200 in pecuniary rewards, 95 gold, and 948 silver medals. The total receipts for 1881 were £36,419, and expenditure £37,781. Such a society commends itself to the sympathies of all men, and certainly deserves the largest measure of openhanded support.

WITH THE ENGLISHMEN cheese, as an article of food, is almost a necessity, and though their country is far-famed for its production of this edible, they depend considerably on foreign lands for a supply. American cheese especiallly, is in great demand, and there are those who assert that many a cheese of English make reaches this side of the Atlantic, and returning is sold for the genuine American article, at a greatly enhanced price. Stilton, Gloucester, and Cheshire are all put one side by gourmands, when a bit of good Canadian cheese is to be had. Of course the imports from the United States of this commodity is the greatest, amounting for the last year to 130,374,928 pounds. Canada, however, stands second, having sent to Great Britain last year 33,540,528 pounds of cheese. Holland, which is noted for its dairy productions, and which, because of its close proximity to Britain, is more likely to be called upon to meet their wants, supplied 29,638,112 pounds. The chief consignments are received at Liverpool, London, Glasgow and Bristol. The total imports for last year amounted to 1,840,090 cwts., (the hundred weight being 112 pounds,) and the assessed value £5,245,115.

THE CAPABILITIES of the electric current as a motive power, as yet largely remain unknown, but that it is destined to revolutionize present methods of working is tolerably certain. A novel application of the current to motive purposes was recently made in France, an account of which will, we believe, interest our readers. In the Calvados Department there are large bleaching fields, covering nearly forty acres of meadow. Webs of linen one hundred yards in length, are there laid down to bleach. Hitherto the lifting and transport of the cloth has been done by manual and horse power, steam engines raising too much dust and smoke. An electric tramway was laid in the fields to accomplish the work of carrying the linen, by the proprietor, M. Duchesne-Foremot. The line was over 2,000 yards long, and the train consists of an electric locomotive and tender, followed by a number of low wide trucks to hold the linen. The motor is arranged so as to turn a pair of winding reels, which pull in the long rolls of linen from the green so that they can be laid on the wagons. The power is derived from a battery of sixty Faure accumulators, weighing about half a ton. The total weight of the train, together with the workman and the passengers, is estimated at about about 14,000 pounds. The accumulators are charged from a Gramme machine, which works well. The experiment, altogether has been a decided success.

THE SYNOD OF TORONTO.

(Crowded out last Week.)

The thirtieth session of the above council was held last week in the city of Toronto. The opening services were held on Tuesday, the 13th June, in St. George's Church, and were fully choral. Rev. W. Reiner preached an admirable sermon. The delegates, clerical and lay, subsequently assembled in the school room of the church of the Ascension, when the Bishop delivered his annual charge. The attendance of lay delegates was much below the ordinary, many of them being greatly interested in the elections. The Bishop's address was thoroughly practical, and gave evidence of the growth of the church in the Diocese. The Mission Fund, especially, is in a healthy condition and the number of clergy is steadily advancing, while the men recently ordained are doing a splendid work.

At the recent Synod little business of importance was transacted, the chief matter being the rejection of the new constitution which has been under discussion for some years. Although there are 133 clergy on the Diocesan list only 82 of these recorded their votes when the resolution calling for the conformation of the constitution was put, of these 63 voted nay and 19 yea.

The Clergy Commutation Trust reported the total receipts as $23,273.25, and expenditure nearly the same. 46 clergy receive from this fund sums ranging from $200 to $730 each, per annum. The invested capital from the clergy reserves held for this fund amounts to over $385,000.

The Endowment of See and Rectory Lands committee were enabled this year for the first time to give an account of the St. James' Rectory Fund, Toronto. Owing to the death of the late Dean the salary obtained by him (with the exception of $8,000) retained for his successor, is to be divided pro rata among the sixteen city rectors. Their share as agreed to will range from $500 to over $1000 annually the smallest and poorest churches receiving the largest grants. A very equitable division has been made which received the sanction of the Synod. The annual income of the St James' Rectory from rentals and sales of land was $19,374.12 last year.

The Mission Board reported an advance in subscriptions and collections of $2,213 over last year. Forty missions are now aided in the Diocese, the annual expenditure being $10,435. A new scheme for securing monthly subscriptions for mission purposes has been inaugurated and promises to be very successful. Among contributions to the fund last year we find Peterborough credited with $220.53, Ashburnham $227.76 and Lakefield (North Douro) $63.93. After the election of the various standing committees, the Widows and Orphans' Fund was taken up. The committee acknowledged a bequest of $1000 from the late Major Campbell of Cobourg. The balance at the credit of the account and available for investment was $21,452.77. The income for the past year was $5,448.30, and the expenditure $4,955.52. There are now on the pension list twenty widows and twelve orphans.

The report of the S. S. Committee was adopted and the Institute Leaflets published by them recommended by the Synod for use in the Diocese.

Various resolutions, most of them unimportant, passed in due course, but on Friday, occurred as usual, the slaughter of the innocents—several being withdrawn or laid over until next year.

The Synod adjourned on Saturday having been in session five days, a great part of which was lost in unprofitable discussion.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

June Session.

WEDNESDAY.

The report of the Committee in reference to the report of the Townships of Asphodel and Douro, to be represented by deputy Reeves, was read as follows:—

To the Warden and Council of the County of Peterborough, in Council Assembled:

GENTLEMEN,—The Committee to whom was referred the matter of the right of certain Townships (Asphodel and Douro) to be represented by Deputy-Reeves in the County Council, beg leave to report.

The Committee met on the 14th instant, and at the request of C. A. Weller, Solicitor for the Township of Asphodel, and also of Messrs. Walsh and McCliggott, Deputy-Reeves. The Committee adjourned for two weeks, to enable the clerks of Asphodel and Douro to prepare a list as follows:—

1st.—Number of freeholders and householders, named in second column (440.) 2nd.—Number of freeholders, named in column six and not in column No. 2 (24). 3rd.—Number of persons named and counted twice in column two (none.) 4th—Number of farmers' sons who are sons of freeholders with property assessed high enough to entitle them to a vote (50.) 5th—Number of tenants and farmers' sons with the same property qualifications as in No. 4 (7) 6th—Number of income voters (none.) 7th Number of persons assessed in column two, not assessed high enough to entitle them to vote (3.) and for the clerks of the said townships to appear before the Committee at its adjourned meeting with the original assessment rolls of their municipalities.

The Committee met on the 28th instant, pursuant to adjournment; Mr. John Powell, Clerk of Asphodel, and Mr. John Walsh, Deputy-Reeve, appeared before the Committee with the original assessment roll of Asphodel, and a statement in accordance with the request of the Committee, hereunto annexed, shewing five hundred and fourteen persons who appear upon the roll, of which fifty appear as farmers' sons of freeholders, with the property qualification of voters, who, in the opinion of Mr. E. B. Edwards, County Solicitor, (who appeared before the Committee) are not entitled to be counted, in order to entitle the municipality to a Deputy-Reeve, whilst Mr. Weller, Solicitor on behalf of Asphodel, contended that farmers' sons of freeholders, appearing on the roll, are entitled to be counted for said purpose. We therefore submit the matter to you for further consideration. As to the right or otherwise of Asphodel, to be represented by a Deputy-Reeve, the same so far as your Committee have been able to ascertain, depending on the legal point namely: whether freeholders' farmers' sons, whose names appear upon the roll, should be counted when ascertaining the number of freeholders and householders that appear upon the roll possessing the same property qualification as voters.

Your Committee further report that Mr. McCliggott, Deputy-Reeve of Douro, and Mr. O'Brien, Clerk of the township, appeared before the Committee on the 14th inst., and although they also attended on the 28th inst., they declined to hand in a statement as to the rolls, as required by the resolution passed at the first meeting. Your Committee, after investigation of the roll filed in the office of the County Treasurer, find the following as the number of names appearing on the roll:—Total number of freeholders and householders possessing the same property qualification as voters, 434; total number of farmers' sons assessed for the proper amount of properity, 51. This shows a total of 488 persons possessing the proper qualification, including farmers' sons. There are nine freeholders and householders numbered on the roll who are assessed for less than $100; one of them being as low as $12, and one farmers' son assessed for less than $100. There would thus be only 498 names on the roll in any case. Therefore, in the opinion of your Committee, the Township of Douro is clearly not entitled to a Deputy-Reeve, whether farmers' sons be counted or not.

M. SANDERSON,
Chairman of Committee.

The report was received.

Moved by Mr. Burnham, seconded by Mr. Kidd,—That the opinion of Christopher Robinson, Q. C., be obtained as to the right of farmers' sons to be calculated in estimating the number of persons to entitle a municipality to a Deputy-Reeve, and that in the meantime no further action be taken on the enquiry as to the rights of certain Deputy-Reeves of this Council.—Carried.

A communication was received from Inspector Brown, stating that owing to his having been appointed one of the Examiners of the Normal School students at Toronto, he would not be present at this session of the Council.

The Council then adjourned until Wednesday morning, to allow the Committee to report on the Warden's address.

THURSDAY.

Morning Session.

Council assembled at the usual hour. All the members present. The whole of the morning was occupied with the sittings of the Committees on Roads and Bridges, and on Schools.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 1.30 p. m. Council met.

After routine proceedings,

A communication was read from Dr. Kincaid, recommending Peter Whytock, suffering from incurable paralysis, as a fit object of charity.—Referred to Finance Committee.

WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

On motion of Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. McCliggott, leave was given to read the report of the Committee on the Warden's address, which was done by Mr. Moloney, chairman, as follows:

The special Committee on the Warden's address beg leave to report, recommending:

1st.—That a legal opinion be obtained as to the right of farmers' sons to count in estimating the number of ratepayers to entitle a municipality to a Deputy-Reeve.

2d.—That this Committee regret that no decision has yet been given in the Grand Junction suit, but trust that when a decision is given it will be favourable to this County.

3d.—That your Committee are glad to hear that so substantial a bridge has been erected at Lakefield, and that the same is so creditable to the contractors and engineer.

4th.—The Committee endorse the action of the Warden in the matter of the Mud Lake and Locks bridges.

5th.—That the question, as to repairing or rebuilding the several bridges mentioned, be referred to the Roads and Bridge Committee.

JOHN MOLONEY,
June 21st, 1882. Chairman.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Lang, the report was adopted.

INTERMUNICIPAL AWARD.

It was moved by Mr. Barnham, seconded by Mr. Kidd and carried,—That the award between the county and town, (respecting expense of administration of justice and maintenance of jail) having expired on the 1st of January last, and it being desirable to save the expense of a new arbitration, this Council are willing to allow the same award to stand for three years from the 1st of January last, if the town are also willing, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Town Council with a request that they

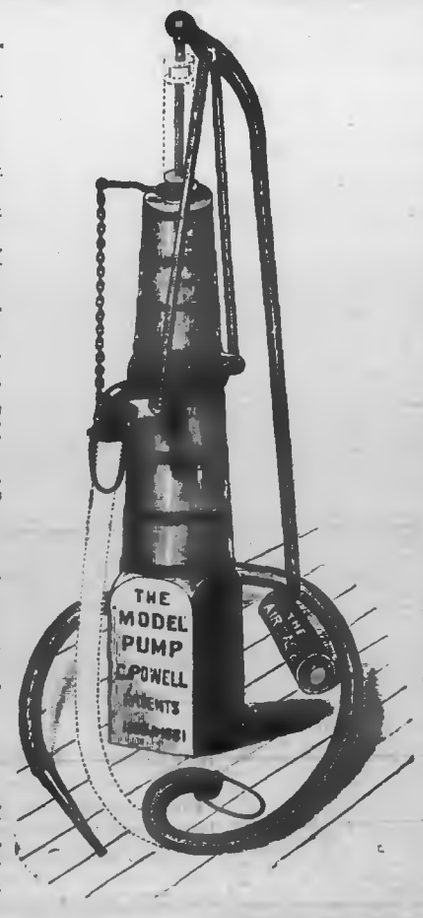
New Patent Force Pumps!

AHEAD OF ALL COMPETITION.

In again presenting the claims of my justly Celebrated Pumps to the attention of my numerous friends in the Town and County of Peterborough, I beg to return my sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage accorded to me during the fourteen years that I have conducted the Pump business in this midst. After such a long experience I feel convinced that I know what constitutes a Good Pump, and as long as I remain in the business, I am determined to furnish an article unsurpassed by any in the Dominion.



During my long residence in Peterborough, my business has continued to grow, and I have been able to extend it to other localities. I wish to call special attention to the above cut is a representation. This Pump, I can confidently claim is the best Combined, Lift and Force Pump made. It is adapted to all the uses to which an ordinary Lift Pump may be applied, and is frequently of incalculable value in case of Fire, and is just what is wanted for washing Buggies and Windows, Watering Gardens, Lawns, &c., &c., &c. The improvements in this Pump are the results of over twenty year's experience.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

LAW EXPENSES.

On motion of Mr. Walsh, seconded by Mr. Moloney,—The matter of the payment for the legal services of Mr. C. A. Weller before the Committee, intrusted with the duty of reporting on the right of certain townships to Deputy-Reeves, was referred to the Finance Committee.

Council adjourned till 9 o'clock, Friday morning.

FRIDAY.

Council met at 10 a.m., the Warden in the chair. All the members present.

After routine proceedings, the Warden alluded to the question of the approaches of the Lakefield bridge, which the Reeve thought should be fixed by the County, but he had thought differently, and since that time the approaches had been repaired at the expense of the municipality.

In regard to the Kinmount bridge he had not mentioned the matter in his address, because he had no certain information in reference to it from the County Engineer. The suit in reference to the matter would be heard in Toronto next fall.

Mr. Sanderson also made some explanations in relation to the matter.

SCHOOL LEVY.

On motion of Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. Stewart,—leave was granted to read the report of the COMMITTEE ON SCHOOLS,

which was done as follows:—

To the Warden and members of the County Council:

Your Committee beg leave to report, recommending that the sum of $2,652.00 shall be levied and collected in the several townships of the County of Peterborough, for the use of Public Schools, for the year 1882, in the proportion set opposite the name of each township, as hereinafter mentioned; said amount being required by the Public School Act of the Province of Ontario, as equivalent to the legislative public grant of the said province of Ontario, to the said county of Peterborough:

Asphodel	$191 00
Belmont, etc	250 00
Burleigh	143 00
Douro	251 00
Dummer	282 00
Ennismore	145 00
Galway	160 00
Harvey	131 00
Monaghan	104 00
Otonabee	505 00
Smith	369 00
	2652 00

All of which is respectfully submitted,

JOHN MOLONEY, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

LAKEFIELD BRIDGE.

On motion of Mr. Strickland seconded by Mr. Burnham, the Warden was authorized to have notices put up on Lakefield bridge, regulating speed of travel over said bridge.

COUNTY AWARD.

Mr. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Kidd,—That a By-law be prepared to confirm the award between the town and county (respecting Administration of Justice, etc.,) so that it may stand as an agreement for three years from 31st December, 1881, and that the By-law provide for the appointment of Mr. John Carnegie as arbitrator for the county, in the event of the same not agreeing to such confirmation.

Motion agreed to.

LOCKS AND NASSAU BRIDGES.

The Warden said he would like an expression of opinion of the Council, in reference to the action it would be proper to take in reference to the construction of the Locks and Nassau bridges.

Moved by Mr. Stewart, seconded by Mr. Golborne,—That the Warden be instructed to advertise, in the United States and Canada for tenders for the construction of a swing for the Locks bridge, and also for the construction of the Nassau bridge and that he act in concert with the Council of Peterborough in the matter of the Locks bridge.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. McCliggott, Mr. Moloney was granted leave to introduce a by-law to raise a sum of money to form part of the County School Fund, fon the current year, and a by-law was introduced and duly passed, to raise the sum of $2,652, to form part of said fund.

Council adjourned.

Afternoon Session.

At 2 p.m. Council resumed.

LADIES DEPUTATION.

Mr. J. E. Belcher introduced Mrs. Gilmour, President, and Mrs. Col. Haultain, Directoress of the Protestant Home, and on motion they were allowed to be heard.

Mrs. Gilmour said that they appeared in reference to the case of the Whytocks, now inmates of the home. The Council would remember that at the January session, a grant of $60 had been made to keep these parties in the home till April. April had come and gone and these parties were still unwilling to leave their quarters, and as the managers did not like to thrust them on the streets, they came to find out if the County Council would take any action. The Whytocks did not belong to Peterborough, and the home was kept and maintained for the benefit of the poor of the town alone.

A good deal of discursive talk followed, there being a general agreement that there should be some scheme instituted in the way of an industrial farm or otherwise, which would care for the poor of the county and be maintained at the general expense.

Finally, on motion, the matter was referred to the Finance Committee, and the deputation, after thanking the Council for its courteous reception and patient hearing, withdrew.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Mr. Burnham introduced a By-law relating to the division of the expense of providing for the Administration of Justice and the maintenance of the jail, etc., which duly passed its several readings and became by-law.

The by-law provides, that in the event of the municipal corporation of the Town of Peterborough agreeing to pay, and paying to the County of Peterborough the sum of $1,592 annually for three years, the County agrees to accept that sum in full payment of its claims against them for the purposes mentioned, and that in the event of the town declining to enter into the agreement mentioned, John Carnegie be appointed arbitrator on behalf of the County of Peterborough.

EQUALIZATION.

On motion, leave was granted and Mr. Pearce, Chairman, read the report of Committee on equalization of assessment as follows:—

The Committee to whom was referred the equalization of Assessment Rolls of the several municipalities for the County of Peterborough, beg leave to report:—

That the same basis adopted by the Council last year in equalizing the Assessment Rolls, for all county rates, be adopted for the year 1882. The annexed classified schedule shows the exact amount that each municipality is to be assessed for county purposes, for the year 1882, and also gives under its varied headings, important statistics for each municipality.

County Council Chamber, June 24, 1882.

HOME FOR THE POOR.

On motion of Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Lang, the Warden was requested to appoint a committee to report at the next meeting of the Council the best course to pursue in providing a Home for the poor and destitute of the different municipalities in this County, and that it shall be a part of their duty to obtain information regarding the expense of maintaining like institutions in other counties of this Province.

In compliance with the above resolution, the committee was named, consisting of the Warden, and Messrs. Strickland, Burnham and Moloney.

A By-law to confirm the report of the Committee on Equalization of assessment was duly passed.

Council adjourned.

SATURDAY.

Council met at 10 a.m., the Warden in the chair and all the members present.

After routine proceedings, on motion leave was granted and Mr. Lang read the report of the Committee on

ROADS AND BRIDGES,

as follows:—

The Committee on Roads and Bridges beg leave to report recommending:—

1st.—That the Burleigh bridge be re-floored with the planks taken from the Lakefield bridge, under the superintendence of the County Engineer and Warden.

2nd. That a new iron bridge be built at Nassau.

3rd.—That the Deer River bridge be repaired by this county in conjunction with the county of Hastings, and that Mr. Burgess be the commissioner on behalf of this county.

4th.—That a new iron swing be erected at the lock at the joint expense of the county and town.

5th.—That the necessary repairs be made to the Mud Lake bridge, under the superintendence of the Engineer and Warden.

6th.—That no action be taken with regard to the Norwood Bridge.

7th. That an application be sent to the County of Northumberland, to replank the swing and repair the Wallace Point Bridge with the intimation that this Council will pay one half the cost of the same.

8th.—That Messrs. Moloney and Sanderson be a committee to act with the Warden in rebuilding the Nassau Bridge, and that Mr. Stewart, with the Warden, be the committee for the Locks bridge.

JOHN LANG. Chairman.

June 24th, 1882.

On motion of Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. Burgess,—The report was adopted.

Mr. Rork read the report of the committee on

COUNTY PROPERTY

as follows:—

1st.—That the Warden and County Engineer have the Clerk and Treasurer's office enlarged, and that the work be done under the supervision of the County Engineer under contract, and that the Clerk's office be repaired and cleaned and the floors painted.

2d.—That a wash-house be erected in the jail yard and a stove be purchased for the same under the supervision of the jailer, and that the woodshed be re-shingled.

THOMAS ROKK, Chairman.

June 24th, 1882.

The report was adopted.

On leave being granted, Mr. Golborne, Chairman, read the report of the Committee on

FINANCE

as follows:—

The Committee on Finance beg leave to report, recommending as follows:—

1st.—That the grant made to the Norwood High School at the last session of the Council be paid by your Treasurer as soon as demanded.

That the following accounts and claims be paid:

H. C. Rogers, postage	$ 19 30

Mr.—With reference to the application of the ladies of the Peterborough Protestant Home for a grant in aid of the support of the Whytocks, your Committee cannot recommend that any action be taken.

4th.—That in the matter of the debenture rates, your Committee recommend that inasmuch as it appears that the amount that is provided shall be levied under Debenture By-laws No. 355 and 373, will produce a sum largely in excess of the amount required, that the clerk be instructed to levy such an amount only as will be sufficient to meet this year's sinking fund and interest, and that one half only of the rate provided under By-law 434 be collected for the reason that only one half of the debentures authorized to be issued thereunder have been issued.

5th. That owing to the construction of the Lakefield bridge, and the proposed construction of a new bridge at Nassau, and a swing at the locks, properly chargeable to capital account, the sum of $6,680.92 be obtained by the sale of unsold debentures now in the hands of the treasurer, whenever the money may be required and the balance of the current expenditure, $21,794.38 less the estimated revenue, be met by the levy of a rate of a rate of 2½ mills in the dollar on the equalized assessment.

5th.—That the payment of certain accounts and claims amounting to $6,792.20 by your treasurer be confirmed.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAMES GOLBORNE. Chairman.

June 24th, 1882.

BRIDGE COMMITTEES.

Mr. Lang introduced a by-law to appoint certain committees to have charge of the construction of the Nassau bridge and the Locks bridge, and accordingly the by-law was passed, appointing as the committee to superintend the construction of the Nassau Bridge:—Messrs. the Warden, Moloney and Sanderson, and providing that for the Locks swing, Messrs. the Warden, Burnham and Stewart be a committee to act jointly with a committee of the town of Peterborough, both committees to have power to advertise for tenders, make contracts and order payments.

A by-law was passed confirming the report of the Finance Committee.

COUNTY RATE.

Mr. Golborne introduced a by-law to provide for raising a sum of $21,794.38 for general county purposes, which was duly passed its several readings.

CONFIRMING BY-LAW.

On motion of Mr. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Burnham, a resolution was adopted, (bearing the seal of the Corporation, to give it the force of a by-law), confirming a by-law passed by the Council of Dummer, confirming the sale of a concession line in said township.

PLOUGHING MATCH.

Mr. Redmond was heard before the Council to solicit a grant for the ploughing match to be held next October.

Messrs. Golborne and Strickland opposed the grant on the ground that a similar one was improperly expended last year.

The Warden made some personal explanations in reference to his action on the Committee in regard to the expenditure of last year's grant, and

On motion of Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. Burgess, the Council granted a sum of $100, on condition that the East and West riding Agricultural Societies grant $50 each, and Mr. Stewart was appointed a member, on behalf of the county, of the joint Committee to superintend the expenditure of the money.

ADJOURNMENT.

On motion of Mr. Golborne, seconded by Mr. Sanderson, the Council adjourned sine die.

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & CO.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

I remain Gentlemen,

Electoral Reform.

Now that the contest is over, public attention can be profitably directed to a matter which recent events have made one of the greatest possible urgency. For the first time in the history of Canada we have had introduced the infamous practice of tampering with the boundaries of constituencies, for no other reason than to give one political party an advantage over the other. Nothing could be more demoralizing, as any one can see who considers for a moment what would be the effect of a redistribution of seats in the Ontario Assembly carried out in the interest of the Liberal party. If Mr. Mowat were to undertake the task of "hiving" the Tories of this Province, he would be able to cite the example set him by Sir John Macdonald, and he would be able also to urge that, as Ontario was specially singled out for gerrymandering in order that she might be deprived of territory awarded her, it was necessary to keep the Liberal party in power as a means of seeing that she was not finally defrauded of her rights.

It is now an absolute certainty that we cannot go on without a change in our system of representation. We must have larger geographical areas with a larger number of members for each—say three, or five, or seven—and each voter must be allowed to vote for as many as he pleases up to a certain number. On no other plan can gerrymandering be preveuted and this has the additional merit of affording the minority a chance of something like adequate representation.

But if we are to have such constituencies and such a manner of voting, no elector must be allowed to cast more than one vote. This involves a good deal of difficulty, unless the common sense step is taken of separating the political franchise altogether, and basing it on citizenship and residence. During the late election some men boasted of having voted for as many as five candidates each, in as many different constituencies. Now why should any man have a right to vote more than once for those who are to represent him in Parliament? It is right enough that property, which pays municipal taxes should be the basis of the municipal franchise, but property pays no taxes into either the Dominion or the Provincial treasury and therefore in all political elections the man and not his property should carry the voting power.

It is time we had manhood suffrage for other reasons. There are many good citizens now deprived of a vote who are just as capable of exercising the franchise as those who have the privilege of voting. It is time they were enfranchised and put on the footing of real citizenship. Every man who has the franchise is placed under responsibility to use it to the best advantage for the whole country, and the sense of this responsibility tends to make him a better man. That so many think too little of the privilege to make use of it at all, and that others see in the franchise only a chance of making a few dollars by selling it at election times, are not valid reasons for keeping men who might use it well from doing so.

The electoral reforms just indicated, together with the much needed reconstruction or abolition of our mediæval Senate must henceforth be kept steadily before the public mind. It is not likely that Sir John Macdonald, who stooped to the base practice of gerrymandering the constituencies will do anything to make gerrymandering impossible. On the Liberal party devolves the task of amending the constitution in the ways pointed out, and if Mr. Blake wishes to carry the best men of all praties with him, he should commence at once and in earnest, to reconstruct his platform with parliamentary reform as its chief plank.

A Cowardly Course.

It is no matter of surprise to those who are acquainted with the character and course of the Review, that it should pursue a political opponent in an unscrupulous and cowardly manner. Mr. John Bertram, who chose, as was his undeniable right, to take a prominent part in the late contests in both ridings, has been most bitterly, unfairly and persistently attacked by the Review. We do not set ourselves up as the defenders of Mr. Bertram particularly—he is competent in every way to defend himself—but we do object, on the ground of decency and fair play, against a gentleman who devotes his time to the promotion of the political principles whose triumph he honestly thinks will be for the good of his country, being, for that cause alone, assailed with gratuitous abuse and personal malignity. Not content with abusing Mr. B. during the course of the late canvass, when he had an occasional platform on which to vindicate himself, the Review man continues his assaults when he knows Mr. Bertram's hands are tied and he is not in a position to defend himself, and is without the medium for explanation that his enemy possesses for the attack. Nothing can be more mean and cowardly, and no honest man can endorse such a dastardly mode of onslaught on the character of a private citizen. But it is the policy of the editor of the Review to employ abuse in season and out of season. This policy not only merits and has the contempt of the Reform party, but it alienates the members of the party of which his paper is the organ, and so practically has it been condemned by his own friends, that to it alone can be attributed his recent contemptuous rejection as the Tory candidate in the recent election contest.

Provincial Officials.

The policy of the Dominion Government is, and has been, so palpably hostile to the Province of Ontario that when that Government was on its trial, the Ontario Government, or those who sympathized with it, as well as every son of Ontario not led away by party prejudices, felt it their duty to assist in the defence of the interests of this province. Against this the Tory sheets raise a howl. The Victoria Warder condemns the interference of Hon. S. C. Wood in the South Victoria election, and the Review even had the assurance to speak of the Tory party having had to contend in Peterborough against the influence of Provincial officials. This is certainly refreshing, coming from such a source, when it is a matter of notoriety that two of the local Provincial officials were actively and diligently engaged in canvassing for the Conservative candidate. This the Review knew well, but its editor, blind in his vindictiveness as in his party prejudices, could not, even though in so doing he condemned his own friends, resist using a chance of giving the local Crown Lands agent a vindictive thrust. He cannot forget the little Hunter street escapade, in which abusive scurility received merited chastisement.

Editorial Notes.

LIBERALISM is not dead by any means. In New Brunswick and Nova Scotia the respective Tory Ministeries have been handsomely defeated by the Liberals. There have been great rejoicings in Halifax, St. John and other leading cities.

THE country will watch anxiously for the millions of capital that was to flow into Canada if the National Policy was sustained. That it was sustained may be perhaps due to the supposition that no small amount of this capital found its way to circulation before the elections, the particular branch of manufacturing to which it was devoted being that of votes.

Two well-known editors, Mr. Innes of the Guelph Mercury, and Mr. Somerville of the Dundas Banner were among the successful Reform candidates on Tuesday. We are glad of it. They are able and excellent men. It will be a happy day for the country when the Dominion Parliament gets the benefit of a much larger infusion of the intellect and integrity of newspaper men.

With the ballot, says the Toronto Telegram, there should be no canvassing. The ballot was designed in order to make voting secret, but there can be no secrecy if every canvasser knows how the elector is to vote. The truth is that canvassing should be done away with. The only use it is now is to discover if the voter is still in the flesh, if he has left the riding, or if he will be at home on polling day. Little reliance is to be placed on electoral promises.

A circular from Messrs. Wimans & Co., predicts a blue lookout for the wool market this season. They say that unless our wools can be sold at a price to compete with U. S. carpet wools—18c to the grower at the outside—they will be quite unsalable, as American dealers will order their stock from England if the price runs higher. If all the mills in the Dominion using Canada wools were to run night and day for a year, they could not use up half of last year's crop yet unsold. Farmer's who have relied on the N. P. to advance the price of wool can see how much that has to do with it. The price paid for wool at Stratford this season has been higher than in any of the surrounding markets.

ONE of the most important subjects before the Methodist conference at Woodstock, was the trial of Rev. Dr. Burns of the Wesleyan Female College, Hamilton, for heresy. His alleged offence, as will be remembered, consisted in writing to Dr. Thomas, of Chicago, who was on trial for heretical utterances, a letter in which he avowed himself in harmony with his views to some extent, and in writing to newspapers commenting on that letter. The case was gone into at considerable length, Dr. Burns addressing the conference in his own behalf. The result of the trial was that Dr. Burns was sustained by an almost unanimous vote, his character and standing in the church being certified to.

THE BUCK LAKE MURDERER.

Uses the Rifle and Reaps the Rope.

VANKOUGHNET HANGED AT KINGSTON.

Sketch of the Crime Last Moments of the Doomed Man—Tobacco a Solace in Death.

(Special to the EXAMINER.)

KINGSTON, June 28.—This morning at 8.20 Vankoughnet paid the penalty of his crime, for the murder of John Richardson on the 13th of August last, near Buck Lake.

The facts of the murder have been fully published, and it is but necessary to revert to them in brief. He was a neighbour of Richardson's and about 8 o'clock, on the night of the day named, he hid himself in the bushes on the farm of his victim, and while the latter was going to his house with a scythe on his shoulder he and left the body lying where it fell. He afterwards took Richardson's horse out of the stable and put his own in its place, and then set fire to the building burning it to the ground. The horse was not disfigured sufficiently to destroy its identity. On the following morning he borrowed a buggy from a neighbor and hitching Richardson's horse to it drove to Elgin where he attempted to dispose of the animal in trade for another. The person with whom he tried to trade desired the ownership to be proved, but while the two were driving along the road to a place where Vaukoughnet said he could be identified, he changed his mind about trading and asked the man to buy the horse. A bargain was made, Vankoughnet receiving $27, all the money that the other had. The prisoner then entered the woods and after wandering through the country, he went on an island in Beck Lake and there for some days. None knew where he was secreted but the members of his own family. His wife took provisions to him by night in a boat, but finally his little four year old girl was influenced by the reception of three coopers to tell where her doomed father was, and shortly afterwards he was discovered and captured. When approached on the island and threatened to kill, but he was persuaded by his captors to give himself up. His captor a few weeks afterwards met with a fatal accident on the Kingston and Pembroke railway. Vankoughnet after his arrest, acknowledged having shot Richardson, and related the circumstances in detail. On last Wednesday he says he found peace with his Maker, and since that time a marked change has come over him, instead of being given to shedding tears he

REMAINED HIDDEN

HE DREW A KNIFE

READ THE BIBLE DILIGENTLY

since that date, and grew stronger in body and mind. Last evening the prisoner began to show signs of weakness, and complained that he did not feel well. He could not eat any supper prior to being locked in the cell. At six o'clock a special guard was placed on him during the night in order to prevent any attempt at suicide. He was sleeping soundly at ten, eleven, and two o'clock. About four he awoke and got out of bed. He looked very careworn and haggard, and again complained of weakness. His guard asked him if he would like an egg and a cup of tea, but he refused them, saying that it was impossible for him to eat anything. At half-past seven o'clock he drank a cup of tea, after which the Rev. Mr. Jolliffe read three passages of scripture and prayed with him until twenty minutes before the execution, and then taking a clean while handkerchief in his hand he announced himself ready. On reaching the corridor

HE SOBBED ALOUD,

holding the handkerchief to his eyes. He ascended the steps to the scaffold arm in arm with the minister, and once he turned around and said: "Is my brother not here? Is not that him at the door?" He was answered in the negative, when he went on crying bitterly and exclaiming: "Oh, my God! oh, dear me!" He was quite strong and required no assistance to walk. While his arms were being pinioned on the scaffold he told the hangman not to draw the cord so tight that it hurt him. When all was ready he cried aloud: "My God have mercy on my poor soul," and repeated it two or three times. He requested the gaoler to give his photograph to his mother, who is 70 years of age, and who visited him for the last time yesterday. The clergyman whispered something in his ear, when he said: "I'm ready," and spat out a large tobacco quid at the feet of the hangman. The minister then engaged in a short prayer and while he was saying the words, "God have mercy on this soul," the doomed man ejaculated, "Yes, Lord do, do Lord." At the word amen the bolt clicked and he was and his pulse ceased to beat 14 minutes after the drop. His neck was not broken. Death was caused by apoplexy. He requested that his body be handed over to his mother, which request will be complied with. There was only one spectator allowed in besides the press and the gaol officials.

The execution took place by lamplight. None of Vankoughnet's friends were present, not even his wife. She had some words with him when she visited him four weeks ago.

RAILWAY WORK OF THE Y.M.C.A.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—In behalf of the Y.M.C.A of Peterborough, I thank you for your "editorial" in the issue of 22nd inst., in re of "railroad men" and the efforts that are being made to advance their spiritual welfare. As an association we feel we are indebted to you in calling the attention of our citizens to this matter, because it gave us an opportunity, we have neglected, that is, of calling their attention to

WHAT WE ARE DOING

in this matter, and the reason why we are not doing more. Now, what are we doing? Every Sabbath young men—members of our association—travel about thirty miles, hold meetings and distribute tracts in nine of the shanties along the line of the "missing link." The exercises of these meetings consist of singing, reading the Scripture, and short addresses, we also visit the sick among them privately, talk with them about their soul's salvation, and I have only to add, we meet with great encouragement. As evidenced only yesterday, when leaving one shanty where the young man who was so seriously hurt on Friday last was stopping, he turned his head, and with tears running down his cheeks, said: "I will give myself to Christ this afternoon." The poor fellow has no father. He has a mother alive, but he does not know where she is. I might quote you more, but to do this work more thoroughly and a little financial aid. We have but few active workers. Not sufficient to do the work as it ought to be done, consequently it is impossible for us to carry out your suggestions as to the work in town, but if eight or ten young men who are willing to work will give their names to our President, J. F. Jeffers, Esq., we will then have a staff of workers sufficiently large to do railroad work thoroughly, and at the same time lighten the labors of the young men who are now doing this work, and it is very hard work for our young men. In addition to holding services in nine shanties, we hold service every Sabbath evening in Tully's school house, Smith, and at Nassau Mills. Now, having very hurriedly placed the facts before you, I trust, with the assistance of your praise worth article on the subject, the outcome will be that our young men will come up to the help of the Lord, by aiding us to do fully the work maped out for the Y.M.C.A.

WE NEED MORE WORKERS,

Yours, &c.,
W. J. MENORD,
Secretary.

Farmers and Mechanics.

Provide yourselves with a bottle of PAIN-KILLER at this season of the year, when summer complaints are so prevalent; it is a prompt, safe, and sure cure. It may save you days of sickness, and you will find it is more valuable than gold. Be sure you buy the genuine PERRY DAVIS PAIN-KILLER, and take no other mixture.

Consuma, Ont., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in these years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first-class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry Davis Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

Price 20c., 25c., and 50c. per bottle.

A CARD.

To the Electors of the West Riding of the County of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—I take this opportunity of returning thanks to those who, in the late election, gave me their support. More particularly do I thank those who took such an active part in the townships where I was least known. The result shows that the election was lost in this town, by the vote of many among whom I have lived my lifetime, and though disappointed at the result, I accept the situation. Personally I do not regret the defeat, yet I do so on account of my party and many friends who worked so hard for my return.

I am, Gentlemen, Yours,
JOHN J. LUNDY.

OMEMEE.

The Omemee Herald man acknowledges generous gifts of "garden sass."

The ladies of Christ Church hold a bazaar on Dominion Day.

Mr. Lamb, of Omemee drove two miles—and return—caught a lamb, brought it home, slaughtered and dressed it, and delivered it in the larder of Bradburn's Hotel in the space of half an hour. This is fast work, or it is a long time since the Herald man read the story of Ananias.

The Downeyville pic-nic was a great success, and Omemee boys secured most of the prizes.

Messrs. Isaac McNeeley and W. S. Cottingham went to Toronto as delegates from here, to attend the annual meeting of the Anglican synod of the diocese in that city.

The members of the young mens' literary association at their last (semi-annual) meeting, elected the following officers:—Mr. W. H. Curry, President; Messrs. Geo. Sherwood and Jos. A. Pritchard, 1st and 2nd vice-presidents; Geo. Lamb, secretary-treasurer; Jas. Williamson, librarian; J. Calder, Walter Elliott, Jno. Williamson, managing committee.

The contractors have completed the new eight foot sidewalk from George-st. to Sturgeon-st.

PORT HOPE.

Capt. Geo. Wright, of Port Hope, received a telegram from Quebec that his son Mark, who was mate of the steam barge Van Allen, which was unloading walnut timber at that port, had been knocked overboard and drowned. The particulars are not given. The deceased was 28 years of age, the fourth son of Capt. Geo. Wright. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his sudden death.

A Town Councillor got into a row on Tuesday, and subsequently found his face in unexpected contact with the open hand of a bystander. The matter was settled without an appeal to the Police Magistrate.

Mr. F. M. Beamish has received a Gold Medal Diploma for a sample of Canadian White Wheat Flour that he sent to the Paris Exhibition in 1878. It has been a long time coming, but it is none the less honor, now that it is here.

Mr. Wm. Henwood, president of Hope Cheese Factory, has sold five May cheese for 12¼ cents per lb, and the balance of the month's make for 12 cents per lb which is the highest price realised for May make during fourteen years.

Rev. Dr. O'Meara, Mrs. O'Meara, and Master Thos. O'Meara started last week for a trip to England. The pulpit of St. John's will be filled by a student from Trinity College during the reverend doctor's absence.

Port Hope dry goods merchants have adopted the early closing movement.

A few days ago a five-year-old daughter of Mr. J. J. Turner was drowned in the bay.

LINDSAY.

David Walker, Reeve of Ops, had ten valuable sheep killed by dogs, but the ten young lambs at their side were not harmed. Ops has no dog-by-law.

Lindsay, in feeble imitation of Peterborough, is occasionally refitting a shop front with plate glass.

Mr. Geo. G. Hilliard, of Peterborough, who has been lying seriously ill here in town for the last two weeks is much better and is able to be out.

Rev. Father Stafford has during the last two years placed out fifty-two orphan children—from four to sixteen years of age—sent out by Rev. Father Nugent from Liverpool, in good homes in Lindsay and neighborhood. Most of them have also the advantage of good schools.

The Post says that paper mill improvements will be so far advanced by the end of this week that everything will be nearly ready for the machinery which has been in the manufacturer's hands for the last two months. The boiling tubs are already in position. The boilers have been generally overhauled and new furnaces and grates were built underneath. Before getting up steam the boilers will be tested and if found satisfactory the engine will be tried. There will be a wide market for the product of the mill as the demand for this class of goods is increasing so rapidly that another concern is about being started at Peterborough.

The County Council of Victoria met last Tuesday.

The regular session of the Presbytery of Lindsay meet in the town of Lindsay on the last Tuesday of August.

Mr. T. Bartrow is filling a contract made with Mr. Boyd and Messrs. Strickland Bros., of Port Hope, to supply them each with about eight thousand feet of heavy timber, to be cut into lumber. The timber is brought from Haliburton, Minden, and other places in the back country. It is just being placed on cars in this town for shipment to Port Hope.

The Messrs. Daly Bros. late of the Daly house, have purchased the Globe hotel, but owing to a lease of the hotel they will not assume the control for a week or two. The Messrs. Daly Bros. are well-known in this town.

An immense amount of lumber is being shipped by Mr. M. D. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, to Albany, N.Y. The lumber is brought to Lindsay on scows, and then transferred to the Midland Railway cars for shipment.

TRIPLE TRAGEDY.

Horrible Murder and Suicide.

On Wednesday the 21st a terrible murder was perpetrated in Hamilton, resulting in the instant death of three persons, on the Central School grounds. About two weeks ago a man named Alexander Forbes came from Erie, Penn., and did his utmost to persuade his wife (who was engaged as housekeeper for Mr. George Ralston, of the Central School), to give up her situation and take up with him again. He had paid several visits to the woman, and used all the powers of persuasion of which he was capable for the accomplishment of this purpose. Mrs. Forbes had borne with his dissipated ways and abuse too long in her American home to accede to his request, and repeatedly told her husband that she would never have anything more to do with him. It may be stated that it is six years since she and her children left him and came to Hamilton. He returned to the house this morning and urged her to revoke her decision, but she was immoveable, telling him that it were better for them both that it should not be. Returning at two o'clock, he again urged her to leave her place and live with him. The same answer was given, and Forbes, who appeared greatly excited, placed something in the hand of his little son Ernest, which, he said, would serve to remember them by, and pulling out a seven shooter fired two shots at his wife. She, as soon as he pulled the weapon, ran behind Mr. Ralston, who was standing near by, and Mr. R. received one of the bullets in his head. The woman sank down on the sidepath, and died almost immediately, and Ralston could not have lived more than five seconds, so true was the scoundrel's aim. The murderer then placed the weapon to his own breast, fired, and dropped under a tree, a few feet from his victims.

Forbes is a man of 35 or 40 years of age, and although of dissipated appearance, cannot be said to possess the face of a murderer. With Mrs. Forbes at Ralston's house were three of her children, Katie, aged nineteen, Willie fifteen and and Ernest 12. They are remarkably fine children. Mr. Ralston's sudden taking off leaves three children totally unprovided for, and the sympathy of the citizens has been aroused in their behalf. Forbes had $120 in his pockets when the body was searched,

GOOD OMENS.

THE HEART OF THE DOMINION WITH THE LIBERALS STILL.

The most progressive part of the Dominion, and the wealthiest, went overwhelmingly Liberal in the recent fight, remarks a contemporary. West of Port Hope the Government carried only two more than two-fifths of the constituencies. In the following table the populations are those given by Sir John Macdonald in his speech, introducing his infamous Gerrymandering Act—except in the case of the gerrymandered Greys and Hurons, which were afterwards re-gerrymandered to such a fearful extent as to render his figures useless. In case of the Hurons and Greys, and in the case of every constituency not gerrymandered, the populations given are taken from the census of 1881, and are accurate. In the populations of the gerrymandered constituencies other than the Greys and Hurons, the figures, in some cases, will not be exactly correct, but they are those given by Sir John, and as the errors will balance each other, the total difference will be inmaterial:—

CROP PROSPECTS.

The Rural New Yorker, the most valued of our agricultural exchanges, devoted nearly the whole of its space last week to reports from its special correspondents throughout the United States and Canada, as to the acreage under crops of all kinds and the prospects of the harvest so early in the season. The yield of wheat is placed at 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels more than last year. There has been an unusual freedom from insect pests, and the spring wheat is still to be unusually promising. There appears to have been an increased cultivation of barley in the Western States, and an increased yield was looked for, which, however, the ravages of chinch bugs and locusts, reported within the past few days in some quarters, will probably somewhat diminish. The crops of oats and rye will probably be the heaviest ever raised in the United States, as will also that of potatoes, which were planted to an unusual extent in consequence of the shortage last year, and will likely be a drug in the market. In the South the floods and late rains seriously destroyed the cotton crop, causing a probable shortage of about half a million bales.

NORWOOD.

RAILWAY.

Substantially work may be said to have commenced on the Ontario & Quebec Railway in the county of Peterborough. Mr. Thos. Rorke, Reeve of Asphodel, has been appointed to purchase the right of way for the road between Peterboro' and Madoc, and commenced his duties yesterday. He is accompanied by a gentleman interested in the road from Toronto. This at last looks like business. We think that the route recently surveyed through the village will be the one chosen by the company, as there are many good reasons favourable to the last survey.

LEAVING.

The Rev. W. M. Pattyson, for a number of years residing in this village as a superannuated minister of the Toronto Conferance of the Methodist Church of Canada, leaves here next week for Coboconk, where he will resume the active work of the ministry. The good wishes of the people of the community follow him to his new field of labor.

PERSONAL.

The Rev. James E. Ford, Methodist minister of Thorndale, on the London Conference, has been paying a visit to his brother, Dr. Ford, of this village. He assisted in the services of the Methodist church here on Sunday morning and evening last. The Rev. gentleman is the youngest son of Mr. Joseph Ford, an old and highly respected resident of Peterborough.

THE EXCURSION.

Quite a number of Masons and others left here on Monday morning to attend the Masonic Excursion to Belleville and Massassaga Point; but, for the intervention of the recent hot work at the elections, there is no doubt but that a very large number would have availed themselves of the pleasures of this trip.

THE CROPS.

In this vicinity the crops present a remarkably healthy and promising appearance. The rye crop, of which there has been a very large amount sown, especially looks well, and gives promise of giving more than an average yield. The enormous and great length of stalks of many fields of rye in our neighborhood, is a subject of much favorable comment. Other crops, both vegetable and cereal, also look remarkably well. The meadows lately have given signs of vigorous growth, and the probabilities are now in favour of there being an average hay harvest.

PIC-NIC.

The pic-nic season has commenced here, and several Sabbath schools are soon to hold their annual outside gatherings. The Methodist Sabbath School of this village will have their pic-nic on Dominion Day, in Mr. Greenbank's woods, when the members of the school, with their friends, will have tea, and engage in the recreative games usually introduced at these gatherings.

HOW IT WORKED AT THE MURRAY HOUSE.

Among the coolest hotels in Ontario, is the Murray House of St. Catharines, kept by Mr. Thos. Sculley, where the writer always stops when in that city. Upon a recent trip, the writer was speaking with Mr. Scully concerning his old ailment, weak back, when Mr. S. observed: "I take sincere pleasure in recommending St Jacobs Oil to all sufferers I have found its most excellent remedy myself, and I know of others who have used it with great success. I would not be without St. Jacobs Oil, nor do I believe any sensible man ought. I caught a cold about three years ago, which settled in my back and sorely afflicted me between my shoulders. The pain was almost unendurable at times, especially at impending changes of the weather; and at such times, I used to be incapacitated from attending to my business. I tried electric baths, salt baths, various strengthening plasters and other such means without success. Finally I tried St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy, and was cured at once and permanently. St. Jacobs Oil is a most excellent remedy and I would not be without it at any price."

ALL THE PEOPLE OF THE DOMINION OF CANDA ARE CONCERNED.

Here are some more of the many hundreds of the leading people of the Dominion of Canada who have been cured of Catarrah, Bronchitis, Asthma and Lung disease by Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer and instrument, which conveys medicinal properties direct to the seat of disease. Read and judge for yourself:

Several of my family and friends have been cured of bronchitis, asthma and catarrh by using the Spirometer. JOHN P. WHELAN, Manager POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal. Mr. C. HILL, Montreal, catarrh and bronchitis. MR. DEBOUCHERVILLE, of the Indian Department, Ottawa, catarrh of many years; now cured. MR. GEO. AGER, Ottawa, catarrh and lung disease; cured. MRS. SMITH, London, wife of Medical Detective, cured of catarrh. GEO. MAGUIRE, Toronto, 482 Adelaide Street West; daughter cured of asthma. GEORGE WILLIS, Exeter, Ont., catarrh and bronchitis. J. D. ARMSTRONG, 186 Young street, Toronto, catarrh and catarrhal deafness. THOMAS TELFER, 12 Melinda street, Toronto, asthma: cured. MR. BENJ. A. DRAKE, St. Urbain Street, Montreal, for many years suffering from bronchitis and asthma, is now cured.

Also, the no less surprising cure of Mrs. DENOIT, 114 Cathedral Street, daughter of Mrs. David Parrault, who suffered from asthma and bronchitis for over eight years, and who is now perfectly cured.

Mrs. ADAMSON, of Belleville, cured of bronchitis, and her sister cured of bronchitis and lung disease.

I have no hesitation in saying Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer will cure catarrh and bronchitis, JOHN C. FLEMING, Editor of POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal.

The above is sufficient to convince the public of the merits of the Spirometer. The instrument will be expressed to any address.

Call or write, inclosing stamp for reply, to the International Throat and Lung Institute, 75 Young Street, Toronto, Dr. M. Souvielle and a competent body of English and French physicians always in attendance. Every information given. Physicians and sufferers can try the Spirometer free. 25

The Corn Crop in Canada.

It may surprise the good people of Canada to learn that the corn crop has been immensely increased in Canada. No doubt the N.P. people will claim this as a product of protection, but PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR alone is entitled to all the credit. It raises more corn to the acre than all else the world can supply. Safe, sure, and painless. Take no substitute. Only 25 cts. Try your hand. A good crop guaranteed.

The Campaign.

GENTLEMEN:—

The political issues of the campaign are with us. Let us cherish them—they are about the best we are likely to see for some time.

It is reasonable to expect that for the next three weeks, votes will be an article of commerical value—that is, we so anticipate.

A voter in a new suit of clothes is a more estimable constituent than a voter in an old suit; though of course a voter in an old suit is preferable to no voter at all—at least so we're told.

It will be an extremely proper thing that the candidate who gets the most votes will get elected. Still the exception to this general rule has occurred.

It will be an additionally gratifying circumstance to find that the successful man has been elected by men wearing DOLAN'S Stylish Suits.

Hence it is the manifest duty of all, without regard to previous condition of political servitude, to repair to DOLAN & CO'S. and clothe themselves as befits the "free and independent."

PROTECTION!

The undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Norwood and surrounding country that he has leased for a number of years, the Grist Mill belonging to Mr. N. B. Gould, on Colborne Street, Norwood, and is now prepared to carry on the

in all its various branches. The mill has just been enlarged and additions made to the premises that will add materially to its capacity and convenience. A large amount of new machinery, of the very latest improvements, has also been added to meet the requirements of the mill, which has received such a thorough renewing and refitting as the public may rely in future on all kinds of Gristing and Milling being performed in such a manner as to give entire satifaction in all its departments. Having had a large and varied experience in the gristing business in different parts of Canada, and having always been patronized with a large amount of Custom Gristing in in all its different branches, as has been a convincing proof of the quality of the work performed by him, he can confidently ask the patronage of the people of Norwood and vicinity. Flour and Mill Feed of all kinds kept constantly on hand. Farmers may rely upon having their Gristing home with them on the day brought to the mill. A Call Respectfully Solicited.

LARDINE MACHINE OIL.

Farmers, Threshers and Mill Men generally, should try the Celebrated Lardine Machine Oil, it does not Gum or Clog Machinery, and wears equal to Castor Oil.

In fact it will prolong the life of a machine if used exclusively, as it contains no Grit or other injurious substance which is found in the majority of oils made now-a-days.

It is made solely by McCOLL BROS. & Co., of Toronto. No one else wholesales it.

The Contented Man, Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

A leading line of sweet and good drawing JAPAN offering at 35 cents, formerly sold at 45 cents.

Farmer's Sabbath.

AN IMPORTANT LEGAL DECISION RENDERED BY JUDGE HUGHES, ST. THOMAS.

A decision of considerable interest to the farming community, involving an important legal point, was rendered by Judge Hughes at St. Thomas recently. The case was an appeal from a judgment given by Squire Johnson, of Springfield, against Nelson Chambers, a Malahide farmer, for having violated the Sabbath day by gathering and boiling sap in his bush, contrary to the form of chap. 186, revised statutes of Ontario. After hearing the argument His Honor gave the following opinion: The statute declares that it is not lawful for any merchant, tradesman, artificer or mechanic or any other person whatsoever on the Lord's Day to do or exercise any worldly labor or work of his ordinary calling. To convict a man properly it must be shown substantially that he violated its provisions. The boiling of any sap on the Lord's Day is unlawful for a person who pursues the business of a sugar maker, which is what I suppose would be considered a breach of the law—it would not be an offence for which Nelson Chambers could be convicted, unless it also set forth that he is a tradesman or artificer, and that as such doing so, he was actually in the exercise of such, his worldly calling or work. In other words, I do not think that if a professional man or any other person not described in the statute were to go out to the woods on a Sunday and tap trees and gather and boil sap and make sugar as an amateur, that he could be legally convicted, because he is not one of the persons against whom, and their pursuing their ordinary vocation on Sunday, the statute was aimed. I think, therefore, that for the want of this necessary allegation, the conviction must be quashed—not for its want of form, but for the want of this necessary allegation. The conviction was quashed; the question of costs reserved.

Care of Live Stock for July.

We find in the American Agriculturist for July the following timely suggestions about the care of live stock:—A sheet of cotton cloth is a great protection to horses, screening them from the flies, dust and heat, while working in the harvest field. Especial care must be taken in keeping the horses clean. An occasional washing with a soft sponge and carbolic soap cleans and cools the skin, aids prespiration, drives away the flies, and is in every way healthful and refreshing. Horses may be given a bath in the evening, provided they are not warm from work, and are not kept in the water more than a few minutes. If the horses are at pasture at night, they need a good, generous feed before being turned out. When kept in the stalls, a mess of green fodder may be given daily.

During the hot weather, cows suffer if kept in a shadeless pasture. A cool, dark and clean stable is much preferred by them. They need an abundance of pure water, plenty of nutritious food, and should be kept as comfortable as possible.

Sheep that are intended for the butcher need to be pushed forward with liberal feeding. A quart of mixed ground feed to each animal daily, with the pasturage, will bring them quickly into good shape for the market. Store sheep need good pasture, with plenty of shade. If dysentery appears in the flock, remove the sick animals to a cool shed, and give one ounce of castor-oil, with bran or oat-meal mush. Should maggots be found upon the sheep, tar may be applied to the affected parts. Look well to the flock that sheep do not suffer in any way during the hot summer months.

Growing young pigs for the early market is often very profitable. They may be ready 100 days from birth if well fed. At first the sow needs to have rich food in abundance, that she may have a full flow of milk. After a few weeks, let the young pigs have meal and wheat middlings.

Now is the time to weed out the poor hens in the poultry yard. Poor layers or bad mothers can be quickly fattened in a coop, when they are ready for market, and will command a good price.

Sheep.

It is said that foot-root and other diseases to which sheep are subjected occur much less oftener among flocks which are pastured on rather rough ground, and particularly where they have to climb hills to get their grazing. In Scotland, the great sheep country of Europe, the sheep are always found in the greatest numbers among the mountain ranges. The famous Southdowns also have a rough country to pasture on, upon the steep, rugged chalk hills of south England. All over there are immense tracts of land of this character where sheep would thrive, and cannot be used for any other purpose to so good a profit. Why do not more enterprising parties go into this business?—

Saving Coal Ashes.

There are many good uses for coal ashes which readily suggest themselves, but one which we saw recommended recently is worth remembering. It reads thus:

"It pays well to pass coal ashes through a fine sieve—a flour sieve, for instance. Sifted ashes, when perfectly dry, is one of the best substances with which to mix London purple, Paris green or hellebore for the destruction of potato beetles fruit slugs, currant and gooseberry worms and the like. Being lighter than plaster or flour, it does not fall so quickly, but settles on every part of the plant—the stem, the under part of the leaf as well as the upper part. It may be said also that it adheres to leaves for a longer time, and is not so readily washed off by the rains.

Household Hints.

MOTHS.—To keep moths from injuring carpets and upholstered furniture; Dissolve 1 pound of alum in one gallon of boiling water, and brush the carpets and furniture with the solution, after it has become cold, until the fabric is well saturated; take special care to brush the edges well. A thorough examination for traces of moths should first be made. This simple recipe has worked perfectly in a house of thirty years' furnishing, in which English carpets laid twenty years ago, are perfectly preserved.

BISCUITS WITHOUT GREASE. The way in which grease is devoured by Americans, is gradually devouring them. In nothing is it considered more indispensible than in the flaky biscuit with which good housekeepers pride themselves on poisoning their guests. To make biscuits whose flaky snowiness casts theirs away into shadow, make yours in this way: One pint of flour finely sieved, two teaspoonaful of baking powder and milk or water sufficient for paste; roll and cut rapidly; bake in a quick oven.

BEAN SOUP. Pick over one pint of dried beans and wash them in cold water; peel and slice an onion, put in a saucepan and fry it brown, with a tablespoonful of drippings; ham or bacon-fat preferable. When brown, put the beans in with the onion, pour on three quarts of cold water, and boil slowly; every fifteen minutes add one cup of cold water until a quart has been used; mix one tablespoonful each of flour and butter to smooth paste, and fry some half-inch bits of stale bread with a little butter. As soon as the beans are soft put them through a sieve with a potato masher; put them again in the saucepan with their broth, stir in the paste, let the soup boil once, and serve with the fried bread in it.

CODFISH.—Parboil fish in successive waters until freshened, taking care to have skin upward—if below it will gather and hold the salt. Peel and slice a pint of onions, and when the water is changed on the fish the last time put the onions into another frying pan, with two tablespoonsful of hot fat and fry slowly; when the fish is hot remove it, take off the skin and the bones which are on surface, then put it in the pan with the onions, brown slightly on both sides, dust it with pepper, and serve with the onions over it.

WELSH RARE-BIT.—Stir together in a saucepan over the fire one quarter of a pound of grated cheese, two tablespoonsful of butter, a quarter of a teaspoonful each of salt, dry mustard, and pepper, with a dust of cayeane, pour these on a large slice of buttered toast and serve at once.

OMELETTE.—Break three eggs and beat for one minute with a half spoonful of salt and a fourth as much pepper; have your pan hot, with a tablespoonful of melted butter in it, pour in the eggs, scatter over them three crushed square crackers, and when cooked sufficiently roll the omelette toward one side of the pan by slipping a fork under one side and turning it over. Place the omelette on a hot dish and serve at once.

CHICKEN AND GREEN PEAS.—Cut cold roast or boiled chicken in small pieces, brown them in butter, stir in a tablespoonful of flour, and when it is brown add a pint of stewed peas with their liquor, (or one can, if green peas are not in season), add salt and pepper, heat five minutes, and serve on toast.

According to a German economist the income of the world is $13,520,000,000; debt, $10,928,000,000; taxes, $2,002,000,000; capital, $85,612,000,000. Sweden has the smallest debt, or $50,000,000; France the largest, or $3,140,000,000. The United States has the largest income.

When Henry IV., while Prince of Navarre, was playing dice, a few days before the massacre of St. Bartholomew, the party broke up in alarm at thinking they saw on the dice spots of blood. The phenomenon is now explained scientifically, not as an omen, but resulting from the simultaneous contrast of colors.

The story of Cinderella has its origin, probably, in an old Egyptian legend, in which an eagle steals the shoe of a fair lady, while she is bathing in the river, and carries it to the king. He admiring the shape, and seeing a fate in the manner of its being brought to him, summons the lady and marries her, as in our modern story.

C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "I have sold at retail, 156 bottles of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, guaranteeing every bottle. I must say I never sold a medicine in my life that gave such universal satisfaction. In my own case, with a badly ulcerated throat, after a physician penciling it for several days to no effect, the Electric Oil cured it thoroughly in twenty-four hours, and in threatened croup in my children this winter, it never failed to relieve almost immediately.'

The much abused dragon flies are perfectly harmless to human beings; they neither bite nor sting, but destroy vast quantities of mosquitoes, flies and other insects. Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family, handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y

A DOUBLE ADVANCE.

In the ante-bellum days a New York State grocer raised the price of a certain grade of tea from "three shillings" to forty-five cents; and an old farmer who came in with a barrel of cider-vinegar to sell could hardly credit his senses when told that his favorite brand of tea had advanced several cents per pound.

"What on airth is the reason for this sudden raise?" he inquired.

"Scarcity of tea-chests," was the brief answer.

"Well, do you want my vinegar?"

"How much?"

"Eight cents a gallon."

"I only paid you seven for the last."

"Yes, but cider has rix, you see."

"What has brought cider up?" asked the astonished grocer.

"Scarcity of bung-hole plugs," was the quiet but serious reply.

They looked at each other without winking, and then tea dropped back to thirty-eight and cider to seven cents.

A SNAKE STORY.

As Mr. Tennyson—slightly paraphrased—remarks: "In the spring a newspaper man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of snake stories." This year a Virginia scribe rather discourages every body else in that line by relating the following incident: "Mr. Peter Reid, of Fauquier county' says that a few days ago, as he was talkidg to a friend, he noticed a little snake about a foot long, and before killing it he turned it over with the muzzle of his gun. To his surprise the snake ran up the gun barrel, and he could not get it to come out, so he let it remain. As he was going home he saw a hawk flying overhead, and raised his gun and fired at it. The hawk was not hurt, but seeing the snake in the air started toward it and caught it on the fly." In concluding this story the newspaper man says that Mr. Reid is a brother of a magistrate and a church member—two facts which seem to truthful Northern natures to aggravate, rather than excuse, the outrageous lie with which he is credited.

A BRIDAL CHAMBER.

A gorgeous bridal chamber has just been completed for the reception of a bride who has never known the want of money and by whom $100 is spent with as little thought as many people would tender a ten cent piece. The walls are covered with heavy white satin, tufted with gold buttons, and mirrors are interjected here and there. The ceiling is painted in the most artistic manner, and the curtains are of white silk embroidered in gold and rich colorings in floral designs. The curtains are mounted on gilt poles, and when drawn back disclose lace drop-curtains that cost $600 a window. The portieres are of white silk plush, with dado embroidery matching the curtains. The furniture is treated with the same material as the curtains, and what little of the framework is seen is found to be heavily gilded. A table cover in white silk plush shows gold embroidery, and is bordered with rich gold bullion fringe, with point d'espange heading. The fringe is seven inches deep.

HE TOOK THAT BET.

He had just got home from a visit to the city, and was seated in the corner store telling the boys his experience with "them peaky bulls and bears what make the prices for our wheat."

"I tell you fellows," he said, "it's no use of talking; they'd beat old Satan himself. I thought I was pretty smart, but I'll be gol durned if they didn't get away with me.

"You see, we was bettin' on what the price of wheat would be, when along came an innocent looking fellow, who was pretty loud in his talk, and said he'd bet me a fiver that prices would go up two cents afore they would six. Well, would you believe it, I took that bet, and had to water the hull crowd."

THE ELEMENTS OF BONE, BRAIN AND MUCLE, are derived from the blood, which is the grand natural source of vital energy, the motor of the bodily organs. When the circulation becomes impoverished in consequence of weak digestion and imperfect assimilation of the food, which should enrich it, every bodily function flags and the system grows feeble and disordered. When the blood becomes impure either from the development of inherited seeds of disease, its contamination by bile, or other causes serious maladies surely follow. A highly accredited remedy for these evils is NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, which eradicates impurities of the blood and fertilizes it by promoting digestion and assimilation. Moreover, this fine alterative and stomachic exerts a specific action upon the liver, healthfully stimulating that organ to a performance of its secretive duty when inactive, and expelling bile from the blood. It likewise possesses diuretic and deparent properties of a high order, rendering the kidneys active and healthy, and expelling from the system the acrid elements which produce rheumatic pain. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

"THAT BOUND GIRL."

BY MARGARET B. HARVEY.

"Mamma, what's cultivated?" asked little Lucy Neale.

Her mamma and a lady friend were confidentially chatting together on the parlor sofa, while Lucy sat on a hassock near them, hugging her big doll, Lady May. The friend, Miss Nellie Lawton, a pretty, black-eyed girl, had just remarked that she was sorry she had not been better cultivated.

"What's cultivated?" persisted Lucy, a little impatiently.

"Do you want to be cultivated?" mischievously inquired Nellie, turning her bright eyes on the rosy, childish face.

"Now," exclaimed Lucy, with a little pout, nearly twisting herself off her low seat, "what is cultivated?"

"Oh, we'll take and bind you out till you're eighteen—then you'll be cultivated," roguishly threatened Nell.

"No, no, no!" energetically declared Lucy, shaking her yellow curls, until they covered Lady May's pretty face. "I won't be cultivated!"

Mrs. Neale and Miss Lawton laughed, and then resumed their conversation without further interruption.

"The idea of Nellie Lawton saying she wasn't cultivated!" remarked Mrs. Neale to her husband, at the tea-table that evening. "She is, if any girl is."

"Mamma," queried Lucy, looking up in surprise, "did she tell a story?"

"Oh, no," laughed mamma, "she only made a mistake.

"Then she is cultivated isn't she?" said Lucy.

"I should say so," responded Mrs. Neale.

The next morning, a lovely one in June, Lucy with her doll went down to the grove, a few rods below the house.

It was a beautiful spot, shaded by oak trees, under which Lucy dearly loved to play. Here she seated her dolly on a rock, gathered leaf dishes and pebble-cake, and was soon as happy as only a healthy child can be.

"Lady May," she exclaimed, "if you don't behave, I shan't give you any cake to-day."

"Will you give us some?" asked a voice.

Lucy raised her eyes, and beheld two handsome gentlemen, leaning over the rail fence and observing her play with amusement. For a moment she was abashed; and then she answered with a big-girl air:

"Oh, it's only make-believe cake! But if you'll wait here and mind Lady May for me, I'll go up to the house and get you some real cake."

"Oh, never mind—thank you!" gayly returned one of the young men. "Can you tell us where Mr. Lawton lives?"

"Right up the road—second house you come to," replied Lucy. "The first one is my papa's."

"Indeed! What is your papa's name?"

"Mr. Neale."

"Do you know Miss Nellie Lawton?"

"Yes;" and Lucy's manner assumed new eagerness. "She was bound out till she was eighteen!"

"Bound out till she was eighteen!" cried both gentlemen at once.

"Yes," answered Lucy.

"Who told you?" asked one, incredulously.

"Mamma and Nellie," confidently responded Lucy.

"Well," said the last speaker, "who would have thought it? I supposed of course she was Mr. Lawton's daughter and heiress—but it seems she's only bound in the family."

"Will you go on?" queried the other.

"I don't know, Thorndyke," hesitatingly answered his companion; "I don't particularly care to have it said that Colonel Loxley's son visited a bound girl!"

"I'll go at any rate," asserted Thorndyke. "She invited us to call, if we were ever in her neighborhod, and I'm sure it can't hurt us if we do. We were pleased with her—what difference need her circumstances make?"

"Will you go in by the back door, and sit down in the kitchen?" sarcastically inquired Loxley.

"Yes, if need be," emphatically declared Thorndyke. "I'll go and see, anyhow."

All this time the speakers had ignored Lucy; and, no doubt, had they given the matter a thought, they would have supposed they were talking over her head.

"Good-bye, little lady," called Thorndyke, at last, moving on a few steps. "Loxley, are you coming?"

Loxley stood a moment irresolute, and then followed.

Lucy looked after the retreating forms and resumed her play.

The young men found the right place, and were admitted by the front door and ushered into the best parlor. Moreover, they were hospitably entertained by Mrs. Lawton and Nellie, who if she was a bound girl, seemed just as much at home as any daughter might.

* * * * * * *

"I move that we take rooms at the village hotel, and spend our vacation here!" said Thorndyke, when they again found themselves on the road.

"To be near the pretty bound girl!" snapped Loxley.

Thorndyke reddened.

"I should like an opportunity to see Miss Lawton oftener," he acknowledged.

"Well," rejoined his companion, "If you want to stay, I might as well do the same, and have a good time, too."

* * * * * * *

"Well, Nellie," exclaimed Mrs. Neale, receiving her young friend with her usual cordiality, "what's this I hear? Which is it?"

Nellie dropped her eyes.

"Oh, you needn't mind me," continued the elder lady. "Consider me your mother. Which is the chosen one?"

"Neither," faltered Nellie.

"Well, they're both very devoted—have been so for weeks. You ought to have made a choice by this time."

"The choice isn't on my side," sighed Nellie.

"Indeed! How's that?"

"Well, to tell the truth, I think Mr. Thorndyke wants me; but, unfortunately, I don't want him."

"Very well, then—take the other."

"Ah! there's the trouble. I would accept Loxley to-morrow; but I don't believe he is in earnest."

"Is that so?" Mrs. Neale's tone changed from hectoring to solicitude. "That is a complication. Do you love him?"

"I am not sure," replied Nellie, sadly, "I think I do. I sometimes imagine that he cares for me, but that something stands in his way."

"I know why he don't like you!" exclaimed Lucy, who had been sitting in a corner, unobserved, partially hidden by a curtain.

Both ladies started.

"Lucy, leave the room," commanded her mother, sternly.

But Nellie detained her.

"Why don't he like me?" she asked.

"Because I told him you were cultivated," whispered the little girl.

"You told him?" wonderingly inquired Mrs. Neale; "when?"

"Why one day," faltered Lucy, through her tears. "Mr. Loxley said he wouldn't go to see you because you were, and Mr. Thorndyke said he didn't care—he'd go anyhow. Then Mr. Loxley followed him afterwards."

This was all they could draw from Lucy, and she hurried out.

A pause.

"Well, Nellie," observed Mrs. Neale, "whatever Lucy means, one thing is certain—Thorndyke is the better and worthier man of the two, and cares more for you. Accept him, in preference to Loxley, and you'll never regret it."

"Accept Thorndyke and you'll never regret it!" "Cares more for you!" "The better and worthier man of the two!"

These changes rung through the girl's mind on her homeward way, until she grew so bewildered that she could look neither to the right nor left, nor even steadily before her.

Horrors! How shall I describe what happened next? A rush of wheels—a shout—a confused ringing in her ears—and then—blank darkness.

When she recovered consciousness, Nellie found herself in her own little bed, with her mother and Thorndyke beside her. Next she was aware of a sharp pain in her right arm. And then she gradually drew from her whitefaced attendants that there had been a runaway horse, and that Mr. Thorndyke had dragged her literally from under the infuriated beast's hoofs—but not until she had been thrown down and her arm broken.

A quick pang smote her heart.

Why Thorndyke instead of Loxley?

"Where is Mr. Loxley?" she asked aloud.

Thorndyke's countenance fell.

"Down stairs," replied her mother. "He only learned of the accident a few minutes ago and called to ask how you were."

"I want to see him," she said, simply. Her wish was gratified.

There she lay, white, wounded, and suffering. Beside her stood the two—rivals, perhaps. She gazed from one face to the other. Not mistaking the expression of either. Both overflowed with a yearning pity—an intense solicitude.

And yet, why, in spite of her dearest wish, did Loxley's disappoint her so? It lacked something that Thorndyke's did not.

She turned her head wearily on her pillow—murmuring, as she did so:

"Come to-morrow."

To-morrow brought her friends, with gifts of fruit and flowers. But her weak body aided her tortured mind in its suffering. If Loxley loved her, and she thought he did, why did he not say so? And yet, why did she not feel like rewarding good, honest Thorndyke?

"Mr. Loxley," she suddenly asked, when both were together, "Why don't you like cultivated women?"

"I do," he answered; "why should I not?"

Nellie sighed wearily, and was silent.

Not yet had she discovered the reason of his strange reserve, which, combined with his evident devotion, seemed all the more singular.

She raised her eyes, and caught the expression of Thorndyke's face.

Like a flash was borne in upon her a sense of his true love and real integrity.

Some impulse made her extend her hand to him.

The manner in which he took and held it, told her more than any words could have done.

Yes, and Loxley understood it, too. Both could see that, by his crestfallen air.

Nellie, in an instant, felt strangely happy. With a merry laugh, she said:

"The word cultivated makes me think of something funny. A little girl once asked me what it meant, and what do you suppose I told her?"

They did not know.

"I told her," continued Nellie, "that if we bound her out until she was eighteen she'd be cultivated. I frightened her, I guess—for she vehemently declared she wouldn't be cultivated. Perhaps she thinks to this day that cultivated means bound out."

Both young men started and looked at each other.

"Was it Lucy Neale?" asked Thorndyke.

"Yes."

Suddenly Nellie's cheeks flushed. A certain memory seemed to strike her also.

"Mr. Thorndyke," she began, "did Lucy ever tell you that I was cultivated?"

"No," hesitatingly answered he.

"She told me she did," declared Nellie. "She said she told both you and Mr. Loxley that I was cultivated—that you said you didn't care if I was—but that Mr. Loxley didn't want to go to see a girl who was cultivated. Now, Mr. Thorndyke, if she did not use the word cultivated, she must have used what she supposed was its equivalent."

Thorndyke, still holding her hand, met her gaze with an unchanged countenance.

Not so Loxley. He turned red and white, and looked as though he wished to sink through the floor.

Nellie saw her advantage, and mercilessly pursued it.

"If Lucy said I was bound out, it explains why you, Mr. Loxley, did not like me—or perhaps you did—but, believing what Lucy told you, this idea has had its full effect upon you. If, however, Mr. Thorndyke thought I was a bound girl, and still cared for me, it only proves his real worth."

"Then you are not a bound girl?" incautiously uttered Loxley. "You are Mr. Layton's daughter and heiress!"

"Undoubtedly," answered Nellie, with composure.

"Nellie, darling, I love you!" he declared, forgetting the presence of Thorndyke.

"I know it," replied Nellie; I knew it long ago. But, because you believed me a bound girl, you would not say so. You cared more for my position and prospects than you did for myself. Unfortunately for you, sir, I would much prefer the affection of a gentleman who has loved me truly under all the supposed adverse circumstances."

"I would have declared myself before," impetuously cried Thorndyke, "but that I thought you loved Loxley."

Nellie winced.

"Never mind that now!" she answered. "Let the past go! I now at least love you! And I thank a kind Providence for saving us all from making fatal mistakes! The bound girl has suddenly become the heiress—but she was always woman!"

A GREAT CAUSE OF HUMAN MISERY

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.—It is announced that the next meeting of the Toronto Conference of the Methodist Church will meet in Peterborough on the second Wednesday in June, 1883.

WILL IT BE WET WEATHER on Dominion Day? Vennor says that the Saturdays and Sundays of June and July will be the days of wet or rainy weather, and as June has pretty well justified his prediction, it is possible that the first Saturday in July will follow the example.

AN AFTER-BLAZE.—On Friday evening the wind blew embers from the heaps of burning rubbish on the scene of the late fire, under the floor of Mr. Adam Hall's stables, and nothing but the present and prompt action of Mr. John Hayes prevented another conflagration.

STREET IMPROVEMENT.—Under the eye of Inspector Johnson, Stewart street from Charlotte to Hunter, Simcoe street from Rubidge to the railroad track, and Hunter from Reid to Bethune, have been vastly improved by being graded and gravelled, and the margins neatly levelled and boulevarded.

CONFIRMATION SERVICES.—The Bishop of Toronto will hold confirmation services in Peterborough on Sunday next. At 11 a.m. in St. John's Church, and in the evening at St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, when the service will be as usual very interesting and the music has been specially prepared for the occasion. The public are invited to attend. At 7 p. m.

THE CROPS.—From all that we can learn by inquiring, there seems this year to be a prospect of another fairly abundant harvest. All crops except hay, which will not be up to the average clip, promise a prodigal yield. The late frosts almost entirely destroyed the clover, so that it will not count at all in estimating the crop. The fruit yield, to judge of the promise of blossom, will be very large.

THE "GOLDEN EYE."—Mr. Harry Calcutt, the popular proprietor opens the season by conveying a pic-nic party from Peterborough to the Roman Catholic pic-nic at Spooke Island, on Dominion day, under the auspices of the Rev. Father Muiray, of Cobourg. The steamer, with the palace scow attached, and carrying Martin's quadrille band, will leave her wharf at 7 o'clock. Tickets for round trip, 50 cents.

THE CHEESE SALE.—The 1264 boxes of cheese sold at the last meeting of the cheese exchange as noted in our market reports of last issue were suplied as under. Keene factory, 104 boxes; South Douro, 65; South Dummer, 50; Bobcaygeon, 120; Myrtle, 180; South Ops, 40; Warminster, 85; Downeyville, 98; Selwyn, 100; Star, 100; Trewern, 110; Cherry Grove, 127; Fairdale, 35; Lily Lake, 60; Lakefield, 90; total, 1264. This quantity was the June make up to the 15th. The next semi-monthly cheese fair will be held in the drill shed here on Wednesday July 5th.

FORESTERS.—At the recent meeting of the High Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters at Guelph, Mr. James Byrne, Chief Ranger of Court Peterborough, was elected High Junior Woodward, and Dr. Bell of Court Lakefield, D.D.H.C.R., for Co. of Peterborough. Local Foresters present were Messrs. Byrne and Hooper of Court Peterborough, and Messrs. Saunders and Dr. Bell of Lakefield. The order appears to be in a very flourishing condition. The general funds on hand are $336.18, and the balance of the endowment fund in the hands of the treasurer is $3,651.

CAGING THE CATTLE.—In some places the railway companies have taken vigorous steps to abate the cow nuisance, and in Stratford by their effects about 60 cattle were recently impounded. Since our town authorities seem to be wanting in their duty in this respect, it would be a good thing if the Midland Railway Company would exercise the authority given them by the statute, which gives a railway company power to impound cattle found at large within half a mile of their track, at all hours. Here we are past Midsummer Eve several days, and at the Council the cow by-law was "shoved" off for another week.

RECENTLY in Toronto, at 75 Yonge St., over 500 physicians and sufferers visited Dr. M. Souvielle, of Paris, and ex-aide-surgeon of the French army, using his wonderful instrument, the Spirometer, for the cure of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, and all throat and lung diseases. The Doctor or one of his surgeons from the International Throat and Lung Institute, 75 Yonge Street, Toronto, or 13 Philips Square, Montreal, offices for Canada, will be at the Huffman Hotel, Peterborough, July 3rd and 4th, 5th and 6th, 7th and 8th, and will have with him a supply of Spirometers and medicine. Physicians and sufferers can try it free. 26-2t

A NEW ROOF—mansard—is being put on the Hall block, Hunter street, nearly opposite the Oriental.

CHANCERY SITTINGS.—The next sitting of the Court of Chancery will be held in Peterborough on Tuesday, November 14th.

THE SCARCITY of bricks in town is, at present, retarding the progress of building operations. It will be six weeks, we are told, before a sufficient supply will be available.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic returns of the Midland Railway for the week ending June 17th, 1882, were as follows:—Passengers and mails, $8102.43; freight, $15536.46; total, $23,696.89, as compared with $21951.25, for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $1747.64; and the aggregate traffic to date is $425685.12, being an increase of $113737.47, over 1881.

ORANGE CELEBRATION.—The Orangemen of Peterborough are making active preparations for the monster celebration of the Anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, that takes place here on Wednesday, July 12th. All the Orange lodges in in the Counties of Hastings, Northumberland, Durham, Victoria and East and West Peterborough, will be represented, and the demonstration will be the largest that has ever taken place in Eastern Ontario. Special rates have been secured from the Midland Railway system Further particulars hereafter.

VERDICT MARCH.—We have received a copy of the Verdict March, which is enjoying a most extraordinary run of popular approval. It is composed by Eugene and Blake and is written in an easy style, so that it can be played on either piano or organ. The title page is very handsome, containing correct portraits of Hon. Geo. B. Corkhill, Hon. J. K. Porter, and Judge W. S. Cox; also a correct picture of the twelve jurymen who convicted the assassin of the late beloved President. The piece of music should be found in every household throughout the entire country. Price, 40 cents per copy, or 3 copies for $1. Postage stamps taken as currency. Address all orders to F. W. Helmick, Music Publisher, 180 Elm Street Cincinnati, O.

SUDDEN DEATH.—We are pained to have to announce the sudden death of Mr. David Carlisle, which took place near Harwood on Tuesday night. At this writing, full particulars have not been received, but it appears that on Tuesday he went down to Harwood to begin the construction of a church near that village, and that he was taken suddenly ill and died on Tuesday evening. The probable cause of death was heart disease. Deceased was a member the Oddfellows and Forresters, and was greatly respected and beloved by all his acquaintances and friends. The steamer Golden Eye went down to Harwood at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, to bring his remains home. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his loss. The funeral will altogether likely take place to-day at four o'clock.

MAKE A PARK OF IT.—The destructive fire of last Thursday, left, on the square bounded by Charlotte, Stewart, Rubidge and Simcoe streets, only one now habitable residence, that of Mr. Adam Hall. This is an excellent opportunity for the town authorities to secure this property for a public park. It is already well surrounded with trees, and very little outlay and labor would make it a pleasant resort. Small parks here and there where the residents in the respective localities can have easy access to them, are more desirable than one large park at one side of the town. And the time to secure park premises is before real estate rises so high that purchase of it will be ruinous. The need of parks are not felt so badly now, but the time will come when they will be a necessity, and it would only be the part of wisdom to provide against that time.

PEDESTRIAN TOURNAMENT.—The tournament organized and conducted by Mr. T. McNaughton, which took place in the skating rink on Thursday night last, was a gratifying success, except, we are sorry to say, in the chief result—the "main chance." The attendance was only moderate. The Fire Brigade Band was in attendance. The three mile walk, amateur, was won by five laps, in 25 minutes, by Wm. Hazlitt, of Toronto, against W. Spence, town. The one mile amateur race was won by A. Elliott, of Omemee against R. McGregor, town. For the one mile professional race, J. Raine, Ottawa, J. Watson, town, and A. Williams, Omemee entered, Raine winning easily. The boy's walk was won by J. Hannah. The five mile professional race brought out M. Bird, town, local champion, and Raine of Ottawa. This was a close match, Raine only winning by about ten seconds.

WEDDING BELLS.—We learn that a largely attended and fashionable wedding took place on Thursday evening, in the C. M. Church of Brampton. Rev. Mr. Starr, of Winnipeg, formerly of Peterborough, resigning the independence of bachelorhood. The bride, Miss Georgie Graham, eldest daughter of Mr. George Graham, Treasurer of the county of Peel, was attired in a pale blue silk princess dress, exquisitely trimmed with lace. The veil was of cream tulle, embroidered with floss. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. H. Starr, of Whitby, father of the groom, assisted by Rev. Wm. McFadden, of Brampton. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the bridal party and guests repaired to the house, and after breakfast to the 10.10 p. m. G. T.R. train, by which the happy pair departed for Toronto and the East, accompanied by the kind wishes of all. We, in common with Rev. Mr. Starr's host of friends in town, congratulate him on his marriage, and add the hope that happiness will crown a union so auspiciously formed.

DOMINION DAY.—Thanks to the Fire Brigade and Lacrosse Club, the 1st of July is to be becomingly celebrated in town. The preparations made by the joint committee is an exceptionally excellant one, and judging by the energy already displayed, it will be faithfully carried out. The first event will be the Lacrosse Match between the home club and the Kingstons, for the Gildersleeve Cup, and the championship of central Ontario. The match will be played on the Ashburnham cricket ground in the morning. The band will be present and play. An exciting match may be looked for. In the afternoon, at 2 o'clock, sharp, a procession will be formed of the Fire Brigade and their apparatus and the Lacrosse Club, headed by the band, which will proceed to the Drill Shed grounds, where the athletic sports will take place, when over $100 in cash and prizes will be competed for by amateurs and professionals. In the evening a promenade concert will begin at 7.30. The band has now in practice an excellent programme of entirely new music, which will be presented on the occasion. After the concert a display of fireworks will be given, to conclude with the largest and most brilliant torchlight procession ever seen is announced, to leave the agricultural grounds and parade the principal streets. It is expected that there will be an immense crowd in town on Saturday.

MARKET DAY.—It is understood, that, owing to the celebration of Dominion Day on Saturday, when all shops will be closed and business suspended. Friday will be market day. Our friends in the country will please observe this.

FEMALE VS. FELINE.—On Friday evening, a young lady in the suburbs had a startling experience in shooting a predatory cat. The ferocious feline made an attempt to capture a bird that had its nest in a flowering shrub on the lawn. The friendly female saw the act, and so strongly resented it, that she hied to her bower and brought forth from her cabinet a revolver wherewith to shoot the marauder. She stealthily approached the cat, but the latter, though it saw her, did not stir; it was evidently a pet cat, or a desperate character that cared not for consequences. The fair shootress, grasping her weapon in her left hand, shut her eyes, took aim and fired; the bullet tore up the velvet turf twenty feet in front and to the left of the cat, while the latter playfully gamboled a few feet further away. Two or three shots in succession were poured at the enemy, which gamboled on, and thinking the firing a demonstration in its honor, stood on its tip-toes and rubbed against itself in the delighted manner common to pet cats. The firing, as well as the recognition of the honor, continued till every chamber of the weapon was emptied. The very first intimation the cat had that the lady meant her harm, was when the latter approaching the unsuspecting quadruped, and poising her dainty boot an instant in the air, dealt the enemy a vigorous kick, accompanied with a spiteful, "scat you brute!" The cat took this as a hint that the demonstration was over, and "scooted" over the fence with a tail like a bearded bologna sausage. If the young lady had aimed at some of the passengers in the street she might have come nearer killing the cat.

A RUINOUS BLAZE.—About a quarter to five o'clock on Thursday evening, a fire broke out in the sheds in the rear of D. Pentland's residence, Stewart Street, or in the sheds in the rear of T. Dolan's residence, immediately west, on Rubidge Street. The flames fed by the tinder-like material of the sheds, spread rapidly, and communicated to Mr. Pentland's residence. From the centre of origin, the flames also advanced, and destroyed the sheds of Mr. Dolan, from which they communicated to his residence, which, in an incredibly short space of time was a mere heap of debris and ashes. From Mr. Dolan's sheds, the dwelling of Mr. Robert Innes, Stewart Street, caught fire and was entirely consumed. The contents of these three dwellings were removed, but in a greatly injured condition. So rapid was the destruction of Mr. Dolan's house, that a valuable portion of his effects could not be removed. His library books and a large amount of winter clothing were burnt. The fire brigade were early on the ground, but their efforts were to a great extent paralyzed by the lack of water, due in some part to the deficient length of hose. They worked well, and prevented the spread of the fire to Mr. Hall's residence, corner of Simcoe and Stewart Streets. The losses and insurance:—Mrs. Clementi, D. Pentland's residence, loss, $700; insured for $1,500. D. Pentland, loss on furniture, $250; insured for $600. Miss Ferguson, R. Innes' residence, loss $1,800; insurance, $1,000. Robert Innes, loss on furniture, $250; insurance, $500. Richard Hall, T. Dolan's residence, loss about $2,000; insured for $1,000. T. Dolan, loss on furniture, about $600; insurance $800. Mr. Pentland is absent in the States, and Mrs. Pentland was very ill at the time of the fire. Under the excitement she ran out of the burning house and across the street, but when the reaction set in she was greatly prostrated. The complete destruction of these buildings, some of which might have been saved had there been sufficient hose or water supply, will give a new interest to the question of adequate fire protection for the town.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Albert Lech has returned home from New York to spend his holidays.

We had the pleasure of a call, on Wednesday last, from Mr. S. S. Peck, M. P.P. for North Victoria.

Bishop Jamot, of the diocese of Peterborough, as newly appointed by the Pope, will likely take up his residence in Peterborough.

Mr. J. C. Brown, Inspector of schools, is absent in Toronto this week attending his duties as one of the Normal School examiners.

Mr. J. H. Davis, of Douro, has been appointed bailiff of the fourth Division Court of the County of Peterborough, vice Henry Masters resigned.

We understand that Mr. John Boyd, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, has secured the contract for building all the bridges and trestles on the "missing link."

Mr. Freeman left town on Monday for Belleville, where he has accepted the bandmastership of the 48th Battalion band. He has long been a valuable member of the Fire Brigade band.

Dr. Burritt, of Peterborough, has been appointed a member of the temporary committees for the year of the Ontario Medical Association on the subjects of Gynæcology, etc., and Jurisprudence.

Prof. Ormiston Dixon, Peterborough's ventriloquist, returned home on Tuesday, after an absence of almost two years, during which his professional career has been marked by great success.

We are both pleased and sorry to learn that Mr. McLeod, of the Montreal bank here, has been promoted to a position in the branch of the same bank in Brantford. He is succeeded here by Mr. P. C. B. Wonham, of Cornwall.

Mr. M. Sanderson and Mr. John Nichols have returned home from a short trip to Kansas and Nebraska. The latter has purchased a quarter section of land in Nebraska, and is so favorably impressed with the country that he is likely to become a resident.

Thomas Kork, Esq., Reeve of Asphodel, has been honored by the appointment of purchaser of the right of way for the Ontario and Quebec Railway. His beat extends from the eastern boundary of the township of Rawdon westward till he meets another gentleman similarly employed coming east from Toronto. He began his duties on Tuesday, and expects that he will be employed the whole summer

It is reported in Montreal that the Pacific Railway Syndicate intend buying the Intercolonial Railway, and Senecal is endeavouring to force them to buy the Q. M. O. and O. Railway from Montreal to Quebec from him. This would give the Syndicate a through line when the Canada Pacific is completed from Vancouver to Halifax. It is also stated that the Syndicate has obtained the transfer of the charter authorizing the Great Eastern Railway Company to construct a line from St. Lambert to Dundee, and will proceed at once to build the road.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY NOTES

The Bell Appeal Case Decided—The Appeal Virtually Dismissed—Other Interesting Items.

By the courtesy of the clerk of the Peterborough Presbytery we have been allowed access to certain official documents of the General Assembly, of interest to local members of the Presbyterian Church. It will be remembered that at the session of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston, held here in May last, Rev. Alex. Bell appealed to the General Assembly against the following resolution, adopted by the Synod:—

"That the Presbytery be instructed to grant Mr. Pentland without delay the certificate asked for by him."

The following is an exact copy of the Deliverance of the Assembly in the matter, as extracted from the official minutes by the clerk of the Assembly:—

The General Assembly, in the matter of an appeal of Rev. Alex. Bell and the Kirk Session of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, from a decision of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston, adopted the following deliverance:—"The General Assembly without either sustaining or dismissing the appeal, and in view of all the circumstances of the case, instruct the session of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, to give Mr. Pentland a certificate of his actual standing in the Church at the time of his first application, the 28th of November, one thousand eight hundred and eighty."

Extract from the minutes of the General Assembly, by

W. REID, D. D.,
Joint Clerk of Assembly.

Parties familiar with the case will see by this the exact position in which it is placed by the above deliverance, which is certainly a safer premise from which to deduct conclusions, than the unauthorized reports of newspapers.

A MINISTER RETIRES.

The General Assembly on the application of the Presbytery of Peterborough, granted leave to Rev. W. C. Wendell, of Cartwright, to retire from the active duties of the Ministry.

ANOTHER FILLS THE BREACH.

The General Assembly, on the report of the Committee on the Reception of Ministers, granted leave to the Presbytery of Peterborough to receive the Rev. Peter Fleming of Dummer, as a Minister of the Church.

ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

DIOCESE OF PETERBOROUGH.

The new Diocese of Peterborough takes from the Diocese of Kingston nine of the wealthiest parishes. These are now under the charge of the following priests:—Peterborough, Father Lynch; Cobourg, Father E. Murray; Lindsay, Father Stafford; Port Hope, Father Browne; Ennismore, Father Kielty; Grafton, Father Larkin; Fenlon Falls, Father Kirkpatrick; Douro, Father O'Connell; Downeyville, Father Connolly. The counties taken off are Northumberland, Durham, Peterborough, and Victoria. These changes have been anticipated for many years, but the authorities at Rome wished to fix the ecclesiastical boundaries in accordance with those of the Province; the boundary question between Ontario and Manitoba, however, being as far from settlement as ever, the Pope has probably decided to appoint the limits of the diocese of Peterborough as his advisers think they should be. Peterborough will be the episcopal centre, and Bishop Jamot will probably remove to this town. In the Vicariate Apostolic of Northern Canada the principal parishes were Killarney, Prince Arthur's Landing, Fort William, Bracebridge, Sault Ste. Marie, and Garden River. There are thirteen priests and the bishop in the vicariate. The diocese of Kingston will deeply feel the loss of this wealthy portion of its territory.

The hopes of a good crop in England which was encouraged up to May 31st have been destroyed by the recent rains, and a defective yield is now inevitable.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Much Council—Little Result.

Council met in their chamber on Monday evening, July 3rd, 1882. Members present, his worship in the chair, Messrs. Cahill, McNaughton, Wilson, Rutherford, Menzies, Denne, Richardson, Patterson, Alford and Kelly.

After routine accounts and communications were received, from I. M. Irwin, lumber $1,67, and George Barrie, $5.00, board for indigent woman which were referred to the Finance Committee.

TELEPHONIC.

A petition was received from Mr. A. T. Smith, Agent of the Bell Telephone Company, asked permission to extend line on Water street to Hilliard's saw mill.

Mr. McNaughton moved, seconded by Mr. Cahill, that the petition be referred to the Street and Bridge Committee to report on and that the Clerk be authorized to notify the Northwestern Telegraph Company, to have their poles on George street removed.

CLOSING STREETS.

A communication was received from Mr. Thomas Bradburn in reference to a portion of street required to be opened by him, containing an offer to purchase, rent or exchange other adjacent property for the said street, which was a convenient addition to his present premises.

On motion of Mr. Denne, seconded by Mr. Menzies, the matter was referred to a committee of the whole council to visit the property and that the ratepayers interested be notified of the date of the intended visit.

CLEANING GEORGE STREET.

A petition from Richard Hall and others asking that the upper part of George street be scraped and that a part of Water street be graded and improved to relieve the traffic on George street and lessen the plague of dust, was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee to report on.

FINANCE.

Mr. Patterson, chairman, reported, recommending that these accounts be paid: Gas company, $21.30; County Treasurer, $15.70. The Committee had examined into the communication of Wm. Cumming, recommending remission of taxes to Wm. Course, Lewis Burguoyne W. J. Riordon and John Phalen, and could not recommend the remission of taxes to those parties. In the case of Thos. Robinson, they find that a petition of remission was referred to the Charity Committee. That in the case of Dr. Taylor, asking remission of arreas of taxes, the Committee recommend that $3.58 be refunded, that being the 10 per cent. added yearly. In the case of Alex. Graham, your Committee recommend that $43 be refunded him on account of police court and costs on account of deposit, together with the balance of cost amounting to $41.28.—Report adopted.

LICENSE COMMITTEE.

Mr. Rutherford, chairman, presented the report of the License Committee, which recommended that the petition of Mr. Bell, asking that a portion of his license of $40 on a pigeon hole table be remitted, be not granted.

On motion of Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Menzies,—That the report be adopted.

Mr. Kelly said he objected to the adoption of the report. He thought the Committee didn't understand the matter.

Mr. Rutherford explained that the Council had given license to Mr. Bell in good faith, and if the money were refunded the Council would have no guarantee that the table would not again be used. The town had power to give license for pigeon hole tables, and the license commissioners should not interfere; they had no right to dictate to the town.

Mr. Menzies said the refunding of the money would be a bad precedent. It would look like child's play.

Mr. Kelly spoke against the resolution. Mr. Bell had been compelled by the license commissioners to put away the table, and it was not fair to take money from him without giving value.

Mr. Richardson opposed the refunding of the money.

Mr. McNaughton characterized the pigeon hole table and its surroundings as a "hell hole"; still he believed in fair play, and was in favor of refunding the money, which, under the circumstances, if retained would be retained under false pretences.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Alford,—That a pro rata share of Mr. Bell's license be refunded as soon as he shall give up his license.

A rather warm and rather personal discussion ensued, when a resolution was adopted (all other resolutions being withdrawn) that the matter be referred back to the committee with instructions to confer with the license commissioners of the West Riding and the Inspector, with regard to the correctness of Mr. Bell's allegations.

WATER-WORKS MAINS.

Mr. Rutherford introduced a by-law to amend the water-works by-law, providing that the company shall be required to lay their mains only as far as Sherbrooke street, instead of Wolf street, subject to the extension of the mains as far as required by the original by-law, on the Council making such a demand.

WATER SUPPLY.

A petition from Anne Graham and others asking that water pipes be laid on Dublin street, east of George street, for a supply of water for domestic purposes, was referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee with power to act.

FIRE BRIGADE.

An account of the Fire Brigade, filling tank, etc., $7.00, was paid.

HOSE.

Mr. Rutherford said it had been complained that there was an insufficient supply of hose at the late fire. There was hose enough, but the steamer was taken to the wrong place. Five hundred feet of new hose had been added lately, and there were altogether 1,000 feet of good hose available.

THE MISSING LINK.

Mr. Paterson called attention to the fact of the passage of the Toronto and Ottawa railway through the north-western part of the town, and some action ought to be taken to protect the interests of the town.

Mr. Rutherford said that the Railway company would soon be at work in the town and they proposed a very dangerous piece of work near Mr. Peter Connal's and some action ought to be taken. Refered the Street and Bridge Committee.

OPENING STREETS.

Leave was granted Mr. Wilson to extend his notice of motion in regard to the opening of certain streets. Referred to Street and Bridge Committee to act.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

On motion of Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Alford, the Health Committee was requested to report at once on the communication of the Toronto Board of Health and make particular reference to Spauldings Bay.

COURT OF REVISION.

Mr. Rutherford presented this report as follows:

That the petition of J. Z. Rogers be not granted.

That the petition of H. T. Strickland be not granted.

That the petition of E. W. Morphat be granted and that the sum of $4.44 be refunded him.

That the Committee of Revision had received a petition from Rev. Mr. Bennet asking tax remission to the amount of $16, and the committee recommended that the same be not granted.

Report adopted.

FORESTALLING.

Mr. Rutherford referred to the practice of forestalling on the market, when wholesale dealers bought up eggs before ten o'clock.

Mr. Beavis explained and the council adjourned for one month.

LAKEFIELD.

TRUE BLUES.

On Tuesday, the 27th ult, a True Blue Lodge was organized in the village which will be known as "Lakefield True Blue Lodge No. 29." Some thirty of the members of McWilliams True Blue Lodge, Peterboro', drove up, and after parading the main street with their Fife and Drum band proceeded to the Orange Hall where the Lodge was opened and some 15 or 18 new members initiated. The following officers were elected and installed by W. Bro., M. A. Jamieson W. Grand Lecturer:—W. J. Sanders, W. M.; W. Hill, D. M.; R. Caldwell, Treas.; W. Casement, Sec.; J. Isbister, Chap.; W. Hales, D. of C.; F. Mann, I. G.; James Sanders, Tyler. The visiting members were entertained to a supper by the village members and congratulations and best wishes for the future prosperity of No. 27 was the order of the evening. We learn quite a number will join next night.

TALL GRAIN.

H. Garbutt, Smith, exhibited some specimens of rye this week 7 ft. 9 in., and still growing.

W. Abbot, Douro, has a field of barley from which any amount can be taken up to 7 feet. He brought some to the village 7 ft. 2 in.

STEAMER FAIRY.

The steamer, Fairy, made her first trip up the lakes on Monday with a number of invited friends on board. I understand she will begin to run regular trips in a few days.

RAILWAY IMPROVEMENTS.

The M. R. R. are having all their sidings through the Messrs. Stricklands lumber yards and piling ground put in first class shape in anticipation of the work which will follow when the new mill starts running. Messrs. Strickland are also getting their pond and the place surrounding in good order, so that when finished it will present an appearance alike creditable to both them and the village.

OUR NATIONAL DAY.

Dominion Day passed off very quietly in Lakefield. Owing to the excitement of the late elections no efforts were made to get up the usual races and games. The day was showery, but in the afternoon quite a crowd collected to see a Canoe race, between T. Wallace of Rice Lake, and G. Nichols of Bridgenorth, but from some cause it did not come off and the crowd turned their attention to the soap man, &c. No disturbance of any account occurred and by dark the streets were as quiet as usual.

AN AMATEUR HANLAN.

One of the rising generations in the village has obtained a shell from Toronto and is hard at work in his frail craft with the laudable intention to make himself famous some day. So far he has managed to keep his good mother drying his clothes, but no doubt before the summer is over will be able to take his daily exercises without his daily bath.

SPORT.

The steamer, Cruiser, has now started to run regular trips on Monday and Wednesday. Friday she will remain at the landing all night and connect with the afternoon train on Saturday. Huckleberries will soon be ripe and will be plentiful, and fishing this year is better than usual

THE "TIN KING" TALKS.

From Maine to Manitoba,—from St. Johns to British Columbia, Mr. Thos. W. McDonald, the Tin King of the Dominion, whose large works extend from 153 to 157, Queen Street, Toronto, and cover a solid block, is recognized and respected. Mr. McDonald's experience with the Great German Remedy, is thus announced by him: "It is very gratifying to me to be able to give a written testimonial respecting the unequalled merits of the world renowned remedy, St. Jacob's Oil, as an alleviator of pain. I was for years sorely troubled with a swollen leg. In vain I tried all the prescriptions of medical men. At last in deep despair I resolved to test the virtues of St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy, and to my great joy before one bottle had been exhausted I found myself completely cured. Trusting that St. Jacobs Oil may meet with the success it deserves, I close this statement, by reiterating my endorsement of its efficacy.

That Husband of Mine

Is three times the man he was before he began using "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

Now that the reaping and mowing season is coming on, farmers should remember that "Kaiser" Machine Oil is the best reaper and mower oil in the market. For sale by all dealers. 5-38t

CHAPPED HANDS.—Powdered starch is an excellent preventive of chapping of the hands, when it is rubbed over them after washing and drying them thoroughly. It will also prevent the needle in sewing from sticking and becoming rusty. It is therefore advisable to have a small box of it in the workbox or basket, and near your wash-basin.

EDUCATIONAL LEGISLATION

School Board Meeting.

Board met in the Collegiate Institute building, on Tuesday evening July 5th. Members present:—Messrs. Jas. Stevenson, Chairman, Rutherford, Wrighton, Stratton, Weir, Denne, Sproule, Sawers.

After reading and approval of minutes,

INTEROGATORY.

Mr Rutherford inquired why half of the pupils were on the streets, and the other half in the school.

The Chairman explained that four rooms had to be vacated to make room for the Intermediate examinations.

Mr. Braden explained that the high school closed on Monday, as the regulations of the Department provided that no high school teacher could be about the building while the intermediate examinations were going on.

An account of John McKee, druggist, for chemicals, was, on motion of Mr. Denne, ordered to be paid as soon as vouched for, by the Chairman of the Property Committee.

ASHBURNHAM GRANT.

The Secretary read a communication from the Village Clerk of Ashburnham, enclosing a resolution of the Council making a grant of $125 to the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, on condition that the pupils be admitted to the same privileges and on the same terms as Peterborough pupils.

On motion of Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Sawers, it was resolved that the proposition and its conditions be accepted.

A number of communications were received, but no action on them was taken.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The following are the aggregates of attendance for the different schools for the months of May and June:—

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

	No. on Roll.	Av. Att'nce.
May	532	477
June	520	445

SOUTH WARD SCHOOL.

May	238	189
June	239	197

WEST WARD.

May	162	151
June	167	175

Grand total on register in May, 952; June, 928; grand average attendance, May, 768; June, 784.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The secretary read the report of of the School Property Committee, recommending certain repairs to the Central and South Ward schools.

Mr. Sproule said the cost of these repairs would be about $50 or $60.

The Chairman said the report was not signed.

Mr. Sproule said Mr. McClelland intended to resign the Chairmanship of the committee, and had requested him to take that position pro. tem. and he would sign the report.

Mr. Sawers said he was a member of the committee, and had never been notified of a meeting.

Mr. Rutherford also complained of not being made aware of the meetings of the committee.

The report was referred back to the committee, as the committee had not been properly notified.

SCHOOL ESTIMATES.

Mr. Stevenson said the Secretary had prepared estimates to form the basis of a requisition from the town Council.

Moved by Mr. Stratton seconded by Dr. Burnham,—That the estimates as read be adopted, and that a requisition in accordance with them be made to the town Council for the amounts named, to be paid in December.

Mr. Rutherford said that rents had raised and all other prices, and he would move that the matter of rent of High School be increased from $700 to $1000, but no seconder being obtained, the matter dropped through.

The Chairman said Mr. Rutherford's motion had much weight and was worthy of attention.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

On motion of Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Wrighton, immunity was granted Mr. Geo. A. Cox, on account of his non-attendance at the meetings of the Board, by being absent from the country, and that for this reason the Board grant him leave of absence till September.

CLOSING SCHOOL.

On motion of Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Burnham, the Principal of the Public School was directed to close the schools on Wednesday.

The Board then adjourned.

RECENTLY in Toronto, at 75 Yonge St., over 500 physicians and sufferers visited Dr. M. Souvielle, of Paris, and ex-aide-surgeon of the French army, using his wonderful instrument, the Spirometer, for the cure of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, and all throat and lung diseases. The Doctor or one of his surgeons from the International Throat and Lung Institute, 75 Yonge Street, Toronto, or 13 Philips Square, Montreal, offices for Canada, will be at the Huffman Hotel, Peterborough, July 3rd and 4th, 5th and 6th, 7th and 8th, and will have with him a supply of Spirometers and medicine. Physicians and sufferers can try it free. 26-2t

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JULY 6, 1882.

Dominion Day.

Fifteen years ago last Saturday the life of the Dominion of Canada began under promising auspices and auguries of success and progress, which the history of this decade and a half have very gratifyingly justified. Since that time there have been added to the provinces originally composing the Confederation, those of British Columbia, Prince Edward Island and Manitoba, and in our great North West, other provinces are prospectively rapping for admission.

The Confederation fifteen years ago—in 1867—was an experiment; to-day it has ceased to become so; it is an accomplished and successful fact, and though there are elements in the Canadian national life that give the true patriot and lover of his country cause for regret and solicitude, yet the vigor of the young giant is so great that future progress and development are assured in spite of retarding influences. There have been partizan causes at work which have severely tried the temper and loyalty of some of the provinces, but the strength of the tie has withstood the temptation that may have existed to sunder it, and if the limit of infringement on provincial prerogatives is not pushed too far, there is no cause to fear for the permanency of Confederation. That Canada has flourished under Confederation in the face of circumstances that have been to a certain extent unfavourable is undeniable, and this fact gives good ground for the hope that before the thirtieth anniversary of Dominion Day has come there will be shown a progress far exceeding in every respect, that which has marked the first fifteen years of the distinct existence of the Dominion of Canada. The celebration of Dominion Day has become incorporated in the national existence, not as a mere day for merry-making, but as an occasion for devout thankfulness that Providence has watched over, guarded and promoted the welfare of Canada. Cheered by the success of the past it is to be hoped that Canadians will enter upon a new year of Confederation with an earnest intention to live and work for the best interests of the country, regardless of the success or failure of party calculations, except as they involve the welfare of the federation at large, that the unification of the Dominion may be not only a physical but a social fact, that history may shine with the record of honorable achievement and the glorious accomplishment of a great destiny by the free, happy and united people of Canada.

Notes of the Day.

A MEMORIAL of Sir Walter Raleigh in form of a stained glass window was recently presented by American citizens to St. Margaret's Church, Westminister. Beneath the window are the following graceful lines, from the pen of U. S. Minister Lowell:—

"The new world's sons, from England's breast we drew
Such milk as bid's remember whence we came:
Proud of her past, wherefrom our present grew,
This window we inscribe with Raleigh's name."

THE INVENTOR of the postal card deserves to be remembered with gratitude, though of the thousands on whom he has conferred a favour by his inventive and practical genius, very few, indeed, are aware of his name. Let it go down to posterity through the columns of the EXAMINER! Dr. Stephaw, a German, was the name of the originator, and Austria was the first country to adopt his useful invention. There are now over two hundred and fifty millions of postal cards annually used in America alone.

THE COLOURED RACE in the Southern States is rapidly decreasing if we are to believe recent statistics. In Virginia this decrease is not so marked, as great attention is there paid to the social and intellectual improvement of the race. Over 190,000 negroes are to be found in its schools and colleges. But in Georgia they are fast diminishing in numbers, and no reason is assigned for it. Two years ago the percentage of mortality among the whites in this State was 19.85 per 1,000, while among the negroes it rose to 45.47 per 1,000.

WITH ALL THE STRIDES education has made in recent years there is still great room for advancement. It is shocking to notice the number of persons in some counties of Ireland, who, though "the schoolmaster is abroad" are still unable to read and write. The census returns show the total population of Donegal, a county in one of the most flourishing districts of Ulster, to be 206,035. The Roman Catholics number 76.5 per cent of the total population, while 24,759 are Episcopalians, 20,784 Presbyterians, and 2,014 Methodists. The educational condition of the inhabitants stands thus: 76,376 persons are able to read and write, 33,429 read only and 95,730 are illiterate! In Fermanagh county the population has decreased 8½ per cent. In 1871 the inhabitants numbered 92,794, in 1881, the number was 84,879, being a total diminition of 7,815. The religious denominations are thus divided: Roman Catholics, 47,359, Episcopalians, 30,874, Presbyterians 1,706, Methodists 4,863. The educational condition of the people is said to compare very favorably with any part of Ireland, yet the figures suggest the necessity of still greater improvement in this respect. Of the entire population 53.2 per cent. can read and write, 17.5 are able to read only and 29.3 are described as unable to do either! National education it is evident has not yet fulfilled its Herculean task.

ENGLAND is, apparently, well supplied with clergy, there being over 20,000 belonging to the Church of England alone, But, with all this, perhaps there is no place in the world in a condition of such spiritual destitution as some parts of the great cities there. This, we think, is illustrated remarkably by the following facts:—South London, embracing the districts of Wandsworth, Streatham, Lambeth, Camberwell, Southwark, Greenwich, Levisham and Woolwich contains a population of 1,265,578. In this part of the great city there are but 348 clergy, the proportion of clergy to population being 1 to every 3,636 souls. Comparing this with the census taken ten years ago, we find each parish has now on an average 700 more souls, and each clergyman 276 more to minister to than in 1871, showing that the church is not keeping pace with the population. In ninety-nine of these parishes each clergyman has to minister to over 2,500 souls. In thirty-nine, where the population varies from 3,000 to 18,000 the incumbent is also single-handed, and the average number of souls in these parishes to each clergyman is at least 7,000. In East London a few years ago, there were only 185 clergy to a population of 700,000, being an average of 3,700 to each individual having the care of souls. In the district of South London, in order to provide a minister for every 2,000 souls, not less than 280 clergy are wanted! Yet the number ordained annually is about 20 With these facts in view, it is evident that the millennium is not yet at hand.

SENECA, a Pagan philosopher, once describing the darkness and degradation of morals in the Roman Empire, said: "No woman is ashamed of divorce." In the United States, the signs of the times seem to indicate the rapid approach of a condition of affairs when this sentiment will be applicable there. For the past twenty-five years the statutes of every State are fast producing what is practically unlimited freedom of divorce, and an organized attempt is, unhappily, being made with marked success, to bring marriage into contempt, to pander to the worst passions of man, and to corrupt the public conscience. Utah has 36 members in its legislature paid out of the national treasury, 28 of these are living in polygamy, some of them having five and six wives. If the sanctities of the marriage relation were firmly held by the people, and its true nature admitted, could such a monstrous, such a wretched state of affairs exist? The native Protestant population of the States is not increasing. The awful crime of infanticide is fearfully prevalent and the laws governing divorce are so loose that anything from incompatibility of temper to the crime of adultery is deemed sufficient grounds for the dissolution of the marriage tie. Up to the time of the revolution, and for a period of one hundred years preceding it, not a single divorce was granted in New York. Now, in New England alone, some 2,000 families are broken up annually from this cause, and in nearly every State the parties divorced may marry again without let or hindrance! In Massachusetts there is a divorce for every twenty-four marriages, or leaving out the foreign population, one to every 14: Rhode Island has a divorce to every 12 marriages; Connecticut, 1 to 11; Maine, 1 to 10. No moralist can fail to see that such a fearful state of affairs as this exhibits must undermine the whole idea of the family, and sap the foundations of morality in the home and in the State. From such a terrible condition may Canada ever be preserved!

"GREAT PAUL"—the large bourbon bell which has safely been placed in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, produced almost as much excitement as the removal of the great elephant, Jumbo. The operation of moving this enormous bell was certainly a much more difficult and laborious task than Mr. Barnum experienced with his purchase. Its progress from Loughborough, where it was manufactured by Messrs. Taylor & Sons, to London was like a triumphal march. "Great Paul" is the largest bell in England, its weight being over 16½ tons. It measures nearly 7 ft. inside, and the diameter at the base is 9 ft. 6 in. The inscription upon it is as follows: "Vae mihi si non evangelisavero"—"Woe is me if I preach not the gospel." There are two bells on the continent of Europe, one at Vienna and another at Hinutz, which exceed it in size and weight, but the excess is very trifling; less than half a ton. This bell is made of an alloy of thirteen parts of copper to four parts tin. Twenty tons of molten metal were poured into the mould in November last, and six days were allowed for it to cool. The outer case of cast-iron was then taken off, and shortly afterwards the tone was satisfactorily tested by Dr. Stainer, the Organist of St. Paul's, and a great musical composer. The note is E flat, and so pure is the tone, that, though the sound is heard at an immense distance, it is no noise distressing to the ear when in close proximity. The Midland Railway Company refused to carry the monster to London, so two traction engines were specially constructed for this purpose. The only difficulty its conveyors met with en route was the widespread desire among the rustics to carve their names on "Great Paul's" skin! Police protection had to be sought wherever available, and a covering for the bell was used elsewhere.

THE SCOTT ACT.

JUDGMENT OF THE PRIVY COUNCIL IN ITS FAVOUR.

Intelligence has been received in New Brunswick that the constitutionality of the Scott Act has been upheld by the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council. This judgment finally settles the matter, and brings the liquor trade face to face with a question of vital importance to its interests, and the temperance party consider themselves to be laid under a grave responsibility. The appeal was one from a judgment of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick, quashing an indictment preferred against a tavern-keeper in Fredericton, N. B. The costs of the appeal, although paid by the parties concerned, will be refunded by the Dominion Government. Superseding the Dunkin Act, the Scott Act is claimed by the temperance party as the best legislation in this direction, while the "trade" certainly view it with great disfavour. While the publicans are compelled to assume a passive attitude, they are fully alive to the impending danger, and they will take prompt measures tending to promote efficient organization amongst themselves. Conversation with several prominent licensed victuallers in Toronto developed the fact that the license and good-will of a fairly good house is worth $4,000 and upwards. Not only do they regard the Act as a menace to their vested rights, and if put into effect but they assert the mode of dealing may be changed, the traffic driven into the hands of unscrupulous men and forced to hide its persecuted head in low "shebeens," while the volume of drinking will not be diminished. "No man," asserted one, "will ever be made sober by Act of Parliament, and no one ever went long without drink, even in Main, if he wanted it." One hotel-keeper remarked that the election in Toronto under the Dunkin Act "cost some of us three or four hundred dollars." There exists a strong determination in the minds of temperance men to do their utmost towards curtailing, if not entirely abolishing, the trade in intoxicating drinks. The Dunkin Act was adopted in York County and several other constituencies, but the cumbrous machinery by which it was worked, combined with the fact that the duration of its operation was only for a year, soon brought it into disrepute and all proceedings under it were speedily allowed to drop." At present there is only one constituency in Ontario—that of Halton—which has the Scott Act under operation, and the friends of the Act claim that it is working well, but as it has only been in operation since May last the trial so far has only been of short duration. The whole question is pregnant with importance to the entire community.

THE INFLUENCES AT WORK.

(From the Toronto Catholic Tribune.)

There has been other influences besides those of the N. P. and the prosperous times, contributing to the prolongation of Conservative rule in Canada. The bribe to the fishermen of the Maritime Provinces was no doubt paid for in votes; and how many votes all over the country have been paid for in promises, can be but vaguely guessed at, though the surmise that they must have been numerous is surely well founded, even with the dim light which the facts that have reached the surface concerning the O'Donohoe deal throws on the crooked ways of the Conservative leaders. Then again the sudden development of "financial strength" in unexpected quarters; the adhesion of the philanthropic cobblers in colonization and other lands in the North-west; the vast influence of the Pacific Railway Syndicate; the outrageous readjustment of representation bill, and the lavish appropriations, and still more lavish promises of appropriations, of the public money, all tended to strengthen the Government candidates and influence the votes of susceptible electors in favor of keeping the present Ministry in power. In the face of these, it is not much to be wondered at, that the Reformers have suffered a more severe reverse than appearances indicated previous to the day of polling; rather it is matter for congratulation that on the whole, they made a substantial agrin by very materially reducing the Ministerial majority and proportionately strengthening the Opposition, especially from this Province.

Pink Eye.

Prof. Smith, V. S., has examined a large number of cases of pink eye in valuable horses in various parts of the province lately. He states that the disease is now disappearing, but some cases have proved fatal. But where the horses are not overworked and rationally treated, there is no great danger to be apprehended.

GEORGE STREET, PETERBOROUGH.

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

(From the Boston Globe.)

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

THE RIVER OF PEACE.

Forth from the alabaster throne,
This beautiful river glides.
Still its depths, where storms unknown,
And the charms of love abides.

Gemmel river, how clear and bright!
All nations may drink of thee,
Healing is found for darkest blight,
In thy waters full and free.

Rich are the trees that shade thy shore,
With summer that shall not cease,
Green are thy pastures evermore,
Beautiful river of peace.

Fruits grow, luscious and fair to see,
By the margin of thy flow—
Odors, and flowers, and melody,
Thy life-giving presence know.

Rivers of earth have sunk to streams,
And empires have passed away;
But thou, beyond all angel dreams,
Art beautiful still to-day.

Shadows of time and brooding sin,
May rest on the shore-bound wave;
But thy heart still quiet within,
Heeds not the tempests that rave.

Men have reviled, demons have sought
To stem thy current; in vain—
Rocks have been piled and some to nought,
As snow melts before the rain.

Roll on, O river! through all strife,
In thy majesty sublime,
Let the dew of thy wave give life
To the arid waste of time.

Till earth, encircled, love in thee
Shall raise the conqueror's rod,
And thou, freighted with souls set free,
Return to the throne of God.

THE PRAIRIE MONSTER.

Short of the frightful storms which are said to sweep over the sun itself, there does not seem to be any other force in nature quite equal in energy and terror to the tornadoes that so often swoop down upon the prairies of Kansas, Missouri and Iowa. These whirlwinds, now deemed almost wholly electrical—perhaps because electricity is the prevailing fashion in dynamics just now—have the qualities and traits of the elephant's trunk. They can overthrow a house or pick up a sixpence; tear a full grown and massive tree up by the roots, or strip the bark from the smallest twig, and without injuring the wood, as clean as the boy peels a willow rod. Up into the funnel formed by the tremendnous pressure and whirl of the air currents, buildings, locomotives, cattle, and children are drawn as readily as gravitation pulls them into an opening in the earth. Residences and barns, large structures and small, are seised and ground into indistinguishable dust, while fragile glassware and tender infants have been borne aloft and sat down on the ground again without the slighest harm.

The latest and most destructive tornado in Iowa, which nearly wiped out the enterprising town of Grinnell, containing 1,100 inhabitants, differed little, except in the amount of its destruction, from its many predecessors and contemporaries. A roar, a flash of fire balls, a crash, a rush, and the frightful monster had passed on. In less time than it takes to tell of it, the ruin is wrought. For a few hundred feet in width, expanding sometimes to a quarter of a mile, and even a mile, and for a hundred miles in length, wherever there are obstacles and objects, other than forests, not a structure remains. Occasionally, however, it seems to have touched the earth and bounded up again, leaving extensive tracts of land untouched.

The work of this demon in Iowa was peculiar in its horrible mutilation of the bodies of its victims. A fierce battle with cannonading and shells could not have inflicted such wounds or mangled the human anatomy in so singularly frightful a fashion. In some cases the clothing was torn off and the shreds left clinging to the body had to be cut away from the flesh. Dirt, sand, plaster and cinders were ground into the flesh, and could not be washed or scraped away, as if the body had been mashed and rolled about under tremendous pressure in sand and ashes. The bodies were beaten into shapeless masses; spines were driven into sculls and through the top of the head; backs were broken: eyes torn out of the sockets and left hanging down the cheeks; the entrails and organs of the body were scooped out of the body's cavities, and limbs pulled asunder. The head of one beautiful girl was so crushed down into her body, that it had to be cut out. Even hens and prairie chickens were plucked as clean of their feathers as if they had been made ready for market. Mud, dirt and gravel were not simply splashed on to the sides of buildings, but driven into the fibre, as if discharged from a cannon. In one case a stable was lifted, carried over the tops of the tallest trees and deposited on a hill six or seven hundred feet away, the three horses in it being unharmed. Indeed, the catalogue of ruin wrought by the tornado, and the miraculous escapes from its violence, fatigue credulity and defy the imagination. Almost without an exception, however, those who were warned by the ominous rush and crash of the storm, long enough to run to the cellars, escaped death, and with few exceptions all injuries also.

ROUGH ON THE ROAD.

A commercial traveller, who is something of a wag, thus relates his experience: He and his companion were the sole occupants of the smoking car. They tried to converse, but the road was so rough they were pitched from side to side like ship's passengers. At last they were able to make each other understood. One said, "Dan, the old thing is running smoother. To which Dan replies, "Yes, I guess she has got off the track."

Sultan has guaranteed Arabi perfect immunity, and conferred the honor of the Medjedie upon him. It is thought that if a foreign force is landed in Egypt the Khedive will be immediately arrested. The Conference has discussed and confirmed the Sultan's suzerainty.

HOW GARFIELD LOOKS.

GOV. SHERMAN OF IOWA VIEWS THE VAULT AND SEES THE LATE PRESIDENT'S FACE.

Gov. Sherman, of Iowa, who is visiting at Elmira, N.Y., said to a reporter there the other day: "I saw President Garfield a day or two ago in Cleveland. You need not look astonished; I saw him—not his spirit, but his own form and features. I had visited his tomb to do homage to the spot where the martyr President was sleeping. The watchman in charge, on learning whence I came, and who I was, asked me if I would like to see the President. I was as greatly surprised as you can be. He simply showed me he was in earnest, invited me into the tomb, unscrewed and removed the lid from that sacred casket, and there lay Gen. Garfield before me, just as he looked the day of his funeral—as if in a weary unrefreshing sleep. I was surprised, for, despite the emaciation of those noble features, I was at once struck with their likeness to the General as I had seen him alive. I presume that years will pass ere the preserving traces of the embalmer's work will have been removed from all that is left on earth of Garfield."

A reporter of the Herald, with the above extract in hand, visited Lake View Cemetery to make an inquiry in regard to the matter, and learn if it was true that the remains of the dead President had been exposed to view even to satisfy the curiosity of the Governor of Iowa. The sexton, being interrogated about the matter, said it was true that Gov. Sherman had been allowed to view the remains of the dead, but that he had nothing to say or do in the case. The keys of the vault were in possession of Lieut. Van Vilret, of the Tenth United States Infantry, the officer in charge of the detail of soldiers guarding the tomb, and the Lieutenant unlocked the gate of the vault, unscrewed the lid that covers the glass plate set into the top of the coffin, and allowed Gov. Sherman and party to view the remains.—Cleveland Herald.

A PICKPOCKET'S RUSE.

Under the heading of "Un Pickpocket distingue," the French journals publish the following story:—"At the Chateauroux races a skilful pickpocket with an open countenance whipped from the hand of a lady a richly embroidered mouchoir which she was carrying. The victim was unconscious of the robbery, but some persons who were standing close to her saw the deed committed, and raised the usual cry of 'Au voleur!' which is equivalent to our 'Stop thief!' Our hero, instead of levanting like a vulgar rascal, remained upon the spot calm and immovable. After casting a glance of superb disdain upon the would-be pursuers, he used the dainty handkerchief several times with as much vigor as dignity. Then, with a jaunty air, tendered the lady her mouchoir, saying, 'Madame, a thousand pardons; I came out without a pocket-handkerchief, and nothing is more inconvenient. I thank you.' The astonishment this act created was so great that no one thought of arresting the impudent thief, who was soon lost in the crowd.

COQUETTING WITH CONSUMPTION.—Some people, troubled with coughs seem absolutely to coquet with consumption—now encouraging it by a total neglect of medicine, and again attempting to stave it off with ill-chosen cough remedies. How much wiser to eradicate it at the outset by using Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Promptitude in the use of this medicine cannot be too strongly urged upon those consumptively inclined, in a climate so severe during the winter as our own. The public generally, as well as the medical fraternity, is acquainted with the value, as a remedy for lung and throat troubles, of the purified oil of the Cod's liver. United with it in this standard Emulsion are the finest tonics in existence, namely, lime and soda hypophosphites, of which the chief component, phosphorus, is an incomparable nutritive of the blood and invigorant of the system. Nothing builds up a broken-down system and enables it to resist the inroads of pulmonary diseases like this leading preparation. Coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, soreness and weakness of the chest, are among the bodily troubles which it overcomes, and in scrofulous affections it has been used with great success as a remedy. Sold by all druggists, at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Prepared only by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Canada.

HOARSENESS AND FAILURE of voice from congestion of the vocal chords, follicular disease of the fauces, or minister's sore throat, are often the results of bronchial troubles, extending up the trachea and larynx, affecting the whole mucous tract of the air passages. These diseases are the outcome or expression of nerve debility and blood impoverishment from overworking the system and excessive use of the organs involved. Here constitutional treatment is required to restore nutrition and nerve power, and WHEELER'S Phosphates and Calisaya has been successfully used by singers and public speakers.

Not One of Our Peculiarities.

So-called respectable people would hesitate considerably before pilfering your pockets in a crowded thoroughfare. That would be too too. The same discrimination is not indicated by the so-called respectable druggist when that wonderful corn cure, PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR, is asked for. He will pilfer your pockets in the most genteel manner by substituting cheap and dangerous substitutes for the genuine Putnam's Corn Extractor. Watch for these gentlemen, and take none other than Putnam's Corn Extractor. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family, handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,
Your obedient humble servant,

Manitoba Elections.

In the Dominion elections on Tuesday, the Liberals scored a victory. Three Reformers were elected and one Tory. The result, including Provencher, where Hon. Mr. Royal was elected by acclamation, is, Reformers three, Tories two, a gain of three Opposition seats.

The Egyptian Crisis.

The crisis in Egyptian affairs still continues, and day by day the tension becomes greater, and circumstances may increase the strain to such an extent that a rupture will ensue and the result be the outbreak of a war of an extent and character, such as conjecture can only faintly outline. France and England are the chief European actors, or rather watchers and waiters, in the embroglio, and indications point to the fact that the present policy of delay and inaction is not expected to continue. British dockyards and arsenals ring with the ominous note of warlike preparation, and in Egypt Arabi Bey and the nationalist party are making use of the interval to prepare for the imminent struggle. A brief retrospect may make the present situation a little clearer. For a long time Egypt has been a province of the Turkish Empire, under the vice rule of a Khedive. Following the example of the Sublime Porte, Egypt has got deeply into debt, and the chief creditors are France and England. Years ago Egyptian bonds were a drug on the money market, and the Government of Egypt were unable or unwilling to pay the interest, and the joint intervention of England and France in the interests of their bondholders, ensured and these two Governments, with the concurrence of the other powers, appointed agents to represent them in Egypt, and see that English and French bondholders should have fair play. Egypt acquiesced, and for a time affairs went on smoothly—on the surface, at least.

Then Arabi Bey, the present evil element in the embroglio, came prominently to the surface. He secured, as Minister of War, the entire control of the army, and Tewfik Pasha, the good natured, indolent Khedive, became a mere cypher, and unable to resist the course which Arabi Bey marked out for himself. The first step of the latter was to ignore the authority of the control of the western powers France and England, and to tolerate, if he did not incite, a popular outbreak. The Khedive became a prisoner in his own palace. English and French fleets came to anchor menacingly in the harbor of Alexandria, but the plucky Arabi met threats with contempt, and insolently threw up fortifications about the town, and on Sunday, the 11th of last month, Mussulman fanaticism found an outlet in the terrible massacre of that day, in which nearly four hundred persons were killed. Since then there has been an exodus, not of Israelites, but of Europeans, fleeing from the unreasoning wrath of the mob. The inaction and passivity maintained by both France and England since that time have only intensified the evils of the position. In fact neither of them wish to interfere. In the East England has millions of Mahommedan subjects, and is loth to offend those, whose allegiance is not of the most assured, by an attempt of force in Egypt, that might be construed into oppression by the co-religionists of her Indian empire. For the like reason France is loth to displease the subjects of her provinces to the south of the Mediterannean.

One possible solution is the intervention of the Sultan, who would naturally be expected to be anxious to restore peace and order to Egypt. His interference as Suzerain of the country is something that England and France, neither one, relishes. Once he gains a footing in Egypt it will be hard to displace him, and thus the prestige of both powers would be destroyed. To interfere as the executor of the two interested powers is something that the Sultan, Abdul Hamid, does not relish, and the question arises, whether, as the head of the newly originated idea of Pan Mahomedanism, the Sultan may not have covertly instigated the rebellious Arabi Bey. In this way the matter stands at present. England and France, for reasons not fully made known, stand aloof. The Sultan, for reasons easily fancied, elects to remain a spectator, perhaps on the principle of "lookers on seeing most of the game." Meanwhile the Egyptians proclaim their intention to resist interference from every quarter, and to declare a holy war in defence of their rights. The present situation cannot long continue. The latest advices point to a joint intervention by a mixed corps of English, French, Italian and Greek troops, and it is barely possible that order may be restored without resort to force. A few days more will decide.

The Trent Valley Canal.

The Review is making frantic efforts to show that the extension of the date for opening the tenders, by the Government, till August does not mean indefinite postponement of the work of construction, and in so doing it does not omit a thrust at the engineer, and an insinuation of his inefficiency and incapacity. But its efforts will be in vain; the game is too transparent. It is just as we predicted and expected. The canal scheme has well served its purpose as an electioneering dodge, and now it must dry up and take its place for another five years in the dusty keeping of departmental pigeon-holes. When the 2nd of August comes, there will be another "refuge of lies" to excuse its postponement, and so on to the end of the chapter, as long as the Government prolific in promises keeps power. The electors who strained their consciences to "vote for the Conservative candidates and the Trent Valley Canal," may extract what comfort they can from the present indications of the virtual abandonment of the works; but let them live on in patience and hope. After the lapse of five years, when election "time" is called, the Trent Valley Canal will come up smiling, to knock the Grit candidate out of time again. He that is deceived once is unfortunate; he that is deceived twice, by the same party, is a fool.

Mr. Burnham's Majority.

The official returns give Mr. Burnham a majority of 257 in East Peterborough. These figures are manifestly an error. It appears that the returns for No. 4, Dummer were accidentally reversed, and instead of there being a majority of 33 for Mr. Burnham, these figures belonged to Mr. Roxburgh. This, it will at once be seen, would reduce Mr. B's majority to 193, thus largely nullifying the labored figuring of the Review to prove the great strides of progress made by Tory sentiment in this Riding, which will be useless altogether when it is shown that the increase claimed is due to no political reason whatever, but to the stupid faith placed in the Government promises in reference to the Trent Valley Canal scheme, which has been dropped like a live ember since the elections. And we hope those Reformers who have sacrificed their principles and the interests of their province to assist the promotion of a local enterprise, which, however excellent and desirable, they must now see was only used as a bait to snare the unwary and credulous, may atone by a speedy repentance, for the grievous act of error if not intention. Principles are eternal, promises—especially those of the Tory Government—are broken reeds to trust to. Such promises are the true explanation of the Review's boasted increase of Tory sentiment.

WATER WORKS.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—In the last issue of your paper there is a communication signed "Ratepayer," in which some statements are made that are incorrect.

1st.—It is stated that the present Company "are proceeding under a special Act of Parliament." This is untrue. The By-law states the Act under which the company are proceeding, and it is a general act. It is true the act was amended at the last session by a general act amending the former one. The amending act was brought in by the Hon. Attorney-General Mowat, and gives the present company no special rights or privileges, and it does not "tax all the ratepayers of the town for the use of their water by but a portion of it." A reference to the statutes will prove this.

2nd.—It is not true that "if the water is required for any other than fire purposes it must be paid for separately." The By-law provides that the sum to be paid by the town for the use of the fire hydrants shall cover the use of the same for all public purposes.

The number of hydrants required to protect the property of the town against loss by fire, is within the competence of the council to decide, but no property can be taxed by the council for the same, unless the parties desiring the protection ask for it and agree to pay for it, as in the case of gas lamps, street watering and other local improvements.

The present company are putting in the works as economically as the town could do under the other act referred to in "Ratepayer's" letter, and they have found that the works will cost in the neighborhood of $70,000. They have to pay a man competent to oversee the work $900 per year, and he will require at least two men under him, and those men if fit to be left in charge of the works during the day and night, will have to be paid at least $1.25 per day, as no man can at present be got to do even ordinary laborer's work at a less rate of wages. The works to be of any real benefit, must be always ready, and no one man could keep them in such an efficient condition as the By-law requires. The two pumps which have already been ordered, are capable of throwing six hundred gallons per minute each, and provision is being made in the pump house for another pump of an equal or larger capacity. As the town has the right to purchase the works at a valuation at the expiration of ten years, it will be manifest, I think, to all, that the works should be of a permanent and efficient character. The works will be completed without any cost to the town, and it will rest with the council and ratepayers what amount of return the company will get for the outlay. It can do no good to misrepresent matters, or attribute dishonest motives to men who claim to have the interest of the town at heart as much as "Ratepayer".

Yours, &c.,
D. G. HATTON,
Peterborough, July 4th, 1882.

Instead of tall chimneys and clattering wheels, Parkdale a suburban village in the outskirts Toronto, has passed a by-law prohibiting the erection of factories within its limits. The time is, we suppose, coming when commercial, manufacturing and domiciliary buildings will be carefully told off into separate parts of a town with sufficient communication between them. This process goes on in all large cities, but as a rule it is only the rich who are now able to live apart from their places of business.

DOMINION DAY

Right Royally Celebrated.

Dominion Day broke dreary and dull, with a dismal drizzle of rain oozing from low-hanging, leaden clouds. In spite of this the programme laid out by the Lacrosse Club and Fire Brigade was carried out quite successfully. The first event to attract public attention was the between the Earls, of Kingston, and the home team for the Gildersleeve Cup and the championship of Central Ontario.

The visiting club was composed of the following:

Goal, T. McGuire; point, J. McDonald; cover point, P. Moran; defence field, C. Milan, W. Towers and M. Hogan; centre field, M. Haggarty; home field, J. Linaugh, M. Foley; home, D. Milan, C. Greaza and P. Gallivan; captain, J. J. Behan.

The Peterboroughs went to the field as follows:

Goal, W. A. Sanderson: point, A. Mackie; cover point, P. Rudkins; defence field, J. Joyal; 2nd home, M. McDonald; field, A. Yelland, W. Morrow; home field, M. Halpin, J. Craig; home, C. Rutherford, G. H. Giroux and W. Rudkins; field captain, H. LeBrun.

The ball was faced at 11.25 and play at once began, but it did not take long to decide what would be the probable result. The boys of the home team played well together and forced the Earls to play a purely defence game, and the fight was principally around the goal of the enemy, who bent all their exertions to keeping the rubber from between the poles, and so eagerly and successfully did they do this, that the game was greatly prolonged; fifty-seven minutes elapsing before Halpin put the rubber through the poles, securing first game.

Play was at once continued, a repetition of the first game, and in sixteen minutes Giroux put the rubber in the right spot and the second game was won.

The third bout the Earls put forward stronger exertions to make better play, but fate and skill were against them, and in eighteen minutes, McDonald, with a beautiful long throw, sent the sphere between the flags, ending the match, and giving Peterborough a fresh grip on the Gildersleeve Cup.

It would be, perhaps, unfair to particularize some of the much good play made by the home team. They have improved vastly in form and finish within the past month, and after a little more practice it will take a crack team to beat them. The Fire Brigade band added enjoyment to the match by playing several fine selections.

At about 2.45 a

of the Fire Brigade and Lacrosse Club formed and proceeded to the Agricultural grounds, where the atheletic sports were held. The attendance was not as large as might have been, but most of the events on the programme were well contested. The following were

PRIZE WINNERS:

Two mile walking race.—J. Hannah, D. Spence.

Hundred yard race.—A. Mooney, H. Carnegie.

Mile race (professional.)—John Raine, Ottawa. J. Watson.

Indian club exercise.—J. Hannah.

Three legged race.—M. Orde and F. Sherwood, E. A. Jones and J. E. Haggart.

Quarter mile race (boys).—E. Stratton, D. Wallace.

Quarter mile race (professional).—J. Raine, J. Watson.

Boys' race.—T. Cronan, A. Ferguson.

Tug of war.—Fire Brigade.

The other events on the programme did not take place.

In the evening the

by the band took place and lasted till about nine o'clock. The band played a fine programme of beautiful selections in splendid style.

THE FIREWORKS

display was made in the grounds, and was witnessed by a very large crowd. The display was excellent, and the management of it reflected great credit on the "fireman."

THE TORCHLIGHT

procession was well arranged, and presented a brilliant spectacle, and concluded a most successful and gratifying celebration of the natal day of the Dominion.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. DAVID CARLISLE.

A LARGE FUNERAL.

Just before putting our last issue to press we learned of the sudden death of Mr. David Carlisle, one of the most respectable and respected residents of Peterborough. Briefly the circumstances are as follows: Mr. Carlisle had taken the contract of building a church near Harwood, and on the night preceding his death, he was apparently in good health and spirits. He was at the residence of Mr. Sylvester Campbell about three miles east of Harwood. He and Mr. C. and Ralph Robertson sat up till two o'clock consulting about, and preparing new plans and specifications for the church buildings, the old ones having been lost. After this was done the two had lunch and the deceased went to bed with Robertson. About half past five the latter was awakened by a moaning noise made by deceased. He spoke to him but got no answer. He at once awoke Mr. Campbell, but when they returned to the room David Carlisle was dead.

A coroners inquest was held and the jury returned the verdict that the deceased came to his death from compression of the brain, aggravated no doubt, if not induced, by the severe mental labor of the night preceding his death.

A deputation of Oddfellows proceeded on the steamer, Golden Eye, on Wednesday evening and brought the body to town. On Thursday the deceased was buried with society honors. An immense procession of friends followed the remains to the Little Lake Cemetry. Among these was about one hundred and twenty Oddfellows and Foresters, of which orders deceased was an honored member, the latter including a deputation of seven or eight from Court Lakefield. The Fire Brigade Band headed the procession, whose length testified to the high respect in which the deceased was held.

David Carlisle was a gentleman in every way worthy of the respect and affection in which he was held by all his acquaintances and friends. He died at the early age of thirty-three, leaving a wife and family to fight the battle of life without his assistance and sympathy.

Farmers, before buying your reaper and mower oil, ask for and procure a sample of "Kaiser" Machine Oil. It is warranted not to gum, and guaranteed to give satisfaction. 5-28t

To listen to Mr. Blake whether in the House or on the platform is to be convinced that he is an able man. Why, then, is he so unsuccessful?—London Free Press.

Because he is too honest a man to cheat the people by trying to make them believe that Dominion fiscal arrangements can control the price of grain and lumber and make the people rich. Because he is too truthful a man to make all kinds of lying promises which he knows he cannot keep. Because he is too honorable a man to bribe people with their own money. Because he is too dignified a man to carouse in bar-rooms and other places of that kind with shady characters. Because he does not promise offices to hundreds of men who never got them. Because he will not violate the constitution and rob Ontario. Because he is an upright, highminded, honorable statesman, and many of those to be ruled have their prices. Does the F. P. see the points.

The Gallows Finishes Guiteau.

EXECUTION OF GARFIELD'S ASSASSIN

The Great Yankee Farce Ended.

THE SCENE ON THE SCAFFOLD!

Friday last was the day appointed for the execution of the death sentence against Charles J. Guiteau, for the cold-blooded murder of President Garfield, and the world will be glad to know that that righteous judgment was faithfully carried out. It lacked but two days of the anniversary of the crime, and it would have been poetical as well as actual justice, to have commemorated the anniversary of Garfield's taking off, by the hanging of the wretched assassin.

Shortly before 12 o'clock on the death day, Guiteau seemed to break down completely, and burst into tears and sobbed hysterically. Dr. Hicks fanned and vainly tried to calm him. At half past 11 preparations began to be made for the execution. At 11:50 a detachment of artillery was formed on the east side of the rotunda and brought their muskets to parade rest. At that time about 250 people were in the rotunda. Dr. Hicks was with the prisoner, engaged in prayer. Guiteau showed great nervousness and appeared greatly startled when he heard the rattle of the muskets on the stone floor of the rotunda. From that moment Guiteau appeared to be thoroughly overcome with emotion. He wept freely and seemed to be in great anguish. The scene in the rotunda while waiting for the prisoner, was one long to be remembered. Soldiers were drawn up on one side and along the side, spectators facing them on the other.

THE MARCH TO THE SCAFFOLD.

After the death warrant was read, the prisoner became more composed. Turning away, he began to brush his hair with his old apparent swaggering sang froid. At 12:20 the steam whistle blew at the work-house near the jail. Two minutes later the iron gates at the head of the corridor clicked. The Warden appeared, and a moment later Guiteau. The latter's face was pallid and the muscles about his mouth moved nervously. There were no other signs of faltering The procession moved quickly to the scaffold. Guiteau ascended the twelve somewhat steep steps with as much steadiness as could be expected from a man whose arms were tightly pinioned behind. At the last step he faltered a moment, but was assisted by two officials.

ON THE SCAFFOLD.

Guiteau was placed immediately behind the drop, facing to the front of the scaffold. Capt. Coleman stood on his right, Robt. Strong upon his left, and Woodward behind him. Jones took up a position on the north side, Warder Crooker took a position on the south east corner of the structure. There was a slight delay while the 250 or more spectators were pushing through the hall from the corridor, at the lower end of which the gallows were placed. Guiteau, after glaring at the crowd, looked at the dread paraphernalia. As soon as the crowd entered Crooker waved to them to uncover. All heads were bared.

DR. HICKS' PRAYER.

Dr. Hicks prayed as follows:—

"Father, out of the depths we pray to Thee; hear Thou our supplication for the sake of Jesus Christ, the Saviour, who made full propitiation for us. Behold this Thy servant. We humbly pray that Thou wilt deliver him at this the supreme moment of his life. Let Thy light descend upon him. Liberate his soul from prison. May he appear before Thee absolved by Thy great mercy. From blood guiltiness deliver him and us. God have mercy on us. Christ have mercy on us. Lamb of God that takest away the sins of the world have mercy on us. Amen and Amen."

During the prayer Guiteau stood with bowed head. Dr. Hicks opened the Bible. Guiteau in firm tones said; "I will read a selection from the 10th chapter of Matthew, the 28th to 41st verses inclusive." He then read in a clear strong voice, with good intonation, showing little, if any, nervousness.

Dr. Hicks then produced the manuscript prepared by the prisoner this morning, and held it before him while Guiteau read. While Dr. Hicks was arranging the manuscript, Guiteau exhibited slight nervousness and moved several times from one foot to the other. He soon recovered his composure and said:—

GUITEAU'S DYING PRAYER.

"I am now going to read to you my last dying prayer." He then read in a loud tone, with distinct and deliberate emphasis, the following: "My dying prayer on the gallows is: Father, now I go to Thee and Saviour. I have finished the work Thou gavest me to do, and I am only too happy to go to Thee. The world does not yet appreciate my mission, but thou knowest it. Thou knowest Thou didst inspire Garfield's removal, and only good has come from it. This is the best evidence that inspiration came from Thee, and I have set it forth in my book, that all may read and know thou Father didst inspire the act for which I am now murdered. This Government and nation by this act, I know will incur Thy eternal enmity as did the Jews by killing Thy man, my Saviour. Retribution in that case was quick and sharp, and I know Thy divine law of retribution will strike this nation and my murderers in the same way. The diabolical spirit of this nation its government and its newspapers towards me will justify Thee in cursing them; and I know Thy divine law of retribution is inexorable. I therefore predict that this nation will go down in blood, and that my murderers, from the Executive to the hangman, will go to hell. Thy laws are inexorable, O Thou Supreme Judge. Woe unto the men that violate Thy laws. Only weeping and gnashing of teeth suits them. The American press has a large bill to settle with Thee, Righteous Father, for their vindictiveness in the matter. Nothing but blood will satisfy them, and now my blood be on them and this nation and its officials. Arthur, the President, is a coward and an ingrate. His ingratitude to the man that made him and saved his party and land from overthrow has no parallel in history, but Thou, righteous Father, will judge him. Father, Thou knowest me, but the world has not known me, and now I go to Thee and Saviour without the slightest ill will toward a human being. Farewell, ye men of earth."

At several points the assassin half paused, and endeavoured to impart increased emphasis to his words by the peculiar facial expression so often noticed during the trial, when he was angered at something. This peculiarity was noticeable when he alluded to Arthur, and when he declared the nation would go down in blood. When he finished reading he again surveyed the crowd and said in a firm voice: "I am now going to read some verses intended to indicate my feelings at the moment of leaving this world. If set to music they may be rendered affective. The idea is that of a child babbling to his mamma and his papa. I wrote it this morning about 10 o'clock." He then commenced to chant some verses, in a sad, doleful style.

THE EXECUTION.

Dr. Hicks gave Guiteau a final benediction and farewell, saying:—"Good Father be with thee and give thee peace for ever more." The attendants then pinioned his legs and adjusted the noose about his neck. Strong placed the black cap over the head. Guiteau called out loudly, "Glory, glory, glory." Instantly the spring was touched and the drop fell at 12:40. Guiteau swung around in the air. The body turned partly around, but there was not the slightest perceptible movement of the limbs. When the drop fell some persons inside the jail yelled,

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE OUTSIDE HURRAHING.

There was a general onslaught by the populace upon the door. The officers were unable to withstand it. Hundreds of people crowded into the office, and there was a terrible crush at the doors. For forty seconds after the drop fell the body was motionless. Then there was a slight motion of the shoulders and legs, due to muscular constraction. Three minutes after the drop fell, the body was lowered to be examined by the physicians. There was a decided action of the heart for fourteen minutrs. The heart fluttered two minutes longer. After the body had hung with the feet just touching the ground for over half an hour, it was lowered into a coffin. The physician decided that the neck was broken. Warden Crocker states that the story of an attempt to convey poison to Guiteau is unfounded.

DIDN'T DIE "GAME."

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Dr. McWilliams, assistant physician at the gaol, does not think Guiteau showed all the firmness in the last hour with which he has been credited. He says:—"I visited the gaol on Thursday at midnight, and found him sitting on his bed staring into vacancy, the most perfect picture of despair I ever beheld. Next morning the guard reported that he had slept none during the night. He would occasionally go into a doze and start out of it with an inarticulate sound. The officers say he ate nothing for breakfast. He may have put something in his mouth, but it amounted to nothing. It was the same way at dinner, when he was said to have eaten a hearty meal. I learned from the guards that he broke down into perfect despair during the morning and wept freely. It was necessary to make every exertion to keep him up. When Crocker read the death warrant Guiteau was evidently greatly agitated, but was able to stand. When he reached the top of the scaffold he faltered, but did not stumble. In reading his "prayer" he wavered so excessively that Crocker was at one time anxious to stop it. I was just back of the scaffold and could hear him catching his breath and struggling to control his voice. It was dreadful."

THE ASSASSIN'S SANITY.

Dr. McWilliams says it is not true that Guiteau's brain was found to be soft and yielding. The adhesion in places of the membrane to the skull proved nothing. In Daniel Webster's case the whole brain adhered to the skull. A prominent phisician who carefully examined Guiteau's brain says it was as healthy and as free from exciting or irritating causes as the brain of the sanest citizen of Washington.

PRESBYTERIANISM IN CANADA.

All things considered the past year has been a prosperous one for the Presbyterianism of the Dominion. The reports presented at the assembly show substantial progress in every department. There is a marked improvement from year to year in the support of missions. The report on the state of religion is, on the whole, encouraging and hopeful. The church grows in numbers and liberality. So far as we can remember it has never been the duty of the supreme court to receive a statistical report setting forth either a falling off in our numbers, or a reduction in the sum total collected for church purposes. Certain schemes have at times had the balance on the wrong side, but the sum total has always shown an increase. It is easy to say that the church only gives so many for the smaller schemes. True, but the amount given for all purposes foots up a good sum. We might give more; we hope to give more; but the people will never be made more liberal by belittling their present efforts. Let us thank God and take courage.

Twenty deaths from smallpox are reported at Coucharley, Ind., and the pest still rages.

POLITICAL NOTES.

It is rumoured that the Premier will elect to sit for Lennox, and endeavour to have Plumb pitchforked into Carleton.

Many English papers are surprised at the result of the elections in Canada. One Liberal journal pronounces the Canadians as infatuated.

Wholesale bribery is reporthe to taken place in the recent election for Montreal West. It is alleged that this is the reason why Mr. Gault (Tory) defeated Mr. Ward (Liberal).

The "Canadian Monthly" has ceased publication for the present. It has been managed with considerable ability, and has deserved a better fate. Pecuniarily, however it has been a failure.

One of the changes made in the election law is that a defeated candidate who fails to poll one-third of the votes cast loses the two hundred dollars he is required to deposit with the returning officer when he is nominated.

It is believed that Mr. Rogers, member elect for Albert county, New Brunswick, will resign, and that Sir Albert J. Smith will be asked to fill the vacancy. Sir Albert is an able debater, and his presence in the House is much to be desired.

Politics are very brisk in British Columbia. For Victoria district there are already six candidates announced—Hon. Mr. De Cosmos, Messrs. Shakespeare, Boyd, Pearse, Booth and Baker—and in other districts the crop of patriots is also large. The election will not take place before the second week in July.

"Mr. Patterson, of Essex, has a majority of 785. There are fourteen Grit members the aggregate of whose majorities do not reach that figure."—Toronto Mail.

Exactly. Fourteen Reformers, the justice of whose cause compelled their election despite the Gerrymander. But what about Mr. Casey in West Elgin, and Mr. Armstrong in South Middlesex, each of whom had a majority of over eight hundred!

A second rise has taken place in sugars since the elections. The last advance was ¼c. in granulated and ¼c. in yellows. Granulated now stands at 9¾c. It paid the refiners to stand by John A. and sell cheap for a few weeks before election day. In the course of another year or two Redpath can buy another palace in England. If only those who vote for N. P. had to pay for the swindle, there would be no cause for mourning.

There are now eight vacancies in the Local Legislature of this Province, caused by the representatives leaving that chamber to seek election in the House of Commons. The contests in these constituencies will take the place of the usual political pic-nics, and serve to keep the people reminded of the fact that there are yet some politics left in the land. The vacancies in the west are those of East Bruce and South Essex.

The reason for taking from the Sheriffs and Registrars their ex officio functions of returning officers has been disclosed by the developments in Bothwell. It was pointed out at the time that persons removed from active political strife were the proper ones to handle the returns, but the Dominion Government preferred to place the power in the hands of those who are seeking for office, and who are not at all scrupulous as to the means they emp oy to gain it.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Grangers of this vicinity held their annual pic-nic on Wednesday of last week. The day was all that could be desired and everything passed off pleasantly. The steamer Dora left the Keene wharf about half-past eight o'clock and arrived at Idyl Wild about half-past 11. After landing all hastened to the grove for dinner, after which all spent an enjoyable time in dancing, singing, and other enjoyable sports. After partaking of tea about 5 o'clock, steam was got up and all landed safely in Keene about half-past 7 o'clock well satisfied with the day's pleasure.

The station is now completed, and also the road and bridge leading to it nearly so. The trains are all running on good time. Surely there will be less grumbling and more satisfaction.

The crops are all looking well in and around this vicinity. "Due, I suppose, to the N. P."

Keene has a photograph gallery in the shape of a canvass tent.

There has been an addition to our hotels lately, Keene Hotel, M. Kennealy proprietor.

The carrying of mails to and from the station has changed hands. Formerly it was carried by Mr. M. Kennealy, now by Mr. John McLachlin, proprietor of the American House.

ALL THE PEOPLE OF THE DOMINION OF CANDA ARE CONCERNED.

Here are some more of the many hundreds of the leading people of the Dominion of Canada who have been cured of Catarrah, Bronchitis, Asthma and Lung disease by Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer and instrument, which conveys medicinal properties direct to the seat of disease. Read and judge for yourself:

Several of my family and friends have been cured of bronchitis, asthma and catarrh by using the Spirometer. JOHN P. WHELAN, Manager POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal. Mr. C. HILL, Montreal, catarrh and bronchitis. MR. DEBOUCHERVILLE, of the Indian Department, Ottawa, catarrh of many years; now cured. MR. GEO. AGER, Ottawa, catarrh and lung disease; cured. MRS. SMITH, London, wife of Medical Detective, cured of catarrh. GEO. MAGUIRE, Toronto, 482 Adelaide Street West; daughter cured of asthma. GEORGE WILLIS, Exeter, Ont., catarrh and bronchitis. J. D. ARMSTRONG, 186 Young street, Toronto, catarrh and catarrhal deafness. THOMAS TELFER, 12 Melinda street, Toronto, asthma; cured. MR. BENJ. A. DRAKE, St. Urbain Street, Montreal, for many years suffering from bronchitis and asthma, is now cured.

Also, the no less surprising cure of Mrs. DENOIT, 114 Cathedral Street, daughter of Mrs. David Parrault, who suffered from asthma and bronchitis for over eight years, and who is now perfectly cured.

Mrs. ADAMSON, of Belleville, cured of bronchitis, and her sister cured of bronchitis and lung disease.

I have no hesitation in saying Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer will cure catarrh and bronchitis, JOHN C. FLEMING, Editor of POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal.

The above is sufficient to convince the public of the merits of the Spirometer. The instrument will be expressed to any address.

Call or write, inclosing stamp for reply, to the International Throat and Lung Institute, 75 Young Street, Toronto, Dr. M. Souvielle and a competent body of English and French physicians always in attendance. Every information given. Physicians and sufferers can try the Spirometer free. 25

The Campaign.

GENTLEMEN:—

The political issues of the campaign are with us. Let us cherish them—they are about the best we are likely to see for some time.

It is reasonable to expect that for the next three weeks, votes will be an article of commerical value—that is, we so anticipate.

A voter in a new suit of clothes is a more estimable constituent than a voter in an old suit; though of course a voter in an old suit is preferable to no voter at all—at least so we're told.

It will be an extremely proper thing that the candidate who gets the most votes will get elected. Still the exception to this ge n eral rule has occurred.

It will be an additionally gratifying circumstance to find that the successful man has been elected by men wearing DOLAN'S Stylish Suits.

Hence it is the manifest duty of all, without regard to previous condition of political servitude, to repair to DOLAN & CO'S, and clothe themselves as befits the "free and independent."

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

☞And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

The soldier ride in pomp and pride,
The sailor roam o'er ocean wide,
But this or that, whate'er befall,
The Farmer he must feed them all.

The writer thinks, the poet sings,
The craftsmen fashion wondrous things,
The doctor heals, the lawyer pleads,
The miner follows the precious leads—
But this or that, whate'er befall,
The Farmer he must feed them all.

The merchant he may buy and sell,
The teacher do his duty well,
But men may toil through busy days,
Or men may stroll through pleasant ways,
But this or that, whate'er befall,
The Farmer he must feed them all.

The farmer's trade is one of worth,
He's partner with the sky and earth,
He's partner with the sun and rain,
And no man loses for his gain,
And men may rise, or men may fall,
But the Farmer he must feed them all.

The farmer dares his mind to speak;
He has no gift or place to seek:
To no man living need he bow;
The man that walks behind the plough
Is his own master, whate'er befall;
And, King or beggar, he feeds them all.

God bless the man who sows the wheat,
Who finds us milk, and fruit, and meat;
May his purse be heavy, his heart be light,
His cattle and corn and all go right.
God bless the seed his hand let fall,
For the Farmer he must feed us all.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Crops in Peterborough.

A miller in the county of Peterborough, who has taken an active part in the elections of that county, writes encouragingly of the crop prospects. He says: I have seen more of the country the last two weeks than I ever saw, and I have never seen farmers better satisfied. Fall wheat looks better than last year, with large acreage, and spring wheat looks very heathy with not so much arnecta or goose wheat (a poor kind) sown. Barley will be good and has not been "toughed" with the frost. Considerable rye was sown, and a good deal of it is heading and looks splendidly. I do not think there are so many oats sown. Hay will be short, but is picking up fast.

Spring Rye for May.

Spring rye should be sown as early in spring as the ground can be well worked. It is not well to plough any land while it is too wet, so that the furrows will dry in lumps. From three to four bushels of rye is enough seed for an acre. The fodder should be cut as soon as it is fully grown, but before it comes into bloom. Rye grows hard, tough, and woody very rapidly after it begins to blossom. We cannot recommend it in preference to oats for a hay crop, but it is valuable for filling in the gap between winter rye and oats for green feed. It is a little later than winter rye, and a little earlier than oats.

Fruit Prospects.

The following is a report of the present prospect of the fruit crop in the vicinity of Niagara Falls, at this date:—Apples, although the bloom was very abundant, are almost a total failure, probably owing to wet, cold weather, which prevented the pollen from performing its proper functions. Pears, peaches and cherries, a short crop. Plums unusually abundant. The curculio came about June 15th and soon ceased to work. Strawberries and gooseberries a fair crop. Currants a very poor crop. Raspberries, blackberries and grapes are very promising at this time. Housekeepers will do well to supply themselves with such fruit as happens to be abundant. If the apple crop proves to be a general failure, the demand for the smaller fruits must be unusually large.

The Musician Sold.

A musician recently offered to sell a cow to his neighbour; but after some bantering, his neighbor told the man that his "old cow wasn't worth a song; she was so old she had no front teeth in her upper jaw, and couldn't therefore, eat young grass." Singing friend laughed looked wise and went off whistling. But the remark of his neighbour preyed on his mind, and he accordingly went and examined old Brindle's month, and to his horror and surprise he found she was entirely destitute of upper front teeth! Infuriated he drove old Brindle two miles to the house of the man he had bought her of, through a driving rain storm, with the mud up to his knees, and after berating the surprised farmer for selling him such a cow, demanded his money back again. As soon as he could get in a word edgewise, the farmer told the angry man that cows never had teeth on the upper jaw, and to convince him, took him out to the barn-yard, when, after opening the mouths of a dozen or so cattle, young and old, the singing man drove old Brindle into the road, and trudged home behind her, a sadder and a wiser man.

Grade Jerseys.

A writer in the New York Times, in speaking of how to secure the best dairy cows, advances the theory that grade Jerseys, that is, calves produced by breeding from a pure bred Jersey bull with cows of another breed, the Ayrshire, for instance- will result in the production of a better breed for dairy purposes than the pure Jerseys. He holds that widespread advantage of the Jersey will be found in the use of the bull, not in the production of pure blood animals, but by crossing with other breeds. As to the relative milk producing of the grade Jerseys and thoroughbreds, this writer says:—

"It is a well-established fact that the Jersey bull always transmits the rich property of milk into whatever breed he serves. To sustain my opinion, I will place one or more of my cross-breed, of the same age, in the hands of any fair disinterested gentlemen, as a test, for ten consecutive days, against any thoroughbred Jersey heifer or cow of any breeder in New England. I care not what particular strain of blue blood she has, from the Alphea to the Coomasie, a descendant of Taintor's importation of 1850, or Kent's of 1881, weigh the heifers or cows, weigh the feed, care and feed to be alike, in proportion to weight of animals, and if my cross-breeds do not yield as much butter, pro rata, to their weight and feed, I will pay the testing expenses, and will contribute $100 for a special premium at the World's Fair to be held in Boston, for the best cow exhibited there of any breed, or vice versa, the same condition shall apply to my opponent. I make the proposition only to show my faith by my work."

To Drive Away Flies.

If you wish to drive away flies, buy an ounce of oil of lavender and pour half of it into a pint bottle of cold water, and shake it up; the mixture is a medicinal one only; if dissolved in alcohol it is a perfect solution; but this becomes more expensive. Scatter your water and oil of lavender on the table-cloth and the flies will go away. Three or four doses suffice to drive away a pest of flies from a country boarding-house table. The time for flies is now nearly upon us, and if our readers will have this simple remedy in readiness it will save them a great deal of trouble.

An Act Respecting Market Fees.

At the request of a large number of the agriculturists of the country we reproduce, from the Ontario Statutes, the Act passed at the last Session of the Ontario Legislature entitled, "An Act respecting Market Fees."

HER MAJESTY, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enacts as follows:

1. Notwithstanding anything in "The Municipal Act," or the amendments thereto, or any by-law, rule, or regulation of any municipality, or any usage or custom, it shall not, after the first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and eighty two, be lawful for any municipality, or the officers or servants thereof, to impose, levy, or collect a market fee upon any wheat, barley, rye, corn, oats, or any other grain, or upon any hay or other seed, or wool, lumber, lath or shingles, or cordwood or other firewood, or upon d-ased hogs or cheese, or upon hay, straw, or other fodder, that may be brought to market or to the market place for sale or other disposal, or upon the person bringing or the vehicle in which the same same is or shall be brought.

(2) No market fee shall be charged, levied or imposed upon or in respect of butter, eggs or poultry brought to market or upon the market place, for sale, unless a convenient or fit place in which to offer or expose the same same for sale shall be provided by the municipality, which shall afford shelter in summer, and shelter and reasonable protection from the cold in winter

2. When the vendor of any article brought within the municipality in pursuance of a prior contract for the sale thereof, proceeds directly to the place of delivery thereof, under such contract, without hawking the same upon the streets or elsewhere in the municipality, it shall not be lawful to impose, levy or collect a market fee thereon, or in respect thereof or in the vehicle in which the same is so brought.

(2) Where there is no prior contract as mentioned in the previous section, no market fee shall be imposed, levied or collected upon or in respect of any article brought into any municipality after the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, nor on or in respect of any vehicle in which such article is so brought, unless such article is offered or exposed for sale upon the market place of such municipality.

3. No by-law shall require hay, straw or other fodder to be weighed, or wood to be measured, where neither the vendor nor purchhaser desires to have the same so weighed or measured.

4. After nine o'clock in the forenoon, between the first day of April and the first day of November, and after ten o'clock in the forenoon, between the first day of November and the first day of April, no person shall be compelled to remain on any market place with any article which he may have been exposing or offering for sale in such market place, but may, after the expiration of such hour, proceed to sell such article elsewhere than in or on said market place: Provided that such person has paid the market fee on or in respect of such article, or the vehicle in which the same is contained.

5. No market fees shall be imposed by any municipality higher than those contained in the following scale:—

Upon articles brought to the market in a vehicle drawn by two horses, upon which fees may be imposed, not more than	10c
Upon articles brought to the market in a vehicle drawn by one horse, not more than	5c
Upon articles brought to the market by hand or in any basket or vessel, not more than	2c

Upon or in respect of live stock driven to or upon the market place for sale, as follows:—

Every horse, mare, or gelding not more than	10c
Every head of horned cattle, not more than	5c
Every sheep, calf or swine, not more than	2c

6. No fee shall be imposed or levied by any municipality higher than those contained in the following scale:—

For weighing a load of hay	15c
For weighing slaughtered meat, or grain, or other articles exposed for sale, under one hundred pounds	2c
Over one hundred pounds and up to one thousand pounds	5c
Over one thousand pounds	10c
For weighing live animals, other than sheep or pigs, per head	3c
Sheep or pigs, if more than five, per head	1c
If less than five, for the lot	4c
For measuring a load of wood	5c

7. Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the Municipality may regulate the sale by retail in the public streets, or on vacant lots adjacent thereto, of any of the articles hereinbefore mentioned, and may regulate the traffic in the streets, and prevent the blocking up of the same by vehicles or otherwise.

8. The foregoing sections of this Act, from one to seven inclusive, shall not apply to any municipality which shall pass, and so long as it shall keep in force a by-law providing that the vendors of any articles in respect of which a market fee may, under the Municipal Acts, be lawfully imposed, may, without paying market fees, offer for sale, and sell or otherwise dispose of any such articles, at any place within the municipality, excepting only at and upon the market place or places thereof:

(2) Such by-law, may, nevertheless, provide for the imposition and collection of market fees from such vendors of articles in respect of which a market fee may now be imposed, under the said Municipal Acts, as shall voluntarily use the market place for the purpose of selling such articles;

(3) And such by-law may also provide for the imposition upon, and collection of, market fees from any person who shall remain, or cause his vehicle to remain upon that part of any street immediately adjoining or surrounding or being within one hundred yards of the market place, for the purpose of selling upon such street or streets such articles, so as to obtain the advantages of the said market place, but driving through or across such portions of streets shall not of itself be deemed sufficient ground for the imposition of any fee.

(4) But such by-law will not prevent the sale of any such articles to any person carrying on business and having an actual and bona fide store, shop or other similar place of business, on those portions of the streets in the next preceding sub-section mentioned; nor shall such by-law ahthorize the imposing or levying of any fee in respect of any article so sold, or of any vehicle in which the same is contained;

(5) It shall not be lawful for any municipality passing such by-law to impose a higher tariff or greater fee upon any article or vehicle than was in force or imposed by such municipality on the first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty two;

(6) No market fee shall be levied, collected, or imposed by any municipality in respect of any market place or market, or any portion of any such market place or market hereafter established, declared or made in, on or out of any street or part of any street within said municipality: Provided always that this sub-section shall not apply to so much of any street as immediately adjoins and abuts upon any market square, either now or hereafter established as a market place.

9. Section eight of this Act shall not apply to any municipality where no market fees are now charged imposed, but the other parts of this Act shall apply to such municipality in the event of market fees being hereafter charged or imposed therein.

10. Nothing in this Act contained shall prevent any municipality wherein no market fees are imposed or charged from regulating the sale and the place of sale of any articles within the municipality to the same extent as it might do before the passing of this Act: Provided always that market fees within the meaning of this section shall not include fees for weighing or measuring.

11. When and so long as the first seven sections of this Act shall be in force and apply to any municipality, so much of any Act or law as may be contrary to, and as shall conflict with the same, shall not be in force in or apply to such municipality; and when and so long as section eight of this Act shall be in force in and apply to any municipality, so much of any Act or law as may be contrary to, and as shall conflict with the same, shall not be in force in or apply to such municipality.

12. This Act shall take effect on the second day of April, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

Farm Gleanings.

The Massachusetts Ploughman considers leached ashes, for nearly all crops, cheaper at twenty-five cents a bushel than commercial fertilizers at current prices.

British anglers are striving to secure the introduction of black bass from this continent into suitable waters in England. There are many in which trout will not thrive, and in which it is believed black bass will do well.

About 250,000 bushels of leached ashes were taken from Canada to Connecticut last year for fertilizing purposes. They cost 17 cents per bushel. There are 'heaps upon heaps" of these ashes in various parts of the country that can be had for the hauling. If it pays to buy them and freight them hundreds of miles, it is surely worth while to team them a few rods, when they can be got for nothing.

Manure heaps should always be kept scattered with plaster, to arrest the ammonia. Plaster saves one-half of the virtue of manure, which otherwise escapes as gas in the air; therefore always keep manure covered with it, whether in the heap or thrown in the field. Should always be used for the same purpose to stable and hen house—it saves the valuable ammoniacal urine. These combinations make the richest manure in the world. It also has a sanitary effect by purifying the atmosphere.

The London Gardener's Chronicle speaks highly of the ornamental effect of the Virginia creeper (Ampelopsis), when it has assumed its crimson hues in autumn, when the buildings which it covers "are clothed in a garb of great beauty, with its long, loose branches streaming in the wind, the colours almost as bright and vivid as the bracts of the Poinsettias. Planted in parks and pleasure grounds, so as to run up the trunks and about the branches of old oaks, the Virginia creeper gives life to the scenery and landscape, and exhibits in most pleasing contrast the more sombre hues."

The Use of Swamp Muck.

The value of swamp muck for use upon land has been considerably discussed from time to time. Some have contended that it is not worth the trouble of digging and hauling, while others contend that it is worth nearly as much as stable manure. These extremes show a wide divergance of opinion. The explanation of this diversity of opinion may be found in the fact that there is a great difference of the different specimens of muck and in the different soils to which it is applied. There are some kinds of so-called muck which are not worth the trouble of hauling and applying, while there are other specimens that are very valuable. Then again land needs no muck, being already rich enough in organic matter, and the addition of more would be of no benefit, and might be injurious. Other land which is poor in organic matter, such as sandy land, or land which has long been under cultivation, may be greatly benefitted by the free use of muck. Sandy land, which for years had failed to be permantly benefitted by of the application of manure, by the free use muck has been permanently ameliorated, so that subsequent manuring proved more permanent in its effects. Securing a good kind of muck and using it upon land which needs an increase of its vegetable matter, as most of the fields which have been long cultivated do, much benefit may be derived from its use.

The Model Farm.

The high estimation in which the agricultural college at Guelph it held by these who are most interested in it—the farming community—is shown by the increasing number of excursionists who have visited it this season. Last week there were two mammoth parties of Grangers from different parts of Ontario, and on Tuesday another—in all aggregating several thousands. The various methods pursued in the raising of stock and the growing of crops were thoroughly inspected, and favorably commented on. These visits confer a twofold benefit. The excursionists being for the most part practical farmers, go about with their eyes open, and would be keen to detect any slip-shod or slovenly work, thus keeping the officials on their mettle; and the superior methods of farming which are practiced can not fail of a good effect, in inducing greater care and improved cultivation at home.

New Patent Force Pumps!

AHEAD OF ALL COMPETITION.

During my long residence in Peterborough, my business has continued to grow, and I have been able to extend it to other localities. I wish to call special attention to my NEW PATENT MODEL FORCE PUMP, of which the above cut is a representation. This Pump, I can confidently claim is the best Combined, Lift and Force Pump made. It is adapted to all the uses to which an ordinary Lift Pump may be applied, and is frequently of inestimable value in case of Fire, and is just what is wanted for washing Buggies and Windows, Watering Gardens, Lawns, &c., &c. The improvements in this Pump are the results of over twenty year's experience.

In again presenting the claims of my justly Celebrated Pumps to the attention of my numerous friends in the Town and County of Peterborough, I beg to return my sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage accorded to me during the fourteen years that I have conducted the Pump business in their midst. After such a long experience I feel convinced that I know what constitutes a Good Pump, and as long as I remain in the business, I am determined to furnish an article unsurpassed by any in the Dominion.

SANDERSON'S

TALES OF A DETECTIVE.

A Man Who Obtained His First Start in Life by Stealing.

During his perambulations a St. Louis Republican reporter met a well-known citizen who was many years a private detective, and whose line of work was of a kind which seldom finds its way into the newspapers, but meanders through the subterranean of mercantile life and penetrates at times into the homes of wealthy and prominent business men. A reporter rarely goes to a detective for an item, for he knows he will not get one, and never asks him for information upon any subject, unless it has already been made public. Although the man of mystery could furnish a newspaper a vast amount of intensely interesting reading matter every day in the week, he has the habit of reticence and secrecy so firmly imbedded in his nature that it makes his face ache every time he lets drop a little grain of information, or a "pointer," as it is called.

The particular detective referred to in this article had no special reason for reticence, and therefore he was willing to talk just a little. He was willing to state facts, but his nature revolted against giving names and dates. Having found a cosy retreat and comfortable seats, he was asked to furnish the data for a newspaper article, devoid of imaginative ornamentation, and based upon solid, substantial, undeniable facts.

"Facts," said he laughing, "are the only things I dealt in while a detective; they were the only things that were worth a nickel to me. I spent years in separating hard facts from unsubstantial fancies, and I learned to distinguish the one from the other at sight. I knew it to be a fact that a prosperous merchant of St. Louis, who is also an active church member, obtained his first start in life by stealing, by systematically robbing his employers. He was a packer in a wholesale dry-goods house years ago, and had an intimate friend who was doing a good business in one of the interior cities. He purchased all his goods at the house in which our friend was employed. Between them they arranged a plan by which they could swindle the house and escape detection. The country merchant came to the city, bought a bill of goods, and of course it fell to the duty of our friend to pack them. It was a very easy matter for him to slip in an extra piece of silk, or a bolt of cloth of some kind. When the box arrived at the destination there were more goods in it than were called for by the invoice, but the country merchant understood what it meant, and when he next visited the city he would quietly slip a $10 or a $20, or two or three bills of those denominations, according to circumstances, into our friend's hand, and the transaction was complete. Of course the house missed the goods, but never knew what became of them. This sort of arrangement ran on for years. Our friend finally started in business, for he saved his earnings, and he prospered. He is now rich. Well, this thing might have always remained a secret if the country merchant had followed our friend's example—but he didn't. He didn't save his earnings, neither did he shun the flowing bowl. He did not prosper. One day he came to the city flat broke, and called upon our friend and his friend—his friend who had served him so well in the past, and asked him for the loan of $100. Our friend refused it now, for he had reformed and had grown virtuous. The country merchant obtained the money elsewhere, got drunk, and became talkative. The refusal of his former friend rankled in his bosom, and out of revenge he gave away the whole scheme. He repented of it afterward, for he suddenly realized that in betraying his friend he had betrayed himself, and then he denied the truth of the disclosure, saying that he had only been fooling. Out of mere curiosity—nothing else—I worked at the case, and found it was just as I have told you."

"Both parties alive to-day?" "Both parties are alive to-day as far as I know. One of them is, surely, unless he has died within two hours."

"There are a great many strange occurrences in a large city?"

"Yes, and the public never sees nor hears of one-quarter of them. I was once called upon by a prominent and wealthy business man who wanted me to take a case for which he offered to pay me liberally. He said that on the previous morning his wife's trunk had been broken open and a large amount of jewelery and other valuable property had been taken. I stepped into his carriage and went to his residence, an elegant, aristocratic mansion in a fashionable quarter of the city. I went up to his wife's room—a front room—the second story—and there, sure enough, was the trunk with the hasp of the lock pried off and the contents, consisting of dresses and finery of all kinds, tumbled about as though a hurried search had been made. The lady told me that on the previous morning she went down to breakfast, leaving the trunk locked, and when she came back she found it broken open and the stuff gone. She said that she had heard no one come into the house or leave it, and had forgotten to see whether the front door was open or not. I carefully examined the room and the trunk, watched the lady's manner, catechised the servants, and decided to give up the case. I did not tell the merchant of my decision, but worked on the matter for a day or two. I was satisfied as to the case almost at once, but on the following day I discovered that on the evening prior to the alleged robbery a man had rapped at the lady's door, had been admitted to her room, remained there less than five minutes, and had left the house. The next day I informed the merchant that the case was hopless, and that I would retire from it. My reason for doing so was this: I found that at some time in her early life this lady had committed an indiscretion which was known to only one man, whom she supposed was dead. She kept the secret locked in her bosom, knowing that its disclosure would destroy her husband's confidence in her, break up her family, and ruin her socially. One day this man, supposed to be dead, turned up in St. Louis, met the lady, demanded money of her, and threatened to blow the secret unless she complied. She could not raise sufficient money from her husband without arousing his suspicions, so she decided to give her jewelry and some other valuables to the blackmailer. He came to the house by appointment, she handed over the stuff to him, and according to a promise made he left the city. Then, in order to clear herself, she concocted the story of the robbery, and it was a badly built one, too, I can tell you. Of course I did not dare to tell the true state of affairs to the husband, because it would have ruined the wife, so I withdrew. He is ignorant to this day of the facts, and probably thinks I am a very poor detective."

"Well, you haven't reached the end of the rope yet," said the reporter as the detective stopped and looked out of the window. "Give me another one, I am being interested."

"Well, here's one which is perhaps the strangest occurrence of the kind that ever happened here. There was a business man in this city, very wealthy, very industrious, and very highly respected. He had one fault, which came near ruining him several times. He was strictly temperate, never touched a drop of liquor, except at intervals of from two to five years, but when he did get drunk he was sure to do some outslandish, reckless thing that a sane man would never think of. He had not taken a drink for nearly three years, when one day off he goes and climbs into a drunk. He kept it up for two or three days, and one night he strayed into a disreputable house, took three inmates and put them into a hack. They were in a condition of undress, unfit for the street, but they drove out into the suburbs and all around town, stopping at every drinking-place open, and having drinks sent out to the hack. Strange to say, they were not arrested, but returned to the house just before daylight in a fearful condition. The merchant recovered from his spree and resumed his business again as if nothing had happened. A young man of rather an enterprising turn of mind heard of the case, and began to investigate it. He talked with the hack-driver, and worked quietly until he had secured documents to show beyond a doubt that the merchant had been seen riding in the hack with three females, and that the quartet did not have clothes enough on them to wad a gun. It was a hot summer night and they were probably not uncomfortable. One day this young man called upon the merchant at his place of business, went into his private office with him and closed the door. The merchant thought the proceeding strange, but the young man quieted him saying:

"I have a very interesting story to tell you and I don't want anyone else to hear it."

"They sat down, and the visitor began to tell the story in the 'once upon a time' style. Before he had half finished, the merchant jumped up excitedly and said:

"'It's a d——d lie.'

"'Hold on,' said the young man quietly; 'listen to the rest of it.'

"Then he went on and completed the story, and the merchant said it was a falsehood. He denied it most emphatically, and threatened to have his visitor arrested for attempting to blackmail him. He changed his mind, however, but ordered him to leave the office.

"'Wait a minute,' said the visitor, very coolly, pulling a package of papers from his pocket, 'until you look at some of these. Here is an affidavit from————,' who keeps a saloon at————. Here is another from————, another from————,' and so on until he had exhibited half a dozen. The merchant saw the nature of the documents, and turned as pale as a ghost.

"'This is an infernal blackmail scheme' said the merchant, controlling his chagrin; 'but you have probably been to a good deal of trouble in getting those papers. I'll give you $500 for them.'

"'I do not want your money, sir; I did not come here for that purpose. Five hundred dollars is no money at all for these papers. I can get more than that from a certain newspaper I know of.'

"'I'll give you a thousand dollars for them.'

"'Sir, you misunderstand me. I do not want your money. I did not come here for that.'

"'What did you come here for?'

"'Simply to show you these papers and to let you know that I knew all about the affair; that's all.'

"'Let's be done with this. I'll give you $2,000 for those papers, upon condition that you also pledge yourself never to say anything about this matter.'

"'I can not take your money. I don't want it. Besides, the papers are worth much more than that.'

Well, they talked and argued for quite a long time, and finally the merchant became desperate. He said:

"'I'll give you a check for $10,000.'

"'No, sir; I tell you I do not want your money. But you may go down to the bank and draw $10,000 and lay the money on the desk here. I havn't seen as much money as that together in a long time, and I'd like to see how it looks. Perhaps I may take a notion to lay these papers on the desk and go off and forget to take them with me. I'm very absent-minded at times.'

"The result was that the merchant went to the bank, drew the money, laid it on the desk, and the young man walked off with it, forgetting to take his papers. The merchant lives here now, and this young man of an enterprising turn of mind is doing business in San Francisco, and is prospering.

"A bad young man was he,
A bad young man he was."

is the Loss of

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

OUR THANKS are due to Mr. Fred Cox. for interesting files of English newspapers.

HYDRANTS.—The fittings for the water-works hydrants have arrived at the station.

WORK on the missing link has progressed to the north-western confines of the town.

PROFESSIONAL.—Dr. Clarke may now be found at his office on George Street, above Lech's Fur Store, at all hours, by night as well as by day. 26-

SCHOOL IS OUT.—Classes at the Collegiate Institute closed on Monday, and by order of the board, the pent up mischief of the public schools was turned loose on the public on Wednesday.

HALL POOR TRUST.—At a special meeting of St. Andrew's church congregation, Dr. R. W. Bell was appointed to succeed Mr. Robert Fairbairn as a member of the Wm. Hall Poor Trust.

THE LONG VACATION, specially sacred to lawyers, began July 1st. Litigants, who have suits pending, may be comforted by the assurance that the ceaseless piling up of costs does not enjoy the benefit of the vacation.

ON WEDNESDAY Mr. James Dolan sold to Daley Bros., well known in Peterborough, and who have recently purchased the Globe Hotel, Lindsay, a handsome hotel bus. Jas. Daley, formerly kept the St. James hotel here. Peterborough supplies Lindsay with not only first-class hotel men, but also first-class hotel busses.

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.—Out of the 172 candidates who presented themselves at the matriculation examinations at the University of Toronto, six went up from the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. Of the 38 institutes that sent candidates, Peterborough, excepting only St. St. Mary, sends the highest number.

BRODIE'S WOOLEN MILLS.—By the vacation of their former premises, by Messrs. McKee Bros., Mr. David Brodie is enabled to make the large extension to his business he some time since contemplated. He has already largely increased his machinery, and this week two car loads of machinery, from the maker, John Tatham, Rochdale, England, arrived, and will be placed in position in his mill as soon as practicable.

HAYMAKING begun at the Court House park, but it is hard to tell when it will be finished unless the mower gets a keener edge to his scythe. The place looks and is delightful now. Leafy June is at its best, though the calendar says July. If the Fire Brigade band had lights provided in the pavilion they would be glad of the chance of playing in public two or three times a week. Who will put forth the fiat, "let there be light?"

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.—On the noon train on Wednesday, His Lordship, Right Rev. James Vincent Cleary, Bishop of Kingston, arrived to preside at the closing exercises of the Congregation de Notre Dame. Monseignieur Farelly, Vicar Apostolic came to town the day before, to attend the same exercises, and Sister Superior St. Thecla, of St. Mary of the Lake, Kingston, and Sister Irenaus, of the City School, Kingston, (who founded the Congregation de Notre Dame, fifteen years ago,) were also present, and were the guests of the Sisters of the school.

BIG DRIVES.—During the past week the river has been alive with saw logs. Two drives amounting to 180,000 pieces have passed through the town. The logs belong to Messrs. Ullyot, Sadler & Co., and Rathbun & Co. Those of the former, which were cut in Burleigh, will be taken to their mills at Harwood, and those of the latter will be taken to Deseronto. The pieces, by an accident, became mixed in Jack's Lake. They will be boomed and separated at the mouth of the river. The drive is in charge of about ninety men, who compose three camps. Thos. Callaghan is in charge of Rathbun's stuff, and James Lynch, the veteran, trusty and tried, has the supervision of the logs and timber of Ullyot, Sadler & Co.

ONTARIO AND QUEBEC RAILWAY. The local survey staff of this line, in charge of Mr. J. Rudd Perry, has completed the location of the line through the town, finishing the location throughout. Two lines have been laid down, but it is not yet known which will be chosen. Both pass close to Little Lake, and parallel with Maria street, in Ashburnham. One line keeps nearly west and crosses the river near the brick works, and then bears south-westerly, and leaves the town limits north of the R. C. Cemetery. The other diverges from the first at the west end of Maria street, skirts the lake shore at Burnham's Point, and crosses the river at Point St. Charles, passes near McDonald's saw mill, crosses the southern extremity of Spauldings Bay, and leaves the town north of the R. C. Cemetery. If the latter line is chosen the station will be at the foot of George street, if the former, the station will likely be not far from the Midland station. Tenders for this part of the line have been made, but not yet awarded.

THE CRICKET MATCH played last Saturday, between Trinity College School, and about half a team of Peterborough's, resulted in the defeat of the home team by a small majority.

SABBATH BREAKING.—The case of the employees of the Midland Railway charged with Sabbath breaking, in running a train on Sunday, was heard before the Police Magistrate, and judgment reserved.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of Toronto last Sunday, administered the rite of Confirmation in St. John's church in the morning to sixteen candidates, and in St. Luke's, Ashburnham, in the evening, to thirty candidates.

THE INTERMEDIATE EXAMINATIONS began on Monday, 45 candidates writing, 19 males, 26 females. Continues till Saturday. Mr. Brown, I. P. S., and Messrs. John and Thomas Braden, conducting the examinations.

PIANO TUNING.—Mr. George J. Gumpright, piano tuner, and repairer, for Mason and Risch, Toronto, will be in town for a few days. All orders left at Mr. Menzies bookstore will be promptly attended to. 27-1t.

THE SOAP TO USE.—It is a great mistake to attempt to do a washing this hot weather without Bailey's celebrated White Bar Self Washing Soap. By using it a washing can be done in one half the time and with one half the labor required with other soaps. 27-1t

THOUSAND ISLANDS.—Rev. Mr. Stratton, of Stirling, was in town on Thursday last, making arrangements with the Midland Railway for his grand through excursion to the Thousand Islands, on August 12th. Further particulars hereafter.

PRESENTATION—Last Friday, the pupils of Mr. John Braden's promotion class in the public school, presented him with a handsome alarm clock and a neat gold compass, as a token of affection. Miss Aggie Mercer read the address, and Miss Sarah Richardson made the presentation.

VITAL STATISTICS.—The number of registrations made with the Town Clerk, Division Registrar, during the month of June, were as follows:—Births, 6; Marriages, 2; Deaths, 4. The total number for the half year ending 30th June last, were as follows:—

Births	70
Marriages	40
Deaths	31
Total	141

WEDDING GIFTS.—The wedding of Rev. J. E. Starr and Miss Graham, as noticed in our last issue, was the occasion of the making of a magnificent array of bridal presents. The givers and gifts from Peterborough were:—Mrs. Geo. A. Cox, pale-blue satin toilet set, cushion puffings, embroidered in silk floss and trimmed with lace; Mrs. Morrow, silver cake basket; Mrs. Alfred Davis, cardinal plush handkerchief and glove box, inlaid in silver; Mr. and Mrs. Jeffers, silver syrup jug and plate; Mr. Jos. Flavelle, boat-shaped card receiver and bouquet-holder.

A LOCAL POETESS.—In its report of the closing exercises of Ville Marie Convent, Montreal, the [illegible] says: "An original poem written by an ex-graduate, Miss Fitzgerald, was read by Miss Dowling with exquisite taste and effect. The poem itself is an admirable piece of literature, being beautifully poetic. It was entitled 'Our Mountain Home,' and is a clever production, and highly creditable to the young poetess." The young lady whose poem is so highly praised is the daughter of Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, and her poetical talents are a cause of pride to her friends and the town.

NEW PREMISES.—The Messrs. McKee Bros. have removed their planing mill and parlor frame manufactory to their new and more commodious premises on Dickson's race. We are glad to learn that the increasing business of this enterprising firm has made the extension of premises an absolute necessity. They are in receipt of orders for their parlour frames from all parts of the Dominion, it being not long since they made an extensive shipment to Winnipeg. They keep between 20 and 30 workmen busy on frames for parlour furniture. Their energy, enterprise and business ability, are, we are glad to note, yielding them a liberal return. Continued and increased success attend them.

A NEW BUSINESS CITIZEN.—On Monday last, Mr. Melleville Millar, who was formerly in business in Peterborough, took possession of the hardware business recently purchased by him from Mr. J. Bertram. Mr. Millar is no stranger to the citizens of Peterborough, and needs nothing but his own personal and business merit to secure him a welcome amongst us. During his former business career here, he made many friends who will be glad to hear of his intention to become again a resident of Peterborough. He has taken a residence here and will with his family, be a permanency in the town. Mr. Millar is a first-class business man, and his advertisement which appears in this issue, shows that he means to deserve the liberal patronage of the public. He is personally popular wherever he resides, and his advent amongst us means both in a business and social point of view a valuable acquisition to the citizenship of Peterborough.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

WEATHER NOTES.—June has come and gone and although rain fell on 16 days to the depth of 3.5-4 inches, the medium temperature has stood well at sun rise and sun set, namely 56. 11-30°, while June of 1881 only averaged 52½°. The lowest indication was on the morning of the 2nd, being only 34°, and the highest on the evening of the 27th, namely 80° and at 2 o'clock p.m. 92° in the shade. We had frost on three mornings, namely, on the 2nd, 12th and 13th respectively, but doing very little damage. We had five thunder storms, one especially very severe, on the 17th accompanied with hail.

THE CROPS has made rapid progress during the month. Wheat is now heading out, barley is fast following suit and other grains will soon do so.

AN UNLUCKY WEEK.—In the beginning of the week Mr. Hickey broke the tongue of his wagon, the day following he borrowed a neighbor's to go to Peterboro', and in coming home with a load lost a tire, and finally broke the wheel badly. Killens' horses got frightened going to a bee and running away injured a new wagon some, but the horses, although one was upset and the other with some logs on the top of it were the little worse, and to wind up on Thursday C Lowes's team ran away from the cheese factory, by the raising of the safety valve, spilling a quantity of milk, breaking a number of cans badly, and considerably damaging the spring wagon used for hauling the milk. As he is afraid to risk his horses at the same place Robert Weir will now take his round for the balance of the season.

The recount in the Lunenburg, N. S., election for the House of Commons gives Keefler (Liberal) a majority of 44. This is a seat gained to the Reformers.

Closing Exercises of the Scholastic Year—Bishop Cleary Presides—Interesting Programme—Names of Winners of Medals.

On Wednesday the closing exercises of the scholastic year of the above institution took place. The attendance of the public was necessarily limited by the size of the hall, which was beautifully decorated with mottoes and living flowers. The exercises taking place so near the hour of our going to press, it is only possible to mention that the programme, which was judiciously brief, consisted of "Entrance, Grand March"; "Song of Welcome"; Tribute of Gratitude to his Lordship, Right Rev. J. V. Cleary, D.D."; "The Little Girls' Greeting"; "Music, Irish Airs"; "Operetta, the Choice," (music from Penzance.)

DISTRIBUTION OF MEDALS

to the pupils of the Congregation de Notre Dame as follows:

JUNIOR CLASS.—Silver medal.—Presented by the Mother Superior. Merited by Misses Katie Lynch, Katie Calcutt, Maggie Doherty, Maggie McCabe, Annie Tobin, Clara Curran, Lizzie Donegan, Emily Carew; obtained by Miss Katie Lynch.

SENIOR CLASS.—Silver medal.—Presented by Rev. Father Lynch, P. P., for punctual attendance at school and application to study. Merited by Misses Mary Fitzpatrick, Mary A. O'Connell, Catherine Rogers, Rosa Martin; obtained by Miss Mary Fitzpatrick.

Misses Mary Tierney, Annie Dunn, Azeline Mercier, also merited this prize, but could not obtain it on account of frequent absence from school.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.—Silver medal.—Presented by the Mother Superior. Awarded to Miss Annie Delaney.

SILVER MEDAL.—Presented by Rev. Father Lynch. Awarded to Miss Mary J. Morency.

GENERAL PROFICIENCY.—Silver medal.—Donated by His Lordship, Right Rev. James Vincent Cleary, D. D., Bishop of Kingston, for general excellence in deportment and application to study. Competed for by the pupils of the senior class. Awarded to Miss Margaret Ellen Cahill.

The continuation of the programme comprised, "Song, 'Many Happy Returns,'" followed by an excellent, eloquent, graceful and paternal by the Right Rev. Bishop.

Among the visitors were Monseignieur Farelly, Vicar Apostolic, Belleville; Sisters Superior St. Thecla and Irenæus, Kingston; and the local clergy. The exercises throughout were interesting, entertaining and successful, and "marked with a white stone" another year's progress of this excellent educational institution.

PERSONAL.

Mr. P. R. Randall, Mayor of Port Hope, was in town on Wednesday.

We had the pleasure of a call from Mr. W. T. R. Preston, of the Port Hope News, who was in town on Monday.

Rev. J. Shaw was absent from town on Sunday, to assist in the laying of the corner stone of the new Methodist church at Campbellford.

Mr. Middleton, resident engineer of the Ontario and Quebec Railway, will take up his residence here and make Peterborough his headquarters.

ENTERTAINMENT.—A very pleasant entertainment in connection with the Literary Association of School Section No. 4, was held on Wednesday afternoon, the 28th of June. After a lengthy programme consisting of readings, dialogues, recitations, music, pantomimes, etc., fully carried out by the pupils of the school, a number of the young ladies of the section favored the audience with a variety of excellent music, after which several of the gentlemen addressed those present, on the conclusion of which the company separated, each, apparently, perfectly satisfied with the proceedings of the afternoon.

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

PETERBOROUGH, July 5th, 1882.

The Contented Man,

Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.

We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.

He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.

THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.

Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.

A leading line of sweet and good drawing JAPAN offering at 35 cents, formerly sold at 45 cents.

W. J. MASON.

PROTECTION!

The undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Norwood and surrounding country that he has leased for a number of years, the Grist Mill belonging to Mr. N. B. Gould, on Colborne Street, Norwood, and is now prepared to carry on the

in all its various branches. The mill has just been enlarged and additions made to the premises that will add materially to its capacity and convenience. A large amount of new machinery, of the very latest improvements, has also been added to meet the requirements of the mill, which has received such a thorough renewing and refitting as the public may rely in future on all kinds of Gristing and Milling being performed in such a manner as to give entire satifaction in all its departments. Having had a large and varied experience in the gristing business in different parts of Canada, and having always been patronized with a large amount of Custom Gristing in in all its different branches, as has been a convincing proof of the quality of the work performed by him, he can confidently ask the patronage of the people of Norwood and vicinity. Flour and Mill Feed of all kinds kept constantly on hand. Farmers may rely upon having their Gristing home with them on the day brought to the mill. ☞A Call Respectfully Solicited.

PETERBOROUGH WATER WORKS.

Brief Sketch of their Progress and Present Condition—The Source of Water Supply and Purification.

Through the correspondence on the subject of the Water Works, that has appeared from time in THE EXAMINER, our readers should be pretty well informed of the municipal aspects of the question; and it is not with that we have now to deal; we will, as a matter of news, present our readers with a brief sketch of the of the Peterborough Water Works. It is well known that the Company that has undertaken their construction has a capital stock of $200,000 of which about $70,000 are already subscribed. The by-law authorizing the Company to lay down pipes on the streets etc., was passed on the 1st of October, 1881, and provided that work should be begun within two months from that date; but an extension of time was granted, and it was about the first of May before the was heard on the Peterborough Water Works. Operations were first begun at Hilliard's dam, Auburn village, from above which the supply of water is drawn. It is proposed to propel the water by the direct action of pumps, instead of elevating it into a reservoir.

THE PUMP HOUSE, which is therefore a most important part of the works, is located just south of the shingle mill, between that and the saw-mill, and the space for the foundations is excavated from the embankment between the river and the race that supplies Hilliard's saw-mill. The excavation descends to the level of the bed of the river, and on the day of our reporter's visit blasting operations were going on to remove the stratum of limestone that was met with at the bottom of the cavity. The pump house is 31 x 31 feet in area and two stories in height. The first, or basement story, contains the turbine wheels that give action to the pumps and the suction pipe which connects with the filtering reservoir and supplies the pure water which the pumps force through the mains and other distributing conduits. There are preparations made for three of these 48 inch

TURBINE WHEELS,

(though for the present only two will be used) which are made and supplied by Messrs. J. C. Wilson & Co., Picton. They are of 60 horse power each, and drive the three made by the Knowles Manufacturing Company, Holyoke, Mass. Each pump is capable, with a speed of thirty revolutions, of lifting 600 gallons of water per minute, and forcing with a power capable of throwing four separate streams through inch nozzles and two hundred and fifty feet of hose to the height of forty feet on Antrim street, at the intersection of Bethune street, one of the highest points in town. The speed can be increased to sixty revolutions, thus doubling the pumping capacity. As with turbine wheels, the arrangements are made with reference to the pumps being put in in triplicate, though at present they will be only built in duplicate, which is all the by-law requires. One pump will supply all the water demand, but the others are kept in reserve in case of accident, or unusual requirement.

THE FLUME

which supplies water for the motive power, leads through the dam at a point east of and adjoining the shingle mill. It is so constructed as to give eight feet head. It enters the basement of the pump house nearly on a line with the side next the river. On the north side of the pump house, and contiguous, is which consists essentially of layers of three grades of gravel, fine sand, and charcoal. The water passes through these substances a distance of about twenty-five feet, and from the fact that the purest water of the river only is subjected to this filtering process, it is quite evident that the quality of the water that enters the reservoir and the suction pipe is as nearly absolutely pure as artificial appliances can make it. The water is conveyed to the filter by a

CLEAR WATER PIPE,

a foot in diameter, which lies at the bottom of the flume in eight feet of water, and is, therefore, perfectly protected from the action of the frost, and this clear water pipe extends from the entrance of the flume up stream to the middle of the river, about 250 feet distant from the dam where the water enters it, from the centre of a pier composed of filtering material, at a depth of thirteen feet and a half. Here the water is in constant motion and

and being in the deepest part of the stream that flows over a bed of limestone, it is purer than if obtained from shallower water, which would, more likely, be impregnated with the organic matter detached by the attrition of the current on the alluvial bottom. First, then, the water passes from the bottom of the river through the filtering pier into the mouth of the clear water pipe, thence through the main filter into the reservoir, where it is ready for the pumps to force to any part of the town supplied by conduit service. This, then, is a brief outline of the supply department—by far the most important—of the water-works. The begins, of course, at the mains, connection with which is made with the pumps through the basement part of the western wall of the pump house. The mains are laid under Hilliard's raceway, and pass along the west side of Water street to its intersection with Smith street, thence down the north side of Smith street to the east side of George street as far as Sherbrook street. The excavation for the mains had, on Wednesday evening, reached London street, and the laying of the pipes as far as Dublin street. The company have ordered 7,500 feet of 12 inch, 1,875 ft. 10 in., 1,350 ft. 8 in., 3,000 ft. 5 in., 1,000 ft. 4 in., and 2,000 ft. 3 in. main pipes; a large share of these pipes are on hand. They are made by Laidlaw, of Glasgow, and guaranteed to stand a pressure of 250 lbs to the square inch. They have also received a large supply of special castings, connecting pipes, valves, hydrant fittings, etc., made by John McDougall & Co., Montreal.

As far as can be seen everything is being done in the most thorough and

MOST SUBSTANTIAL MANNER.

The plans of the works were drawn by Mr. R. Surtees, C.E., of Ottawa; Mr. J. E. Belcher, C. E., is resident engineer, and Mr. John Webber is mechanical superintendent. Messrs. Drury and Sons came out from England, to fulfil the contract of laying the mains, which is a specialty to which they have devoted years. They have since sent for their families, and will become permanent residents of Canada. Mr. —— Kinsella, of Ottawa, has the contract for opening the mains trenches, and is giving the best of satisfaction by the manner in which he is doing his work. At present there are about fifty men employed on the whole works, exclusive of those employed on the carting of material. From an inspection of the works, finished and in progress, as full and careful as can be made, without the possession of special technical knowledge, it appears that the Peterborough water-works are being constructed with every attention to and that they will, as water-works per se be, when finished, an admirable means of water supply for the town. With the municipal aspect of the works and the relation between the municipal and water-works corporations, this unpretending sketch has nothing to do; it is simply a plain statement of facts as presented to disinterested observation.

THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH.

1690 AND 1882!

THE BOYNE AND THE OTONABEE.

The Celebration in Peterborough.

The Town a Living mass of Visitors—A Splendid Procession—Successful Celebration.

The 192nd anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne fell on last Wednesday, and the weather was all that could be desired. At an early hour vehicular visitors—by team—began to pour into town, and by 9 o'clock George Street, on both sides, was bordered with a living fringe of humanity, waiting for the grand procession.

The preparations were elaborate and of fine effect. Arches were erected at the intersection of Water and Hunter Street, and Simcoe, Hunter and George and Brock and George Streets. The arches consisted of pillars of evergreens at the four corners, and a lofty central evergreen pillar, from whose summit waved the Union Jack, and from a point a little below festoons of evergreens gracefully drooped diagonally to the four corners. The arches, or rather bowers, were further decorated gaily with national bunting, and the flags and banners of the orders, and loyal and fraternal mottoes and greetings. The fronts of many of the hotels were decorated with evergreens and other decoratives were placed elsewhere, the tout ensemble giving the town a decidedly festal appearance.

ARRIVING.

About eleven o'clock the Lakefield contingent, which crammed four or five coaches, arrived and were escorted down town and to the station by the local brethren, preceded by the Fire Brigade band. At 12 o'clock the Grand Junction arrived with about twenty-five crowded coaches, and some delay was made in forming the procession by the late arrival of the Port Hope and Cobourg train, which arrived at about 1.00, with thirty coaches and two engines.

THE PROCESSION

formed at once on the arrival of the latter train, the Golden-Eye in the meantime bringing in its quota, and marshalled by Messrs. J. B. McWilliams, Geo. Hall, Maxwell Hall, Chas. Robertson, Thos. Johnston and Isaac Mills took the following route:—Up Aylmer Street to Hunter Street—along Hunter Street to George Street—down George Street to Charlotte Street—along Charlotte Street to Water Street—up Water Street to Hunter Street—along Hunter Street to George Street—up George Street to Murray Street—thence to the Agricultural Grounds, where the procession dispersed and retired for dinner, re-assembling in the same place at 2.30 P. M., where addresses were delivered by resident and other speakers.

The procession, which formed in the following order, was composed of the districts of Cobourg, Port Hope, Madoc, Percy, Hope, Cavan, Manvers, Norwood, Otonabee, Lakefield and Peterborough. Each district was preceded by a band, there being five splendid brass bands in the procession including the Indian band, Selwyn. The procession was a magnificent one, as good as any that ever marched on Canadian soil, consisting of between ninety and one hundred lodges looking as grand in their regalia

AS AN ARMY WITH BANNERS.

The monster procession took 55 minutes to pass a given point. The head of the cortege entered the Drill Shed Grounds before the end left Charlotte Street at the starting point.

Accompanying the members of the order was an

the number of strangers who were in town on Wednesday afternoon ranging between twelve and fifteen thousand. The extra demand on the hospitalities of the town was fully met by our hotels and restaurants, and none could complain of not being fully fed. Up to the time of going to press, 4 o'clock, in spite of the immense crowd in town the best of order prevailed.

WHITBY.

The prize of $5 for the best essay on "Dairy Management" has been won by Mrs. J. L. Smith, of Whitby.

The Oddfellows lodge here is gaining new members very rapidly, initiations taking place nearly every lodge night.

Our many readers will regret to learn that Mr. Thos. Dow has resigned his position as Manager of the Ontario Bank here. During the long period he has so ably filled the position he has made many friends, and has done much to make the Ontario Bank popular in this section.

WAR DECLARED!

ENGLAND AND EGYPT ENGAGED.

THE FIRST SHOT FIRED—ALEXANDRIA BOMBARDED.

The crisis has come, and the first shot was fired on Tuesday morning at seven o'clock. Arabi had disregarded Admiral Seymour's demand to cease work on the earth-works around Alexandria, and the consequences have begun. The following telegraphic despatches show the situation.

THE FLEET MOVING.

ALEXANDRIA, July 10.—At 11 o'clock the Invincible, Monarch, and Penelope moved out and anchored outside the harbour. The scene now was impressive in a high degree. Slowly all the foreign steamers moved from their berths and steamed out of the harbour. The merchant steamers presented no regular order, but the war ships of the various nations steamed out in squadrons, saluting as they passed the admiral's flag while the band played the national airs. Scarce a breath of wind was blowing, the various ensigns dropped against the masts, the bright eastern sky overhead, the deep blue sea, the white clothed crews clustering on the rigging, and the knowledge of the change which would soon take place, rendered the stately procession of warships extremely impressive. The merchant steamers were all crowded with refugees—those who had held on to the last in hopes that matters would not come to an extremity. By half-past twelve the American squadron of three ships, two Russian vessels, one Austrian and one German alone remain.

THE ATTACK BEGUN.

ALEXANDRIA, July 11.—The attack on the forts has now been kept up for two hours. Smoke hangs over the town along the line of the shore and the batteries, and among the ships and it is difficult to see what damage has been done. It is certain however that the Egyptians suffered very heavily. Fort Marsa has been blown up by the fire from other batteries. The forts are slackening the fire. The top of the tower at Fort Pharos has been carried away, and many guns have been dismounted on that and other forts. A flag at the Geneva Red Cross is flying over the hospital in the city. Dutch and Greek flags are hoisted over their consulates. At the beginning of the bombardment an immense crowd was visible. Crowds were seen wending their way toward the Palace. The streets are now deserted, the people having fled or taken refuge in the cellars. There are no signs of surrender yet.

THE EGYPTIAN LOSS.

ALEXANDRIA, July 11.—The Egyptian loss is unknown, but is likely to be severe, part of the Ras El Tin palace is in ruins. The light house is slightly damaged. The unarmoured ships silenced the Marabout works. At 11.40 a.m. all the forts were silenced except one or two inside the harbor.

GOOD CANNONADING.

ALEXANDRIA, July 11.—The cannonading from the fleet after it got fairly under way was simply the most perfect specimen of naval warfare witnessed in modern times. The guns had been all shotted and trained for nearly twenty-nine hours, but when the order to open fire was given, the crisis made the gunners noticeably nervous, but this was only for a moment. Within twenty minutes from the first shot the men aboard the ships steadied to their work in such a grand style that every shot did just what it was fired to do.

Advices dated London, July 11th, states that after eleven hour's cannonading, Alexandria has practically surrendered. Dervisch Pasha was the bearer of a letter to Admiral Seymour from the ministry, offering to dismount the guns, but he replied that the time for negotiation had passed. The British lost in the engagement, five killed and twenty-seven wounded.

ALL THE PEOPLE OF THE DOMINION OF CANDA ARE CONCERNED.

Here are some more of the many hundreds of the leading people of the Dominion of Canada who have been cured of Catarrah, Bronchitis, Asthma and Lung disease by Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer and instrument, which conveys medicinal properties direct to the seat of disease. Read and judge for yourself:

Several of my family and friends have been cured of bronchitis, asthma and catarrh by using the Spirometer. JOHN P. WHELAN, Manager POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal. Mr. C. HILL, Montreal, catarrh and bronchitis. MR. DEBOUCHERVILLE, of the Indian Department, Ottawa, catarrh of many years; now cured. MR. GEO. AGER, Ottawa, catarrh and lung disease; cured. MRS. SMITH, London, wife of Medical Detective, cured of catarrh. GEO. MAGUIRE, Toronto, 482 Adelaide Street West; daughter cured of asthma. GEORGE WILLIS, Exeter, Ont., catarrh and bronchitis. J. D. ARMSTRONG, 186 Young street, Toronto, catarrh and catarrhal deafness. THOMAS TELFER, 12 Melinda street, Toronto, asthma; cured. MR. BENJ. A. DRAKE, St. Urbain Street, Montreal, for many years suffering from bronchitis and asthma, is now cured.

Also, the no less surprising cure of MRS. DENOTT, 114 Cathedral Street, daughter of Mrs. David Parrault, who suffered from asthma and bronchitis for over eight years, and who is now perfectly cured.

MRS. ADAMSON, of Belleville, cured of bronchitis, and her sister cured of bronchitis and lung disease.

I have no hesitation in saying Dr. Souvielle's Spirometer will cure catarrh and bronchitis, JOHN C. FLEMING, Editor of POST and TRUE WITNESS, Montreal.

The above is sufficient to convince the public of the merits of the Spirometer. The instrument will be expressed to any address.

Call or write, inclosing stamp for reply, to the International Throat and Lung Institute, 75 Young Street, Toronto, Dr. M. Souvielle and a competent body of English and French physicians always in attendance. Every information given. Physicians and sufferers can try the Spirometer free. 25

Peterborough Examiner.

PETEBBOROUGH, JULY 13, 1882.

Notes of the Day.

ÆRONAUTIC EXCURSIONS are becoming more frequent. Another attempt was recently made to cross the English Channel, but one of the balloonists, Sir Claude de Crespigny, and the assistant had his ribs broken between the car and wall at starting. Such foolhardy attempts should not be allowed. Balloon expeditions, unless undertaken with some practical, scientific or military object in view, should be considered as on a par with attempted suicide.

FIVE HUNDRED YEARS AGO the imposition of a poll-tax caused rebellion in England. It may be news to some of our readers to hear that a similar tax has been borne in Russia for the last 150 years, it having originated with Peter the Great. We are accustomed to imagine that great reforms have taken place in Russia; this would indicate the need of more improvements. From the 1st of January next the poll-tax is to be gradually abolished, but the effort to do even this was not easily or readily accomplished. The main difficulty hitherto has been to replace it by some less objectionable tax, as the country cannot bear, in the present condition of its finances, to lose some six millions sterling. An income tax will likely supply its place.

DURING A DEBATE in the Hungarian Parliament on the Jewish refugees and the treatment they might receive in that country a short time since, one of the members said he had too much confidence in the good sense of the Hungarians to fear any excesses "however much agitators might labor to sow dissension. This Herr Istoczy, a member greatly interested in Jewish questions, took as a personal insult. The result was he challenged the speaker, who said his remarks were not personal and so he could not accept the challenge, whereupon Ictoczy, after using insulting language, struck the orator and attacked him furiously. The house censured the offender and a duel followed, but fortunately nobody was hurt.

IN ENGLAND, recent legislation (as for example the Coercion bill) proposes to put greater responsibility on the Irish Judges—a position which they are by no means anxious to accept. In France, on the contrary, the judges are to retain almost no responsibility. It is first proposed that magistrates there are to be removable at the will and pleasure of the Government. Next the Chamber decides that judges are to be elected by universal suffrage! This motion passed by a vote of 284 to 202. In vain the Minister of Justice declared the election system of judges in the United States had resulted deplorably; the Radicals carried the day. What sort of judges the French capital is likely to have under these circumstances may be conjectured from the following resolution which recently passed at a public meeting:—

The assembled citizens, considering that the Chamber of Deputies, in its sitting of the 6th inst., far from condemning the infamous and criminal outrages of the police, encourage them by voting a bill of indemnity in favor of the responsible minister, hereby extend to that monster and to the chamber, his accomplice, the censure already pronounced against their foul instruments of oppression, the policemen of every rank!"

LORD MAYOR'S DAY is one of the great institutions in England. On that occasion, as our readers are aware, a grand procession and banquet is one of the features, but nobody seems to know what special benefit there is in all this display. The cost, however, is no inconsiderable sum. Whoever may dance, somebody has to pay the piper. The ministers of state usually attend the grand banquets on Lord Mayor's day, and their utterances on the occasion are of a somewhat semi-official character; foreshadowing the coming legislation in nearly the same way as the President's message. Last year the dinner cost $8,260; the decorations, $3,125; the procession, $3,535; music in the Guildhall, $335; printing, stationery, $1,490; and general expenses, $2,075, making a total of $18,820. This was met by a grant of $1,000 from the city land's committee; one of $4,455 from each of the two city sheriffs, Hanson and Ogg, and the remainder was contributed by the Lord Mayor himself. It is hardly likely that when the editor of the EXAMINER is called upon to fill this important function, the dinner will be of quite so elaborate and costly a character. In fact, we believe our natural modesty and bashfulness, not to speak of impecuniosity, will tempt us to regale ourselves on bread and cheese and beer.

THE LETTER-CARRIERS of Great Britain have, for the last twelve months, been agitating for an amelioration of their position as regards hours of labor, wages, promotion and superannuation. Their petition to the Postmaster General has not secured the desired result. In fact, no answer has been given. It is said Mr. Fawcett is himself disposed to concede the claims of the letter carriers, but the Treasury is opposed to his scheme in consequence of the increased expense it would entail. There can be no doubt this hard-worked and very badly paid body of public servants labour under very serious grievances. Their wages are very low, their hours of service long, and when worn out and useless, the miserable pension the Government doles out to them is not sufficient to keep body and soul together. The press has ably championed their cause, and asks that their just claims for "better terms" be conceded. A meeting of the letter carriers of London was recently held at which a resolution referring to their application to the Government, and asking for immediate decision in the public interests was passed unanimously. This will, no doubt, produce the desired result, and it is to be hoped their efforts to obtain a reform in their condition by such legitimate means, may be, at this late date, crowned with success.

FEARS WERE, at one time, very naturally entertained by large numbers, that on Disestablishment of the Church in Ireland, a period of decay would at once set in which would ultimately bring about its complete annihilation and destruction. The friends of Irish Protestantism will be glad to hear that this ancient Church was never in a more healthy and vigorous condition than at present. Figures will, perhaps, best show the progress and advancement it has made during the past few years. In 1810 there were but two schools and 87 Sunday School scholars in connection with the Church of Ireland. It now possesses 2,093 schools, 176,525 scholars, and an army of 15,447 teachers. Within the last ten years the church members, who number 635,000, have contributed twenty million dollars for Church sustentation. The contributions in the year before disestablishment, i.e., in 1869, amounted to $23,200; last year it footed up no less a sum than $205,000, nine times as much as when the church was aided by large Government grants. During the last ten years 44 churches have been built, and upwards of 100 restored. These tokens of material prosperity, which are doubtless indicative of spiritual life and vigour also, sufficiently prove the widom of those few intelligent and faithful men, who held the opinion years ago, that voluntaryism in the church would lead to far greater success and advancement and that it would heighten the members' interest and enthusiasm in the work if all State aid were withdrawn. Gladstone's measure was a wise, just and conciliatory one, and the sequel shows that it was designed to aid rather than weaken or destroy the Church itself.

FOR THE SAKE OF HUMANITY it is to be hoped we have heard the last of Arctic exploration for some time to come. The fate of the unfortunate Jeanette expedition, and the horrible sufferings of the officers and crew, should, we think, settle the question. Out of thirty-three persons only thirteen are living, and one has only to read the last pages of poor Delong's diary to know something of the sad condition of those who have passed away in their prime. In this utilitarian age, it is no wonder men ask, "To what purpose is this waste of men and means? What benefits will accrue to the human race should the north pole be discovered? Is it simply for the glory of the thing that human life is thrown away in the Quixoticattempt?" Commander Cheyne's proposed trip does not seem to meet with much favor. We are heartily glad of it. Instead of trying to utilize balloons, we should like to see the gallant Commander at work in exploring Hudson's Bay. Many practical men deem it quite feasible to run a line of steamers by this route to Liverpool, and thus have a cheap and rapid transit for the Manitoba wheat crops. Over 730 successful voyages have been made during the last two hundred years, into Hudson's Bay by sailing vessels, and the disasters have been very few. A French fleet captured forts York and Churchhill there nearly one hundred years ago. The Bay should at least be explored with a view (1) of testing how early and how late in the season steamers might pass through the straits, (2) to investigate the course of the tides and currents, and (3) to explore the coast line. Fresh salmon, the finest in the world, is found in the streams flowing into the bay, and the waters, we are told, abound in whales, porpoises, seals and other fish. Now that the elections are settled, and bribes for the constituencies will not be required for some time to come, we should like to know that a sum of money was appropriated for the purpose of exploring this unknown, and yet, most certainly, very valuable, inland sea.

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. Blake's correct majority in West Durham is 119.

Three of the newly elected Prince Edward Island members are physicians, the three others including a lawyer, a merchant and a farmer.

The Ottawa Free press hears that Sir Alexander Galt will be put forward as the Ministerial candidate in Carleton County, Sir John Macdonald having decided to sit for Lennox.

Hon. R. M. Wells had a brilliant victory in East Bruce. In 1878, the riding, as now constituted, gave 526 majority for the Conservative candidates. This large number was successfully won over to the Liberal principals, and Mr Wells has a handsome majority of 100.

Reflect says the London Advertiser, for a moment on the principal involved in the stand taken by the partizan returning-officer in Bothwell. If it is allowed to be sound, it is within the power of any deputy returning-officer in a close constituency to give or loose the election, not by any covert act, but by the simple device of neglecting to perform some of the minor technical duties of his office.

BOTHWELL AND MUSKOKA.

Telegraphic advices announce that, by a decision of the County Judge for Kent, Mr. Mills has been declared elected for Bothwell, and the Tory conspirators baulked of success just as the moment of seeming victory. His Honour the Judge gave the Returning-officer a certificate of Mr. Mills' return, which it is said the Returning-officer refused to accept. There are now two members declared elected for Bothwell, but of the result of the struggle—Mr. Mills retaining the seat—there is no little reason to doubt. The law is so clearly on his side that none—but a man capable of doing the dirty work done by the Conservative Returning-officer for Bothwell and his abettors—will care to dispute it.

In Muskoka the result is so uncertain that both parties claim a majority, and the result will not be definitely known until the Returning-officer at Bracebridge officially declares the result, and possibly not even then. At one of the polling booths there were insufficient ballots, and written ballots had to be prepared and used. Other irregularities marked the election, and it is quite possible that whoever is defeated will move that the election be set aside.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

The bean-raising districts of Western New York State are devastated by bean weevil.

An unknown donor has contributed fifty dollars toward the purchase of a steam launch for Bishop Sullivan, of Algoma.

Three surveyors named Doucet, Simson and Beveridge, were swept over the falls of the Serpent River, Algoma. Beveridge was drowned.

On Saturday the two public baths built in Toronto by Mr. Erastus Wiman were formally presented to the city by the donor. They cost about $6,000.

A meat company, with $100,000 capital is to open stores in Montreal to retail beef and mutton at cheaper rates than the butchers are selling at.

A cruel robbery took place the other day between London and Toronto, several thousand dollars being stole from Mr. and Mrs. James Little, an aged couple just setting out for England.

Bears are becoming plentiful at Sharbot Lake; some of the men who are locating the line of railroad for the Ontario & Quebec Railroad were attacked on a recent occasion by one of the brutes.

Mr. Matthew Clements, of the township of Trafalgar, has been appointed sheriff for the county of Halton, vice Mr. McKindsey, who resigned to unsuccessfully run as Tory candidate for the House of Commons.

The insurance companies holding risks on the Knappen House, Winnipeg, recently destroyed by fire, have refused to pay the insurance because gasoline was used in lighting the hotel. The result of the suit which has been entered to to enforce payment will be awaited with interest.

The captain of the steamship Strathairlie has been fined $11,550 for bringing an excess of Chinese passangers to San Francisco. Another steamer, the Belgic has arrived with a number of cases of smallpox on board, and has gone into quarantine.

The enumerated population of London, England, subject to slight revision was 3,814,571 on the 3rd of April 1881. In 1871 the population was 3,254,260; the increase therefore in ten years is 560,311. The decennial rate of increase has been 17 per cent., whereas in 1861-71 it was 16 per cent. In 1851-61 it was nearly 19 per cent.

The "Lord Downshire" the largest sailing ship ever constructed, left Belfast lately in tow of two powerful steam tugs. She is constructed of steel, is 290 long, and capable of carrying 3,600 tons dead weight. She has four masts. The Lord Downshire will be towed to Cardiff for the remainder of her cargo, and then sail for San Francisco.

Mr. Locock Webb, Q.C., who opposed the alamgamation of the Grand Trunk Railway with the Great Western at the Grand Trunk meeting, threatens to throw every legal impediment in the way. The poll of Great Western shareholders resulted in an overwhelming majority of votes being cast in favour of fusion.

A special despatch from St. Paul says that news has been received from Redfield Dakota, that hostile Indians from the West had ruthlessly massacred eleven adults and three children in the centre of Faulk county on Thursday. General Terry has ordered a company of the 7th United States Cavalry to the scene, with orders to pursue and punish the murderers.

The Irish parliamentary party have adopted a policy of obstruction to the passage of the Repression Bill, and a continous sitting of the House until Saturday night has been arranged in consequence. Additional agrarian crimes are reported from Ireland. A compositor on the Freheit has been sentenced to eighteen months imprisonmentfor publishing an article approving of the Phœnix Park assassinations.

Saturday's cyclone in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Illinois was more terrible even than the destructive one in Indian Territory, because its track ran through a more thickly settled region. The news of the dead and dying reads like that of a battle; but no great battle destroys property like this. Railroad trains thrown from the track; churches, colleges and grain elevators swept away like ordinary barns and farm houses; trees uprooted or snapped off; towns tumbling in ruins as if built of cardboard; the killed and wounded reckoned in hundreds and the loss of property in millions—such are the fruits of a day's wind in the West. The Western States appear to be nice places to keep away from.

"The Man in the Moon."

From the earliest period of history many people have believed that a man really inhabitated the moon; some thought he was made of green cheese, while others had their doubts about it—be that as it may, whether there is a man in the moon or not, there is no doubt in the solid fact that is a man, and alive to the requirements of his many customers, and having determined from his first commencing business to use nothing but the Very best of Material in the manufacture of his Harness and other Goods in his Line, and by strictly adhering to this rule, his business has increased so rapidly that he has hard work to fill all the orders that are daily pouring in upon him, thus showing that the Farmers specially, and the public generally, fully appreciate the work turned out at his shop. All work made under the supervision and instruction of competent and skilled workmen, at

Provide yourselves with a bottle of PAIN-KILLER at this season of the year, when summer complaints are so prevalent; it is a prompt, safe, and sure cure. It may save you days of sickness, and you will find it is more valuable than gold. Be sure you buy the genuine PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER, and take no other mixture.

Cobourg, Ont., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first-class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry Davis Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

HASTINGS.

Diptheria has been busy in the village. Several fatal cases have occurred.

One of those singular freaks which nature occasionally indulges in may be seen on the farm of Mr. Wm. Richardson, on the Norwood road, in the form of a lamb with five legs and three udders. The animal is large for its age, and appears to suffer no inconvenience from the additional leg, which is somewhat shorter than the natural ones.

The work of rebuilding the "burnt district" is going forward quickly. Two new hotels are under contract—Fowlds Bros. and Coughlin's. Mr. Belcher, C. E., Peterborough, prepared the plans for the former.

At the raising of Welshe's tannery here last Thursday three men were badly hurt—Mr. Powers, of Belleville, leg broken; Mr. Bonner, boss carpenter, also of Belleville, was very badly injured, and no hopes of his recovery are held out; Mr. John Carey, of this place, was considerably injured, but not dangerously.

REMEMBER 1856-57.

In his address to the shareholders of the Merchants' Bank Manager Hague made the following remarks of general interest: Now, looking at the total line of discount as it was a year ago and as it is now I have noticed the following changes: In produce and provision accounts, a slight diminution. In saw mills and timber, a very considerable increase (nearly 50 per cent); in manufacturing accounts an increase of about 12 per cent; in importers' and merchants' accounts a large increase, nearly 40 per cent; in miscellaneous loans a very considerable increase, about 20 per cent. The largest increase has thus been in accounts connected with our leading exports, viz., the the productions of our forests. The next large increase has been in our whole line of importing. As to the soundness and healthiness of this or otherwise, there can be no doubt that the value of our wood products in foreign countries (our great market) has very largely increased, and that, not only has production been stimulated, giving rise to the employment of more money, but the amount of money required to carry on the same amount of operations has largely increased, too. As to the increased imports, these are, as a rule, only healthy and sound when arising out of larger production. There has been a large increase of money value in our productions, as you have seen, and hence some foundation for increased imports. Duties have increased the selling value of goods, so that there has been an increase both in quantity and value. But our large railway expenditure should always be taken into account. This kind of expenditure always stimulates the consumption during the time it is going on. But when it ceases consumption decreases in the same proportion. Then the demand for imported goods and manufactured articles falls off, and unwary merchants, both wholesale and retail, who have failed to note that their large sales were due to temporary causes, are caught with great stocks, which they find it hard to sell. Then comes difficulty in meeting payments, numerous failures, and all the phenomena with which the country was so familiar in 1857 and following years, when the completion of the Grand Trunk and Great Western Railways brought about such a disastrous collapse. This, it appears to me, is that for which we must keep a careful lookout from this time onward. Merchants, in addition, will do well to take a careful note of the production of our farms and the condition of the lumber trade, and not only of the quantity produced but the prices obtained. For it must ever be borne in mind that for the prices obtained for our great staples we are entirely dependent on the condition of trade in Great Britain and United States. Neither of these can suffer without our being affected. Canada is altogether too small a country for any market to be controlled by her operations. But the banks have evidently been furnishing, by loans on stocks, a considerable amount of the capital required for new manufacturing enterprises, or the extension of old ones, and for various other forms of enterprise now carried on in the shape of joint stock companies. Time will show whether these will be successful or not.

THE CONSERVATIVE PARTY.

Sir John Macdonald has been given another lease of power, as much through the blunders of his opponents as by reason of his policy. For, outside of his position on the National Policy, he is wrong.

His bargain with the Pacific Railway will yet be denounced by the people of Canada.

His Redistribution Bill was not fair treatment of political opponents.

His land policy in the North-West is bad.

His treatment of the Provinces, and Ontario especially, in regard to the Boundary Award, will yet be resented. If he ever attempts to keep the people of Ontario out of their territory, he will find secession openly advocated.

He is surrounded by corruptionists. The one thing in his favor on Tuesday was the riddance from his party of such men as Alfred Boultbee and C. W. Bunting.

Though the Conservative party is triumphant, its dissolution may not be so far off. It hangs to-day on one old man's life. There will not for many years again be a party which will oppose the N. P.—Sir John Macdonald's only sound plank—and with the removal of that question from the field, and the reorganization of the Liberal Party, the Conservatives will have little to hope for, little to expect in the future.—Toronto World, N. P. Organ.

EMULOUS DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

Among the candidates at Toronto University matriculation examinations are 15 girls, all of whom are candidates in honors in various departments. One girl from Port Perry high school is taking the honor examinations in Latin, Greek, mathematics, English, history, geography and French. Bowmanville high school sends a young lady who is anxious to shine in five languages, two dead and three living. Three come from St Catharines collegiate institute and are candidates for honors, two in 5, one in 4 departments. It is noticeable that while among 157 male candidates as many as 40 make no honors, there is not one of the young ladies who does not take honors in at least three departments out of the seven, the majority of them taking four and five honor departments.

The local examination for women in connection with Toronto university, also began Friday at various centre throughout the province. At Brantford there were nine candidates, all from the Young Ladies' college; Elora high school, 7; Drummondville high school, 6; Pickering college, 11; Richmond Hill high school, 8; St. Marys collegiate institute, 10; St. Thomas collegiate institute, 25; Thorold high school, 9; Toronto (from different schools) 12.

PETER'S PENCE.

Probably few people know the history of the origin of the phrase "Peter's pence," the annual collection of money among Roman Catholics for the benefit of the pope. In the twelfth century the fourth Adrian, pope of Rome, sold the sovereignty of Ireland to Henry II of England, the consideration being one English penny per annum for each one of the inhabitants. This tribute was known as Peter's pence, which name it still bears wherever levied by authority of the church.

Kidney Disease.

Pain, Irritation, Retention, Incontinence, Deposits, Gravel, &c., cured by "Buchupaiba." $1

The Ontario Government engineer has given his certificate of the completion of the Georgian Bay Railway to Wiarton. The road, which opens up a large section of valuable land, will be operated by the Grand Trunk Railway under a lease.

TWO RICH WOMEN.

Fifth Avenue, New York, contains two ladies of great wealth, each of whom may be said to live alone, with the exception of servants. One of these is Mrs. A. T. Stewart, who occupies a palace which cost $1,000,000. The taxes alone, on this grand establishment, are $12,500. She has a dozen servants and a housekeeper, but otherwise lives alone, though often visited by her young and expectant relatives. The other is Miss Harriett Lenox, sister of the philanthropist, who occupies the house built by the latter when Fifth Avenue first became an aristocratic street. She also lives alone, with the exception of the servants, but her purpose in life is to carry out her brother's philanthropic schemes, for which reason he made her his sole heir. Old Robert Lenox, founder of the family, had four children—a son and three daughters. Harriet is the last of the line, which, in the event of her death, will become extinct. She is, like her late brother, a recluse, but devotes her time and her wealth to beneficence, which is administered through approved channels of usefulness.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mummies are the only well-behaved persons who are now left in Egypt.

Miss Henrietta Dewcome: In answer to your question about "unkissed kisses," we may say that we are prepared to unkiss any kisses we may have kissed outside of the family for the last five years.

A Boston journalist says "a kiss for each falling star is the lover's rule." This may do in Boston, where it takes some time to remove eye-glasses, but it won't do in Philadelphia. The falling stars are too few and far between.

"Where do people go who deceive their fellow men?" inquired a Sunday school teacher. "Sometimes to Canada, but mostly to Europe," was the reply of a youngster whose uncle had recently been a trusted officer in a local bank.

There is a certain way of distinguishing a man from a head-waiter at a swell party, notwithstanding both may be dressed the same. The waiter generally has a towel on his left arm, and the man generally has a young lady there, if he is agreeable.

Here's a conundrum for you: A man was sent to market with just $100, and was told to buy with it just 100 animals. He found that cows were $10 each, sheep $3, and pigs 50 cents. How did he obey his instructions? Ans.—He bought five cows, one sheep and ninety-four pigs.

The progress of the strike among the freight handlers and other railway employees in the United States is anixously watched by merchants and business men. A powerful lever has been brought to bear against the railway companies by the motion for a mandamus to compel them to forward freight accumulated. The New York & New England Road has granted the advance demanded.

BAD BLOOD.—The blood is the true essence of vitality, without pure blood there can be no healthy action in the system. Boils, blotches, pimples and the various humors and blemishes of the skin are only symptomatic of bad blood—that needs purifying as its fountain head, to render its tributaries pure. Burdock Blood Bitters effectually cleanse the blood from all humors, obtain a healthy action of the liver, bowels, kidneys, akin, etc, and strengthening while they regulate and purify. 28-2t

A gentlemen, whos nose and cheek had become distinctly colored with the red wine he was wont to imbibe, said one day to his little son at the table, "You must eat bread, my boy; bread makes your cheeks red." The little boy replied, "Father what lots of bread you must have swallowed."

Thousands bear witness to the positive curative powers of the GREAT GERMAN INVIGORATOR, the only remedy that has proved itself a SPECIFIC for general debility, seminal weakness, impotency, etc., and all diseases that arise from self-abuse or overtaxed brain, finally ending in consumption, insanity and a premature grave. Sold by all druggists, or will be sent free on receipt of $2.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Address F. J. CHENEY, Toledo, Ohio, sole agent for the United States. Send for circular and testimonials of genuine cures. 28-2t

Riding on the box-seat with the driver of a four-horse coach, with some hesitation I said, "Your near leader, Mr. Jones, doesn't draw much, does he?" "Not an ounce!" was the prompt reply. I ventured further the natural enquiry, "What is the good of him then?" To this question Mr. Jones graciously vouchsafed an answer, which for his far-reaching wisdom, I have carefully treasured up ever since, and have found that it explains not a few words in life. "Well sir," he said "this is a four-horse coach and he counts."

THOSE OF OUR READERS who prefer home treatment in case of Chronic Diseases of the Blood, Liver, &c., will do well to notice the claims of "Burdock Blood Bitters," advertised in our columns. This preparation was brought out some two years ago, and we are informed has so rapidly made its way in public favor that it sells equal to any of the old standard medicines of its class; and so far as we understand, the results are extremely satisfactory to parties who have tried it. The proprietors are Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, who tell us that they have sold 25,000 bottles of B. B. B. during the past three months.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO'S IMPROVED
BUTTER COLOR
A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

☞And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞If you cannot get the "Improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense.

NEWCOMBE PIANOS

BOSTON, 14th Sept., 1881.
Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co., Toronto,
DEAR SIRS,—For brilliancy and sympathetic quality of tone, I consider your Upright Pianos unequalled by any made in Canada. The touch is responsive, the treble clear and resonant, so that I can in all respects recommend them.
OTTO BENDIX.

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician:

TORONTO, 26th Sept., 1881.
Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,
GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.
Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,
Your obedient humble servant,

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, JULY 13, 1882

Our Enlargement.

Owing to the extreme rush of business during and since the election campaign, and the scarcity of workmen and building material, the Railway and Water-Works creating an exceptional demand, we are compelled to announce that the enlargement of THE EXAMINER will not take place at the time previously intimated. However, our new presses have arrived from England, and Mr. Wm. Mills, our enterprising landlord, has taken the work of extending our premises in hand, and we think that we can accomplish the contemplated enlargement of our paper, and the improvement of our premises by the 1st of August. The increase of our business and advertising patronage makes enlargement absolutely imperative. By the new arrangement our business offices will be greatly enlarged and our present superior facilities for turning out all kinds of work promptly, will be vastly improved.

Our Schools.

The school system of Ontario has been held up as one of the most perfect and liberal systems extant, but that it is susceptible of vast improvement is a conviction that has been growing in strength, and gradually compelling educationists to wish that steps could be taken to amend it in such a way as to give it what it now grievously lacks, a predomination of the practical element over that of the merely theoritical and ornamental. We are glad that Mr. Crooks, the Minister of Education for Ontario, sees the importance and necessity of taking action in the direction of securing the desideratum alluded to. In a recent address at Ottawa, he stated in effect :—

"It is proposed that the course of study shall be more flexible, and greater discretion will be given to trustees with reference to the choice of subjects than is the case at present. The number of compulsory subjects will be reduced and the number of optional subjects increased. Public school trustees will have the option of introducing elementary science, and in the rural schools the elementary principles of agriculture. The High School course will also be made more flexible, and the intermediate examination is to become a mere test of promotion from the lower to the upper school. The intermediate examinations will be but a step in the teachers' examinations, and not, as hitherto, an equivalent. The obligatory subjects in the intermediate will be confined to the essential subjects in secondary education. The option will be given to every pupil to select his subjects in the upper school. Music and drawing and such subjects as are more suitable for girls, will also be taught in High schools. Latin will no longer be one of the compulsory subjects. The change of principle in the distribution of the Government grant will avoid cramming and also prevent undue influence being exercised, inasmuch as the basis of distribution will recognize a minimum for all the schools, due regard being had to the amount paid for teachers' salaries. One of the beneficial effects of the proposed change in the mode of distributing the Government grant will be to do away with the present system of cramming picked candidates for the intermediate to the injury of the other scholars."

It will be thus seen that our educational programme is to be reduced to something approaching a practical and common-sense platform. The changes indicated in the above synopsis of the speech of the Minister of Education will not require the lapse of much time to prove the wisdom of their adoption. It seems that that the primary object of education is to fit children for the stations they are to fill in after life. That this has been the result of our present system, excellent in many respects as it is, no one will for a moment assert. The result has rather been that of cramming children's heads with a mass of ologies that are perfectly useless in the respect that they are not practical, and another phase of the evil is that the system of examinations has made this useless knowledge more useless, so to speak. The minds of candidates were stuffed with a mass of material which was forgotten at once it served its purpose at examinations. Not that this forgetting is in itself a serious loss, but it represents a lamentable loss of time and misdirected zeal. It is a well known fact that the pupils of our high and public schools have the best educational period of their life trittered away in the acquisition of knowledge, that, for the purposes of their future careers, may be so much waste brain lumber, while real, practical subjects are not practically taught. We do not for a moment depreciate the value of a classical education, but it is a learning that can be done without in about nine cases out of ten, without any serious loss resulting. But practical, every-day education is a necessity, therefore the latter should have a greater prominence in our school system. For the vast majority of the people of Canada the public schools are the only means they can afford whereby to fit themselves for future usefulness. Whatever the public school fails to give them in this respect they must forego, or acquire by their own exertions or bitter experience. Then for this reason our school systems should be changed so that very little that is not useful should be learned. Let the public schools be for the masses alone, and they who desire to progress beyond the utilitarian instruction attainable in them, may take the advantage of the facilities offered by our excellent higher educational institutions. Of real, sound, useful knowledge, our schools impart very little. There is brilliancy without bottom; there is abundance, of intellectual pyrotecnics, but a very imperfect knowledge of "reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic," and all that that figurative alliteration implies. To remedy this state of things is the tendency of the change proposed. In the upper school, as Mr. Crooks observes, "the option will be given to every pupil to select his subjects." Thus, if a boy is to be a machinist, he drops Latin, ecc., and takes such subjects as he will find useful in his chosen calling. The girl that intends in the future to be a wife and not a mere married woman, may apply herself to subjects that will come into play in domestic economy—the chemistry of the kitchen or the fine art of the parlor, such as drawing, music, etc., and so on, with all the trades and professions.

The changes proposed involve too much to be treated of in more than a cursory manner. But the synopsis above given of Mr. Crook's address at Ottawa contains abundant food for thought for all interested in the really true and useful education of our children.

Editorial Notes.

THE Dominion elections have evidently brought poor poet Plumb up plumb—standing. The recount in North Wellington has resulted in confirming Mr. McMullen in his seat. His only hope for a chance of plying his boring machine in the House of Commons is Carleton.

WE on this continent, are wont to consider ourselves the purveyors extraordinary to England in the matter of wheat, but we have a formidable rival in British India, which in the five months ending May, sent four million cwt. of wheat, only about 500,000 cwt. less than the amount shipped during the same period by America.

IT IS stated that England, in important correspondence that has passed between the Imperial and Dominion Governments has made it manifest that England is decidedly displeased with the action of the Canadian Government in endorsing the adoption of the resolutions in reference to Home Rule for Ireland.

IT IS asserted that owing to the demands of his private business, Hon. John Carling has resigned the position of Postmaster-General, and that Mr. Kilvert of Hamilton will be selected to succeed him. If Mr. Carling has done so, he is evidently more conscientious than some members of the House of Commons in Canada that we could name.

JUSTICE will, to be comfortable, require to have loss of smell added to her ocular infirmity, if as the rumour has it, Alfred Boultbee is to be elevated to the bench. It was bad enough that the free-and-easy political system of the Yankees admitted of John Morrisey becoming a Senator, but Boultbee on the bench would be ever so many shades worse. If Alfred has earned a political reward, there would be a poetical justice in making him chief of the bureau of corruption, now practically presided over by the "great stretcher."

THE Baptists of Ontario and Quebec have established a publication society which will issue their organ, the Canadian Baptist, conduct a book room, and in divers ways promote denominational interests through the medium of printer's ink. Rev. A. Dyke is business manager, who states that it is through "the munificence of Hon. Wm. McMaster that it has been possible to realize the desire to have a publication society which should, in its fullest sense, be a denominational institution, and, with the blessing of God, an ever-increasing power for good."

OUR magnificent Northwest lands have a capacity for the accommodation of twenty-four millions of settlers and the task of supplying these colonizers was, by the fate of politics, entrusted to the Dominion Government, who have simply outraged their trust by handing these acres over to the rapacious maws of greedy speculators. Had it fallen to a Reform Government to administer this enormous territory, we would have seen this policy carried out :—"The land for the settlers, the price for the people." Add to the evils of land-sharkism, those of railway rapacity, and a believer in utter depravity can form some faint conception of the evil state into which our North-west domain has been brought by the iniquitous legislation and regulations of the Government.

The Fruit Growers Association of Ontario hold their summer meeting in Trenton this year, commencing on the 13th, in the Town Hall. The Association will discuss the cultivation of the raspberry, strawberry, apples, grapes, and all smaller fruit. Several leading fruit-growers have been appointed to read papers on fourteen different subjects on each of which discussion will be allowed. The public are invited to their sittings.

The Difference.

The Review quotes with approval the following from the London Free Press, in reference to an article in the Orillia Times, advocating a course of reprisal by Mr. Mowat on the gerrymandeaing of Sir John Macdonald. Since the Review quotes the article, it will not be unfair if the reader, in the subjoined reply from a "Young Canadian," substitutes the name of the Review for that of the Free Press. The latter journal indulges in this manner, under the title of "A Reformer on the Virtues of Corruption":

"One strong Grit organ, the Orillia Times, coolly proposes that Ontario shall be gerrymandered at the forthcoming election in the interests of the Grits. It says :—

"Mr. Mowat is not only entitled, but is bound, in the interests of his party, to so arrange the constituencies that a Reform majority in the next Legislature will be assured beyond a shadow of a doubt."

Our Reform contemporary is quite in earnest over the matter, and enforces its contention with what it doubtless considers to be solid and unimpeachable arguments. It goes on :—

"Our leaders may say that Mr. Mowat is safe in Ontario, especially while the Conservatives are in power at Ottawa, and that we should not sully our reputation by resorting to an expedient so unworthy. We have no doubt that as long as Mr. Mowat is at the head of the Ontario Government he will be sustained, but nothing should be left to chance."

That is to say, the Despotic System of the Czar should be adopted in its entirety. Government by means of a Cabinet and Legislature should be at once done away with, as it was not long ago attempted to be done with in Quabec by Letellier. Our Grit friends would desire to have everything so arranged, or, in other words, "FIXED," that the voice of the people may be forever still and disregarded. "Fixed!" that is the word. Our Reform contemporary says :—

"WE WOULD 'FIX' THE CONSTITUENCIES SO THAT A REFORM MAJORITY WOULD BE ASSURED FOREVER."

No doubt our tolerant Reform contemporary would like to see so close a monopoly of power in Grit hands that the old Family Compact would be quite thrown into the shade. And in order the more effectually to maintain the little despotism of the Little Premier, our cheerful Reform contemporary would cause a revolution in official life. The Times says :—

"We are not sure but we would kick out every Tory civil servant and office-holder in the Province."

That's the way to do it! Kick them out, and in their places put good, reliable, Grit hench-men. That Policy was announced by certain members of the Ontario Government in their campaign speeches in Toronto. The spirit of intolerence there declared was equal to anything said by our exceedingly liberal contemporary of Orillia. And it is quite in accord with the sentiment of the Little Premier himself, as announced at the City Hall in this city in 1874, when he pointedly justified the purchase of votes by the saying that 'it was needful to fight the devil with fire.' The Times, following out the principle laid down by Mowat on that occasion, declares its belief that "it does not pay to be honest in politics," and audaciously recommends a recourse to such dishonest tactics as may lie in the power of the Little Premier."

A correspondent of the London Advertiser thus cleverly answers the lame logic of the (Free Press) Review :—

TO THE EDITOR: The old adage, "It makes a difference whose ox is gored," never received a better confirmation than that supplied by the London Free Press of this morning in an article entitled "A Reformer on the Virtues of Corruption." A Reform paper published at Orillia proposes that the Tory party should be paid back in "their own coin" by having the Tory constituencies gerrymandered in the Liberal interest at the approaching election in the Province of Ontario. This suggestion furnishes the F. P. with a subject for an editorial, and this is written with the above-mentioned caption.

The grief of the F. P., occasioned by the thought "that the despotic system of the Czar should prevail in Canada," that the constituencies should be "fixed" so that the voice of the majority should be disregarded, is something pitious to behold. But why these tears? The old residents of this section of the country are well aware of the sudden changes of opinion experienced by the volatile F. P., but I opine they were unprepared to observe such a complete reversal of doctrine and creed as indicated by this article. Two months ago, yea, less than this, the leading scribe of the Free Press inculcated the precept that the "gerrymander" was a proof positive of great and noble statesmanship; that it was a wise, just, and patriotic thing for that heaven-born statesman to cut, carve and mutilate the counties of Ontario in such a disgraceful manner; but the moment that it is suggested that Mr. Mowat shall perform some statesmanship of like order to Sir John's, the versatile editor of the Free Press holds up his hands in pious horror.

The Free Press two weeks ago thought it was the correct thing to give Mr. David Mills an adverse majority of three hundred to work against. They said it was perfectly right to endeavor to gerrymander Paterson out of Brant. They proved, to their own satisfaction at least, that it was perfectly justifiable to "hive" the Grits in Middlesex, so as to make the election of D. Macmillan, Timothy Coughlin and Nat. Currie "sure." Fortunately the F. P. was disappointed at the rejection of this latter gentleman by the electors; but where is the man who would say that Duncan or Timothy would have been elected but for the action of the gerrymander? The F. P. taught all the above, and more, too, prior to the elections, and yet the minute that it is hinted that Mr. Mowat will retaliate in a slight degree, the F. P. gets on its knees, and moans pitiously for mercy and justice.

The Liberal party need no better corroboration than this, that their contentions respecting the "gerrymander" were founded on facts and that it worked them incalculable harm.

The Liberal's request for fair play (Mr. Carling's great cry) was received by the "Brute Majority" with sneers and laughter. Knowing this to be the case, they will courageously support Mr. Mowat's Redistribution Bill, and if he adopts the policy of the Free Press of two weeks ago, he will but prove that he is human, whilst on the other hand if he gives us, as we expect, a fair and impartial Bill he will strengthen our esteem for him, and his talented and patriotic Government.

Yours, etc.,
A YOUNG CANADIAN.

SMITH.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

On Monday evening a most delightful strawberry festival in aid of the Parsonage fund, was held in the Baptist church, Communication Line, Smith. Rev. Mr. Ratcliffe occupied the chair. The programme as rendered consisted of a reading by Mr. James Holmes, "Father Phil's Lecture."

Miss Charlotte Elder gave a fine reading—"Don't marry a man to save him."

Mr. T. B. Braden read a selection from Charles Reade's "Never too late to mend."

Misses Stratton and Ellsworth sang in fine style "Will ye no' come back again?"

The quartette "Rock of Ages" was excellently rendered by Misses Stratton and Ellsworth and Messrs. Holden and Morris.

Miss Annie Walton presided very effectively at the organ.

The programme was closed with a very appropriate and graceful address by Rev. Mr. Walker, pastor of the Baptist church, Peterborough.

A DELIGHTFUL ROUTE.—We have just received a letter from a gentleman who took a trip on one of the splendid boats of the Collingwood, Lake Superior Royal Mail Line of steamers, running from Collingwood to Duluth. In addition to the magnificence of the scenery along the entire route, the healthful freshness of the cool bracing breeze, he speaks in terms of extravagant praise of the splendid accommodations of the steamers as to berths and meals, as well as the uniform and assiduous efforts of the officers and crew, without exception, to treat each individual passenger as an honoured guest, and not somebody merely to make money out of. He recommends anyone who wishes to enjoy a swift, deliciously cool, comfortable journey, to take one of the staunch and speedy steamers of this line. On the steamer on which he sailed he speaks in especially complimentary terms of the captain and purser, Mr. Robert Burns, and the steward, Mr. J. J. Crawford. The advertisement of this line can be found in our columns elsewhere.

WATER WORKS.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:—

In my former communication upon this subject, I stated that the Company constituting the present Water Works were proceeding under a special Act for that purpose. And I say so still, notwithstanding the generalities contained in Mr. Hatton's letter, the intention of which is to mystify the matter.

There were two Acts passed during that session of the Legislature. One is entitled, "An Act to extend the power of Companies for supplying Cities, Towns and Villages with Gas and Water." This is what I call the Special Act. The other is entitled "And Act to provide for the construction of Water Works by Cities, Towns and Villages." This is what I call the General Act. The one allows individuals to build these works; The other allows municipalites to do so. This is why I call the one a special and the other a general Act. But whether special or general, the effect of each Act is precisely as I stated it in my former communication. I stated that, under the Act first above referred to, the cost of obtaining water by the corporation, must be paid out of the general taxes of the town. It is true that individuals may privately contract with the Company for the use of the water, and pay for it as individuals, but if the Council contracts for the water, the cost must come out of the general taxes of the town.

Read section thirteen of the first named, or special Act:—"Every Municipal "Council shall have power to contract "with any water works or water com- "pany, for a supply of water within the "muncipality for fire purposes and other "public uses, from hydrants or other- "wise, as may be deemed advisable, and "for the renting of any such hydrants "for any number of years, not, in the "first instance, exceeding two, and for "resuming such contract from time to for "such period, not exceeding ten years, "as said Council may desire, and every "such Council shall also have power to "purchase hydrants necessary for any of "the purposes or uses aforesaid, and also "to erect the same."

What does this mean? This Act nowhere gives power to the Council to tax the locality receiving the water, but the tax must be a general tax apon the whole town. Mr. Hatton will not deny this, I am sure. Well, this is just what I said in my former letter, and I say so now, and I defy anyone to contradict me. I say again, if this Council contracts with this company for the use of their water, every ratepayer in the town has got to help to pay for it. The other matters referred to by Mr. Hatton, such as the cost of the works, and the right of the town, ten years hence, to buy out these works, and all that sort of thing, have nothing whatever to do with the position taken by me, that, if the Council agrees to take any of this water, the whole taxable property of the town has got to pay for it.

Now then, read section forty-six of the Act, secondly above referred to, and which I call the general Act:—

"When water works, for the benefit of "a portion only of the municipality, are "desired by the owners of any real pro- "perty, in any city, town or incorporat- "ed village, the council, on petition of "the owners of the real property to be "served, may pass by-laws for the con- "struction, and for imposing and levy- "ing upon such real property a special "rate, sufficient to include a sinking "fund for the repayment of the deben- "tures, which such Council is hereby "authorized to issue, on the security of "such rate (that is, the special rate upon the real property benefitted by the water) "to provide funds for the con- "struction of such water works, and "shall pass by-laws for so assessing and "levying the same, by an annual rate in "the dollar on the said real property, "according to the frontage thereof, or "according to the value thereof, exclu- "sive of improvements, as may be desir- "ed by the petitioners."

And sub-section four of this section allows of the extension of such works to other localities, when asked for, and to be paid for by such locality.

It will thus be seen that, if the Council contracts to take water from this company, it must be paid for by a general tax upon the whole town, and that under the general Act, any locality of the town may have the works, but the locality alone must pay for them. It is all very well for Mr. Hatton to plead in favor of the present company, because he is a stockholder in that company, but I am not a stockholder. I am simply a ratepayer, and as such I object to being taxed to put money into the pockets of the members of this company. And I think that every ratepayer will do the same. I am acting in the interests of the general ratepayers; their interests and my interests are the same. We object to be taxed for what we do not get and have not asked for. This company came to the Council and simply asked permission to lay down their pipes under the streets of the town, asking nothing more, trusting, as they said, to the custom and patronage of such only as were willing to take their water and pay for it, fixing a maximum charge for their water, when used. Of course, every person of common sense knew that these works would not be built and maintained in that way, and they knew that very little time would pass before the company would change front, and would make a demand upon the Council. This they have now done, but the Council will not dare to grant their request, and throw upon the ratepayers the cost of works which they never asked for, and which they do not want. Allowing the completion of these works and the placing of hydrants along the centre of the town, this would not relieve the ratepayers of the expense of keeping up the present engine and fire department, because they could not be dispensed with, and if the Council were foolish and reckless enough to come to the help of the company, and tax the people several thousand dollars for their benefit, the ratepayers, in addition to all this outlay, would still have to keep up the present annual cost of the engine and fire department. All the Council have to do now is to tell the company that they have got all they asked for, and to be content with that, for they will get nothing more. In fact, all the Council have now to do is to let well enough alone. To leave the company to manage their own business, and for the Council to do the same. There is no harm done to the town yet, and let things now just remain as they are.

I see the company have applied to the Council to extend the works to other streets, and they have got up a petition to that effect from a few persons, the most of whom, I understand, are not freeholders, but simply tenants, and two of whom, at least, are stockholders in the company. The object of this application is easily seen through. The company want, in some way, to get the Council committed and the town drawn into liability for these works, but the Council and the people must be careful to keep clear of the whole matter, leaving the company just where they now are, and just where they asked to be placed when they first applied for and obtained the present by-law. That by-law must not be touched or interfered with. If the Council do the fair thing towards extending the water pipes to other streets, or in any other way to meddle in the affairs of the company, they will have violated their duty to the people, and the whole town will have to suffer in consequence. Leave things as they are now, and then the ratepayers will not be injured and they will not complain.

Mr. Hatton appears to be laboring under a great mistake when he says the gas lamps and other improvements are paid for by a special tax in each locality, when he ought to know that this is not so, and that the cost is raised by a general assessment upon the whole town. And he, unwittingly, tells the truth when he says that the cost of the use of the water from the water works will be paid for just as the cost of the gas lamps is paid—that is, out of the pockets of the whole town.

RATEPAYER.

NORWOOD.

MAGISTRATES' COURT.

On Friday evening last, Thomas Newall of Asphodel, having been alarmingly overcome by a rather too deep indulgence in the "flowing bowl," and the spirits arising hot within him, undertook to run the Macgregor House here for a short space of time; but after breaking sundry panes of glass, and committing other slight depredations, Mac. brought him to his senses by a few heavy admonitions that showed "mine host" was quite capable of taking care of his own business. Newall was pitched out in an instant, and then placed in the merciful hands of a Constable who gave him free quarters for the night in our lock-up. On Saturday morning the prisoner was brought before Reeve Pearce and pleaded guilty to the several counts brought against him, among them being the demolishing of the windows of his cell. However, he added to the finances of the village to the tune of $35, an amount that will make his late spree rather an expensive one.

LAWN SOCIAL.

One of these pleasant socials was held here on Friday evening last, under the auspices of of the Presbyterian church of this village. There were about a couple of hundred people present, who very agreeably enjoyed themselves for a couple of hours by playing croquet and other interesting games, as well as by the partaking of ice-cream, strawberries, &c. The Norwood Cornet Band was present during the evening, and added considerably to the pleasures of the occasion by the rendition of an excellent programme of music under the leadership of the bandmaster, Mr. W. H. Mullins. The proceeds amounted to about $40.

OTTAWA AND QUEBEC RAILWAY.

Quite a number of railway magnates have been in Norwood for the past few days, and Mr. S. Bray, one of the Divisional staff of this road, has taken up his residence permanently here. Several members of the locating staff are also here, and have taken offices in Mr. Roxburgh's brick building, which has been prepared specially for this work. Mr. Bray started on Tuesday morning to take the line surveyed for the contractors who have taken the sections let between Blairton and Norwood. Mr. Ryan, one of the contractors, has also passed through here, and will commence work as soon as he can. Other sections west of Norwood have also been let, and work probably will commence on these forthwith. As Norwood is centrally situated between Ottawa and Toronto on the Ontario and Quebec Railway, it is probable our village will become a station of some importance.

RESIGNED.

Our Public School has suffered a severe loss by the resignation of Mr. Dutton, who for several years has been its headmaster. Under his charge the school has reached a high state of efficiency, and, as far as I can learn, has given the utmost satisfaction to the pupils and public generally. As a citizen too he was highly respected, and his departure has caused a feeling of regret throughout the community. The School Board will probably have some difficulty in finding a teacher to take the place of Mr. Dutton.

A QUINTETTE OF KISSES

Ministerially Administered.

Rev. Mr. Willoughby, a former Peterborough Pastor, charged with Kissing the Bride-Elect of another former Peterborough Pastor, and with Falsehood in denying the Osculatory Impeachment — The Accused Denies the Charge

The person who most needs a cloak for his impiety is most anxious to believe the accusations against those who act as teachers of men. For this reason the charges now pending against a clergyman of Brampton will be seized upon by the ungodly, even before they are proven, as an excuse for evil doing. Rev. N. R. Willoughby, pastor of the Canada Methodist Church, of Brampton, and formerly of Peterborough, is charged with conduct unbecoming a man, and particularly offensive in one who should afford an example to the world. The reverend gentleman is charged with having kissed one of the ladies of his congregation against her will and with being guilty of falsehood in denying that he had done so.

THE WORLD'S OPINION.

There is little doubt that the great heart of the world beats in strong sympathy with those who kiss; but notwithstanding this, notwithstanding that Shelley and other poets have so beautifully called attention to the universality of the kiss in nature, there are circumstances under which osculation is held to be inexpedient and even wrong. Instances of this could be multiplied, but they will readily occur to all. Among them, first in offensiveness, may be ranked the kiss of which Rev. Mr. Willoughby is the alleged perpetrator.

SESSION OF THE COURT.

The charge is now forming the subject of a formal trial acording to the rules of the Church by a Committee of the Conference, of which Rev. Dr. Sutherland of Toronto, President of the Conference, is Chairman. The Court sits with closed doors, even witnesses being excluded when not giving evidence. Besides the members of the Committee, the only persons in constant attendance are the accused and Mr. George Graham, County Treasurer, who brings forward the charge. This gentleman's daughter it is who claims to have been insulted by Rev. Mr. Willoughby. She has, within the last few days, become the bride of Rev. J. E. Starr, a rising young preacher of Winnipeg. The prosecution has presented its case, except the evidence to be given in rebuttal. The case for the defence has a formidable look, for it is said about fifty witnesses will be called. When the Court rose Mr. Willoughby was making his statement.

THE PARTIES RETICENT.

When asked to furnish a reporter with his version of the affair, Mr. Willoughby represented that he could say nothing at present, for fear of bringing himself under the discipline of the Church. He gave a flat denial of the charges, however, and said that when the trial was over he believed he would stand as high in the estimation of the public as before. Mr. Graham was called upon, and he also declined to speak, and with the exception of a few short statements, the members of his family did the same. Mr. Graham stated that he had the evidence, but at present, lest it might damage his case, he declined to say anything. Sources of direct information being closed, it will be readily understood that to state the real facts of the case involves a tedious progress through a maze of contradictory charges, hints, and rumours, heard on all sides. For of course the affair has not gone thus far without creating in the town. A statement of the fact also involves getting to the bottom of that well-nigh bottomless affair—a church quarrel. In a case involving the standing of a minister of the Gospel, and per contra, that of a lady, too great care cannot be exercised in a public presentation of the case, and it is with a full sense of the responsibility involved in the task that a statement is made.

"ONCE UPON A TIME"

Rev. N. R. Willoughby was for several years pastor of the Bloor-street Methodist Church, Yorkville. In 1880 he was President of the Toronto Conference. In that year he was assigned to Brampton station, much to the satisfaction of a majority of the congregation. Among his strongest friends was Mr. Graham. When he arrived in Brampton to take charge, the parsonage was being repaired, and the new minister was therefore invited to remainn at Mr. Graham's home until his own house was ready for his reception. Mr. and Mrs. Graham went off on a trip about that time, leaving their guest in the care of the other members of family, among whom was Miss Georgie Graham, their daughter, the young lady before alluded to.

STATEMENT FOR THE PROSECUTION.

Though access to the only infallible source of information was denied, the substance of the case against Mr. Willoughby was obtained from outside sources. The young lady, it is understood, claims that on Sunday evening about ten days after Mr. Willoughby first came to her father's house, while she was going through the hall, he came out of of the parlour, and catching hold of her suddenly, kissed her. She rebuked him, and said that she would tell Mr. Starr, then her affianced, who was at the time preaching in Peterborough. He said she would not do that, for being president of the Conference he could do Starr a good deal of injury. Within a day or two Mr Starr came to Brampton, stopping at Mr. Graham's place. One evening as the three were about bidding one another good night Mr. Willoughby advanced to Miss Graham who was seated on the sofa, and taking her face between his hands kissed her. It is stated that Starr, who at the moment returned from the varandah where he had been closing the French windows, saw this salute, and in the morning warmly cautioned Mr. Willoughby against a repetition of such liberties. On three other occasions it is said, the new minister tried to kiss her, and that the last time he was by her shown the door. She said nothing about the matter until about three months ago, when she confided it to a friend who, however, insisted upon letting Mr. Graham know, and thus the charges came to be made.

SYMPATHIZING PEOPLE.

As in every case of this kind the minister has many friends. There is but little doubt but that the sympathy of a majority of his people is with their pastor, many of whom beleive that in this case he has not been fairly treated. Mr. Willoughby's friends make no secret of their belief that the whole affair has been arranged to give effect to the spite of a clique in the church against the pastor. At the time it was decided to ask for Mr. Willoughby's appointment to Brampton there was a strong effort made to secure another gentleman, and this effort proving unsuccessful, the defeated party, has never been willing to work harmoniously with the rest of the congregation under his ministry. As there were no witnesses present on any but one of the occasions referred to in the evidence for the prosecution, Mr. Willoughby is practically called upon to prove a negative—an impossibility, according to the jurists.

MR. WILLOUGHBY'S CASE.

His friends seem to rest their faith on several incidents which seem to them to prove that the prosecutors themselves do not believe their own case. It it stated that Mr. Willoughby received a letter from Mr. Graham, while yet the affair was in its infancy, that if he would leave at the end of the then currant year the cherges would not be pressed. Again, the Conference mat the charges were not handed in, it is claimed, untill a suggestion was made to the accused that he should not ask to be returned to Brampton, in which case no further action would be taken. He stontly declared his intention, however, of facing his opponents, and of fighting the case through to the end. It is said also that evidence will be propuced to show that Mr. Star was on the most familiar terms with the pastor even after the alleged offence was committed; but on the other hand it is claimed that an ample apology was offerep ank accepted before their friendship was resumed.

ADJOURNMENT.

The case was adjourned until Tuesday, in order to give the ministers who form the Comwitte an opportuity to fiill their pulpits.

Farmers, before buying your reaper and mower oil, ask for and procure a sample of "Kaiser" Machine Oil. It is warranted not to gum, and guaranteed to give satisfaction. 5-38t

The Campaign.

GENTLEMEN:—

The political issues of the campaign are with us. Let us cherish them—they are about the best we are likely to see for some time.

It is reasonable to expect that for the next three weeks, votes will be an article of commerical value—that is, we so anticipate.

A voter in a new suit of clothes is a more estimable constituent than a voter in an old suit; though of course a voter in an old suit is preferable to no voter at all—at least so we're told.

It will be an extremely proper thing that the candidate who gets the most votes will get elected. Still the exception to this general rule has occurred.

It will be an additionally gratifying circumstance to find that the successful man has been elected by men wearing DOLAN'S Stylish Suits.

Hence it is the manifest duty of all, without regard to previous condition of political servitude, to repair to DOLAN & CO'S, and clothe themselves as befits the "free and independent."

ERRORS OF YOUTH

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence,

JOHN B. OGDEN,
9-1yr 42 Cedar St., New York.

STARTLING DISCOVERY!

LOST MANHOOD RESTORED.

A victim of youthful imprudence causing Premature Decay, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple self cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers, address J. H. REEVES, 43 Chrisham St., N. Y.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Cows for a Creamery.

We are often asked how many cows it would require to make a creamery pay. The answer must depend a good deal upon circumstances. From 100 to 150 would ordinarily do to begin with, where there is a prospect for increasing, 100 being considered a pretty small number. But where the cows are close together, so as to require but little time to deliver the milk, a still smaller number might be made to pay better than to work their milk in separate families. From 200 to 500 economize labor to the best advantage.

Railway Gardening.

If our railway companies would employ a gardener or two, they might employ their thousands of acres of waste land for crops, grass, fruit trees, planting the slopes of excavations and embankments to prevent washing and slipping, grow quick fences, and where practicable fruit and timber trees. The garden at the stations are largely devoted to fruit, and so made useful and ornamental at once. A profit of about 14s an acre has, it is said, been made for the past five years on the ground so utilised. Why should it not be done in Canada?

Fast Walking Contests.

The leading agricultural societies of the country could not do a better thing for the horse-breeding interest of the Dominion than to offer large prizes for fast walking horses. Every experienced horseman knows that the walk is the most valuable of all gaits for a business horse, whether on the farm or on the road; and yet no other gait is so neglected. We have our masters in the trainer's art for trotting, pacing and running; we have our carefully-kept and often-published records of performances at these gaits; but the most practical, the most valuable of all—the walking gait—is ignored. The agricultural societies of our country can, if they choose, easily bring about a revolution in this respect, and we hope to see them move in it. Let walking matches be made a prominent feature at all the leading fairs this season. Let us have the records of all creditable performances kept and published as carefully as are the pacing, trotting and running records.

Handling Newly-Drawn Milk.

The treatment milk should receive immediately after being drawn from the udder may differ according to the purposes for which it is to be used, whether for butter, or cheese, or market. But the practices and opinions of dairymen in regard to what constitutes the proper treatment of new milk for these several purposes are very diverse.

If it is to be used for butter making, as it is in nineteen cases out of twenty, the less it is handled the better; and it may, or may not, require airing, according as it is to be treated afterwards for the cream to rise. If it is to be placed in a milk-room that is kept at an even temperature of about 60 degrees, and ventilated so that the air will keep pure, no airing or stirring or other cooling need be done than to set in appropriate vessels in such a room. This is the very best treatment it can receive, and gives the least trouble as well as the best result. But very few private dairies have such a room, though it is not very difficult to build such a one, or to regulate its temperature by which cold air can be admitted or withheld if desired.

If the milk room cannot be kept as low as 65 degrees, then the milk had better be cooled by the use of cold water before it is set away, and the lower it is reduced the better, for otherwise it will sour before the cream rises, and thus do more hurt than the retention of the odor. In such a case it ought to be aired before or while cooling.

To subject milk to the changes of our climate while the cream is rising, or the butter, after it is made, is to spoil its peculiar qualities which constitute it a delicious luxury that will command a high price, and to reduce it to the level of common or inferior goods, which, instead of being sought after, must crowd its way to the hands of the consumer. It will pay every farmer who keeps half a dozen cows to build a milk-room that will be proof against the changes of the weather, one from which he can shut out the heat, and that he can warm up with a fire when too cold.

General Farm Notes.

The Prairie Farmer, after giving the figures of the most recent demonstration of the dying Short-horn mania, remarks, in reference to the animals which the gamble was most exciting: "For the purpose of the general farmer, however, plainer bred stock is equally as good, if not better."

The current records of immense butter production of certain Jersey cows brings to mind the brief but expressive exchange between a listener and a person who had just told you an astonishing story of an alleged fact: "Would you have believed that if you hadn't seen it?" "No." "Well, I never saw it."

Colonel Scott, writing in the Iowa Homestead of "fancy cattle," speaks of the purchase some thirty years ago of a Shorthorn bull at a public sale in Kentucky for $6,000, which "proved to be quite useless for stock purposes and was nearly a total loss to his owners"—unless they got their money back in advertising, since the affair created quite a sensation at the time.

General and large use of the "sugar meal" refuse of glucose works as "cheap and nasty" food for the cows of that region, has been found upon investigation to be the cause of the exceptionally poor quality of the Chicago milk supply.

The fly nuisance in stables is said to be greatly abated by sprinkling kerosene over the floor through a hole in the cork of a bottle. A pint is sufficient for a week's use in an ordinary sized stable.

Secretary H. M. Jenkins, of the Royal Agricultural Society, England, referring to two samples of colored American cheese both from skim-milk and lard or oleomargarine, ventures to make the seemingly fair suggestion that "steps should be taken to insure that such goods are sold in England under their true name."

Mr. J. B. Olcott remarks that the same argument that defends oleomargarine "because it keeps the price of butter within reasonable limits," "would allow anything, even money, to be counterfeited so as to make its acquisition easy."

At a horticultural meeting in Manhattan, Kan., the other day, Mr. Marlatt, after stating that his five acre orchard had yielded in the past eight years $2,500, besides fruit for family use, made the suggestive remark that his profits would have been greatly increased "if he had planted the right kind of trees."

A prize of $5 will be given by the Farmer's Advocate, London, for the best essay on "The most suitable and economical feeding and best cooking for harvest hands, with bill of fare for one week." This essay must be the actual experience of the writer, who must be wife, daughter or other female assistant upon a farm.

Household Hints.

SMOOTH SAD IRONS.—To have your sad irons clean and smooth rub them first with a piece of wax tied in a cloth, and afterwards scour them on a paper or thick cloth strewn with coarse salt.

MOTHS IN CARPETS.—Persons troubled with carpet moths may get rid of them by scouring the floor with strong hot salt and water before laying the carpet, and sprinkling the carpet with salt once a week before sweeping.

RHUBARB FOR SUMMER COMPLAINTS.—Rhubarb is said to be the best medicine in derangement of the stomach and bowels as Summer complaint, cholera infantum, cholera morbus and such like. Every family ought to keep this harmless and effective drug on hand, particularly where there are children. Put in a teacup one teaspoonful of powdered rhubarb, a little bicarbonate of soda (saleratus), a few drops of essence of peppermint and sugar enough to sweeten. Pour the cup nearly full of boiling water. Let it settle and get cool, then give a teaspoonful of the clear liquid every hour or oftener, and more if necessary. Rhubarb is a purgative, yet given in often-repeated, small doses it checks looseness of the bowels effectually and leaves them in a better and healthier state than any other remedy.

TO KEEP SPICES.—Spices should be kept in small jars with glass stoppers, or in tin boxes with close fitting lids. Always use the whole spices for pickles or spiced fruits, for the reason that they are much stronger than those that are ground, and they are not so apt to make the pickles dark. In grating nutmeg it sometimes happens that the nut is hollow throughout and apparently defective, and everyone does not know that this apparent defect is due entirely to the way it is grated. Begin to grate the nut at the blossom end and you will find it solid through to the stem, whereas the contrary will be observed if you start it at the stem end. Mace is a very strong and bitter spice, and should be used very sparingly.

Hay Fever.

Only the wealthy can afford to have what is known as the "hay fever." Poor people call it catarrh and and are treated with douches, inhalations of carbolic acid and tannin and snuffs. The wealthy are ordered out of town to the mountains and general enjoyment, and clergymen are nearly always furnished by their congregations with the means to pay for this pleasant mode of treatment. "Hay fever" is probably summer catarrh, and is just as common to the poor as to the rich and holy. The vulgar man wrestles with and overcomes it in the city. Why could not the "laborers in the vineyard" do the same without deserting their vines?

CULTIVATE A SWEET VOICE.

There is no power of love so hard to get and keep as a kind voice. A kind hand is deaf and dumb. It may be rough in flesh and blood, yet do the work of a soft heart, and do it with a soft touch. But there is no one thing that love so much needs as a sweet voice to tell what it means and feels, and it is hard to get it and keep it in the right tone. One must start in youth, and be on the watch night and day, at work and play, to get and keep a voice that shall speak at all times the thought of a kind heart. But this is the time when a sharp voice is more apt to be got. You often hear boys and girls say words at play with a quick sharp tone, as if it were the snap of a whip. When one of them gets vexed you will hear a voice that sounds as if it were made up of a snarl, a whine and a bark. Such a voice often speaks worse than the heart feels. It shows more ill-will in the tone than in the words. It is often in mirth that one gets a voice that is sharp, and sticks to him through life, and stirs up ill-will and grief, and falls like a drop of gall on the sweet joys at home. Such as these get a sharp home voice for use, and keep their best voice for those they meet elsewhere, just as they would keep their best cakes and pies for guests, and all their sour food for their own board. I would say to all boys and girls, "Use your guests' voice at home." Watch it day by day, as a pearl of great price, for it will be worth more to you in the days to come than the best pearl hid in the sea. A kind voice is a lark's song to a hearth and home. It is to the heart what light is to the eye.

COSTLY FANS.

A collection of fans made by an English gentleman was sold at auction in London a short time ago. Eight guineas per fan was the ordinary price. One went for £77. A very beautiful one, colored and illuminated with gold, the picture representing the departure of Ulysses for Troy, fetched £22. A fan decorated with Parisian sketches was thought worth £36 10s.; but the great incident of the sale was the disposal of the bridal fan of Marie Seczynska, Queen of Louis XV., painted on skin by Boucher. A lovely landscape is made the scene of the rites of Hymen. The god of marriage is presiding over his altar, to which have come the king and queen, accompanied by lovely girls painted as French painters used to paint the shepherdesses of their age. This fan was bid off at £75.

KISSES.

To steal a kiss, that's fair.
To buy a kiss, that's stupidity.
Two girls kissing, that's waste.
To kiss not at all, that's bad taste.
To kiss another man, that's nasty.
To kiss your sister, that's necessity.
To kiss your wife, that's correct.
To get caught kissing, that's dreadful.
To kiss the baby, that's unsatisfactory.
To kiss an ugly woman, that's courage.
To kiss the chambermaid, that's dangerous.
To kiss your mother, that's the purest kiss of all.
To kiss the girl you're engaged to, that's expected.
To kiss a rich old maiden aunt, that's hypocrisy.
To kiss a blooming girl, that's peaches and cream.

Flies and Bugs

Flies, roaches, ants, bed-bugs, rats, mice, gophers, chipmunks, cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

"Too much absorbed in his business" was the comment of a Western newspaper on the death of a brewer who was found drowned in a tank of his own beer.

BEWARE OF THEM.—A good article that has achieved success, and attained a world-wide reputation by its true merits and wonderful results, is always imitated. Such is the case with Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Already unprincipled parties are endeavouring to delude an unsuspecting public, by offering imitations of this most fortunate discovery. Do not be deceived, but insist on having the true remedy, and take no other. Trial bottles free at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store. Large size, $1.

APPEARANCE OF ARSENIC EATERS.

"Whenever you clap your eyes on a woman as plump as a partridge, with a milky whiteness of complexion, puffy eyelids and swollen skin, you've found a victim of the habit," said a physician to a reporter, in alluding to the growing use of arsenic among ladies. "If there is a delicate tinge of red on the cheeks, don't be deceived. Paint, not nature, is responsible for the bloom, made hideous and ghastly by contrast with the corpsy whiteness of the rest of the face. The arsenic eater is seldom downcast or despondent, come what may, for the drug not only affects the skin, but produces mental exhilaration. The plumpness produced by arsenic is not natural plumpness, but rather a dropsical condition of the skin. Cessation of the habit causes this water distended skin to collapse, and wrinkles and sallowness are the inevitable result. Of course, no woman is willing to submit to this ordeal when it may be prevented by the mere sacrifice of health and intellect, by a contemplation of the use of the drug. The inevitable results of the arsenic habit are hideous and incurable cutaneous eruptions and loathsome diseases of the scalp, falling out of the hair, dropsy, and oftentimes insanity. But what cares the footlight favorite or the society belle for those trifling after inconveniences so long as they can borrow illusive charms and fictitious beauty by the use of a deadly drug.

A PROLIFIC SOURCE OF DISEASE.—A trifling indiscretion in diet may lay the foundation of confirmed dyspepsia, and there is no fact in medical science more positively ascertained of more authoritatively asserted than that dyspepsia is the parent of a host of bodily ills, not the least of which is contamination of the blood and the maladies of which that is the direct consequence. Their original cause is, however, thoroughly eradicated from the system by Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, a medicine which only requires regularity and persistence in its use to cure dyspepsia and the many ills that arise from it. No deleterious mineral ingredient is contained in it, and though its action is through in cases of costiveness, it never produces griping pains in the abdominal region, or weakens the bowls like a violent purgative. It invigorates the system thorough the medium of the increased digestive and assimilative activity which it promotes, and is also a most efficient remedy for kidney complaints, scorfulous and all diseases of the blood, female weakness. &c., &c. Price $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a facsimile of their signature. Sold by by all medicine dealers.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING.—One quart milk, fourteen even tablespoonsfull of grated bread crumbs, twelve table spoonsful grated chocolate, six eggs, one tablespoonful of vanilla, sugar to make very sweet; separate the yolks and whites of four eggs, beat up the four yolks and two whole eggs together very light, with the sugar; put the milk on the range, and when it comes to a perfect boil pour it over the bread and chocolate.

There is no more wholesome or delicious fruit on earth than the Wild Strawberry, and there is no more effectual remedy for Cholera, Dysentery, Cramps and other summer complaints of infants or adults, than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. 28-2t

We Contracted to insert Mack's Magnetic Medicine, because we were assured that the firm was composed of reliable and honorable gentlemen, and also because it was recommended as being all and more than the advertisement claimed. We are informed by druggists that it is the best selling article they have, and that it gives satisfaction to their customers. See advertisement in another column. 28-2t.

An Important Omission.

Sir L. Tilley in his return in reference to tall chimneys omitted to mention a very important industry, and one which has not only given employment to many hands, but has, through the influence of the N. P., relieved thousands from physical suffering. We refer to that great remedy for corns, PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR. Sure, safe, and painless. Sir Leonard may exclaim, "Canada for Canadians," but we most emphatically exclaim, "Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor for corns." Sold everywhere.

Not One of Our Peculiarities.

So-called respectable people would hesitate considerably before pilfering your pockets in a crowded thoroughfare. That would be too too. The same discrimination is not indicated by the so-called respectable druggist when that wonderful corn cure, PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR, is asked for. He will pilfer your pockets in the most genteel manner by substituting cheap and dangerous substitutes for the genuine Putnam's Corn Extractor. Watch for these gentlemen, and take none other than Putnam's Corn Extractor. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family, handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth. If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y.

FOR YOUNG HEARTS ONLY.

Oft in the Winter of our lives
We mourn the Spring's departed hours,
And think what joy 'twould be if Age
As well as Youth could find her flowers;
But much I doubt were Spring to give
Some of her blossoms to December,
Their they would seem as fair and sweet
As those we lovingly remember.

For violets blue and daisies white
In frost and cold would surely shiver,
And purple iris flags soon droop
If waving o'er a frozen river;
And so 'tis better as it is—
For young hearts only are Spring's pleasures;
We old ones, faith must be content
To know that once we shared her treasures.

JOSEY'S FIVE DOLLARS.

Mr. Andrews had travelled over two of the five dusty miles between his place and the next town, when a sudden thought caused him to pull up his reins, and the next moment to turn square around and travel back home.

"Why, father, what is the matter?" asked his wife in some alarm.

"Nothing, Cynthy, only I forgot to leave five dollars with you for that boy when he calls. He is to come to-day, and he has honestly earned his money in that wood lot, and I would not like to disappoint him. I dare say he has ways enough to use it," and he handed over a crisp bill to his wife, who still could not help thinking that another time would have done as well, and he need not have put himself to that extra trouble on such a hot day.

But she did not know the high hopes and anticipations with which Josey Dean was even then plodding bare-footed through the clover to receive that five dollars. She did not imagine how large a sum it was to him, nor how keen would have been the disappointment if told to "come again."

But there he stood at length at the back porch door, smiling and heated, but with a half fear in his heart that Mr. Andrews was not at home. He had peered in at the barn door and saw that the carriage and old white-foot were gone.

"Come right in Josey," said Mrs Andrews, smiling as she looked at his doubtful face. "Father left your money for you," and she handed out the precious bill, glad enough now that her husband had come back with it, as she saw how the face lighted up.

"Sit right down on the step, and get cool," she said, as with motherly instinct she bustled about in the pantry a moment, and presently came out with a great goblet of currant mead water, a couple of sandwiches and a large slice of cake.

"Thank you," said Josey, with sparkling eyes as he looked at the rare treat. His long walk had given him a still keener relish for the good things. Indeed a bowl of buttermilk and a piece of unbuttered bread would not have been despised. He had often thought himself well off when he had them both together.

He was making good time on his homeward way, with a paper bag filled with cookies to take to his little sister, and he well knew how her eyes would sparkle when she saw him coming. It was not the first time. Mrs. Andrews had a practical way of remembering 'the widow and the fatherless,' and it was an excellent Bible way.

Josey stopped once in the pasture lot under a great wild cherry tree, and took out the bill to feast his eye upon it. There was nothing of the miser about Joseph. It was the great possibilities wrapped up in that bit of green paper, that was the joy to him. And he had earned it. That was the invisible wealth about it. And he 'could earn another,' was the determination that braced his shoulders, as he put the money carefully away in his wallet and walked on a little quicker to make up for lost time. How different his walk home from what it would have been if Mr. Andrews had not had the after-thought and acted upon it.

"Josey's coming, mother," said little Susy from her look-out by the lilac bush. "He's got something. I'm going to meet him."

They were a happy laughing pair a minute later as they came up the steps together, Susy carrying the cookies.

Joe had thought it a pretty heavy bag of cookies before he reached home, though he did not mind that. The mystery came to light when they poured out the contents in a pan, and found out the various other stores the good housewife had so kindly stored away, not forgetting a package of chipped beef and another of fragrant tea, such as the poor widow did not often taste.

"Now get your slate, Josey boy," said the happy little mother, "and we will go over again the things we can get with this money."

It had been done before, but there was a new zest about it, now with the money in hand. They were 'passing rich,' with that stock to trade with, and not a debt in the world. When you come to deal out so much in small parcels there is 'a great deal of good in it,' that one never realises who hands over the sum for a bit of lace no heavier than itself.

Prompt payment is a blessing beyond computation to the working poor, and it is most cruel and heartless to tell them to come again and again, when you have the money by you. With the money in hand its capacity to do good is largely increased as we all know who have family stores to buy. There is some very plain talk in the Gospel of James, upon this subject of laborer's wages, which it is good to read over now and then when we are likely to grow forgetful.

A Wise Precaution.—During the Summer and Fall people are liable to sudden attacks of bowel complaint, and with no prompt remedy or medical aid at hand, life may be in danger. Those whose experience has given them wisdom, always keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry at hand for prompt relief, and a physician is seldom required. 28-2t

THE MOONLIGHT SONATA.

A very pretty story is told of the circumstances under which Beethoven produced the beautiful piece of music known as "The Moonlight Sonata." The great composer playing a humble cottage one evening, heard some one playing his Symphony in F on the piano. He stopped to listen. When the last chord was struck he heard a voice say, "What would I not give to hear that piece played by some one who could do it justice?" Beethoven then pushed open the door and entered. The story proceeds:—

"Pardon me," said the musician, somewhat embarrassed; "pardon me, but I heard music, and was tempted to enter. I am a musician!"

The girl blushed, and the young man assumed a grave, almost severe manner.

"I heard also some of your words," continued Beethoven. "You wished to hear, that is, you would like—in short, would you like me to play to you?"

There was something so strange, so comical in the whole affair, and something so agreeable and eccentric in Beethoven's manner, that we all involuntarily smiled.

"Thank you," said the young shoemaker; "but our piano is bad, and then we have no music."

"No music," repeated Beethoven; "how then did Mademoiselle——. He stopped and colored; for the young girl had just turned towards him, and by her sad, veiled eyes he saw that she was blind.

"I entreat you to pardon me!" stammered he; but I did not remark at first. You played then, from memory?"

"Entirely!"

"And where have you heard this music before?"

"Never, excepting the music in the street."

She seemed frightened; so Beethoven did not add another word, but seated himself at the instrument and began to play.

He had not touched many notes when I guessed what would follow, and how sublime he would be that evening; I was not deceived. Never during the many years I knew him did I hear him play as on this day for the young blind girl and her brother on that old dilapidated piano. * * * At last the shoemaker rose, approached him, and said in a low voice, "Wonderful man, who are you, then?"

Beethoven raised his head, as if he had not comprehended. The young man repeated the question. The composer smiled as only he could smile.

"Listen," said he; and he played the first movement in the F Symphony. A cry of joy escaped from the lips of the brother and sister. They recognized the player, and cried, "You are, then, Beethoven!"

He rose to go, but they detained him. "Play to us once more, just once more," they said.

He allowed himself to be led back to the instrument. The brilliant rays of the moon entered the curtainless window, and lighted up the broad, earnest and expressive forehead.

"I am going to improvise a sonata to the moonlight," he said, playfully. He contemplated for some moments the sky sprinkled with stars, then his fingers rested on the piano, and he began to play in a low, sad, but wondrously sweet strain. The harmony issued from the instrument sweet and even, as the rays of the moon spread over the shadows on the ground.

ANXIOUS TO BE NEIGHBORLY.

He was a small boy with dirt on his nose and a faded straw hat on his head, and feet long unwashed. He walked boldly up the steps, pulled the bell, and when the lady came to the door he said:

"Say, can you lend ma your telephone for a few minutes?"

"Why, I can't," she gasped out.

"We'll bring it back in half an hour."

"But I can't lend it, child. You don't seem to know what a telephone is. Who are you?"

"We live around the corner just moved in, and we want to be neighborly. Intended to borrow your wheelbarrow and shovel, but your boy wouldn't lend 'em, and our hired girl has been over to borrow tea and sugar and couldn't get away. We kinder thought we might borrow your telephone or something, and ma would bring it back and get a chance to see your style and ask you to run right in with your old clothes on!"

"TAKE THAT."

The following anecdote has been associated with the name of a well-known clergyman's helpmate in the north of England: The minister had been entertaining at dinner a clerical friend from some distance. The evening was unpropitious and the friend was invited by the minister to remain during the night, and he accepted the invitation. They walked together for some time in the back garden. At dusk the minister asked his visitor to step into the house, while he would give directions to his man servant to get his friend's conveyance ready in the morning. As the stranger entered the house the minister's wife mistook him for her husband in the twilight. She raised the pulpit bible, which chanced to be on the lobby table, and bringing the full weight of it across the stranger's shoulders, exclaimed emphatically:—"Take that for asking that ugly wretch to stay all night."

ON THE WATER AS WELL AS ON THE LAND.

How is it possible to prevent a good thing from being known, is the question now agitating some few individuals in the Dominion. Therefore larger numbers although not sufferers from rheumatic troubles, are of the opinion of Capt. Barry of Kingston, owner of several lake vessels, and himself sailing master of one, who says: "I, too, have been cured of the rheumatism by St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy; and I know of several others beside myself who have been cured of that dreadful ailment in the same manner; it is known upon the water just as well as on the land, and is considered an invaluable remedy everywhere.

Jacob H. Bloomer, of Virgil, N. Y., writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured a badly swelled neck and sore throat on my son in forty-eight hours; one application also removed the pain from a sore toe; my wife's foot was also much inflamed—so much so that she could not walk about the house; she applied the Oil, and in twenty-four hours was entirely cured."

It is nobler to give a worthy object a penny than it is to lay a ten-dollar wreath on a rich man's coffin. And what is more, it is cheaper.

A. D. Noyes, Newark, Michigan, writes: "I have enquired at the drug store for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, but have failed to find it. We brought a bottle with us from Quebec, but it is nearly gone and we do not want to be without it, as my wife is troubled with a pain in the shoulder, and nothing else gives relief. Can you send us some?"

"Isn't this shirred bonnet just too sweet for anything?" asked little Mrs. Smith of her husband. "I shirred think it was," answered Mr. S., as he inspected the bill.

Scarcely any disease to which human beings are subjected, is so thoroughly discouraging as fever and ague. The periodical return of alternate chills, fever and sweating, is terribly depressing. Ayer's Ague Cure is the only remedy known, which is certain to cure permanently, by expelling the malarial poison which produces the disease. It does this surely, and leaves no ill effect upon the system.

"Yes, there is no doubt that women are much more apt than men in learning anything in the nature of military drill," says an old bachelor, "but I suppose it is because it will never be of any earthly use to them.

 "Slow and steady wins the race." Steadily, but not slowly, Kidney-Wort is distancing all competition for universal popularity and usefulness. This celebrated remedy can now be obtained in the usual dry vegetable form, or in liquid form. It is put up in the latter way for the especial convenience of those who cannot readily prepare it. It will be found very concentrated and will act with equal efficiency in either form. Read advertisement.

Mr. R. C. Winlow, Toronto, writes:—"Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is a valuable medicine to all who are troubled with Indigestion. I tried a bottle of it after suffering for some ten years and the results are certainly beyond my expectations. It assists digestion wonderfully. I digest my food with no apparent effort, and am now entirely free from that sensation, which every dyspeptic well knows, of unpleasant fullness after each meal."

Going To His Grave.—There he goes again directly to a saloon and pours down another heavy draught of strong drink, not so much because his appetite demands it, but for the artificial buoyancy it produces—the after effects of which leave him more miserable than before; it is this dreadful practice that is daily sending thousands to their graves. A remedy for all this is found in the true friend of temperence—the best and purest of all medicines—Electric Bitters. Sold by Taylor & Macdonald at 50 cents.

Its value in prostrate conditions of the system is obvious, and its prolonged use in obstinate cases that have resisted all ordinary treatment, will clearly demonstrate its extraordinary merits.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give Ayer's Sarsaparilla a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

SOME OF THE WALES are in a dangerously dilapidated condition. Many of the planks are loose, and when stepped on by a pedestrian a little in advance of his companion, form the neatest possible mantraps.

THE TRIPLE LINKS.—At the regular meeting of Peterborough Lodge I.O.O.F., No. 111, on Thursday night, Mr. J. R. Stratton was elected delegate to the Grand Lodge, which holds its annual meeting in Toronto, in August.

CHEESE SHIPMENT.—On Monday, Mr. W. H. Wrighton made a large shipment of cheese to Montreal for the English market, by Midland Railway. It consisted of about 53 tons of cheese (last half of June), two carloads from Peterborough and one from Lindsay.

HUMAN HYENAS have amused themselves by stealing some of the finest plants from the plots so tastefully laid out in the Midland station grounds. Parties so fond of these particular flowers might be buried under the beds for two or three days to satisfy their longings.

MATTHEWS' PACKING HOUSE.—The work of excavating for the cellar of Matthew's pork packing establishment (100 ft. x 48, exclusive of ice house, two stories in height) has been begun, and is beign pushed by the constructor, Mr. John Gray, of Ashburnham.

THE result of the examinations in the public schools show that the girls are on the whole ahead of the boys as far as prize and rank are concerned. It is evident that whatever may be the case in later years, girls are intellectually a match for the other sex early in life. Of course, those who argue for masculine superiority can contend that women develop earlier than men, and that girls give more exclusive attention to study than boys do.

CHEESE SUPPLY.—The 1,711 boxes of cheese bought at the cheese fair last Wednesday, were offered by the following factories as under:—South Douro, 53 boxes; Warminster, 145; Keene, 180; Fairdale, 84; Lily Lake, 52; Myrtle, 75; Cherry Grove, 130; Treverne, 130; South Dummer, 100; Otonabee Union, 160; Star, 130; Bobcaygeon, 75; South Ops, 60; North Ops, 55. Total, 1,711. Next cheese sale, at the Drill Shed, Peterboro', on Wednesday next, July 19th.

FREE TO ALL.—On Friday evening last the Fire Brigade band gave an open air recital of several excellently well-rendered selections, from the new band-stand, erected at the south-east corner of the market-square. It is a long time since the boys have thus appeared in public, and the large number of persons who came to listen to the sweet strains, cordially appreciated the kindness of the band in thus contributing some first-class music to relieve the vesper monotony of the streets.

THE GOLDEN EYE.—Under the provisions of the Act for the inspection of steamboats an Order in Council has been passed indicating the specified number of passengers that may be carried by any steamer in Canada. By this Order the steamer "Golden Eye" is allowed to carry 220 passengers. The Norseman is limited to 442 passengers, the Hastings 633, the Maud 484, and the Pierrepont 596. These precautions are taken with a view to preventing disasters like that at London a year ago last 24th.

REMAINS RECOVERED.—The body of the lad, Gain, who was drowned in the river about the first of May, was recovered near Robinson's Island, down the river. A lad discovered the body with one arm caught round a projecting knot of a log, evidently at high water—the river having receded and left the corpse hanging high and dry. The face was greatly shrunken and portions of the clothing and flesh had dropped or been eaten away. A coroner was consulted but an inquest thought useless.

ONTARIO AND QUEBEC RAILWAY.—Mr. J. Rudd Perry and staff, who have been engaged the past few weeks in locating the line of this road through the town, on Monday received orders to remove, to Tweed to superintend the construction of the line between Stirling on the west, and Perry Road, in Addington—a distance of 35 miles. The headquarters of the party will be at Tweed. The work of construction will be pushed with the utmost expedition. Mr. Perry and party left Peterborough, where they have been quartered at the Choate House, for Tweed on Tuesday.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.—On Tuesday morning, a little child in the house of Mr. Robinson, plasterer, McDonnel street, just west of Aylmer street, was playing with matches, and set a bed on fire. A married daughter who lives in the house also, by great exertions managed to put out the fire, but in so doing, received burns more painful than serious about the face. The steamer was run out, but put back before reaching the spot. The hook and ladder boys were promptly on the spot, but were not required. If the fire had got a good start it would have made a considerable spread, as the wind was blowing almost a gale at the time.

ANNUAL PIC-NIC.—The members of the Baptist Church, Peterborough, will hold their annual pic-nic at The Summit on Friday July 21st. Preparations have been made for a most successful days pleasure. The George street Methodist Sunday School hold their annual pic-nic in a grove on the river Trent, near the village of Hastings, on Friday next, July 14th. The party will leave by Grand Junction train at 6:45 a.m.

SPAULDING'S BAY.—This delightful preserve for poisonous gases, is now in the height of effectiveness, owing to the economization of the water in the river above the dams. The water in the bay has fallen almost to nothing, leaving a sickly slimy pestiferous ooze, to supply malaria to the inhabitants of the vicinity. There is consequently or at least co-incidently an epidemic of fever and ague in the neighborhood. Some earnest honest action should be taken with reference to this disgraceful slough of disease.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The Traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending June 24th, 1882, was as follows:—Passengers and Mails, $7,514.29; Freight, $18,273.93; Total, $25,788.22, as compared with $20,640.05, for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $5,148.17; and the aggregate Traffic to date is $451,473.34, being an increase of $118,885.64 over 1881. The traffic for the week ending July 1st, 1882, was as follows:—Passengers and Mails, $8,001.10; Freight, $20,164.54; Total, $28,165.64, as compared with $17,776.78, for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $10,388.86; and the aggregate Traffic to date is $479,638.98, being an increase of $129,274.50 over 1881.

IN FULL SPIN.—The woollen mills of Mr. E. B. Wilson, on west McDonnel street, are now being run to the fullest limit of their capacity. The unusual pressure of custom work, which is mainly responsible for the unusual activity, is caused by the low price of wool. The farmers, not being able to secure paying prices for their wool, eighteen and twenty cents being the ruling figures, have decided to have it manufactured into flannels, blankets, broadcloths, etc. Though this will result in the farmers having a surplus of manufactured goods beyond their immediate wants, yet it is better to have something that can be used on hand, than their wool lying unwrought in their storehouses.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday morning, Mr. Edward Fitzgibbon, of Ashburnham, left home, never to return. He was on his way to his duties as an employee on Hilliard's drive of logs. When near the drive, and also near Buckhorn, he either fell out of the canoe, (or the canoe capsized and righted again.) The accident was seen from the shore, but no assistance could be rendered in time to save the young man, who was about 28 years of age, from death. The canoe, when found, was all right, except being partially filled with water; the coat and paddle of deceased lying in it. It is impossible to conjecture how the drowning could have taken place, as Edward Fitzgibbon was an excellant swimmer. Most likely the canoe upset, throwing him in the water, he righted it and putting the paddle in it, attempted unsuccessfully to climb into it himself. The body was found on Sunday in twenty-three feet of water, and brought to Ashburnham on Monday morning. The funernal took place on Monday at ten o'clock, the body being laid in the R. C. cemetery.

ANNIVERSARY SERMON.—On Sunday evening last Rev. John Shaw preached the anniversary sermon for the True Blues in the George Street Methodist church. The members of the order, including several Orangemen, formed a procession and marched to the church, where room for seventy-five had been reserved, which was filled when they were seated. They wore for the first time their entire new regalia and they presented a very smart and creditable appearance. The church was crowded and the reverend gentleman, who selected as his subject, the incident of the rich young man coming to our Saviour asking what he must do to be saved, delivered an admirably practical address overflowing with valuable instruction to the young men whom he was particularly addressing. If they lay the discourse to heart and endeavor to earnestly obey its injunctions, it is certain that the anniversary sermon to the True Blues will be productive of great and enduring good.

THE BAND CONCERT.—On Friday evening the Fire Brigade Band will give a grand promenade concert in the Drill Shed. The following excellent programme will be rendered in the artistic style peculiar to this excellent musical organization:—

Quick Step	"8th Regiment"	Chambers
Kyrie and Gloria	"12th Mass"	Mozart
Valse	"Rustic Queen"	R. Smith
Grand Selection from "Creation"—
"And God said Let there be Light." Chorus: "The Heavens are Telling"		Hayden
Grand Fantasia	"Emira"	Escudie
Overture	"Zuleika"	Tillard
Galop	"Polo"	T. Dawson

"God Save the Queen."

The proceeds are to be devoted to the purchase of new instruments for the band, and it is to be hoped that the public will muster in full strength at the Drill Shed on Friday night, and take "close order." The Band is now something for the town to be proud of, and as this concert is intended to increase its efficiency, the ample seating accomodation prepared should be taken advantage of. Tickets, 15 cents, double ticket, 25 cents.

ILLICIT SWIMMING.—Though, in town circles, matters, during the past week have gone on very quietly, matters in the police court have indeed gone on swimmingly. The justice dispensed by Police Magistrate Hatton is not so blind as to be unable to see the impropriety of boys bathing in public in the costume of Adam before the little apple-ating episode in his career. On Monday morning, George Duncan was arraigned, charged with indecent exposure of his person, by bathing on Sunday in a too public part of the river. His Worship administred a fine of $1, and a paternal lecture well worth another dollar. On Tuesday morning two more victims responded to the call to the bar. They—Frank Trotter and John Mitchell—had outraged the proprieties of Goose Island by bathing, swimming and a variety of natatory gymnastics on Sunday, the 2d of July. Fined $1 a piece. The Police Magistrate said he was determined to put down this nuisance. Bathing suits, though covering, perhaps, more of the person than a fashionable lady's evening dress, were so cheap that no boy had any excuse for not being provided with a pair of bathing trunks. The first offenders were leniently treated, but subsequent swimming sinners must not expect much mercy. It is a pretty good proof of the moral status of Peterborough that two or three such trifling cases comprised the Magistrate's business of about ten days. We have not much sin cognisable of the law, and what little we have is so much diluted with water, and has so good an excuse of striving for that physical condition of proximity to godliness, that it is almost a virtue.

THE LATE DAVID CARLISLE.

THE FRATERNITIES CONDOLE WITH HIS BEREAVED WIDOW AND FRIENDS.

At the regular meeting 7 Court Peterborough No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters, held last Friday evening, the following resolution of condolence and sympathy with the widow and relations of the late David Carlisle was adopted

THE FORTUNITY OF FORESTERS.

Moved by Brother F. J. Jameson and seconded by Brother Robert Robertson.—"That whereas it has pleased the Almighty in the exercise of His unerring wisdom to remove from our midst our late respected brother, David Carlisle, we the members of Court Peterborough No. 29 of the Canadian Order of Foresters desire to offer to his wife and family our deepest condolence with them in their sadly sudden bereavement, and to assure them of our sincerest sympath in their affliction. Our deceased brother was a most worthy and well beloved member of our order, faithfully living up to the obligations he assumed on becoming a member. How greatly we shall miss him in the councils of regular gatherings, words cannot express, for we have ever found him taking a prominent position as a Forester, with a zeal and influene always in favour of the moral, the good and the true, a position in fact which he occupied in every relation of life in which we have been favoured with association with him. Knowing, as we do, his worth, honor, uprightness and kindliness of character we more deeply deplore his loss and can the more heartily sympathize with them in their great affliction, and we trust that their future lives may be cheered with the hope of a happy reunion with our departed brother in that Heaven to which we believe his upright life and trust in his Redeemer has given him a blissful entrance."—Carried ananimously.

ODDFELLOWS' OFFERING.

At the regular meeting of Peterboro' lodge of Oddfellows, on Thursday night, the following resolution of condolence was adopted:

Moved by J. R. Stratton, seconded by J. J. Hartley, and resolved—That, whereas in the inscrutable wisdom of Providence, death has removed from our association and fellowship our late brother, David Carlisle, and that, too, at a time when full of hope and the highest expectations for happiness and prosperity. He was always moderate in counsel, earnest in discharge of duty, and agreeable in intercourse with the members of this lodge. The members thereof, therefore, take this opportunity of expressing their sincere sympathy with the bereaved family and relatives, in the sorrow and severe dispensation they have had to pass through, and we sincerly pray that the great Father of love will so overrule the event, that it may be for good to those who have suffered the loss of a loving husband and father, and an exemplary and much respected citizen; and that the secretary convey a copy of this resolution to his widow and family.

THE RIVER is daily infested with gangs of small boys, since the vacations began. Newspaper reporters and coroners regard them with a not entirely disinterested solicitude.

OTTAWA AND QUEBEC R. R.—The contract on the section in and near Peterborough on this road, has been awarded Messrs. McDiarmid and Hendron—an experienced firm of contractors. The work is to be completed by June 1883. The contractors advertise for 400 men and 100 teams.

CRICKET MATCH.—The Cricket match on Saturday, between the Peterborough and Lakefield clubs resulted in a victory for the home team by one run and five wickets to fall. There was some hard batting done, the double figures of the home team being Hallet, 50, Hatton, 10, and Rogers 23. In the two innings Lakefield scored 61 and 67—128, leaving the home team, which piled up 115 the first innings only 14 to win, which they did with the loss of four wickets.

TELEPHONE OBSTRUCTION.—On Wednesday morning, Mr. Thos. H. Wadland, inspector and superintendent of construction of the Bell Telephone Company was summoned before the police magistrate, charged with obstructing Water street by the erection of poles contrary to town by-law 395. Mr. Wadland put in defence the statute of incorporation giving the company the power to do the work which formed the basis of the charge. The charge, brought by P. C. McGhee on behalf of the town, was dismissed.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—On Monday night the members of Peterborough Lodge of Good Templars and their friends held a very pleasant and successful re-union in the Orange Hall, corner of Simcoe and George Street. There was a good attendance, and an entertaining programme was carried out, consisting of readings and recitations by Misses Grundy, Holmes, Martin, Russell, Hamilton and Mr. Strain. Singing was supplied by Mr. Brown and the Shepherd Brothers and Mr. Clarke gave a very unique and acceptable instrumental medley. Mr. H. Nesbitt, W. C., occupied the chair. The entertainment throughout was a very pleasant success.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS.—Out of the sixty-three candidates who wrote at the examinations for entrance to the Collegiate Institute, the following were successful:—From Peterborough: Willie Smith, 288; Frank Lundy, 308; Chas. Hamilton, 307; Wm. McRae, 419; M. Orde, 359; Fred. Wood, 371; Ella Stratton, 298; Maggie Cahill, 337; Bella Hazlitt, 328; Annie Kingan, 301; Annie King, 345; Minnie Gladman, 293; Ida Joy, 294; Tillie Hope, 287; Lizzie Rutherford, 305; Clara Lough, 294; R. Brooks, 308; F. Sherwood, 292; Jas. Connell, 302; Jas. Joy, 316; Nellie McRae, 353; H. Webber, 322; David Henry, 321; Chas. Tucker, 352; James Joy, 316; Robt. Fife, 281; Sarah Richardson, 283; Polly Denne, 296; John Crowe, 325. From Lakefield:—Gordon Strickland, 354; David Smith, 316; Austin Holihan, 335; G. McWilliams, 313; T. G. Dunsford, 282. From Smith:—Isaac Elliot, 313. From Otonabee:—Thos. Lang, 362; J. Borland, 408; Eliza Nelson, 375. From Emily:—H. Lackey, 300. From Enniamore:—Daniel Donohue, 355.

A HANDSOME PRESENT.—An altar cloth, a gift to St. John's Church, has just been completed by the Ladies' Church Embroidery Guild, of Toronto,—amateurs. The material employed is red silk velvet. The super-frontal has a rich border of pomegranates, conventionally treated, the delicate shading of whose flowers is most exquisite. The fringe is of parti-coloured silk and gold thread. The orphrey is a gothic cross enwreathed with pomegranates and leaf sprays, most artistically dealt with. Each stole, which is of darker velvet has a geometrical design in gold embroidery, terminating in an acanthus, in whose shading blue is the prevailing type. The effects of the contrasts and the treatment of the embroidery are thoroughly artistic, and though sufficiently ecclesiastical to please the most rigid, are yet sufficiently free from stiffness to gratify those of more modern taste. This handsome gift will correspond well with the beauty of St. John's Church, when the work of restoration is completed according to the plans now being carried out. The work necessarily progresses slowly. The restoration of the interior is pretty well advanced now, the ceilings being nearly completed, and in a very short time, some idea may be formed of the grand appearance of this sacred edifice when it is restored, or rather, as in many respects it actually is, renewed.

PERSONAL.

We were favoured with a call from Mr. H. H. Burnham, one of the Port Hope town fathers, on Tuesday.

Mr. Allan H. Huffman, of the Dafoe House, Belleville, was in town on Monday.

Mr. W. C. Scott, representing the Dominion Oddfellow, published in the interests of the Order at Napanee, was in town and gave us a call on Friday.

Rev. Mr. Bradshaw has been again appointed (with the Bishop) an examiner in Divinity, at Trinity College School, Port Hope, and left on Wednesday to enter on his duties. His re-appointment this year is the best proof of his efficiency and fitness for the position.

Rev. G. I. Taylor, incumbent of St. Bartholomew Church, Toronto, assisted at the anniversary services of St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, last Sunday, and preached excellent and effective sermons morning and evening.

On Monday we had the pleasure of a call from Mr. J. D. Edgar and Mr. Lewis Rose, Directors of the Midland Railway Company of Canada. They were in town attending a meeting of the Board of Directors.

NORWOOD.

Norwood is agitating the question of fire protection. The Register thinks a volunteer company could be equipped with a second hand engine, etc., for $600 or $800.

Wm Anderson, Clerk of Belmont, reports the crops as looking splendid in that township.

The Register has a new map. It says that work was begun on the O. & Q. R. R. on Monday, at "Carleton, near Toronto."

The vagrant cattle by-law is to be rigidly enforced here.

The Contented Man,
Who is he?

The discussion of this question by an able lecturer was listened to a few evenings ago with interest by a large audience.
We venture to think that one of this class may be represented by the head of a family, who has been instructed to purchase a supply of that essential commodity for the table—TEA.
He has an indefinite idea that the article ought to be cheaper on account of the removal of the duty, but when he finds that he can save 10 cents per lb., instead of 5 he is jubilant.
THE CONTENTED MAN is he who gets the full benefit of the reduction of the duty on his tea for this year by making a saving of, say $3.00 on a purchase of 30 lbs.
Prove it by inspecting my stock of JAPANS AND YOUNG HYSONS.
A leading line of sweet and good drawing JAPAN offering at 35 cents, formerly sold at 45 cents.

PROTECTION!
The undersigned would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Norwood and surrounding country that he has leased for a number of years, the Grist Mill belonging to Mr. N. B. Gould, on Colborne Street, Norwood, and is now prepared to carry on the
in all its various branches. The mill has just been enlarged and additions made to the premises that will add materially to its capacity and convenience. A large amount of new machinery, of the very latest improvements, has also been added to meet the requirements of the mill, which has received such a thorough renewing and refitting as the public may rely in future on all kinds of Gristing and Milling being performed in such a manner as to give entire satisfaction in all its departments. Having had a large and varied experience in the gristing business in different parts of Canada, and having always been patronized with a large amount of Custom Gristing in in all its different branches, as has been a convincing proof of the quality of the work performed by him, he can confidently ask the patronage of the people of Norwood and vicinity. Flour and Mill Feed of all kinds kept constantly on hand. Farmers may rely upon having their Gristing home with them on the day brought to the mill. ☞A Call Respectfully Solicited.

SIRS.—I have suffered for many years with severe attacks of Bilious Colic and constipation, and pain in my back and side. I sent for one of your Liver Pads a short time ago, which removed the constipation, and pain in back and side; after wearing the Pad fourteen days I was taken with numbness in my limbs, cold extremeties, and a fullness and dizziness in my head. Does the Pad cause the numbness? Please give me your advice on the subject, which will be thankfully received.
Yours respectfully,
HENRY MANN.
